BURLINGTON, KY., JANUARY 10.

Announcement.

We are authorized to announce
J. F. Blythe
 As a candidate for the office of JAILOR at the August election, 1878.

We are authorized to announce
Samuel Cowen
 As a candidate for re-election to the office of JAILOR at the August election, 1878.

We are authorized to announce
Chas. E. White
 As a candidate for the office of ASSESSOR at the August election, 1878.

We are authorized to announce
F. W. Grant
 As a candidate for the office of ASSESSOR at the August election, 1878.

NEXT Tuesday Congress meets again.

The Legislature is now in good running order.

The Governor's message is a voluminous document.

That prospect of a hairpulling with Mexico has been wiped out.

The county levy for 1878 was fixed Monday by the court at $2.

Our Representative, Mr. G. V. Rousse, is member of the Committee on State Expenditures.

The Ticket, of Covington, is defective. It appears that the city of Covington is particularly troubled in the way of failures.

The Republican party in the Kentucky State Senate are a unit on all questions, for there is but one Senator there of that persuasion.

It is estimated that it costs six cents to raise a pound of tobacco. Be this a correct estimate the raiser will not make anything on the weed at the present price.

A bill will be presented in the Legislature this winter, which provides that Special Judges shall be paid out of the salaries of the Judges of the districts in which the special services are rendered.

We will henceforth give our readers as much of the doings of the General Assembly each week as we shall be able to obtain, confining ourselves to those acts in which our county is directly interested.

The State Senate has passed a joint resolution instructing our Senators and members of Congress to use all the means in their power to procure the repeal of the Resumption Act, and to have the silver dollar remonetized.

The Senators and Representatives of Kentucky, in Congress, are called upon by the people of the State, through their Representatives at Frankfort, to use their best endeavors to secure the repeal of the Bankrupt law.

The South Carolina Republicans are preparing to make another fight for political power in that State. Some of the party organs advise them to turn their backs on the carpetbaggers and scoundrels that have been the cause of their late political defeat in that State.

Last Monday the County Court took $50 more stock in the bounty fund, and allowed J. M. Collins, of Grant County, that amount for services rendered when the County Court responded to a rule against them requiring them to show cause why they did not execute the judgment of the Circuit Court in said case.

In the forthcoming report of the Superintendent of Public Instructions the per capita decrease is explained thusly by Dr. Henderson. He says since 1871 the State has declined in wealth $50,000,000, which decreased school revenue $100,000, and that the number of children has increased 64,483. This state of case is bound to bring about a perceptible decrease.

The General Assembly organized in one day, something rarely done. Hon. E. W. Turner, of Madison, was elected Speaker of the House; Captain Thomas G. Poore, of Hickman, Clerk; Colonel E. Polk Johnson, of Louisville, Sergeant-at-Arms; G. B. Swango, of Wolfe, Door-keeper. The Senate elected W. V. Prather, of Harrison, Clerk; J. Sneed, of Franklin, Assistant Clerk; D. D. Sublett, of Magoffin, Sergeant-at-Arms; Bart W. Jenkins, of Louisville, Door-keeper.

or commences his annual census today. Take an inventory and list your wealth when he comes.

The trial of Grove Kennedy, at Lancaster, last week, resulted in a hung jury, and the accused being admitted to bail in the sum of six thousand dollars. The defense considers it has gained a strong point. It is said seven of the jurors were for acquittal, one for a verdict for murder and four for manslaughter.

The New Year open with no promising prospect of a pleasant year with the inhabitants of the Old World, Russia and Turkey are still on the war-path, while England is standing in a threatening attitude, vigilantly watched by other powers which are ready to rush into the conflict upon the first open war move made by England. Before the advent of another year the combat over there may become general.

The receipts of hogs in Cincinatti, commencing November first, 1877 and ending December twenty-ninth, 1877, when compared with those for the same time the previous year, shows a decrease of seventy thousand three hundred and ninety-one head. During the same time last year, twenty-one thousand seven hundred and forty head were shipped from there to other points, while the previous year, and for the same period, thirty-one thousand seven hundred and forty were shipped.

Has Judge McMenama the right to order the inside of the court-room in Boone County arranged according to his idea of how it should be, was a question some of the Justices were anxious to have solved last Monday. No one present could shed any light on the subject, but the court was sufficiently satisfied on the point to order the bar put back from where it was moved in obedience to Judge McMenama's order. This move makes a square issue between the two parties concerned.

The Frankfort Yeoman thinks the present General Assembly is composed of men in whose hands the interest of the State will be honestly cared for and looked after. The old Legislature has but few representatives in Frankfort this winter. Out of the twenty Senators elected last August not one of those who served at the last session of the Senate were re-elected, and of the one hundred Representatives but seven were members of the last House. Thus we see the present General Assembly is composed nearly entirely of new material, but of a class that will dispatch business.

In view of the fact that the Commonwealth's Attorney having such a number of criminal prosecutions to look after, it is conclusive that he can not look up, as should be done, many of the cases brought into court. This officer often knows nothing of the character of the testimony that will be produced but drawn out of the witnesses when put on the stand; hence he has not the opportunity to investigate many offenses as he otherwise would. It seems that this trouble might be obviated by associating the office of County Attorney with that of Commonwealth's Attorney, and clothing said official with all the authority that the Commonwealth's Attorney has in the county. By this means the County Attorney, out of term time, could have the witnesses in the several cases summoned, and the offenses ready for trial when called. Besides this the testimony would be put in a shape that it would assist in the dispatch of business.

The daily papers for some weeks have contained numerous accounts of business failures in the various cities in the United States. Some of the firms heretofore considered the most reliable in the country, are numbered among those that have been compelled to close doors, and make assignments for the benefit of their creditors. The present financial condition of the country is bound to result in a total destruction of confidence among business men. This, in all probability, will be followed by a general panic in business circles. Should this pecuniary trouble continue to grow for a few months as it has during the past two or three, the number of men thrown out of employment in the large cities will be greatly increased, and bread riots may be the result. There are thousands upon thousands of good, honest men in the cities now idle, and their means of support exhausted. These men and their families have to be fed, work or no work, hence the probability of starvation forcing trouble upon the country.

This week we announce Mr. Samuel Corcoran for re-election to the office of Jailor. Also Mr. Chas. E. White and F. W. Grant as candidates for Assessor. These gentlemen are all well known and we leave them in the hands of the voters.

HON. MRS. HAMILTON is the Representative from Boone County. Though he advises the people of Boone, and would have no objection to represent such a good people, yet it is due to himself and his constituents that he should be properly known and recognized as the gentleman from Boone. We beg his pardon for accidentally leaving him in Boone. Frankfort Yeoman.

The Yeoman need not be too certain about Mr. H's proper locality, for that is a mooted question in this neck o' woods where he has been known long and well.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

January 1st, 1878.

SENATE.

At ten o'clock the Senate was called to order, Lieutenant Governor Underwood in the chair.

Ayer's

Cherry Pectoral

For Diseases of the

Throat and Lungs,

such as Coughs, Colds,

Whooping Cough,

Bronchitis, Asthma,

and Consumption.

The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvelous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient attestation to the public that it will continue to realize its happy results that can be desired. In most every section of country there are persons, publicly known, who have been restored from almost even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. All who have tried it, acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. CHERRY PECTORAL always finds a constant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lung.

As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued and restored to health.

This medicine gains friends at every place, as the cure it is constantly producing are remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will.

Excellent Physicians throughout the country prescribe it, and Germany often recognize it from their knowledge of its effects.

...showing a deduction of five days for meritorious conduct on each calendar month from the term of sentence of each convict. I am gratified to be able to state that this reform measure has worked admirably. The discipline and behavior of the convicts were never, perhaps, equal to what they have been since the passage of this law. The object of legal punishment is not only to deter others from criminal acts, but by punishing the offender, but by suitable reformatory means to prepare the prisoner for re-entrance into society. After a very careful investigation, the International Prison Congress, held in London in 1872, declared that convicts could be reformed, and this declaration is now endorsed by the soundest and most accomplished students of penitentiary science both in Europe and the United States.

MILITIA.
"A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State," as stated in the Constitution of the United States, I call your attention specially to the militia system of Kentucky. It has been the policy of my administration, from the military side of civil power, was entirely changed, yet I have well regulated government. I believe that civil authority can be maintained as long as there is a strong power whose aid can be commanded if the civil power should not be sufficient.

Through congressional appropriations, our State has been furnished with many small arms as needed at present, and the amount of money remaining to the credit of Kentucky is $4,110.18, which can be drawn in arms and accoutrements suitable for artillery, infantry or cavalry companies, whenever it is deemed proper.

I believe that the people of Kentucky should rely upon themselves in times of civil commotion and internal discord. During the late troubles, growing out of riots in some of the South-western States, and which only reached, in a moderate way, one place in our State, and was participated in, as I am informed, not by a large number, but by those opposed to labor. I was much gratified by the liberality and courage displayed by citizens in suppressing the disorder and maintaining the law. I inserted then, and still believe, that of the persons within the military age in Kentucky a sufficient force can always be raised to suppress any civil tumult or riot that may occur among our citizens, without asking aid from other sources.

There is a healthy sentiment in this Commonwealth at present in favor of a good militia system. The law regulating the Kentucky State Guard or volunteer militia is defective, and is inadequate to maintain a good military organization. Notwithstanding the defects in the law, a few companies, composed of splendid material, have been organized. I recommend that the militia law be revised, and that provision be made for drilling a limited number of companies, and that inefficient or incomplete organizations be mustered out, so that there may be a small, compact, well drilled and efficient body of troops that can be easily called out and relied upon in any emergency. The reports of the Adjutant General and Quartermaster General will furnish you with the details connected with their respective departments.

COMES OF APPEALS.
As the wealth and population of our State have increased, litigation has increased, and the number of cases and the length of records in the Court of Appeals have been greatly augmented in the last few years. On account of the magnitude of the business, it is no longer possible for all of the Judges to give that time and attention to each case that they require, and one of the important questions for your consideration is, how will you give relief to the Court of Appeals?
Under the Constitution, the number of Judges of the Court of Appeals can not be increased beyond the present number. The establishment of an intermediate court, or the appointment of a Commissioner to sit with the Judges and hear and examine cases with them, and report to the Judges for approval, are two modes of relief that have been suggested. I ask your careful consideration of this question, and such action as in your wisdom may seem proper and right.

If we look alone at the prices of the articles the farmers sell, it presents quite a gloomy picture of decrease, and one is almost led to exclaim, how do people live now? But, taking a glance at the immense falling off in the prices of the articles the farmers buy, we find the scales about even, and the farmer's produce worth about as much to him now as then, when we have to invest in proceeds of articles for home consumption. We find, also, that while produce sold off the farm is now worth about one-third as much as it was in 1865, the articles of merchandise bought by farmers are likewise selling for one-third of what we might call war prices.

The present Legislature starts out upon its asserted purpose of retrenchment and reform by a vigorous nosing into the question of salaries, hoping to find ways and means by which to stop many leakages from the State Treasury, and to reduce many others to proportions more just to the people, and more in harmony with the general condition of the country. We are all perfectly aware that farm produce will not now bring over fifty per cent. of the price it was selling for ten years since. This decrease applies alike to every branch of agriculture, and has reduced the farmer's income in corresponding rates. The shrinkage in the value of real estate, in the city and in the country, has, in same period, been very great, though probably not to such a marked extent. The wages of the artisans, mechanics, and common laborers, have fallen from the prices of ten years since thirty or forty per cent. While prices of produce, land, and labor, have thus receded back to ante-war rates, dry goods and groceries have also gone down considerably from the high rates brought about by the war and the currency; so that the equilibrium between the profits of labor and the cost of living has not been so seriously shocked as might have been expected, in view of the mighty struggle the country has just passed. The high prices during and following the war, enhancing the cost of living to double what it had been in the time of peace, rendered it altogether just, and absolutely necessary, that the salaries of all officials should be readjusted and made more in conformity with the high prices and great cost of living. The Legislature, realizing the situation, did increase, from time to time, the salaries of our officials. Thus we find the Circuit Judge's salary in 1865 raised to two thousand dollars from eighteen hundred dollars, and then in 1868 it was again increased, this time to twenty-three hundred dollars, and afterwards this salary was fixed at three thousand dollars, where it now stands. In 1866 the salary of each Judge of the Court of Appeals was fixed at twenty-seven hundred dollars, and in 1867 it was increased to four thousand dollars. This was followed by another increase which makes that office now worth five thousand dollars. The Governor's salary has been, from time to time, raised until it has reached five thousand dollars per year with its perquisites, and what they are or what they are worth or what they amount to, we expect to ascertain from the response to some resolution of inquiry on that subject, which we hope our Representative, or the rural one from Keeton, will press to a pointed and exhaustive answer. We have not singled out the Judges for the purpose of complaining of them especially, but to show to some extent, how salaries have been increased, and we present them as a fair sample, in that respect, of pretty much all our State salaries. The Judges who do heavy work should receive liberal salaries, sufficient to induce the best jurists in the State to seek the bench. But this question will not stand at our bidding. If the ante-war salaries were just and sufficient, how is it that now they must be more than one hundred per cent. higher?

Can not some reduction be made in all those high salaries? If not, are there not many offices, clerkships and the like, more sinecures and ornaments, about the Capitol, which could be lopped off, and the officers put upon their heels? Let these salaries be looked into, and if they are reasonable, even liberal, the people will say let them alone; but on the other hand, if we are paying exorbitantly for the services of our high officers as the people begin to believe, then our Representatives are unfaithful to their trust if they fail to apply their remedy.

The Cincinnati Commercial says the female suffragists made a dead-end on Congress on Thursday. The Senate and House were flooded with petitions for a constitutional amendment forbidding the States to make any discrimination in the matter of the ballot on account of the sex; and an effort was made to procure a hearing in both chambers for the representatives of the suffragists, who were in Washington prepared with what they supposed were facts and arguments in support of their claim to political equality. The failure to obtain a hearing was due, in the Senate, to crusty Judge Edmunds, and in the House to Mr. Crittenden, of Missouri. The ladies must be content to make a statement of their case to the proper committees of each body. This action of Congress is not indicative of a growing sense of the importance of female suffrage to the happiness of mankind.

The Cincinnati Commercial has been baffling the money question with considerable energy for some time past. That journal now attacks the subsidiary coin of the United States, and wants to expunge all denominations of that coin except the half-dime, the dime, the quarter, and half-dollar. It claims that the three cent piece and the twenty cent piece are nuisances, the former being too small for convenience, and has a disposition to conceal itself in the pocket, while the latter is too much like the quarter, for which it is often passed without an intent to cheat. The alloy three-cent piece it objects to because it so strongly represents the ten-cent piece. The nickel five-cent piece it denounces as a bungling coin, soon tarnished and has the appearance of lead.

The Lawrenceburg Register is in earnest regarding the proposed turnpike leading from Walton's, on the Burlington and Bellevue pike to Berkshires, on the Burlington and Petersburg pike, and last week, furnished its readers with a map showing how the land lies on this side of the river; and, by the way, the map was very correct. The Register's article throughout is true.

In the Senate, last week, an attempt was made by one of the wisecracks to have the supply of ice for the water coolers cut off, and by the time the matter was settled by being defeated, the legislation thus brought about cost the State more than the ice bill for the entire session. This serves as an example of numerous moves in the direction of imaginary reform.

Two more candidates this week for Assessor. J. M. Cloud and Jasper Carson, of Florence, announce that they are ready and willing to be elected to that office. All we know of these gentlemen is in their favor. Mr. Cloud has had some two or three seasons' experience in the duties of the office to which he aspires.

The present Legislature seems determined to investigate the accounts of the Public Printer for several years past. That officer has been ordered to render unto the General Assembly an itemized account of all the work done for the State.

The ballot for United States Senator, Monday, gave Williams, 48; Lindsay, 44; McCreary, 14; Boyd, 12. No changes made by those voting. A caucus was appointed for Tuesday night. This was liable to dissolve without doing anything.

It is gratifying to know that the finances of the State are in such healthy condition as shown by the Governor's message. The State Treasury contains a handsome surplus, which is a rarity in most of the States.

The dog is called up quite often in the Legislature by our law-makers at Frankfort. There has been no act passed for his benefit yet.

There has been but little done in the Legislature during the past ten days, except strictly local matters.

It will be the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Geo. H. Pendleton. Ohio will have two able Senators then.

FROM THE STATE CAPITOL.

FRANKFORD, KY., January 14, 1878.
To the Editor of the Recorder:

The election of United States Senator has kept the political circles here in a ceaseless state of agitation ever since 12 m. last Tuesday, when the first ballot was taken. The result of the election, at this writing, is about as uncertain as life; but three of the candidates—Williams, backed with a brilliant war record and a chronic desire for office, Lindsay, with some war record and considerable distinction as a jurist, and McCreary, the present efficient Chief Magistrate of the State, feel some degree of confidence. Each candidate has a host of admirers—here from different parts of the State, and who are as busy as bees, setting up the pins (and drags) for their respective favorites. Each of the above named candidates has his own headquarters, and a regular staff of men, who are allowed to call it such. Were we to say that every member of the General Assembly, who has been in the least reticent, has been interviewed from three to seven times per day, we would be high upon the truth. Such times as this every member's taking particular interest in his brother member's actions, and watching with jealousy every body that essays to take the stock in the now pending election. So soon as a member of either House shows the least symptom of political nervousness, he is sought out by some of the grooms and at once blanketed. Several of the members are now found in the hands of grooms other than those who sponged them off for the first time. It is amusing to see how hard each member of this body of Solons (if you will) get their man through; and seldom the choice of the constituents, in opposition to their personal favorite, is allowed to influence their votes. The opposition is so unmistakably clear that a wayfaring man, though a fool, could not err in voting. At this writing General Williams is a neck ahead in the race, but by some it is thought he will let down before he goes under the string. It is our opinion that Cerro Gordo will be the lucky man. There has been some talk of a dark horse, because the friends of the candidates are so hostile against each other in regard to the race that they will not yield an inch; but we will see what we will see. If such an animal is to be put on the track, the sooner he comes the better it will be for the people of the State, who are defraying the expenses of the election. We say "bring on another horse." We forgot to mention in the proper place that female influence is brought to bear to some extent in this race. But probably your handsome and gallant Senator, Captain Norman, can tell you more when he returns to give an account of his stewardship than we can. It seems the said Senator has heretofore been a warm personal friend of Governor McCreary's family, and the Governor's wife has got it in her head that by a personal interview with the Captain, she can capture him, and lead him into the McCreary lines. Mr. Norman don't interview worth a cent, and is at all times on the alert to avoid a political encounter with her ladyship. Mr. Norman is an enthusiastic Williams man. Your Representative, Mr. Rouse, started out in the fight as a Lindsay man, but was found in the Williams camp, having been captured after a few ballots were cast. Col. Hamilton, known here as "the gentleman from Kenton," but who has devoured a sight more hog-love and greens in Boone than in Kenton, votes for Cerro Gordo every ballot. Hamilton appears to be as near heaven now as he wants to be. But little is talked of here but the election, and but little will be done by the General Assembly before the Session closes is concluded. That body will be in good running order when relieved of the "Senatorial pull-back," and laws will be made, repealed, and amended with a vim.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

January 7, 1878.

SENATE.

At ten o'clock the Senate was called to order, Lieutenant Governor Underwood in the chair.
LEAVES.
Leaves were given to bring in the following bills:
To amend section 4, article 19, chapter 29 of the General Statutes.—A bill providing for and regulating pay of jurors in the inferior courts in this Commonwealth.—To organize a State Board of Health.—To reduce the number of Clerks in the Quarter-Master Department.—To amend the Civil Code of Practice, so as to provide the manner of appeal from County to Circuit Courts.—To amend and revise the Common school law.

HOUSE.

BILLS REPORTED.
To amend an act to provide for the levying a tax on dogs in Boone County. To repeal certain sections of the stock law in Boone County. (The last two bills were passed.)
RESOLUTIONS.
Mr. Hamilton introduced the following preamble and resolution:
Whereas, it satisfactorily appears that, in round numbers, that the annual tobacco crop in the United States is about 500,000,000 pounds, which the State of Kentucky produces 150,000,000 pounds, or twenty-eight per cent. of the entire production, and therefore between one-fourth and one-third of the entire tax collected on tobacco comes from product of Kentucky soil; and WHEREAS, it seems strange that the farmers of the United States should suffer a Government, which they in part control, to so desperately tax them and their labor in order to raise millions of dollars every year from their hard earned labor, to be stored upon high-salaried officers, standing armies, useless navies, pet national banks, and bondholders; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the General Assembly of Kentucky, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use all the means within their power to have the tax on tobacco reduced at least fifty per cent., and that His Excellency, the Governor, of this Commonwealth, cause to be transmitted to each of said Senators and Representatives copies of this preamble and resolution.—The Senate resolution raising a joint committee in relation to redistricting the Judicial Districts of this Commonwealth was taken up and concurred in.

January 10, 1878.

SENATE.

Leaves were given to bring in the following bills:
To provide for the payment of jurors in the Quarterly and Magistrates' courts.—To protect sheep from depredation by dogs, and to authorize County Court Clerks to impose taxes on dogs for school purposes.

BOOK CIRCUIT COURT, KENTUCKY.
J. A. Kendall, adm'r of Jounthan Utz, dec'd, plaintiff, vs. J. A. Kendall, J. W. Weaver and others, defendants. In equity.
By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the September Term thereof, 1877, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on MONDAY, the 4th day of February, 1878, at 1 o'clock P. M. or thereabout (being County Court day), proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of six months, at the Court-house door in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to wit:
257 acres and 20 poles of land 1 1/2 miles south of Burlington, Boone County, Ky., on Gunpowder Creek, adjoining the lands of John and Thos. Underhill, L. Pope, J. A. Kendall, G. W. Weaver and others, being same owned and occupied by Jonathan Utz at his death. Said tract of land is divided into five lots. Lot No. 1 contains 146 acres; lot No. 2, 35 acres; lot No. 3, 22 1/2 acres; lot No. 4, 21 acres 2 rods and 20 poles; lot No. 5, 23 1/2 acres. (For a more full description, see Mr. Rice's report of sale, in the Boone County Clerk's office in this action.) The whole tract will be first offered, then each lot separately, then lots 1, 2 and 4 together; and that bid, or the best, bringing the most money will be accepted.

The purchaser will be required to give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

TUESDAY evening, Thos. Blythe, of Nebraska, returned home. Tom looks well and hearty.

CAPT. G. W. TERRILL was in town Tuesday, endeavoring to ascertain the strength of the candidates for United States Senator, for our Representative at Frankfort can vote intelligently when informed how the land lies in Boone. Mr. Terrill will undoubtedly report in favor of Lindsay.

ON last Saturday, Miss Ollie Rice, daughter of Wash Rice, who lives on Middle Creek, and Mrs. Lou Rice, his daughter-in-law, were poisoned, says their physician, Dr. J. M. Grant, thinks, by drinking a whiskey stew in which there was arsenic. How the poison got in the whiskey is a mystery. Mr. Rice's wife had taken some of the raw whiskey a few days before, and was slightly sickened. At the writing the Doctor thinks his patients are out of danger, though still very sick.

SOMETHING wrong in the mail service again. Last Saturday night, when the Postmaster opened the mail sack, he found in its contents the mail started from here in the morning of the same day. Mail matter directed to Florence was among that returned. How did this happen?

JEROME from the last sentence in the following extract from the Saturday News, we don't believe its Rabbit Hunt correspondent turned over to a new leaf about ten days since:

In Percival, tried for the murder of Dr. Brasher, at Burlington, last week, was acquitted. The jury was out only ten minutes.

GOING back to the commencement of 1878, and investigating the matter, we have obtained documentary evidence that John R. Smith and Annie L. Dun, G. W. Ward and Emma Walton, Joe S. Scott and Mary Welch turned over to a new leaf in the marriage record, at least—and commenced the journey of life in pairs.

LAST week we neglected to call the attention of our readers to the large advertisement of H. K. Cramer, of Union. Mr. Cramer is one of the old merchants of this section of the State, and what he says can be relied on. He is now offering his customers special bargains as will be seen by his advertisement.

WE find that commencing business after laying off a week is almost equal to starting anew. We have come down to level work, and are now ready for correspondents to send in the news. Several communications at hand did not appear last week, from the fact that they had been in the office some ten or twelve days, and had grown old.

INVENTORS, to secure intelligent and prompt action on their cases, should employ an attorney in daily intercourse with the officers of the Patent Office. We direct attention to Foster's Patent Office, 509 Seventh street, Washington. Mr. Foster has practiced before the Patent Office 19 years. Send to him for pamphlet and references.

THERE have been but two conveyances recorded in the County Clerk's office since the first of January, viz: Par Lane to Joseph Chambers, 97 acres 2 rods and 36 poles near Walton; W. A. Tanner to Leonidas Bury, 54 acres on Gunpowder. At this season of the year, trading in real estate is generally brisk; but now we see nothing doing in that line. This betokens a scarcity of money or want of confidence on the part of the farmers.

PATENTS dated December 25th 1877, issued to residents of the States named below. Reported by C. E. Foster, patent attorney, 509 Seventh street, Washington, D. C.:

W. W. Ties, Bonanza, Ala. Book Rests, A. S. McConnell, New Orleans, La. Honey Cans.

C. Damschke, Austin, Tex. Cotton Planters, 4 Good, H. H. H. K. Y. Water-wheel, H. B. Park, Dallas, Tex. Fluid Vents, L. Wells, Wilmington, N. C. Tanning Leather.

M. Wells, Wilmington, N. C. Tanning Leather.

Mets & Mader, New Orleans, La. Musquito-net Frames.

J. Hartman, Louisville Ky. Sewed Plow, J. Granger, New Orleans, La. Cultivator.

Now comes Esquire Garnett, of Hamilton, in a letter to the County Attorney, and says he regards Dr. Ulrey's bid for the rental of the county land at Big Bone Springs merely nominal; that in one year's time Dr. Ulrey "might dig up every inch of dirt and every bone therein. And we now move that the order requiring the County Attorney to lease the grounds to Ulrey be amended as to limit his force of diggers to two able-bodied men, and that they not be allowed to dig more than fifty feet below the surface. The Attorney is ordered to lease the grounds, though, and he will have to execute the order of the court, and the digging will have to proceed.

Died.

JONES—On the 10th inst., of hemorrhage of the lungs, in Florence, R. D. Jones, in the 33rd year of his age.

Mr. Jones was a citizen of this place, and had been in ill health for some time. On the morning of the 10th inst., not feeling any better, he went to the city on business; but when on his return home in the afternoon, and just after arriving in Florence, he took a violent hemorrhage, from which he died in a few moments. The corpse was brought home about 12 o'clock that night. The deceased was a member of Burlington Lodge F. and A. M., and a large number of his brethren of this and sister lodges assembled, Saturday, and took part in the burial, which was under the auspices of Burlington Lodge. Rev. A. W. Henley, Universalist minister, and of which church Mr. Jones was a member, preached the funeral. The deceased leaves a wife and three children, besides an extensive circle of friends and relatives, to mourn his sudden death.

THE Florence Dramatic Club gave two more entertainments last Friday and Saturday nights. Saturday night was H. A. Cantler's benefit, and the crowd was largely in his behalf, and the crowd was largely in his behalf, and the crowd was largely in his behalf.

The bondholders are making every effort to protect themselves by any legislation that may be had. $10,000 in gold, in 1863, purchased the bonds, which were paid into the Treasury, but the bonds were not paid in gold, and the bonds were not paid in gold, and the bonds were not paid in gold.

The President will not approve the silver bill until it limits the legal tender capacity of the silver dollar. This is cold comfort to thousands of suffering people. A dollar so debased as to be inadequate to pay debts is a counterfeit, and whether made by the Government or the market makes little difference, except in the latter case the counterfeit is furnished with ample opportunity for reflection in his retirement in the Territory.

Several tableaux were represented, but the one that brought the house down was "Pat Hampton in His Younger Days," represented by master Brack Carpenter. The club will give, on next Saturday night, a performance containing the entire programme played this season. Being informed by a counterfeit note that night that a portion of our type is in pawn, we will conclude this notice for fear of exhausting that article of printing material.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Florence.

Items of news are very scarce in this neighborhood at present. The entertainments in the hall here have so occupied people's time here that they have had no time to get sick, or go north, or, if they have, I have not heard of it. The plays have been voted a success by those who have seen them, and the actors highly praised for their successful impersonations. Last Saturday night the audience was so numerous that they were packed in like sardines in a box, and a large number were turned away without admittance; in consequence of which the club, by special request, will give one more performance next Saturday night, and then retire for a while on their well-earned repose. The following persons were elected officers of Good Faith Lodge No. 25, F. and A. M. W. M. Mike Rorer, S. W. A. Sayre, J. W. J. Wagsstaff, Sec., Buller Carpenter, Treas., and J. C. Carpenter, Wm. A. C. Graves.

The Odd-Fellows' Lodge elected F. H. Myers, Noble Grand; Albert Price, Vice Grand; S. A. Palmer, Secretary; Jessie R. Corning, Treasurer.

Rev. Rowe preached his first sermon as pastor of the Christian Church on the first Sunday in this month. Mr. Milton Graves was ordained Elder, and his installation will be on the fourth Sunday in this month. Mr. Rowe will preach twice a month on the second and fourth Sundays.

There is possibility of having an Assessor of the city next week. Florence precinct will probably have three candidates, if not more.

The marriage of Mr. George W. Ward to Miss Emma, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Ward, was a brilliant affair. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. D. Vanaman at half past 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening, January 2nd, at the residence of the bride's mother. The attendants were Misses Lou and Alice Ward, sisters of the groom, and Miss Anna Hunt and Miss Clara Ward, of Madison, Ohio. After the ceremony an elegant supper was disposed of, after which the guests enjoyed themselves until a late hour. The bride is a popular young lady in this neighborhood, and is always a favorite among her acquaintances; and in congratulating George on winning a good bride, we extend to her warmest wishes for the realization of all her hopes. Among the guests present were Dr. J. C. Conner and lady, O. J. Harris and lady, Miss Josie Ryle, of Burlington, Miss Katie Platt, Dr. L. H. Platt, Harry Bots, and Mr. Ed Hunt, of Rising Sun. The reception at Mr. Ward's residence, Thursday evening, was one of the most brilliant affairs of the season. The supper was elegant, including turkey, ham, chicken, oysters, cakes of twelve kinds, candies and fruits. The table was set with wine, and everything was gotten up in the best of style. The bride was dressed in black silk, and looked very lovely. We could say much more, but space forbids. We will say, however, that it was the finest affair held in the neighborhood within our recollection. Among the strangers present were Miss Clara Ward, of Fronton, Ohio, who was dressed in white with a satin train, and in congratulating her on winning a good bride, we extend to her warmest wishes for the realization of all her hopes. BURLINGTON, KY., JANUARY 17.

WHAT AM I?

God made Adam out of dust.
But thought it best to make me first;
So I was made before the man,
According to God's holy plan.
My body He did make complete,
But without arms or legs or feet,
My ways and actions did control,
And I was made without a soul.
A living creature I became,
And Adam gave to me my name;
Then from his presence I withdrew,
No more of Adam ever knew.
I did my Maker's laws obey,
And from them never went astray.
Thousands of miles I roam in fear,
But seldom on the earth appear.
But find in me did something see
And put a living soul in me.
A soul in me the Lord did claim,
And from them never went astray,
And when from me that soul was fled,
I was the same as when first created,
And without hands or feet or soul,
I travel now from pole to pole,
I labor hard both day and night,
To follow men I see great light,
Thousands of people young and old,
Do in my death great light behold,
No feared death doth trouble me,
For happiness I can not conceive,
To heaven alone I can not go,
Nor to the grave or hell below,
The Scriptures I can not believe,
If right or wrong I can't conceive,
Although my name therein is found,
They are to me an empty sound,
And when my friends these lines you read,
Go search the Bible with all speed,
And if my name you can find there,
It will be strange, I must declare.

Is there a Hell?

The question of hell is exciting a great deal of comment just now, not only in the theological circles, but also in the secular papers. The witty column has an allusion to it, of course, and even the grave editorial is warmed up by it. Big ministers and little ministers, city ministers and country ministers—all receive postal cards asking them if they believe in a hell, and if so believe, what kind of a place they conceive it to be, and how long they think the fire will burn. What a variety of assertions has been stirred up! We were never so mixed in our lives. The Universalists are having a good time, and assert every body is on his side. Years ago he closed the gates and put a huge placard on them, "No room for any more." The Calvinist, on the other hand, is having a hard time of it because there are so many who really think that, though we are compelled to have a penitentiary in this world, there will be no need of one in the next. Still there are a few believers left, and they are stirring the fire and making it pretty hot for the generality of the mankind. We are reminded of the old lady who talked with the skeptic "What?" she exclaimed, "don't you believe in a hell at all?" He wanted to please her, and so replied, "Well, madam, not in a very large one." She eagerly asked again, "But you do believe in a little one, don't you, and that some few go there?" He answered, with a bland smile: "There may possibly be a very small one somewhere and perhaps a very few people—mind you, not many, but very few people—will go there." Her countenance brightened up at once, and she answered, with great enthusiasm and satisfaction, "My dear friend, thank heaven for that much. A little one is better than none at all."

What is the Bible Like?

It is like a large, beautiful tree, which bears sweet fruit for those that are hungry, and affords shelter and shade for pilgrims on their way to the kingdom of heaven.
It is like a cabinet of jewels and precious stones, which are not only to be looked at and admired, but used.
It is like a telescope, which brings distant objects and far-off things of the world very near so we can see something of their beauty and importance.
It is like a treasury-house, a store-house, for all sorts of valuable and useful things, which are to be had without money and without price.
It is like a deep, broad, calm-flowing river, the banks of which are green and flowery, where birds sing and lambs play, and dear little children are loving and happy.

A New Way to Pay Old Debts.
A singular way to obtain payment of money due in Illinois is for the creditor to plant himself before the door of debtor, and vow that he intends to remain there, without food, until the money is paid. As a point of honor, which is deemed impossible to violate, the debtor must, in like manner, remain without food; and if payment is not made, the parties immediately begin to put their mutual power of enduring hunger to the test. This trial sometimes proves illusory, and, therefore, the creditor usually makes sure that the fasting of the debtor is real by cutting off his supplies. This kind of drama, employed by troops against their paymaster, or the prime minister, or the sovereign himself, has often been effectual in obtaining their arrears of pay. In America the creditor often starves, but the debtor grows fat by paying ten cents on the dollar.

The following awful warning is going the rounds: "A few years ago Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague paid $2,000 per year for dress material. To-day her husband's paper sells for 25 cents on the dollar."

BRIAN YOUNG'S tombstone, it is said, will bear the simple but appropriate inscription, "Our Husband."

SCRAPS ON MARRIAGE.

AN old bachelor says that matrimony is the noose of the weak.

MAX leads woman to the altar in that act his leadership begins and ends.

"ALAS! I am no more," as Miss Mary More remarked as soon as she was married.

It is better to love a person you can not marry, than marry a person you can not love.

What lovers swear—To be true until death. What husbands swear—Until for publication.

"I'm going to draw this bean into a knot," as the lady said when standing at the hymeneal altar.

The reason why tall men best succeed in matrimony is because all sensible women favor Hymen.

She that marries a man because he is a "good match" must not be surprised if he turns out a "Lucifer."

SAY what you will, a marriage by advertisement must, after all, be the union of two corresponding minds.

"WILL you marry me Miss?" "No, indeed; you are to funny for my taste. I can take a jest, but not a jester."

A FRENCH agency for matrimonial alliances concludes an advertisement with: "Happiness guaranteed for one year."

WOMAN'S "Empire State" is matrimony. Here she is always in the majority—always reigns and sometimes storms.

AN aged bachelor being asked if he had ever witnessed a public execution, replied, "No, but I once saw a marriage!"

"JONES, what in the world put matrimony into your head?" "Well, the fact is, Joe, I was getting short of shirts."

Few young ladies, however good grammarians, know how to "decline" matrimony—they can all conjugate, though.

A COVENANT marriage is thus noticed: "Married last week, John Cobb to Miss Kate Webb." Look out for the little spiders.

A YOUNG man, who has recently taken a wife, says that he did not find it half so hard to get married as to get furniture.

NEVER marry until you can face the music of the butcher, grocer, dress-maker, twenty-three cousins, and several ladies.

"It is a solemn thing to be married," said Aunt Polly. "Yes, but is a dead mare not to be," said the little girl, a niece.

If you observe a gentleman with his arm around the waist of a young lady, it is morally certain that they are not married.

The best state for a man in general is the marriage state, and every man is a wise man in proportion as he is unfit for that state.

He who marries beauty only, is like a buyer of cheap furniture; the varnish that caught the eye will not endure the fireside blaze.

YOUNG ladies who faint on being "proposed to," can be refuted to consciousness by just whispering in their ear that you were only joking.

It is said young ladies should never marry until they have relinquished tight lacing, because the marriage state should be free from bondage.

MARRIAGE has many pains, but celibacy has no pleasures; marriage should be considered as the most solemn league of perpetual friendship.

AFTER marrying a couple the clergyman made a prayer over them which concluded as follows: "Forgive them, Lord, for they know not what they do."

THIRTEEN objections were once given by a young lady for declining a match; the first twelve being the suitors' twelve children, and the thirteenth the suitor himself.

The girls of Northampton have been sending a bachelor editor a bouquet of tansy and wormwood. He says he didn't care, he'd rather smell them than matrimony.

At a marriage, celebrated in a dissenting place of worship, immediately upon the arrival of the bridegroom, "See the conquering hero comes!" was played upon the organ.

AN old gentleman of eighty-four, having taken to the altar a damsel of about sixteen summers, the clergyman said to him: "The font is at the other side of the church."

AFTER the clergyman had united a happy pair, not long since, an awful silence ensued, which was broken by an impatient youth exclaiming: "Don't be so unspeakably happy!"

"Don't you believe matrimony is a means of grace, Mr. Jones?" "Certainly, any thing is a means of grace that leads us to repentance." The scene closes with a broomstick.

BEFORE marriage the man is very much struck with the woman, and afterwards the woman is very much struck by the man. Punch says it is very striking likeness throughout.

We have heard of asking for bread and receiving a stone; but a young man may be considered as still worse treated, when he asks for a young lady's hand and gets her father's foot.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

AN Afghan, made by a dame of eighty-three, brightens a Springfield (Mass.) store.

The Duke of Westminster has an income of $4,000,000, which is constantly increasing.

PAINTED baskets for flower holders are superseded in favor by those of rough-and-ready straw.

In these days of trickery, even telegraph cables can not be laid without a great deal of wire pulling.

AN exchange takes half a column to tell "What we drink," whereas some folks have simply to wink at the bar-keeper.

"Two mts worth of completion" is the way the Santa Barbara belle puts it as she meanders into her favorite drug store.

JAPANESE fans, wide spread, are fastened above chamber doors or windows to give a touch of brilliant color to the room.

A CONVICT in Virginia, who robbed a criminal lawyer renowned for his high charges, claims that he did it in self-defense.

Two months ago they hung over the gate for an hour. Such nights as these they snuck, shiver, and away he goes on a dog trot.

"SHE is one mutton as is small," is the way a Frenchman complimented a young lady he attempted to say was as gentle as a lamb.

THE Bible tells you not to call a man a fool. But then if he really is one what are you to do, since the Bible enjoins you to tell the truth?

To write a good hand, wear a good coat, and keep a good character, are three requisites for a young man who has his own way to make in the world.

At Deadwood, in the Black Hills, there is a fine opening for a star actress. The last popular and talented one is in jail for shooting her husband.

THERE is nothing more mortifying to a man who is anxious to be published as a hero, than to seize a drowning woman by the hair and then have the hair come off.

IN an Irish provincial journal there was an advertisement running thus: "Wanted—a handy labourer, who can plough a married man and a Protestant, with a son or daughter."

A MADISON AVENUE young lady has compiled a list of her gentleman acquaintances, and entered their names in a handsome parlor album. She playfully calls it her "him-book."

"My dear," said a husband, in starting tones, after waking his wife in the night, "I have swallowed a dose of strychnine!" "Oh, well, then, for goodness sake lie still, or it may come up."

WHILE growing at her husband last summer, a New York woman was struck by lightning and instantly killed. "If you wish your wife to see this paragraph, cut it out and paste it on the looking glass."

THE Anti-Horse Thief Society of Missouri, Iowa, and Illinois, which numbers sixty-one lodges, modestly gives notice that while it does not discourage lynchings that course is permitted where others of the law can not be relied on to punish the thieves.

AN Irishman jumped in the water and saved a miser from drowning. The miser presented him with a sixpence, whereupon the witty Celt, turning the coin over and over in his hand, said, "Sure, I think I have been over paid for that job. Moral—Pay according to your estimate of yourself."

Two men married each other's daughters. Now how are they made, it may be asked, if they are in-law; hence each other's son-in-law; and their wives are each other's stepdaughters; hence each other's stepmothers.

THERE is no stated rule for writing love letters. You should write on fool's-cap paper, and bear on as soft as you can, using words of such burning love that they will sizzle on the point of the pen. It is also advisable to sling in a hunk of pathos occasionally, such as "Dearest Augustus, I love you every day, and by-and-by, when the days grow longer, I shall think of you twice a day. It is also well to put an ink-blot in the corner, with the observation, "Darling, I kissed this spot," or, "I have a sigh in this vicinity." A tear or two about the ink dropped in the right place. If you are short of tears, a drop of vinegar is good.

A KENTUCKY preacher rose to speak, and opened the Bible. The first verse that met his eyes happened to be, "The voice of the turtle shall be heard in the land." "Brethren," said he, "but first sight one would not think there is much in this text; but, on a little consideration, you will see there is a great deal in it. Now, you all know what a turtle is. If you've been along by a pond, you have seen them on a log sunning themselves. Now, it is said 'the voice of the turtle shall be heard in the land.' But the turtle has no voice, that anybody ever heard of, so it must be the noise he makes in plunging off the log into the water. Hence, we conclude that immersion is meant, and that immersion will become universal."

DE OLD CAMP MEETING.

BY WILL & WATTS.

Come, brethren, get in the golden car,
Dar's room for you me up dar;
Come, set down on the anxious seat,
Kase sin an' sin an' ligion's sweet.

Chorus—Deh come an' jine right now in de ban,
An' take de sinner by de han!
We both for glory in de harn!
Ain't no sufferin dar, up dar.

Put dem slippers on your feet
When you walk along in de golden street.
An' in dem angels put your trust,
Kase no room dar for to raise a dust.

If you see Peter sleep at de gate,
Kase de night befo' he was up so late,
You needn't spect, wid your load on sin,
Dat you git paw' him an' steal right in.

Day know you here, an' dey'll know you dar,
Kase de angels' always on de squar;
Dey'll hist you out ob dar lubly sight,
Ef you're full ob sin an' your soul aint right.

Shout, sing, kase de time aint long
When you put on wings for de fly to fly,
An' den wot pray an' de louds' singe
An' de ones wot w'ars de biggest winge.

Deed'n' sater'n' liff' your eyes
An' fix dar gaze on de starlight skies
Kase de Lord aint noob an' de Lord aint kin',
Ef you can't see you mus' be blin'.

Don't set down upon your seat,
But rise up, brethren, to your feet,
An' shout for glory till you're sick,
An' git dar ligion—care you quick.

Liff' up your voice in humble pray,
An' let dem singers ober dar
Fo'git dar ligion for a spell,
An' wish dem bohts was in hell.

Good Lord dis meetin' aint broke up,
Kase Sinter sent some sinful pup,
Who'll go to hell wid all de res'
Fo' handin' in a boht's nest.

There is no telling in what shape the present Legislature will leave our school system. There is a decided wish on the part of many of the Representatives to make a change in some direction. The present school law might be improved, and it may also be made worse. It is a matter that needs careful and wise handling.

Arrest of Jesse Underwood.

"Leaf by leaf the roses fall." One by one the outlaws and men of blood who have gained the fair fame of our State are being surrendered to justice. On Tuesday night last, the 8th inst., Jesse Underwood, the notorious Carter County outlaw and horse thief, was arrested in Lewis County, near a little place called Concord, by the Sheriff of the county, assisted by a posse of five men. The arrest was not accomplished with simply "show and awe," and was not taken until after he had killed one of the Sheriff's party named Ruggles and had been three times wounded himself. Underwood was accompanied by his father-in-law and brother-in-law, the former of whom it is supposed is mortally wounded. The murder of Geo. Trumbull, at Wyoming, Bath County, several years ago, by this same Underwood, is still fresh in the winds of the people, and we suppose he will be turned over to the authorities in Bath for trial, where he is sure to get justice and plenty of it. All honor to brave Sheriff Hiram Wardner, of Lewis, for his invaluable service to society.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel.

DEAD LETTERS.

Secrets of the Postoffice Charnel-House.

Wonders Unearthed by our Correspondent—Money and Drafts that Never Reached their Destination—A Romance Among the Mail Bags.

—Don Sanza Cabral, the "Diamond King."

From our own Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 15, 1878.

Being called goes the front bell. "That's the mail-carrier, I know," says Helen, as she bounds out of her chair, tosses aside her embroidered, and runs to the window to take a cog peep through the half-closed blinds. "I was certain Bob wouldn't let another day pass without sending me a letter. Oh, yes, here it is—thank you, Jane—isn't it a heavy one, though? bless his heart, he always did write good, long letters, and now that he's in Italy he will have to much more to tell me about the sunny hills and beautiful gorges. Hotel D'Eloa, Florence, Italy, December 4, 1877.
My Dear Helen: Here I am at last in Florence—that ideal scene to which I have been journeying for so many days, &c., &c."

Little by little Helen's voice died away, and soon the contents of the letter from her Bob was only to be interpreted by the tell-tale blushes which came and went on her beautiful face. She was so wrapped up in what she read that one could have envied her her happiness.
That letter was truly a sorcerer. It has come all the way across the seas from far-away Italy to the very house where Helen lived without accident. But suppose, instead, there had been an error in the direction; then Uncle Sam would have taken it, and first having it pronounced "dead" by the postmaster physician, would have buried it among the other dead letters in the great receptacle he keeps for that purpose. Every day hundreds of precious and important

LETTERS GO ASTRAY.

And hundreds of hearts are made sick by hope deferred. In the early Colonial times, so the old yellow pamphlet in the department archives tells us, great pains were taken to recover letters which had been lost. A letter in those days was an expensive affair; paper cost a great deal, and the postage was considerable, ranging from twenty-five cents even to one dollar; to say nothing of the annoyance of having to write out your own pen from the quill, and impressing on the back of the massive the immense seal so customary in those days. Some of these remarkable epistles are still to be seen at the Dead-Letter Office. Their faded lines and yellow appearance lanes one into a deep reverie of "other long gone days and a deep imagination pictures the writers, who years ago, have crumbled into dust from which they came.

From November, 1777, to December, 1789, all the letters that went astray are recorded in a book of forty-five pages. This covers a period of twelve years. A marked contrast is evident when it is known that for the year 1877 there were

FOUR MILLIONS OF DEAD LETTERS

Were received by the Postoffice Department.
For the handling of this immense number,
fifty-nine ladies and twenty-nine gentlemen are employed. It is an easy matter to talk about millions of letters, but when it is understood that each particular one has to be separated, handled, marked, inspected, and the majority opened and returned to the writer, the magnitude of the work can be imagined, if not appreciated. When a letter is misdirected or the postage has not been prepaid, it is sent by the postmaster immediately to the Dead-Letter Office with the other letters which have not been called for. Here they are opened by the gentlemen, who sit at long tables in the large cheerful room. If anything valuable is contained in them, they are handed over to another division, where the

The late election in Covington resulted in some of the candidates on polls the people took the matter in hand and made their own officials.

THAT big speech of Voorhees set things all in confusion in Washington.

Last week we noticed quite a lot of tobacco leaving the county, bound for the market at Covington, where it was sold. Now, we want to ask the merchants of the county if they realize the effect of the farmer selling his produce in what we might term a foreign market? Does it not carry with it a trade in merchandise to which you are somewhat entitled? Certainly it does. Those wagons which hauled the tobacco to market in nearly every direction came back loaded with sugar, salt, flour, coffee and various other articles sold by home merchants. It is a demonstrated fact that the farmer will buy his goods when selling his farm products, and in the town or city where he finds this market is where the largest purchase of articles for home consumption is made. In the course of twelve months the trade thus taken from the county amounts to a considerable sum, the greater portion of which might be controlled by the home merchants, were they to arrange for the handling of farm produce raised in the county. This branch of business is entirely too limited among our merchants, and as long as this state of case exists the heavy part of the trade in goods for home use will flow to other places. A little more enterprise in the proper direction would redound to the interest of some of the business men of the county.

THE Senatorial contest no longer perplexes the minds of our Legislators at Frankfort. That fight has become a thing of the past, and General Williams has for several years been in the political field working for a political situation. In the last gubernatorial race, Williams, it will be remembered, opposed Governor McCrory. The next we hear of Cero Gordo, he is a candidate for the office of United States Senator, and was opposed and defeated by James B. Beck, who was elected by the last Legislature. This defeat did not in the least discourage the General, and during the Presidential campaign he stumps the State as a Tilden Elector, with an eye upon the approaching Senatorial contest. When the fight for this office commenced, the invincible Williams was on hand with his forces well organized and steadily in the lead. It took over a week to decide the election, but finally Cero Gordo triumphed and walked off with his adversaries at last. Thus we see General Williams made United States Senator after being before the people politically for several years. It is doubtful if there is another man in the State, possessed of as much determination as displayed by General Williams in his several political campaigns.

THE Frankfort Yeoman of last Thursday says: "While the balloting was going on last night, and the caucus was agitated over the excitement there was a very interesting meeting in the Governor's office—no less than that of the three principal candidates seated quietly in social converse. So well poised were they, that a stranger would have imagined that they were the least of all interested in the scenes transpiring in Representative Hall. Anecdote followed anecdote, until interrupted by the arrival of a page with the result of the ballots, until Judge Lindsey and General Williams, were after the third ballot, summoned to their respective headquarters in the State House for consultation, leaving the Governor to resume his routine of duty in the examination and signing of enrolled bills. It was one of the many pleasant features of this very remarkable race."

THE speech made by Hon. D. W. Voorhees in the United States Senate last week, on the financial issues of the day, is highly complimented by both the Democrat and Republican press. The Cincinnati Commercial, in commenting on the speech, says: "It was plain to be seen that the audience was with him. A number of persons in the galleries was so overcome that they could not keep back the tears. Ladies applauded and pressed around the Senator in the lobby when he concluded, and the ovation was so irrepressible that Mr. Wheeler declared the Senate adjourned. The Senate is not often the scene of such congratulations. Members of both Senate and House without regard to party or financial views complimented the speaker."

TURKEY is still on the run. Some effort in the direction of a settlement of the trouble has been made, but no very great amount has been accomplished in the work of peace making.

Under Democrat rule. These lucky moonshiners have been caught. Uncle Sam's agents were trouble. This time it is a Wayne County delegation that refused to be taken and force upon a Marshal and his escort, wounding one or two of the party.

THE Chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee says that some time since he sent to the State Central Committee the resignation of the members of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee, with the information that the Democratic party in Boone is too unwieldy a body for any four or five men to handle. So it appears that the candidates may have no fears of being haled by any Committee.

It is thought that the State will be subjected to a redistricting of the judicial districts. The object of this move will be to make more districts and to do away with all the District Courts except the Circuit Court. The number of Circuit Judges will of necessity, be increased, while the offices of Judge of the Criminal Court, Judge of the Chancery Court, and Judge of the Court of Common Pleas will be abolished. This measure, if carried is not, expected to effect a great reduction in the item of Judge's salaries. If this is done there will be a considerable stir among the legal arrangements.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

St. Louis, Mo., January 19, 1878.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

The week is rapidly drawing to a close, and before we go to our place of earthly rest, we seat ourselves with pen in hand to have our accustomed chat through the medium of the post. This being the first letter we have made an attempt at writing for the press this year, we are somewhat at a loss where to begin and when to leave off. But, to begin and be as brief as possible, let us say, that on the 31st, at the hour of 6:50 p. m., with satchel in hand, we boarded the O. & M. Easter bound train, and at the precise minute of table time, the iron horse darted off through the tunnel, over the bridge, and out into the wide spread prairies of Sackerson amid the darkness of the night. Being considerably fatigued with the day's labor, we were not late in retiring for the night, and little did we know there after ill we were woke up for breakfast the next morning, as we were wearing the Falls City. As we arose and cast our eyes out upon the world around us, we were surprised to find all nature wrapped in heaven's white garment. Arriving at the Falls City at 7:20 a. m., we breakfasted at once and darted out upon the street for a full day's labor which we consummated by 4 p. m. As we were about to leave, we were not late in retiring for the night, and little did we know there after ill we were woke up for breakfast the next morning, as we were wearing the Falls City. As we arose and cast our eyes out upon the world around us, we were surprised to find all nature wrapped in heaven's white garment. Arriving at the Falls City at 7:20 a. m., we breakfasted at once and darted out upon the street for a full day's labor which we consummated by 4 p. m. THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

BURLINGTON, KY., JANUARY 24.

ENTREATED.

As way worn thro' a fruitful land,
We fare at pleasant evening,
One greeteth us with outstretched hand,
And, urging, will not be denied,
Humbly intent to win
Our weary feet to enter in,
And at its innards abide.

Friendless, a stranger, alien born,
Hot, sudden tears arise and press
Thro' our worn eyelids, as forlorn,
And clothed in abject wretchedness,
We feel our hearts, wood-hardened, move
With yearning gratitude and love
Our lips may not express.

So lie, the world's Redeemer, stand,
A suppliant at sweet Mercy's door,
Entreating with His wounded hands
The sin-sick, desolate and poor:
"Enter thou here, and find thy rest Safe in the shelter of my breast,
Dear heart, forevermore."

Cold, thankless heart! how often we Thrust back His hand who loosed our thrall, Endured the bitter penalty,
And shamed our people ignominiously;
Thou art, at last, self-seeking less,
Borne from the shadow of the cross Victorious crowns for all.

Dare we the Infinite Love disdain,
Thou, mocked, insulted and denied,
Yet drained for us the dregs of pain,
The agony of the crucifix?
"All for His life that one man hath He given," the Divine One saith;
And yet for us He died!

The fact that most of the numerous business failures which marked the close of the old and the opening of the new year, were for startling large amounts, and those of firms of the highest commercial standing, may not be as significant of ill as the most persons suppose. It is inevitable that the later failures during a season of commercial depression should be heavier than the earlier ones. At the dawn of a financial crisis the weaker establishments—those that were already on the verge of bankruptcy, and must have gone over had there been no financial crisis, or at least, unless there had been a season of unexpected prosperity—are swept away, and probably carry with them some of better standing. Then follows failures of firms that would not have failed if business had remained ordinarily active. After this comes the fall of those that could have withstood a brief crisis, and then the failures of still stronger firms; and so, the commercial character of the firms failing improve as the crisis lengthens. That the more recent failures should have been mostly among the men whom everybody considered sound, is, therefore, just what it was reasonable to expect; and the failures of such men will naturally be for large amounts, for they enjoy unlimited credit and usually do a large business. The possibly bright side of this condition of things is that the present depression, having progressed so far as to have gotten its destructive hands on the business firms of highest standing, may have nearly run its race. We do not assert that such is actually the case. We merely suggest that it may be and if any reader can extract encouragement from this suggestion he is welcome to it.—Grange Bulletin.

Food for Chickens.
Cornmeal, as we all know, contains more fattening properties, in proportion to the price, than any other single article, though change in the manner of giving it will add to the readiness with which fowls partake of it. Mix raw meal with water for one day's feed, and work it into a stiff dough for the next day, and give, occasionally, a few kernels of corn. Once in four hours is not too often to feed fowls for fattening, beginning early in the morning and feeding just before they go to rest at night, giving at each feed only so much as will be entirely eaten at once. Salt, in small quantities, mixed in cooked food, gives relish to fowls' rations, as well as their own, and a little cayenne should be added.

These conditions not only improve the appetite of the fowls, but give a better flavor to their flesh for the table. Give, also, for the sake of variety, some raw bits of meat and boiled potatoes, or other cooked vegetables. As the fowls are intended to become fat and heavy, allow no roosts in the open. A slatted floor is cleaner than a solid one and the coop should be so arranged as have the droppings fall into dry earth placed beneath the whole. A dark room is better than a light one, as it induces the quiet which conduces to rapid fattening. Of course, at feeding time, light must be admitted, and plenty of fresh air at all time.

The Chickasaw Indians are mostly Methodist, but in the past they supported Presbyterian and Baptist churches as well. The Creeks and Choctaws are chiefly Baptist, the latter, having in addition to the various denominations, a godly sprinkling of Roman Catholics.

The Springfield Republican, in publishing births, used to mention only the father's name, but now it has grown liberal enough to give the mother credit for half of all such items.

"You are as pretty as a picture" is no longer the correct compliment to pay a lady. Simply say, "You remind me of a chromo."

Why are the days in the summer longer than the days in the winter? Because it is hotter in summer, and heat expands.

Something in the Bed.

Judge Pitman has a habit of slipping his watch under his pillow when he goes to bed. One night, somehow, it slipped down, and, as the Judge was restless, it gradually worked its way down toward the foot of the bed. After a bit, while he was lying awake, his foot touched it, and it felt very cold; he was surprised and scared, and jumping from the bed he said:

"By gracious, Maria! there is a toad or snake or something under the covers. I touched it with my foot."

Mrs. Pitman gave a loud scream, and was out in the floor in an instant.

"Now, don't go to hollering and wake up the neighbors," said the Judge. "You go and get me the broom or something, and we will fix the thing mighty quick."

Mrs. Pitman got the broom and gave it to the Judge, remarking that she felt as if snakes were creeping up and down her legs and back.

"O, nonsense, Maria! Now you turn down the covers slowly while I hold the broom and bang it. Put a bucket of water along side of the bed, too, so we can shove it in and drown it."

Mrs. Pitman fixed the bucket and gently moved the covers. The Judge held the broom uplifted, and as soon as the black ribbon of the watch was revealed, he cracked away three or four times with his broom; then he pushed the thing off into the bucket. Then they took the bucket to the light to investigate the matter. When the Judge saw what it was he said:

"I might have known that. Just like you women, to go screeching and fussing about nothing! Who's going to pay me for that watch? It's utterly ruined."

"It was you that made the fuss, not me," said Mrs. P. "You need not try to put the blame off on me."

"O, hush up, and go to bed. I'm tired of hearing you blather. Blame me if I ain't going to get a divorce, and emigrate!" And the Judge turned in and growled at Maria till he fell asleep.

A Sporting Editor's Criticism of a Concert.

The musical critic of one of the New York papers having been compelled to leave town suddenly on the eve of a concert by the Philharmonic Society, a conferee on the sporting department kindly volunteered to take his place for the evening. His work, whatever his shortcomings in an artistic sense, certainly lacked nothing in originality, and we commend his style to some of the musical critics. Here he says: "Time was called exactly at eight o'clock, and about fifty bugles, fifes and flutes entered for the contest. The fiddle won the toss and took the inside with the chandeliers right in their eyes. The umpire with a small club acted as starter. Just before the start he stood upon a cheese box, with a small lunch counter before him and he shook his stick at the entries to keep them down. The contestants first soaked it to Landree Hoochzeit, by Goldmark, Opp. 22. They got off neatly, and one of the sorrier fiddles gently leading the man with the French horn, and to call them back, but they settled down to a jogging gait with the big roan fiddle bringing up the rear. At the first quarter the little black whistle broke badly and went into air, but the fiddle left kept well together and struck up a rattling gait. At the half pole the man with the straight horn showed signs of fatigue. There was a bottle-tailed flute which wrestled sadly with the sorrier bugle at the half mile, but he was wind-broke and wheezed. The galoot with the big fat bugle kept calling 'whoa' all the time, but he seemed to keep up with the rest to the end of the race. They all came under the string in good order, but the judge on the cheese box seemed to reserve his opinion. He seemed tired, and the contestants went out to find the bottle holders, and get ready for the Bee-thoven handicap. It was a nice exhibition, but a little tiresome to the observers. All bets off."—Newark Courier.

A politician from the rural districts resolved to give a dinner to some of his party friends. In order to make sure that everything should be of the best quality, he went to market himself, and bought first a turtle, and then taking great pains to select one of the finest specimens in the lot, and ordering it to be sent home, he said to the tradesman, by way of making it quite right:

"This is a right down genuine turtle ain't it?"

"O, certainly," was the reply; "one of the very best."

"Because," added the politician, "although I ain't been in the city long, I ain't to be hambugged; it won't do for you to try to put off any of your confounded mock turtles on me."

A new social game in West Virginia—the "num social," viz: An admission fee is charged, and after the ladies and gentlemen are all in they must not speak a word, but sit down and when one of the parties equals the gas is turned on, and she has to tell what she was squealing about. If she refuses to tell, then she is fined, and the fine is usually paid by the young man who sits next to her.

A COTEMPORARY says: "It is all right for church choirs to serenade newly-married couples, but there are more appropriate hymns for such occasions than 'What shall the harvest be.' 'Ninety and nine' wouldn't be just the thing either." It's too many.

"Bill No. 93."

This bill, introduced a few days ago into the Senate of Kentucky by Hon. Joseph Reed, and referred to the Committee on Education, is destined to become famous in the annals of school legislation. There is no question that in its essential features it ought to pass. It provides for more intelligent and a more economical supervision of our common school system. The present administration, if it be honest, is certainly inefficient. The office of County Commissioner is generally filled by some person who has no special fitness for the position, who does not give his undivided attention to the duties of his office, and who uses it as a stepping-stone to a more lucrative preferment. The average compensation of this office is about three hundred dollars a year, which, since there are ten hundred and sixteen counties in the State, costs the School Fund thirty-five thousand dollars annually. Mr. Reed's bill proposes in lieu of this expensive, and, of necessity, imperfect plan of supervision, the following: A committee of twenty-four gentlemen resident in different portions of the State, and representing equally the Northern and Southern Presbyterians, the Northern and Southern Methodists, the Baptists, the Reformers, the Catholics, and the Episcopalians, is to be elected by the Legislature. The sole duty of this committee is to recommend eight wise and discreet men to the Governor for appointment as members of the State Board of Education, who, with the Superintendent of Public Instruction, shall administer the system under the constitution and laws of the State. Among their duties is the election of a District Superintendent of common schools for each and every Judicial District, who superintends the several County Commissioners of the said districts. The District Superintendent must have the following qualifications: He must be a courteous gentleman, of unexceptionable deportment, of good moral character, with a thorough English education, and an efficient practical educator. In this last qualification, in connection with the others prescribed, lies the power of the proposed reform. The District Superintendent, moreover, is not permitted to engage in any other occupation, or to meddle with politics. He is to receive a salary of fifteen hundred dollars a year. Since there are seventeen Judicial Districts in the State, the total cost of supervision under this plan will be $25,000, a saving of $9,000 annually. Without criticizing the other provisions of the bill, under the impression that the Legislature will guard the rights of the people and foster the schools for their good, we advocate the new plan of supervision as a more economical, more thorough, and in every way more efficient than that under which our schools have so long suffered.—Louisville Commercial.

Remarkable Fountain in Florida.

Taking a narrow path, I crossed through some dense underwood, and all at once I stood on the bank of the Wakulla Springs. There was a basin of water one hundred yards in diameter, and almost circular. The water bubbles were so close to the water's edge, and bowing their heads under its almost unrippled surface. I stepped into a skiff and pushed off. Some immense fish attracted my attention, and I seized spear to strike them. The boatman laughed and asked me how far below the surface I thought they were. I answered about four feet. He assured me that they were at least twenty feet from me, and so they were. The waters of the most marvelous transparency. I dropped an ordinary pin in the water, forty feet deep, and saw its head with perfect distinctness as it lay on the bottom. As we approached the center, I noticed a jagged, grayish limestone rock beneath us, pierced with holes. Through these holes one seems to look into unfathomable depths. The boat moved slowly on, and now we hung trembling over the edge of the sunken cliff, and below it lies a dark unfathomable abyss. From its gorge comes pouring forth, with immense velocity, a living river. Pushing on just beyond its mouth, I dropped a ten-cent piece into the water, which is there 190 feet in depth, and I clearly saw it shining on the bottom. This seems incredible. I think the water possesses a magnifying power. I am confident the piece could not be seen so clearly from the top of a tower 100 feet high. We rowed on toward the north side, and suddenly we perceived the water, the fish which were darting hither and thither, the long flexible roots, and the wide, luxuriant grasses of the bottom, all arrayed in the most brilliant prismatic hues. The gentle swell occasioned by the boat gave to the whole an undulating motion. Deathlike stillness reigned around, and a more fairy like scene I never before beheld. So great is the quantity of water here poured forth, that it forms a river of itself large enough to float a dozen laden laden with cotton. The planter who lives here has thus transported his cotton to St. Mark's. Near the fountain we saw some of the remains of a mansion which had been taken from it. The triangular bones below the knee measured six inches on each side. The Indian name for the fountain, Wakulla, means "The Mystery." It is said the Spanish discoverers, supposing it was the most fantastic jargon, they had discovered the long sought-for fountain of youth, which should rejuvenate them again.—Cor. N. Y. Post.

THE wife murderer, Phil. Watson, will be hung to-morrow, Friday,
in Covington.

THE business disposed of by the General Assembly does not pile up as rapidly as expected at first.

THE Sheriff of Carter County, not long since, sold twenty-four farms for non-payment of taxes due thereon.

THE other day in the United States Senate, Senator Blaine arraigned the State of Massachusetts for her disloyalty in 1812.

THE Covington Ticket wants the people of Kentucky to keep a record of the members of the Legislature who vote for the repeal of the test oath.

It has been discovered that the dog law saves the sheep but at the same time it is death on politicians. Hence it may properly be recognized as a very useful double-barreled law.

THERE is an attempt being made to have the rate of taxation in this State reduced to thirty-five cents on the one hundred dollars worth of property.

The State being out of debt and having a surplus in the Treasury, we see no reason why taxes should not be reduced.

On Wednesday night of last week,
the cotton and batting mills of Messrs Darling, Wolfe and Wilson, of Carrollton, Carroll County, were destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. The loss is estimated at $12,000. No insurance.

THE ridiculous test oath, which requires every member of the Legislature to swear that he did not use money to promote his election, is about to be repealed.

The above, or its gist, we notice in quite a number of our exchanges this week. Now, why this "test oath" should be condemned we fail to comprehend. This—No political values—despicable "test oath" is calculated to defeat the corrupt politicians with which our state is infested, and put the choosing of officials upon the merits of the respective candidates. We say, let the "test oath" remain and enforce it rigidly.

THE Owensboro Examiner says:
"A report made by General Humphres on the subject of the Louisville canal, shows the receipts to have exceeded the expenditures last year by $27,519; and a balance on hand, available January 1st, of $54,519. The receipts show a large increase of business, and with ample funds on hand to complete the projected work and make the necessary repairs, a reduction of tolls will be recommended. As the object of the Government is not to make money, but simply to collect, in tolls, a sufficient amount to keep the canal and appurtenances in good repair, we think a reduction should be made."

THE proposed act for the supplying of a reporter to the courts of the tenth and eleventh Judicial Districts in the manner proposed, ought not, as we believe, to pass. In the first place, it would add considerably to the cost of a litigated case which is now so great as to deter many from resorting to the courts and prefer taking the remedy in their own way.

And second, because the proposed act gives either party the right to say whether the reporter's service shall be called in, and thus allowing the abler litigant to harness his weaker adversary by a prospective enhancement of the costs, which he may be unable to stand, and will prefer surrendering his case to risking the enhancement of costs.

The courts and litigants have so far gotten along without this additional officer and his fees, and we see no reason why they can not proceed in the future as in the past. In important cases an attorney on each side takes down the essential part of the testimony. This renders the process of testifying somewhat slow, but then the witness is more clearly understood by the parties, court and jury, which more than compensates for the time lost. However if a reporter be necessary, let us have one appointed by the court and paid a salary by the State, his duty to be to attend the court at all its sittings, and report all the testimony in every case, unless excused from that duty by the parties and the court. The testimony thus taken down to be filed in the case and taken as prima facie evidence in all future proceedings in the case where the testimony of a deceased or absent witness is offered.

CANDIDATES are plentiful in Pendleton County. The Falmouth Independent, of last week, announces no less than four candidates for County Judge; three for County Attorney; fifteen for Jailor; seventeen for Assessor; three for County Clerk; one for Surveyor and three for Sheriff; a total of forty-six persons who are desirous of serving their country in the capacity of county officers. From this can be gathered the moral of hard times.
Numbers of persons who would not otherwise descend into the cesspool of politics feel themselves driven to seek for various offices in the hope of being aided in providing for their families by the salaries paid these officers. Another noticeable feature is the fact that the least lucrative offices have the greatest number of seekers. This naturally follows from the reasoning that, being the poorest paid, the qualifications required are in the same proportion. Be this as it may, there will be thirty-nine disappointed men in Pendleton, as there can only be one successful applicant for each office.
Let us hope that the thirty-nine, whoever they may be, will bear their defeat with fortitude and a spirit of kindness and that the heated canvass of 1878 (for Pendleton is only a sample of what is to be found in every county in the State) will not engender bitter burnings and strife throughout the Commonwealth which may redound to anything but the peace and happiness of her citizens.

THE Louisville Commercial says:
"Many people who live in the river towns in this State and Indiana will be glad to know that General Sexton, of Indiana, is trying to have the postal service restored to the river between Cincinnati and Louisville. At present the mail for the river towns, instead of being carried on boats, is supplied by horseback and stage from the nearest railroad stations on either side of the river. It is found that the cost of restoration to boats will be very slight, and the accommodation to the number of river towns very great.
The experiment has satisfied those most concerned that it is best to let the boats carry the mails for these river towns, and it is encouraging to know that the Post-office Department has the matter under consideration with the probability that the restoration will be ordered."

THE President does not appear inclined to protect the Louisiana Returning Board from legal prosecution, and through his Attorney-General has notified the authorities at New Orleans to throw no obstacles in the way of executing, in the Custom House, lawful writs issued from State Courts, and Anderson, Kenner and Cassanova were arrested on the 27th and lodged in prison. J. Madison Wells "skipped out" or he would also have been arrested. $29,000 is the bond which they expect to be required to give.

In the lower House of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, a bill has been introduced for an appropriation of $10,000, to be paid to any citizen of the State who shall within ten years construct, or cause to be constructed, after plans of his own invention, and set in practical operation on the common highways, an engine or locomotive propelled by steam or motive power. The successful test of operation shall be as follows: Any engine or locomotive competing for the money shall perform a journey of at least two hundred miles, in a continuous direction, propelled by its own internal power, at an average rate of speed of at least four miles an hour, and have at least one wagon or vehicle which shall be loaded with a weight of at least a ton, and shall be constructed of such width as to conform to the track of the common wagon used on the public highways. The apparatus shall be so constructed as to be able to turn out readily on either side to pass other vehicles, to be able to ascend or descend a grade of at least 300 feet to the mile, to be able to apply the power to at least one set of wheels on each carriage of the train designed to be drawn.

We are in receipt of the initial number of the Grant County Herald, published by Jno. R. Stoops at Williamstown. The Herald is a six column folio, and presents a very neat and newsy appearance. We hope the people of Grant County will see that the Herald receives the patronage necessary to its support.

W. H. JONES, Sheriff of Gallatin County, resigned on Monday of last week. We have been informed that out of about $2,000 tax collected by him he has paid over only about $700.

Failures not Necessarily Calamities.

The idea is very widely prevalent, no doubt, that the business failures, of which there has been so large a crop of late, are public calamities; but it is a very narrow and superficial view which regards them as necessarily so.
There are times, undoubtedly like those in 1873, when a sudden loss of confidence precipitates into bankruptcy thousands whose failure is an irrede-miable loss; but in ordinary times, and even in as hard times as those through which we have passed during 1877, the business failure as a rule is a positive benefit to the community. We refer, of course, to those failures only which are honestly entitled to be called such,
and not to those tainted with speculation, trickery or fraud; to the failures which result from an inability to meet reasonable obligations, or to make such a showing of solvency as enables creditors to safely grant extensions. In every such case failure, though unfortunate for the victim, is a positive gain for the community. It is the pricking of a bubble, the detronement of a sham, a step in the direction of putting the business of the country upon a stable footing. The continuance in active business of men or firms who are insolvent and who have any reasonable prospects of releasing themselves from that condition, is a drawback upon the solvent business of the country; and every time one of such men or firms fails the general business is lightened of a burden, which is none

the less so because its weight is not fully realized.
Any one who will take the trouble to run over in his mind the failures within his knowledge during the past year will see, we are confident, that the rule is as we have stated it.
Among them there may have been some where a continuance of the struggle would have been advantageous, not only to the debtor but to creditors.
There undoubtedly were cases where the debtors were actually solvent and where indiscretion in forcing them entitled large loss upon all concerned.
But in the vast majority of cases the parties were and had been for some time insolvent, and could only have kept on by involving their creditors in increased expense. By their failure creditors undoubtedly suffered a nominal loss in discovering that claims considered good were worthless; but the real loss in every case antedated the discovery, and the creditor is far better off in knowing his true condition than he could possibly be by keeping up a delusive hope.

Even in those cases where failures are purely the result of misfortunes—
the failures which come from the downfall of others—there is no reason for revising the rule. The houses whose solvency depends upon the promises of insolvent ones are not doing a safe business; and the sooner the community is fully apprised of the fact the smaller will be the field over which the loss of their failure is spread. It may sound unsympathetic or harsh to say that in such cases the failure is a public blessing instead of a calamity; but in every case where failure is simply the disclosure of the truth to the undeceiving of the public—as it is in nine times in ten—the saying is true in spite of its apparent harshness.

In saying this we have given no consideration to the Wall street failures, which everybody recognizes as real blessings; but it would be well for the solid business men of the country to ask themselves how many of the failures which they are wont to regard as calamities are really of the same character as those for which Wall street is famous, or rather infamous.
A careful consideration of this subject in all its bearings might lead, perhaps, to an increase in the number of failures, but it would not increase which would purify and strengthen legitimate, honest business of the country.—Free Press.

Press Comments on the Election of Sen- ator Williams.

SHOWING THE SMOKE OF MANY BATTLES.
Cincinnati Enquirer: After a word of cordial congratulations to General Williams, we cannot but felicitate the Democracy of Kentucky in that the old Commonwealth will not soon be misrepresented in the Senate of the United States upon the dominant question of the hour and of this generation.
Beck and Williams are likely to speak to the belief of the people of Kentucky upon the great question of finance, to which this epoch, in the allotments of history, is already consecrated. The Democrats of Kentucky will rejoice in the success of the veterans soldiers, who is surrounded by a certain martial halo, who is looked at through the smoke of many battles, and seems like a precious Mexican war relic, the true Democracy of the country may rejoice in that Cerro Gordo's vote will be on the side of the people upon the great issue of the hour. That is our common exultation.

NEVER BEEN DISCOURAGED.

Cincinnati Gazette: General John S.
Williams has knocked down the persimmions at Frankfort. If persevere-nce be any merit, then "Cerro Gordo" deserves the office. He has presented himself at each Senate election for the past ten or twelve years, and has never been discouraged by defeat.
General Williams is an ex-confederate soldier, an out and out greenback and silver man, and a fair representative of the Democracy of Kentucky. He is worthy to rank with the Voohees and Armstrongs that have preceded him to the Senate.

KENTUCKY COULD HAVE DONE BETTER.

Cincinnati Commercial: Cerro Gordo Williams has come into his kingdom. He cultivated Kentucky for several years with a degree of zeal and energy quite remarkable. He has ravaged the State incessantly, after the manner of Sam Gray's Bill Allen campaign in Ohio. He took an enormous percentage of the gentlemen of Kentucky to keep Williams out of the gubernatorial office two years ago, and now he has secured the nomination for Senator, which is equivalent to an election. It is terrible to think of the "plebs" of Kentucky storming

BOOKS ERECTED COURT, KENTUCKY.
J. A. Kendall, adm'r of Jonathan Utz, &c., plaintiffs.
Against Jonathan Utz's widow and heirs, in equity, defendants.
By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the September Term thereof, 1877, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on MONDAY, the 4th day of February, 1878, at 1 o'clock
P. M., or thereabout, being County Court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of nine months and twenty-seven months, at the Court-house door in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in his judgment,
to wit:

207 acres and 20 poles of land 14 miles south of Burlington, Boone County, Ky., on Carpenter Creek, adjoining the lands of John and Thos. Underhill, B. Pope, J. A.
Kendall, G. W. Weaver and others, being some owned and occupied by Jonathan Utz at his death. Said tract of land is divided into five lots. Lot No. 1 contains 145 acres; lot No. 2, 35 acres; lot No. 3, 32½ acres;
lot No. 4, 21 acres 2 rods and 20 poles; lot No.
5, 28½ acres. (For a more full description, see N. S. Rice's report of survey in Circuit Court Clerk's office in this action.) The whole tract will first be offered, then each lot separately, then lots 1, 3 and 4 together; and that bid, or the bids, bringing the most money will be accepted.
The purchaser will be required to give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

LET BYGONES BE BYGONES.

Let bygones be bygones, if bygones were bygones.

By night that occasioned a pang of regret, Oh, let them in darkest oblivion be shrouded; 'Tis wise and 'tis kind to forgive and forget.

Let bygones be bygones, and good be extracted.

From all evil which it is folly to fret; The wisest of mortals have foolishly acted— The kindest are those who forgive and forget.

Let bygones be bygones; oh, cherish no longer

The thought that the sun of Affection has set;

Eclipsed for a moment, its rays will be stronger.

If you are a Christian, forgive and forget.

Let bygones be bygones; your heart will be lighter.

When kindness of yours with reception has met;

The flame of your love will be purer and brighter.

If Godlike, you strive to forgive and forget.

Let bygones be bygones; oh, purge out the leaven

Of malice, and try an example to set.

To others, who craving the mercy of heaven.

Are sadly too slow to forgive and forget.

Let bygones be bygones; remember how deeply

To heaven's forbearance we all are indebted;

They value God's infinite goodness too cheaply.

Who heed not the precept, "Forgive and Forget."

How It Feels to Be Shot.

Capt. Henry Romey, of the 5th infantry, is now in Detroit recovering from the wounds which he received in the last battle with Joseph's warriors. He tells the story thus: "You see I had been struck five times. One ball shattered my field glass; another raised a disfigurement lump on my left shoulder, and the other only damaging my clothing. I ought to say that very early in the fight my horse was killed, and when I saw Gen. Miles riding close up, apparently unconscious that he was getting in a close place, I warned him to keep back. I had been lying comparatively hidden in the long grass. I stood up to take an observation, when quicker than a flash, some warrior singled me out and let drive. I felt as if a red hot iron bar been thrust through me. I stood rooted in my tracks for a few moments, gasped and felt the air coming in my back. The next instant my mouth filled with blood, and then I knew I had been shot in the lung. I walked seventy-five yards and then fell."

Down with the Rack.

Feeding-boxes instead of racks for horses may be made equally convenient, and possess several advantages. Horses do not naturally gather their food from trees; why, then, should they be compelled in winter to take it from a rack overhead? In doing so every mouthful requires the animal to assume an unnatural position, which, especially in the case of young horses, is likely to interfere with the proper development of the muscles of the neck and with the graceful carriage of the head. Not improbably the awkward manner in which some horses thrust out the head, and upward, is due to the force of habit acquired in feeling from a rack. Moreover, there is danger of seed, dust, &c., falling in to the eyes of the animals. All the effluvia of the stable, too, the vapors from liquid and solid excrement, the exhalations from skin and lungs, pass upward and are, to some extent, absorbed by the horse, in addition to their savory nor healthful. The feeding-box is open to none of these objections.

Indian Beliefs.

The Indian is a very positive person; he knows every thing in the universe, and will always have an explanation ready for any event or phenomenon of nature that may occur. No doubt ever troubles the mind of the noble red man as to the accuracy of his statements; he knows that to be true; for have not these traditions been handed down to him, generation by generation, from the remotest antiquity? As to what are good deeds, the Indian ideas are very peculiar. They generally believe, however, that if they steal all the horses they can lay their hands on, and scalp all their enemies; they have rendered themselves worthy candidates for the "happy hunting grounds." Their ideas in regard to the situation of their happy ground are very vague. Those tribes living on the seashore will say it is beyond the "great water." Those living near a mountain range say it is beyond the "high mountain." Some of the tribes, the Pueblos, for instance, have seven different countries piled one above the other in a vertical direction, having made hill after hill, until the good spirits climb from one country to another. Other tribes have the countries arranged side by side in a horizontal direction; while some of the Esquimaux Indians go to the edge of the world and tumble off when they make a visit to their happy land. The Indians believe, in regard to some of the phenomena of nature, that the sun is chased around the sky by a rabbit; that the red rain birds his brush into the heavenly lake and sprinkles the earth, causing rain; that in winter he crushes ice and forms snow; also, that the sky is covered with a curtain at night, pierced full of holes, with a lamp behind it, the light shining through the orifices producing the stars.

A True Bill.

He was the manager of a church fair, and one morning he walked into the newspaper office and said: "Want an item this morning?" "Of course," replied the editor. Whereupon the visitor laid the following upon the table:

"The ladies of the street church will give a festival at their vestry hall next Friday evening. Literary and musical entertainments will be provided, and a supper will be served to all who may desire. The ladies in charge of the affair have much experience in such matters, and are sure to provide a good time. The admission will be only fifteen cents, and it is certain that no one can spend that amount to a better advantage. Be sure to go and take your friends."

When the editor had read it, he said: "Oh, I see, an advertisement." "No, not an advertisement. We prefer to have it go in the local column," replied the manager. And seeing that the editor looked skeptical, he continued: "It will interest a great many of your readers, and help a good cause; besides, we have spent so much money getting up our entertainment that we can't afford to advertise it without increasing the price of our tickets. In such a matter as this we ought to be willing to help each other."

"Well," said the editor, "if it goes into the locals, I suppose you would recommend our paper by reading a little notice in your church next Sunday."

The visiting brother asked what notice, and the editor wrote and handed him the following:

"The Weekly Chronicle for the coming year will be the best and cheapest family paper in Maine. Its proprietor has had much experience, and has all the helps which a large outlay of money can procure. His paper has a larger circulation than any other published in the country, and is to be furnished at only 82. It is certain that no one can spend that amount to better advantage. Be sure to take the Chronicle, and subscribe for your friends."

The manager hemmed and hesitated, and then said, solemnly, that he doubted whether it would be judicious to read such a notice, but suggested that if it was printed, copies of it might be distributed at the door of the vestry on the evening of the entertainment.

"Yes," said the editor, "but it would attract more attention in the middle of a sermon. It will interest a large number of your congregation, and help a good cause; and besides, so much money is spent upon the Chronicle that I don't see how the owner can afford to print him bills to advertise it without increasing the subscription price. In such a matter as this we ought to be willing to help each other."

Then the gentleman saw the situation.—[Fairfield (Me.) Chronicle.]

How to Cut and Cure Hams.

The Farmers' Home Journal gives the following: It is important that the meat, after dressing, should become thoroughly cool, and this will always be the case if it is kept over a night and day with the thermometer down to forty degrees. Cut the ham into four, so as to make the middle as large as possible. Take out ribs, and your doing so will leave only the shoulder and ham with the bone to them. These pieces should be neatly trimmed with a strap knife—the ham should be rounded and cut closest the flesh—and even a portion of the bone should be sawed away, so as to round off the piece. Sprinkle over the "fleshy" portion of the ham as much powdered saltpeter as will lie on a nickel, then rub on about a tablespoonful of common molasses, or the same quantity of brown sugar. To prevent damage by skippers, the "fleshy" part may be covered with black pepper. After acting in accordance with the foregoing instructions, the next step is to cover the whole with salt, packed on and rubbed in the hock. Place the pieces in a box, not more than three feet deep at first, and in from four to six weeks, depending on whether the weather is cold or moderate, the meat will be ready to smoke with green hickory or sugar tree. Do not "heat" in smoking. Cared thus the sweetness of "country hams" can be made. The amount of saltpeter and molasses may be slightly varied to suite the size of the meat, and also it must be remembered that small meat will take salt sooner than large; meat does not take salt when frozen; people do not usually sugar cure shoulders, but only salt and smoke them. Porkpackers make a pickle of saltpeter, etc., in brine. Each packing house has its own peculiar recipe, but no house can surpass a "country" ham quickly cured on the plan which we have recommended. Hams should be canvassed after smoking to protect them from the fly. Some do not apply black pepper until the meat is ready for smoking.

As a colored resident of Lockport was breasting the storm, with a new umbrella over his head, he was halted by a friend and brother, who asked: "Is that your umbrella?" "Yes, sah; cost me $2," was the prompt reply. "Mr. Mosby," said the other, "I solemnly, when a man will buy a $2 umbrella to keep the wet off a fifty-cent coat of floss, what's he do use to talk economy?"

THE MODEL SUBSCRIBER.
"Good morning, Mr. Editor; how are the folks to-day?"
"Lower your year's subscription; I thought I'd come in and pay."
"And Jones is a-going to take it, and this is his money here;"
"I shut down on lendin' it to him, and then coaxed him to try it a year."
"And here are a few little items that happened last week in our town:"
"I thought they'd look good in the paper, and so I just jotted 'em down;"
"And here is a basket of apples my wife sent expressly for you."
"And a small bunch of flowers from Jennie; she thought she must send something, too."
"You're doing the politics badly, as all of our family agree."
"Just keep your old goose-quill a floppin', and give 'em a good one for me."
"And now you are chuck full of business, and I won't be taking your time."
"I've things of my own I must tend to—good day, sir, I believe I will climb."

The editor sat in his sanctum, and brought down his fist with a thump.
"God bless that old farmer!" he muttered, "he's a regular jolly old trumper."
And "in thus with our noble profession, and thus it will ever be still;
There are some who appreciate its labor, and some who, perhaps, never will.
But in the great time that is coming, when Gabriel's trumpet shall sound,
And they who have labored and rested shall come from the quivering ground,
When they who have striven and refused to teach and ennoble the race Shall march at the head of the column, each one in his God-given place,
As they march through the gates of the city with proud and victorious tread,
The editor, printer and "devil" will travel not far from the head.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.
The President's Lays—Works of Art—Returned from Japan—The Tobacco and Whisky Tax—Jay Gould—The Value of a Penny—The Business Outlook—A Prospective New Coin.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26, 1878.
THE PRESIDENT'S FIRST PUBLIC LECTURE.
Was not, in point of numbers, a success, as compared with those given by Grant, Johnson and Lincoln; and as Mrs. Hayes is a pattern of simplicity in dress, there was a very noticeable change in the character of the costumes worn by the ladies. Every nation had its representatives there. All the diplomats, however, were in plain black suits, and not in the gaudy trumpery of court dress. They wear this now only at the state dinners.

The Russian and the Turkish Ministers are indulging in too hospital or society amusements this winter, owing to the terrible war which is being waged by their respective countries.

THE EQUESTRIAN STATURE
Of General Green, the Quaker soldier, has been placed in position in Stanton Place, and another added attraction to the works of art that embellish the Capital.

"LINCOLN AND THE EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION."
Mrs. Thompson, a wealthy lady of New York, has purchased F. B. Carpenter's painting of "Lincoln and the Emancipation Proclamation," and will present it to Congress on Lincoln's birthday, February 12th. Hon. Alexander H. Stevens will make the speech of acceptance, in reply to Mr. Garfield's presentation address.

HONORED BY THE JAPS.
Among the prominent persons in the city is General George Williams, of Indiana, who six years ago went to Japan to introduce there the American system of internal revenue. He has now returned to this country, having been highly honored by the Japanese Government.

THE TAX OF WHISKY AND TOBACCO.
The proposition to reduce the tax on whisky and tobacco is meeting with great opposition here from the distillers and tobacco manufacturers, as their business is at a perfect standstill, and will be until the tax is taken off by Congress. They say they can not afford sales now, because the buyers say, "We will wait until the tax is reduced and then purchase cheaper." Congress seems to have an uncomfortable habit of dabbling into a thing just enough to unsettle the interests of everyone connected with it; and then either dropping the whole matter or referring it to some committee, who lay it on the table and seldom take it up again.

JAY GOULD.
The keen-eyed Wall street broker, is in the city looking after the interests of the Union Pacific Railroad. He is a good lobbyist, and has a good reputation here in the line of a schemer.

THE VALUE OF A PENNY.
Is being demonstrated by "Roberts," the copyist of the Sunday Capital. A "Penny Lunch Room" has been opened by her, and is doing a splendid business. Tickets are sold to the public at a cent each, and these are given to the poor instead of money, and for one of them will be given a plate of soup, a piece of meat, a cup of coffee, bread and butter, or a boiled potato. The same plan has been acted upon by the "Labor Exchange," an institution peculiar to Washington. Hon. John Hitt, General of the Swiss Government, is the prime mover. He is the most active man in the city in philanthropic movements, and gives a great share of his time and money in helping the poor. His wife, a lovely woman, works at his side in every charitable undertaking. If we had a few more persons like this gentleman, there would be a deaf hum suffering by the poor. It is a foreigner who teaches us charity.

OUR BUSINESS OUTLOOK.
Nearly a year ago millions were lost last year by business failures, and the future outlook should awaken the immediate attention of Congress. The conflicts in relation to currency should be settled as soon as possible. It would seem that a silver dollar should be coined of equal value with gold, and be made receivable in payment of all debts. Such action would stimulate the coinage of silver, and prevent speculation in gold. A proposition has been made which is receiving considerable among the hard money men. It is to

COIN A DOLLAR FROM BOTH SILVER AND GOLD COMBINED.
Which would form a so-called "gold-silver dollar." The dollar piece would contain 22 grains of silver, 25 grains copper and 9 grains gold. The representatives of the measure claim that it is practicable and possible to unite the two metals and form one which would be popular, honest and convenient. Dr. Linderman, the Superintendent of the mint, says that the only objection he can see to the new metal is that it will be easier to counterfeit than gold or silver. This may yet be the compromise between the two factions of hard money advocates.

To the Editor of the Recorder:
Such is the caption of an article I notice in the Recorder of a few weeks since, to which I propose to respond in a brief, but very pointed and positive manner. And in doing so, I do not propose going beyond the truths so solemnly taught in God's Holy Word. Nor do I wish to court any controversy with any of my fellow-beings; yet I am ever open to conviction, and if any man can convince me of my error in believing God's Word, as I read it, I am willing to acknowledge my error.

Is there a place of punishment beyond the grave? Gladly would men erase such a doctrine from the creed of Christian faith. Pain would they soothe their conscience to rest with the belief that the doctrines of the Bible in regard to such a place are but mere fables. Pain would they believe that God is too good to be punishing His creatures whom He has made in an eternal hell. But when we look at the perfection of Deity Himself, and when we read that He is so pure and so holy that He can not look upon nor suffer the least appearance of sin, and when we read that nothing that defileth shall in any wise enter to mar the purity of the heavenly world, can we doubt for one moment the existence of a place of future punishment of the wicked and all the nations that forget God?

Again, when we look at man as he is in a state of nature, loving darkness rather than light, forgetting God, loving the path of sin more than the path of holiness, his whole nature full of sin and moral corruption, can we suppose for one moment that man, dying in this condition—that he would, or could, ever be happy for one moment in a world of perfect purity and bliss, where no sin is found? Such a supposition is contrary to all human experience.

If we reason from analogy, the truth is the same. Take a wicked man; place him in the society of the Christian man but for one short hour, and he is the most miserable of all God's creation. Here, in such society, he can not swear, and curse, and engage in sin. This every man knows by experience. But what is one short hour to eternity? If man in a wicked, unconverted state can not endure the society of the good for one hour here on earth, how can he live to all eternity with the pure and holy in the heavenly world, if he should die in his sin? The argument falls to the ground defenseless.

Again, it is said in Holy Writ that "now is accepted time, now is the day of salvation;" that "there is no repentance beyond the grave, but after death the judgment;" plainly intimating that if man would escape the punishment of sin after death, he must repent in this life.

Again, "The wicked shall be turned into hell with all the nations that forget God." Now, if the grave is meant by the word hell, as some would be theologians assert, then we ask, what becomes of all the good, and those who love God and do his will? Do we not know from observation that the grave is the receptacle of all alike? Do we not see the good and the bad alike laid in the cold and silent grave to rest? Do we not follow the good of earth to the grave and consign them to the arms of Mother Earth—earth to earth and dust to dust? Do we not perform for them the last and office of affection, the same as we do for the wicked? Then, if these things be so, which can not be but must prove them to be so, the argument must be false. No theology can sustain it, and the Word of God stands as firm and unshaken as the eternal battlements and towers of heaven.

Men may quibble in vain—they may strive in vain—to play their fears by asserting that the Word of God does not teach the doctrine of eternal punishment; yet the God of the Universe hath spoken it, and His word is sure and steadfast, and will stand when worlds have crumbled into ruins. "Thou shalt sineth it shall die," is the language of inspiration, and what God hath said man can not gainsay. Little is it worth our while to attempt to reason the Word of God away and build upon its ruins a faith of our own. It has stood the test of ages, and still stands, as firm and unchangeable as God Himself, as a beacon light to guide man through the wilderness of darkness, and point out to him the danger of an eternal hell and direct his footsteps in the path that leads to the kingdom of rest above.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE RECORDER.
The Office of Assessor.

Candidates for the office of Assessor are becoming numerous in the county. A great many have failed to announce themselves in your paper, not yet being satisfied that their footing on the track is worth the expense. But be not alarmed; as the time approaches for the nominating convention, you will find the names pouring in more rapidly upon you. Each of the aspirants will soon learn this important fact: that by announcing himself in the Recorder, his candidacy is at once made known through the entire county, and his friend will thereby have suitable notice, and will be prevented from making prejudicial pledges.

The office of Assessor is of the very highest importance to all the citizens of the county. Its mission is to open a way for the tax gatherer directly into our pocket-books, and the more property one may chance to have, the broader and more sore will be that way. An Assessor, in order that he may fairly assess the property of this county, must necessarily have a pretty fair knowledge of the lands in the different districts. He must be a good judge of land, and readily able and have the pluck to discriminate between adjoining lands when there exists an appreciable difference. He must be able to estimate with judgment the value of the various improvements on lands, buildings, &c., to be met with everywhere in the county. In a word, he must be able and have the grit to fairly judge and value real estate in the various conditions it presents itself in this large and wealthy county. Then again, he must be a good judge of stock, and posted in its value; and so with all taxable property, in the various shapes it may present itself for assessment.

The art of assessing property for taxation and the law defining the duties of the Assessor have, through some kind of legend, been approved by the people, become distinct and antagonistic things. The law says, assess property at its value; the art of assessment says, the law is a fallacy—assess property, as near as possible to suit the owner's convenience, so he will be willing to stand a 30 per cent. valuation. The law commands an assessment of the value of the property. The art enforces a disregard of the law, and substitutes a custom by which property is assessed at various rates, anywhere between 25 and 75 per cent. of its value.

Now, with the law requiring one thing, and the art, with the approval of the people, requiring another very different thing, a pertinent question to our aspirants for the honor is, if elected, will you be guided by the law as written in the statute books, or by the custom, as sanctioned by age and the voice of the multitude? Boone wants justice and equity. She is as ready to pay taxes upon a fair value of her property as any county in the State; but we do not propose to pay upon a full valuation, while other counties pay upon a 30 per cent. valuation, law or no law.

Another question. Will our candidates post themselves, so as to be able to assess Boone at the prevailing standard, of assessment through the State, and thus insure something like equality in tax paying? The more this subject is discussed, the more will its importance to the people develop itself. But this article is too long now.

Rabbit Hask.
The next wedding is set for February 8th. Charlie Aera has moved to Rising Sun, Ind. Jas. W. Scott and Florence Ryle left for Illinois last week.

Born—To J. A. Platt and wife, a boy. Also, to Mrs. H. Aera and wife, a boy.

Died—On Tuesday, January 22d, the infant child of George and Anna Craig. Of such is the kingdom of heaven.

Deaths, Cal and Charlie Riddell and Omar Perkins have gone to keeping batch in the house formerly occupied by Charlie Aera.

Deaths, Omar Kirtley, T. C. Ryle, J. J. Stephens, Bolton Stephens and Z. T. Kelly were elected Directors of the Grange store for the ensuing year.

A literary society has been organized at the Maple Hill school-house, with Z. T. Kelly as President and Charlie Wilson, Secretary. They make the roof of the building quiver with their flights of oratory.

On last Sunday night a week, the smoke-house of Mr. Chas. Hodges burned down, consuming all his meat (pork hogs), two barrels of molasses and all his lard. We bow to hear of this. It will be a hard blow to Mr. H., as he has a large family.

There is, at present, more sickness in the neighborhood than there has been at any one time before for a year. Mrs. Mary Carlton, Mrs. Robert Platt and Miss Katie Platt are all down with the chills. Miss Ella Calvert is quite low with pneumonia. Miss Maggie Matson has been quite sick, but is now convalescent.

Invitations, to secure intelligent and prompt action on their cases, should employ an attorney in daily intercourse with the officers of the Patent Office. We direct attention to Foster's Patent Office, 509 Seventh street, Washington. Mr. Foster has practiced before the Patent Office 19 years. Send to him for pamphlet and references.

The boys? engaged in a regular pitched battle on the streets, last Friday. The snow which had fallen during the previous forty-eight hours furnished the ammunition used. How they did enjoy it? themselves.

A man who was driving a very simple horse. It only required two loads and two handkerchiefs—Exchange.

And it's generally easier to tell the two than the two handkerchiefs.

As a candidate for Constable in the Burlington Precinct at the August election, 1878.

This week, we fling to the breezes the names of four more gentlemen who want to be made servants of the dear people. They are as follows: Cy Riddell, of Constancy, and Volney Dickerson, of Union, each want the Judgeship, while Mike Rouse, of Florence, has his eye on the office of Assessor and Blajah Parker, of Petersburg, wants to sling ink in the County Clerk's office.

ANDERSON, of Louisiana Returning Board fame, has appealed to Judge Joe Bradley, of the Supreme Court of the United States, to interfere and have the proceedings now pending against him in the State Court of Louisiana, transferred to the United States Circuit Court. Judge Bradley has the matter under consideration.

THERE is now pending in the Legislature an act which proposes to exempt from levy and sale under execution, attachment, or fee-bill, personal property not exceeding five hundred dollars in value, owned by persons who are housekeepers. The debtor claiming under the law will have the right to select the property claimed by him, and if he is a laborer, mechanic, or of any trade, profession or calling, and has not personal property to the amount of five hundred dollars in value, his wages and fees due him from others will be exempt to the extent of such deficiency. This law, at a first glance, looks as though it will operate in the interest of the poor man, when really it will, to a great extent, reduce the credit he can now obtain when asked for. There are many men in this State who are day laborers, and men who crop on the shares; and depend on their credit for their provisions at times and this sweeping exemption will curtail their credit till they will be forced to make frequent sacrifices of their already scanty supply of earthly goods.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

January 29, 1878.

SENATE.

Mr. Norman introduced the following resolution, which was adopted.

Resolved, That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky do hereby enact, that the corporations in said Commonwealth to engage in systems of legal gaming, under the style of Public Lotteries; and whereas such lotteries are demoralizing and corrupting in their influence upon society, and should be suppressed; therefore be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky: That a committee be appointed to confer with the Attorney-General of this Commonwealth, with instructions to bring in a bill to abolish all lottery franchises in this State.

An act to constitute the Clerks of the Circuit Courts ex-officio Trustees of the Jury Fund.—A bill to exempt school children from paying tolls on turnpike, plank, and gravel roads. Recommended.—A bill repealing all laws granting lottery privileges to any person or corporation. Passed.

January 30, 1878.
SENATE.

A resolution appointing a committee of five to examine the vouchers upon which the school fund is expended in any or all of the counties, with authority to send for persons or papers to investigate the workings of our school system, and report the amount of school fund collected by the State and paid teachers, was adopted.—An act to amend the revenue laws was ordered printed and referred to the committee on finance.—An act to allow aliens and heirs to take, hold, and convey real and personal property, and allow them same rights, remedies, and exemptions as are granted to citizens of the United States was reported.—An act to declare gold and silver coin legal tender for the payment of all debts, made special order for Thursday.—A resolution in regard to the resumption act was referred.—An act to exempt personal property from sale to a certain amount was referred.—Mr. Norman brought in a bill for the benefit of S. B. Leach, of Boone County.

HOUSE.

Resolution that the House of Representatives adjourn at the time allowed by the constitution was offered and lies over one day.—A bill to amend the law in regard to opening passways through farms to public highways was brought in.—A bill to compel directors of turnpikes, and overseers of county roads to keep burs, thistles and other obnoxious weeds from along road sides was brought in.—Mr. Rouse brought in a bill to amend the charter of Burlington.—Also a bill to incorporate an association for the protection of its members against fire.—Also a bill to better protect the owners of certain ferries in Boone County.—A bill to prevent discrimination in rates for freight by persons and corporations in this Commonwealth.—A bill to require certain duties performed by County Judges, Constables and Justices.—A bill to prevent collecting officers from misappropriating money.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

St. Louis, Mo., February 2, 1878.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

To day is what is termed by our Catholic friends Purification, or Candlemas Day. The festival is called the offering of Jesus in the Temple. It received the first name from the candles which to-day are blessed and carried around in commemoration of Jesus Christ, the true light of the world, who was carried by his virgin mother and Joseph to the Temple, and there was received into the arms of the old righteous Simeon, by whom he was called a light to illuminate the people. The second name was given to it because the Virgin Mary complied voluntarily with the law which God had given concerning the purification of woman after child-birth. It is believed that from the example of the blessed Virgin, the custom dates among Christian mothers of the Catholic Church of carrying their children after birth to the church, offering them to God and receiving the blessing of the priest. In the Catholic Churches on this day the candles are blessed. In some countries the occasion is celebrated by processions in which candles are carried. There is a belief among some that houses in which are candles which have been blessed are protected against lightning, but of the truth of this your correspondent does not altogether make himself fully responsible. Among old hunters in the Northern States and Canada, there is a traditional belief that the bear which have been hibernating during the winter venture out from their dens on the second of February to note the weather; and if they see their shadows, denoting the sun is shining, they crawl back to their dens, as instinct teaches them that the balance of the winter will be cold and severe; but if the day be cloudy, it is a sign of mild weather in which they can procure food, and they then abandon the hibernating process and remain outside of their old quarters. It is from this tradition that many Western people borrow the story of the ground-hog. But it is a well known fact that birds, and many animals besides bears are infallible meteorologists, and predict a coming change of weather by manifestations not to be mistaken by naturalists and observing farmers. So much for the 2d day of February. But before we dismiss this subject, we may as well say that neither the bear nor the ground-hog seen this shadow with us to-day, from the fact we have many ground-hog or bear, and to-day has been cloudy, and this prophet predicts an open winter from now to the close.

Yesterday (Friday) is another traditional day with us, the history of which we suppose your readers are familiar with, and that it is wholly unnecessary for us to occupy your space and time in dilating upon it just now. But as an item of news, probably, to most of your readers we will say, at the hour of 9 o'clock yesterday morning, William Weiners, in the jail yard of our city, expiated the crime of murder of Lawrence, Theatre Comique bartender, which occurred about one year ago. And while we are on this subject, we may say that we see by the papers that Philip Watson, colored, of Covington, on yesterday paid the same penalty for a like offense. Well, this may be all right, but we are curious to know of what sort of material the man is made that is eager to witness such a scene. We see by the papers that about 5,000 persons witnessed the execution at Covington, and there would have been fully double that number that would have been ready to witness the execution of Weiners, had it occurred at day light and they permitted. But please excuse us from such a sight. Yesterday was also an eventful day with our legal fraternity, by Frank J. Bowman, and Jack Mitchell both being found guilty by intelligent juries of their countrymen of unprofessional conduct. The former has the largest practice of any attorney in the city, he stating under oath the other day that he collected for his services the past year one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. The other has by no means a light practice, but it appears from the verdict of the jury that he is guilty of mean practice.

Weather with us for the entire week has been anything but pleasant, both over head and under foot. We had quite a heavy snow Wednesday night, which has been gradually melting away under a drizzling rain, which has made our streets almost impassable.

There is little or no change to note in any of our markets. Business generally dull and business men generally complaining.

HAIR

SIGILIAN

HAIR

RENEWER

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and as satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Every Man a Soldier.

The military system of almost every country in Europe makes every able-bodied man liable to service. In England it is different, but a London journal has a compensation in the fact that during the beginning of the volunteer organization, about seventeen years ago, above 800,000 Englishmen have passed through its ranks or are now numbered in them. It is something to know, remarks our contemporary, that fully 800,000 of the flower of youth and manhood have received a certain amount of military drill and training as well as familiarity with the use of weapons and an acquaintance with military evolutions. No doubt the training must, in a multitude of cases, have been superficial and short-lived, and probably in no case did it reach the mechanical perfection which in Germany, for instance, goes to make up the citizen soldier. More important still, thousands—perhaps the majority—of the 732,911 enumerated as having left the ranks, had the opportunity of receiving their military education or used any endeavor to retain the little they had acquired. On the Continent once a soldier, always a soldier, since the conscript is liable in one capacity or other, even to the verge of old age, and no citizen is allowed to forget that he has learned if periodical musterings can refresh his memory.

Here the youth who ceases to be a volunteer breaks entirely with military education and the military, and may never feel the utility of re-establishing the link. But, making every allowance, the fact that 800,000 men have at one period of their lives acquired the rudiments of discipline, valuable and gratifying. These youths, it must be remembered, were all more or less intelligent and educated, so that a lesson once learned and mastered more thoroughly than the average European conscript absorbs his military education. Nor need we treat as im-material the physical benefit of marching and drill, the enduring gain to the health, spirits and muscle, the appreciation of the qualities of endurance and subordination, and the development of habits of self-reliance which all our volunteers have in a measure acquired.—Philadelphia Herald.

See here, old woman.

"See here, old woman," Henry observed with his eyes intensely fixed on a "Poor Will's Almanac" of 1827.

"Now, what is it?" said Mrs. Archibald, without moving her hands from the pie dough.

"Why, what that great and good man, Benjamin Franklin, who wrote

into this almanac afore you was born, says:

"Never argue at home."

"Of course not. Any fool might know that."

"But it's a good idea of him, notwithstanding."

"No taint, I knowed that much before you or old Ben Franklin was thought of."

"Then why don't you try it on once in a while?"

"Try what on?"

"Not arguing at home."

"Who's arguing, I should like to know?"

"Why, you are."

"I am't."

"You are; you are; ain't; you; ain't;

yar; hain't; yar; ain't; yar; hain't."

"You, Martha, ain't; yar; hain't."

"Where is that piker? What on the face of sirth's the reason every thing in the house is out of the road when they can do the most good?"

Henry made a break for the door,

but she saw the movement, and grabbed up a lump of dough as big as a watermelon and she broke it down on his head and gave it a twist around his neck as though she was putting the finishing touch on an apple dumpling. Henry, blinded by the involuntary mark, fled across the front room, only to fall out at the open window, breaking the eggs he had for breakfast, across the sill, and dropping through the open cellar door into the coal pile, where the old woman held him at bay with a soft pumpkin pie,

while Martha scrubbed the dough out of his ears and the smut off his nose with the stove brush she had been using up stairs.

When Henry got out, he confidentially buttonholed Oxtoby and remarked, with a cautious look over his shoulder.

"I always thought Ben Franklin was a fool, and now I am convinced of it."

FALSE AND TRUE.

Beside the stream a maiden roamed,
And met the knight whose troth she held,
A crimson blush her cheek suffused,
And in her heart sweet fancies swelled.
But he must to the war depart,
And came to bid a long farewell.
What bitter tears she shed that day,
How sad the parting—who can tell?
Oh, fair my love, and sweet my love,
Our future meetings will but prove,
Naught can ever our lives sever,
When our hearts are bright with love!
The war was over, and by the stream
The happy maiden lightly stepped,
To meet her knight, where they last met
And laugh with joy where then she wept.
But by his side another rode,
With love-lights in her soft blue eyes;
And as to her he murmured low,
His old love's best break in deep sighs.
"Oh, fair my love, and sweet my love,
Our future meetings will but prove,
Naught can ever our lives sever,
When our hearts are bright with love."

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

Blaine and Hoar—The Bland Bill—Federal Suffrage—Mrs. Fassett—The New State Department Building and the Old Treasury Building—A Land Contest—Murphy in Washington—Hayward University—A New Reporting Process.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12, 1878.

BLAINE VS. HOAR.

The current of Congressional affairs was slightly disturbed by the little disagreement between Senators Blaine and Hoar. The dispute was ostensibly over the parts played respectively by Maine and Massachusetts in the war of 1812, but the real cause belli was the vote of the Massachusetts delegation in the Cincinnati Convention.

THE BLAND SILVER BILL.

It is generally thought the Bland silver bill will pass the Senate by a two-thirds vote. That the President will veto the bill is feared by his friends, but many say he will sign it, with the understanding that the government shall continue to pay the interest on the public debt in gold.

THE FEMALE SUFFRAGISTS.

Are still besieging Congress. As the women of Massachusetts alone pay taxes on $131,000,000 of property, who can say with justice that they should not have a voice in legislation.

RULOGISTIC.

Among the contributors to art in the Capital, Mrs. Fassett stands in the front rank. She is an American lady who has struggled through thorny and uncertain paths of art until she has touched the topmost point in the golden ladder of fame. Before the fire, this lady and her husband possessed one of the most extensive art studios on the continent in the great, and then wealthy, city of Chicago.

NEW STATE DEPARTMENT BUILDING.

Now that the trees are stripped of leaves, the new State Department building is beginning to show something of its exterior beauty. The work on the building is not progressing in the railroad style of Mallett, but as fast as is consistent with discretion and the amount of the appropriation available for the purpose. The south front is entirely complete, and is imposing in its vast proportions and commanding elevation. When complete, this building will throw the Treasury Building near it entirely in the shade; not by reason of its greater beauty, but from the fact that a portion of the latter is sunk some feet below the grade of the street, and in order to enter the really beautiful northern front, you are obliged to descend an area, after passing through which, mount another flight of steps before reaching the entrance.

ANOTHER LAND SQUABBLE.

Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines visited the General Land Office to consult with Commissioner Williamson in relation to a claim which she presents for upward of 10,000 acres of land granted and confirmed to her father, Daniel Clark, in 1801 and 1804 by the Board of Land Commissioners. The grants are in Missouri, within 73 miles of St. Louis. The tract aggregate about 17,000 acres. Mrs. Gaines wishes to ascertain to whom patents for these lands have been issued.

FRANCIS MURPHY.

The great temperance reformer, opened the campaign at Lincoln Hall on the Sabbath, and three thousand persons filled the street who could not gain admission. The great enthusiasm prevailed. Hon. R. A. Hatcher, member of Congress from Missouri, presided. A choir of 100 singers made the great hall ring with Gospel temperance songs. A great work in the interest of temperance is now sweeping over this city.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY.

Under the new President, W. W. Patton, LL.D., founder of the Chicago Advance, has a hopeful future. Since the panic of 1873, the Trustees have paid off $90,000 of indebtedness, and are now arranging for the payment of the last dollar of obligations resting upon the institution. Its buildings, campus and outside improved property and vacant lands will, with the revival of business, become immensely valuable. It has a large class in both the Theological and Medical Departments. This is one of the few institutions whose doors are open alike to male and female, white and colored.

A NEW PRINTING PROCESS.

Is the latest invention, by which the reporter can take notes in full copy in type at the rate of two hundred words per minute. A person can learn the process in one week so as to transcribe with accuracy and dispatch. A witness can be furnished, in ten minutes after leaving the stand, with a perfect printed copy of his testimony. The process is readily appreciated by Judges, counsel and client.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

At a stated meeting of Burlington Lodge No. 264, F. & A. M. held in their lodge room in Burlington on the 19th day of January, 1878, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That while we deplore the death of our beloved Brother, we bow in meek submission to the mandate of the Almighty Ruler by which he has been called hence, having an abiding confidence in His wisdom and goodness that forbids us to murmur at His decree.

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Jones the Lodge has lost a truly worthy Brother, the church a zealous member, his children a kind and devoted father, and his wife a noble and affectionate husband, who faithfully discharged his duty in all the varied relations of life.

Resolved, That we tender to the widow and family of our deceased Brother our heartfelt condolence in their deep affliction, and point them to Him who never wounds except to heal for that comfort which none but He can give.

Resolved, That the lodge be draped in mourning, and the members wear the usual badge for thirty days.

The young people of North Bend, Clerks and vicinity are enjoying themselves very much attending the mite society, which is held at the members' residences every Friday evening. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Methodist Church.

Mr. Arthur McFee left on the steamer Cons. Miller on the 23d ult. for the lower part of Kentucky and Tennessee.

Mr. G. Riley has been making some improvements. He has completed his commodious barn.

Mr. Pike Harrison has moved from this neighborhood to locate near Ludlow.

W. C. Crouge, agent for L. E. Lovassor & Co., piano dealers, visited our town on Wednesday of last week. The Burlington choir, hearing of his presence, called a special session for his benefit. At the meeting Mr. Crouge took charge of the organ at about 7 o'clock, and proved himself to be an accomplished organist. We left at 11 o'clock. The choir was still at work, Mr. Crouge at the organ, apparently as fresh and anxious as when he took his seat. The members of the choir and spectators were delighted. The last sound we heard that night as we returned to our couch was the notes of the organ, and as we have not visited the church since, the company may not have ceased to sing and play yet; but if this be not positive, inquire of Dr. Jos. Wagstaff, if he has yet left the church, for particulars.

The building of the turnpike from the Petersburg pike to the Lawrenceburg ferry is assuming a promising appearance. The subscription papers are in circulation and an earnest canvass for means being made. This and the Woolper pike will be worth a gold mine to the business men of Lawrenceburg. These roads will make that city the point of trade for the entire northern, and much of the central, portion of Boone County.

THURSDAY last, B. M. Stamfers, of Kenton, and the noted cigar-maker, dropped in upon us. Ben let us know he desired to be a reader of the RECORDER as long as permitted to remain one of the inhabitants of this mundane sphere. He expects to make provision in his will for his legal representatives to follow his commendable example.

INVENTORS, to secure intelligent and prompt action on their cases, should employ an attorney in daily intercourse with the officers of the Patent Office. We direct attention to Foster's Patent Offices, 509 Seventh street, Washington. Mr. Foster has practiced before the Patent Office 19 years. Send to him for pamphlet and references.

It turns out that H. S. Moss, of the firm of Moss & Sample, hardware merchants of Louisville, is a forger, he having forged checks and drafts to the amount of $75,000. When this was first made known in this city, it created a considerable flutter in business circles.

The weather has been so variable during the past month that an item commenting thereon would have been, at any time, in danger of being incorrect before meeting the gaze of the reader.

At Dr. L. C. Cowen's marriage they should have played "Haste to the Wedding," there were so many Hastings to that wedding.

The lawyers are taking proof in numerous cases, and unlimbering their artillery for the approaching term of Circuit Court.

Which is preferable, a deep snow or deep mud? We have had both and you ought to know which is the most "foot-sore."

CISTERN building in such weather as last week is about as uncertain an enterprise as investing in pork.

Tax box hunters were well provided with suitable weather for that sport last week.

Borg schools are now progressing finely.

"Is There a Hell?"

To the Editor of the Recorder.

Such is the caption of an article in the RECORDER of last week. In answer to that important question, I will first say that the old-fashioned hell of the fathers—fire and brimstone—like the dollar of the daddies, has pretty well played out. Since, we witness, man has penetrated to the bowels of the earth in search of the precious truths, entered the ancient domain of Pluto and found the monarch gone, his fires out and no ashes, we have concluded that the old hell was a fable and its chief hell a myth. But now we have a kind of hell they say not made up of fire and brimstone; not so bad a place as the old one and yet not so good a place as heaven; a sort of halfway place; a kind of mixture of gold and silver; a "golden" place, something like the new compromise dollar, part silver and part gold and a little copper—a legal tender for all wickedness. This new hell suits me better than the old one. I would not object so much to hell softened down to the full greenback legal tender standard of the Western Infidelism. A soft hell is the kind I want, if we are to have any.

The greatest trouble I see in the whole thing is that orthodoxy, if not checked, in fifty years

The Russians' success is still unabated, and they now draw their lines close around Constantinople. There have been some moves made to bring about a treaty of peace between the belligerent nations, and the following constitutes the peace basis:

1. The erection of Bulgaria into a principality.
 2. War indemnity or territorial compensation.
 3. Independence of Roumania, Servia and Montenegro, with an increase of territory for each.
 4. Refrains in Bosnia and Herzegovina.
 5. Utter understanding between the Sultan and the Czar regarding the Dardanelles.
 6. The evacuation of the Danube fortresses and Erzerum.
- England has ordered a portion of her fleet to Constantinople. This she claims to be no departure from neutrality, but simply to protect life and property.

The trial of Anderson, in New Orleans, last week, resulted in his conviction, the jury having the matter under consideration but about thirty minutes. The jury recommends Anderson to the mercy of the court, but he will be shown but little mercy by that tribunal. This case is expected to appear in several of the higher courts before a final disposition is made of it.

If parties convicted of carrying concealed deadly weapons were furnished with such jewelry as the ball and chain now being worn by the negro, who, a few days since, was convicted of petit larceny, many who now carry them would leave them at home.

SOME of the Eastern papers call Voorhees a demagogue. Much better it would be for the people of this Government was the United States Senate composed of such demagogues.

The candidates are bearing down upon us.

KENTUCKY, ITS RESOURCES AND PRESENT CONDITION.

The First Annual Report, Prepared by W. J. DAVIS, A. M., Commissioner of the State Bureau of Agriculture, Horticulture and Statistics.

We have had the pleasure of seeing a copy of the above named report. It is published in book form and contains 760 pages of printed matter, and two very neatly executed maps. Owing to the fact that this book has been the subject of some unfavorable criticisms in different quarters, we were anxious to see what it had to say of Boone County.

The author undertakes the job of doing up this good old county in a fundamental way. He tells us of that sagacious Indian hunter, and gives us our boundaries as correctly as if he had been to the manor born. He then passes to the "Geological formation," and lets us know that the "rocks coming to the surface are different varieties of the silicious mudstone averaging about one hundred feet in thickness, with an elevation of two to three hundred feet above the Ohio River." We enter our protest against these "mudstones," and we do so earnestly against their average thickness. True, we have just at this writing mud of sufficient depth to meet the views of the report in thickness, but this is too soft to be called stone. Mudstone, one hundred feet thick. Science may find them on the surface in Boone, but our farmers have not seen one of them. Good line is made of smaller stone, and those along "Gunpowder River" are very fine for that purpose. We have always called them limestone, and so far from a buff color, most of them are rather blue and hard as flint. We presume the mudstones spoken of in the report are not so abundant in our county, and not a one one hundred feet thick. We pass on to "towns." The book gives Burlington, the county seat, credit for having "a good Court-house, several churches, a good summary building and many fine private residences."

We only object to this because it is a little better than we deserve on the Court-house and fine residences. The Court-house is a little behind the times. True the residences are generally good, substantial and old styled, but not fine. But this book says Burlington is located on "Gunpowder river." Probably the fact is that that Burlington does come fully up to the author's fine description; but the oldest inhabitant, or the most intelligent contraband, has yet to find that river, or town. We were raised in Boone County and have never yet been to the county seat described in this book and fear we will never have that pleasure if we attempt to find it on "Gunpowder River." Petersburg and her "excellent residences" speak for themselves and are what they should be. We will say nothing of Florence and her local trade, only we hope the trade will continue and increase, and her excellent citizens prosper. A good description is given of Grant, and then the Commissioner proceeds afterward to class Bellevue among the other "thriving villages." This we object to with all our might. "Grant is a nice village on the Ohio and does an active business." Now, since Grant and Bellevue occupy the same identical spot of "mudstone," the citizens of "nice Grant" object to having their town officially robbed of its loyal name and then cast out as Bellevue. We are easily contented, but we must protest against this thing of changing the names and locations of our towns, and making a river for us without taking a vote on the subject. We regard this as of much importance as a dog law.

"Small industries." This comprehends raising garden stuff, poultry, eggs and such like. Boone has been stimulated to this habit because she is under the wings of Cincinnati, Covington and Newport, so this book intimates. What a shame to class monster Bramahs, Mallard ducks, and goose eggs among the smaller industries. The report says, "There is no part of the county where the whistle of the locomotive or the puff of the steamboat can not be heard every few hours during the day," and we add, when these steamboats find out "Gunpowder River" we will have no rest day or night for the puffing. Puff on, ye floating palaces; puff until we are puffled up to the grand height of Christian County. Under the head of "Characteristics," Mr. Davis says, "No better people can be found." That is true. Our forefathers came from the Old World, lodged a few days in Old Virginia (not Carolina), and then went West to grow up with the country, and found Boone County and her "mudstones" to be the very place of all others to make homes for such of the first families as preferred to stop north of Christian County, hence the great similarity we now see in the people of these widely separated sections. Take the North Carolina streak out of Christian, so she will have nothing but the very purest blood of the first families, and then our people and hers will be a oneness. This book may be a good one, but it needs a little amendment as to Boone County.

We have examined "Hitchcock's New and Complete Analysis of the Holy Bible," and do not hesitate to say that it is far superior to any other work of the kind and with which we are acquainted. In addition to the Analysis, we find a revised addition of the best Concordance ever made; a Pronouncing Dictionary; an Interesting Dictionary of Scripture Proper Names; various Tables of Scripture Weights and Measures; a Dictionary of Religious Denominations; a History of the Bible; a beautiful Family Record, Maps, &c.

It contains, therefore, a complete apparatus for Scripture study. What more could be desired? Every one who has been in a printing office knows the unspeakable advantage, in way of saving time and labor, which results from the due assortment and distribution of the types in the font. What the font is to the compositor, that Dr. Hitchcock's Analysis is to the student of the Scriptures. Whenever he wishes to know what the Bible says on any subject, all he has to do is glance at a certain page, and he can immediately put his finger on all that the Bible, from Genesis to Revelation, says on that subject. No pastor or Sabbath-school teacher, or, in fact, any person who desires a better knowledge of God's Word, should be without it. Mr. James T. Haly, of Middle Tennessee, is now exhibiting the work to the people of Boone County, and will take pleasure in giving all an opportunity to examine it.

ALL the laymen and Justices of the Peace in Union County, are candidates for County Judge. In the same county there are only sixteen candidates for County Clerk. We sympathize with the people of Union.

[Deferred from last week.]
KANSAS LETTER.
CLAY CENTER, January 22, 1878.
To the Editor of the Recorder:

A visit to Burlington by one who has been absent for two years, is calculated to be productive of various feelings and emotions. Wonder at the little change that the lapse of two years has wrought in the appearance of the little village; pleasure at meeting so many kind and well-known faces of those who were friends in yesterdays of "Auld Lang Syne;" sadness at missing the friendly greetings of the many who have moved away to the land of the Hereafter. One (we mean ourselves) can but have a feeling of coming home, when he walks along those old familiar streets, sees the houses all the same as ever; the very flag-stones in the pavements seeming, by their hearty responsive ring to his steps, and by their well-remembered forms of irregularity, to bid him welcome. How strange it seems, though, to meet friends whom it seems you saw but yesterday, and have them gaze at you with uncomprehending eyes for a while, and then to see the brightening face and feel the tightening grasp of the hand, as slowly the light of recognition comes into their eyes.

Our visit to Burlington was a continuous succession of pleasant memories and meetings; and will ever form one of the bright spots to which memory will refer in counting up the joys of the past. And let us here return our sincere thanks to our friends in Burlington, for the invariable kindness and friendship with which we were treated; and we are sure that they will appreciate it when we say that one of our greatest causes of satisfaction with our visit is the fact that we know that we have more friends in Burlington, and truer friends, than we thought we had. Alas! how blessings brighten as they take their flight.

We also made a flying run through Fayette County, while in "Old Ky." It was our first sight of the famous upper counties, or "Blue grass country," and we were prepared to say, with vision of Kansas prairies in our minds. Central Kentucky is the grandest country our eyes have beheld. We mean not grand for magnificent or picturesque scenery, but for beauty of landscape, treescape, and other utilitarian escapes, and for evidences of prosperity and solid comfort. Certainly Fayette County, Ky., takes the lead.

We bought one bushel of Ky. blue grass seed in Lexington. Paid sixty cents for it and had it shipped to Kansas. When put down at our door a few days ago it was worth to us, in cash expended, just three dollars and forty-nine cents. Has fabula docet.

Something New to Persons Wanting Anything in the Way of Stoves, Grates and Mantels, Tinware, &c.
I have in store (at Wells' old stand) a Full and Complete Stock of Stoves, or anything usually kept in a Store Store. People heretofore have been Grumbling at High Prices of Stoves in Rising Sun. All I have to say is, give me a call and see for yourselves.

I Think I Can Make it an Advantage to Anyone Wanting Anything in My Line.
I HAVE IN STORE A COMPLETE STOCK OF
Hardware, Iron and Steel, Guns and Ammunition, Locks, &c.
I keep on hand a Full Stock of AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY. Also, agent for
THE BUCKEYE MOWER AND REAPER, CHILLED PLOW, &c.
I can sell you goods as Cheap as anyone else. Per. That is, I am, and Hoping for a Continuance of the Same, Respectfully Yours
GEO. B. CIBSON, RISING SUN, IND.
DON'T FORGET THE PLACE: Wells' Old Stand, corner Main and Market streets, Sign of the Circular Saw.

While in Burlington, (on the last evening of our stay there) we with some friends paid a visit to the studio of Prof. Robert Fricke, and listened to some of the grandest music that ever greeted our untaught and unsophisticated ears (we speak for ourselves alone in the last above written words). The Prof. is a young German artist whose conversation is enhanced in its original attractiveness by his strongly marked German accent, and idiom, and whose music is magnificent beyond the reach of the humble descriptive powers of (at least one of) his enthusiastic listeners. Burlington should be proud of him and should retain him as long as it loves music.

You will hear from us again before next summer.
KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.
February 1, 1878.

THE grass in the Court-house yard has a spring-like appearance. There has not been sufficient cold weather to take the color out of it.

WE have heard of men who had snakes in their boots, but we know of a young man who expelled a live mouse from his boot, the other day.

BE cautious how you explore envelopes to-day. You might unexpectedly come upon some hideous monster, the sight of which will get up a spasm.

LAST summer, in this section the fruit crop was a failure, and we have many reasons for believing the ice crop will come up under the same dead this winter.

TWO sermons were preached in Bellevue last Sunday morning. Was the like ever known there before? A Baptist and a Christian minister each officiated, one in the Church and one in the Grange Hall.

IN Harrison County, the County Judge and Justices were indicted, at the last term of the Circuit Court, for not providing the county with a secure jail. The whole party was required to give bail in the sum of $50 each.

THE sale of the personal property of Peter T. Cropper is advertised in this issue. Refer to it and see when it will be, and how much and what he has to sell. Notice also that of Wm. Adams, Curator of the estate of Sam'l Weidon, deceased.

SOME of the members of the General Assembly are making stupendous efforts to reduce the salaries of certain officers. Attack your own salaries, gentlemen, might be whispered in their ears. Remember, charity should commence at home.

THE nervous portion of humanity was considerably frightened, last Saturday about 6 o'clock, when this portion of creation was suddenly clothed in darkness by the heavy clouds. Some expected to see the town blown into fragments in a few short moments.

WE learn that a publishing house in Cincinnati now has in press a piece of music composed by Miss Lou M. Winston, of this place. The piece is entitled "Fare Thee Well," and is highly complimented by several fine musicians to whom it has been shown.

IN Carrollton, last week, a 6,000 pound boiler got on the rampage, collapsed, got out of its bed and pranced around the town, tearing to pieces two or three dwellings, a stable and a tree. Fortunately the only life taken was that of a horse in the ill fated stable.

IF you are afflicted with the old-fashioned shyness, you may as well make your will; because this, together with the shaking the candidates will give you, will shake the daylight all out of you. Quinine won't have any effect on the shake an officer gives you.

WE noticed two young gentlemen, one a mule and headed toward Galt's Gap, last Monday. They were a boy and a girl, who were interpreted as meaning the fulfillment of a "Bardine" that keeps on and on about the forefathers gap. They want to harpoon him.

TWO more candidates this week, signify their intentions of making their claims for office in this county. First we have a candidate for a good office.

Mr. Snyder, for Sheriff.

There is a jolly good fellow and will make a strong race.

THE building of the public square has been, the last, completed under surprising circumstances. The workmen had got down but a few feet when the walls commenced falling in, and in three or four days the workmen could throw the dirt out. The walls continued to cave till Monday by which time the cavern presented a fearful ragged appearance. The walls had commenced, but the excavating is not done.

THIS is the kind of town Shelbyville (Ky.), is, according to the Sentinel:

Our town undoubtedly has more pretty women unmarried; more lawyers and doctors with free-lance practices; more whiskey drinkers who are on the city; more merchants who do not advertise; more peace and chaos without owners, more gentlemen of leisure with passably good clothes; and on Saturdays more candidates within bar corporate limits than any town of equal size in the Mississippi Valley.

THEY met near the Court-house door and commenced shaking hands and laughing. Each was glad to meet the other. Each asked the other about every member of his family. The negro cook even was inquired about. The hand-shaking continued till they had crossed the street to the postoffice, and probably would have continued longer, but they met a third party and both made for him. These two hand-shakers were candidates, of course, but neither knew the other.

ON the 20th ult., Elijah Parish (colored), who had been in jail here for some time charged with stealing four or five bushels of wheat from a Mr. Roberts near Walton, was tried and found guilty of petty larceny, and his punishment fixed at thirty days' labor. The jailor accordingly provided himself with a 64-pound ball and chain and anchored Elijah in the public chains now being built; where he has been tossing idly. This is the first time the chain and ball were ever worn in this town.

THE Breakfast Table is one of the very best humorous papers published in this country, and strongly merits the phenomenal success it has received. Aside from the quaint and original humorous department it is a first-class family newspaper in every respect. Pure in tone and healthful in influence. It is widely quoted, and the person who has not had a hearty laugh over its witty sketches is behind the times. The paper may be obtained through any newsdealer, and we presume the publishers, R. P. Brown & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, will cheerfully send specimens copies to all applicants enclosing stamp for return postage.

Thos. Whitaker released from paying tax on one dog.

Jan. L. Henderson released from paying tax on one dog.

In the case of Wm. Roberts' heirs vs. Wm. Roberts' widow, the petition was dismissed.

Wm. Adams was appointed Curator of the estate of Samuel Weidon, deceased.

February 9th—T. W. Finch allowed $18.44, account against Four House.

Personal Mention.

ROBERT FAIRCK, the music teacher, has moved to Florence.

MR. G. W. HUGHES, of Edgar County, Illinois, paid our town a flying visit last week.

MR. B. F. LOVE and wife of Shelbyville, Indiana, were in our midst last Sunday on a visit to E. E. Hughes and family.

LAST Saturday, Prof. Orlando Snyder called upon us. From the Professor's robust appearance, we judge pedagoguing is an agreeable business for him.

A Card.

Having sold my drug-store to Dr. Riffe, of Covington, I desire to thank my customers for their patronage in the past and request those indebted to me on account to come forward and settle the same as I shall leave the town in a few weeks. I will take this means of recommending Dr. Hugh Riffe as a splendid druggist and a perfect gentleman.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Petersburg.

We have another battle to report, occurred last week between two of our oldest and heretofore most peaceful citizens, rocks and red hair being prominent as aggravating ingredients to the commencement of hostilities.

In fact, red hair is causing a prominent figure in our lights hereabouts. Well, there is plenty of it to spare, and it is just as convenient to pull at in a row as hair of any other color.

Our fellow citizen, Geo. B. Loder, is keeping house in bachelor style on Tanner street.

His heart is full of sadness at his lot and affectionate regard for all the single marriageable ladies of his acquaintance. This is a golden opportunity, and the lady who loses this due may never look upon the like again.

Our juvenile friend Gordon takes upon himself the item of this column last week relating to one W. R. Jordan, a "musical" who once infested this land, to the annoyance of the ladies—another instance of the voluntary confession produced by a consciousness of guilt.

We might say the same thing upon moralizing upon a misconstruction of our meaning in regard to that $3.75 last week.

It was simply our intention to be polite, not personal, and say William, instead of Bill. However, as the editor got the money, we find our consolation in that fact.

Three of our boys, not justly appreciating the value of new hats, took to the streets last night to show their contempt for the same.

Point Pleasant Grange Hall last Friday night to another dance. Bishop Schramm, Bro. J. E. Porter and Bro. Smith, whose dog got butted out into the next world a few weeks since, composed the Petersburg delegation.

It had been raining two or three days before they started, and has continued to either ruin or ruin ever since.

Every little company at the hall; but there was one young lady present who attracted the attention of Bro. Porter enough to make him walk off the dance, and the locality of the point of a pile of wool coat.

That was the trip, and the boys, strange to say, have not said a great deal about that.

Capt. Bradley has exchanged the Water Witch for a new one, and the trip from here to the same style as the W. W. The trip from here to Lawrenceburg or Aurora can be made now while the illustrious Capt. is lighting his cigar.

The name of the new boat is the Wave, and the Water Witch is to be tied down.

That being "Bardine," who winds such a blue flow in his bugle on the high plains of the handle of the Gimlet, need not try any such tricks to tempt us from the serenity of our happiness. We are powerful fond of sundries usually, but this particular one has too much talk or broad-bricks, or not brains enough to suit our epicurean palate.

Summit Level.

As it is customary, Mr. Editor, to give a description of the locality of the points from which your correspondents blow their basses, we will come to the point at once.

Summit Level is a point on the new pike about 4 miles west of the Recorder city and 3 miles from that backwoods village we read of in one of your correspondents' letters. To be more minute, it is near 1 mile east of Skunk Run and half a mile east of Fishhook Bend.

The summit has no very great outlook, but is noted more for the joy and gladness it gives upon their arrival at that point to tentmakers and the traveling public that they are up the long slope of near one mile of 3 1/2, where they have overcome the longest and hardest pull on the whole route of the new pike.

But, Mr. Editor, we have a description of the locality of the points from which your correspondents blow their basses, we will come to the point at once.

and counties; and perhaps Woolper Creek was the many miles of the beautiful Ohio brought to view while his imagination was wrought up to such a pinnacle. But, why descend further now? We will not impudently for any information of the locality of the city your correspondent wrote of; and, for that, as we remarked at the outset, that we might as well go on and make his case his predecessor of old, should take his case to the plow and mark the outline of the prospective city. A word to the wise. Now, "Bardine," do not make the mistake of an old and rusted smoothbore for that is an old adage that a gun is dangerous without an adage; and, above all, do not venture too near a dead rock; for if you only be simulating death while floating on the placid pool of the brooklet; for ducks are proverbially fond of little fishes, and should you go to the bottom, the many inquiries will live and die in ignorance of the information sought for.

The general complaint in our village is rain, rain and mud. Business pertaining to farming is at a standstill in consequence of the weather. The weather clear up and the mud settle, the farmers will have to rise with the lack and dispatch business with a rush to make up for lost time.

We have lengthened our communication more than we expected, and, it compatible, Mr. Editor, more anon. FISH-HOOK.

It has, to us, always been strange that the town of Burlington should be so prostrated as regards business. The town is located in the very center of a prosperous agricultural district, where every variety of produce is raised and put upon a market found abroad. The farmers of the surrounding country are industrious and intelligent men, who would be glad to encourage anyone setting up a legitimate business in their midst. They find a heavy expense attached to the shipping of their produce to points beyond the county, and at a distance greater than a day's travel with a team. In many instances the great distance to market is a serious obstacle in the way of the farmer going to market, who, therefore, often makes a sacrifice in selling his produce. Among the numerous articles produced in this immediate vicinity, and which, by all means, should find a market here at home, are wheat, rye, oats, corn, potatoes, wool and tobacco. All these articles could be profitably handled at this point by some energetic man. To do this it would not be necessary that the proprietor be worth a mint, but simply command a reasonable capital and an irreproachable character. Another advantage with which this place is now blessed is the number of good roads centering here, making the town accessible at all seasons of the year to the heavily laden teams of the farmers. Taking into consideration all the advantages, it is our honest conviction that Burlington is far the best place in the county for any live business man, who attends to business first, last and all the time, to locate and open up a traffic in merchandise and produce, and we believe it would prove lucrative when properly conducted, and a new business is open up for the new distressingly transitory town.

ANDERSON penitentiary two years.

Our readers will remember that, two weeks since, we informed them that Pope Pio Nono (or Pius Ninth) was dead. His death, having been expected for years, did not create as much interest in this country as did the speculation concerning who would be his successor. Possessing the power that he does, and that power being of an executive character over all persons connected with the Church of Rome, he is in what country, and under what form of civil government, the election of a Pope is naturally an event which attracts the attention of the entire civilized world. As a consequence, the eyes of a majority of the nations of the earth have been bent upon Rome inquiring until the 20th inst., when the news was flashed over the wires that Cardinal Giacomini, an Italian, had been elected to the Papal Chair, and that he had assumed the name of Pope Leo XII. This news was well greeted, from the fact that accompanying the news was the statement that Peci belonged to the class of Cardinals known as the Moderates, a party which, without formally renouncing the right of the Holy See, acknowledges the wisdom of submitting to the decrees of Providence, accepting what seems to be irrevocably accomplished facts. Peci is a tall man, with a high forehead narrowing at the temples, a long face and straight features, and is sixty-eight years of age. He was a warm personal friend of the deceased Pope, and in character is described as a man of great piety and a blameless life. He was elected on the third ballot. The Cincinnati Enquirer gives the following biographical sketch of him:

Cardinal Peci was born in Carpinetum, in the Diocese of Anagnin, Italy, on the 2nd of March 1810, and is therefore almost sixty-eight years of age. He took holy orders at an early age, and was appointed to the Archdiocese of Perugia, in the Papal States, in 1846, by Gregory XVI. He was created Cardinal by Pius IX., on the 10th of December, 1855, with title of Chrysolinus. After his advancement to the Cardinalate, he was called upon to preside over the Congregation of Bishops and Regulars, and was also attached to the Congregations of Sacred Rites and Regular Discipline. He acted as procurator of the Third Order of St. Francis in Assisi, and was one of the leading Cardinals of the Vatican Council, having, in conjunction with Cardinal Billot, prepared the matter for the Council. He was a great favorite with the late Pontiff, who appointed him Coadjutor of the Vatican Palace. As Camerlengo he is custodian of the Fishermen's ring after the death of the Pope, and presents it to his successor. In the will he has been known to present it to himself as choice of the Conclave.

In view of the misunderstanding which had existed between the dead Pope and Germany, considerable interest has been manifested concerning what course the new Pope will pursue with regard to that country. It is reasonable to suppose, however, that all differences will be healed, as Bismarck, Germany's Prime Minister, is reported as having said that he "considers Cardinal Peci's election to the Papacy the most suitable one at the present time."

Taking the expression of high dignitaries of the Catholic Church at all the important points as a guide, we can only say that the election of Cardinal Giacomini Peci to the Papal Chair appears to have given universal satisfaction, as the entire Church seems to unite in saying, "Long live Pope Leo XIII."

SOME time since Hon. E. W. Turner, Speaker of the House of Representatives, presented to that body a bill to the more effectually prevent the carrying of concealed deadly weapons. This bill does not increase the fine imposed under the present law, but increases the length of the term of imprisonment. Instead of going to jail for from ten to twenty days, the party, if found guilty, will be imprisoned from twenty to ninety days. Under this bill not even an officer of the law can carry a pistol. It is necessary that some severe penalty should be enforced against persons convicted of the possession of carrying pistols and other deadly weapons. Scarcely a day passes that the pistol or knife do not add to the already long list of crimes in our State. If law can prevent crime and protect the citizens, it is time it was coming to the rescue of the morals of this Commonwealth.

ONE night last week, a band of murderers visited the house of a negro man in Shelby County, and after taking what valuables they could find, marched one of the inmates some distance from the house and riddled his back with buckshot and pistol balls, then left the murdered man to be found by his friends next morning. If the number of gallow scenes were increased several fold in this State, the daily flow of human gore would be greatly reduced; and until this mode of punishment is enforced, human life will be slightly regarded by the midnight murderer.

IN Scotland County, Missouri, the County Judges have been served with seven alternate writs of mandamus, commanding them to appear before the United States Court in St. Louis on the third Monday in March, and show cause why they should not be commanded to levy a tax to pay judgments against the county on its railroad bonds. The judgments in these seven cases amount to thirty thousand dollars. Similar proceedings are pending against other counties which have defaulted in the interest on their railroad bonds, and the course which the Court will pursue on the refusal of the Judges to make the levy is awaited with great interest.

THAT notorious Illinois desperado, Frank Rande, who was on trial at Galesburg, Illinois, last week, escaped the gallows. The jury in the case found him guilty of murder in the first degree and fixed his punishment at confinement in the Penitentiary for life. The verdict of the jury was not at all satisfactory to the public, and had not the prisoner been started to the Penitentiary in a few moments after conviction, Judge Lynch would have held a special term of his court and have given the hangman that which properly belonged to him.

THE investigation of the treatment of the prisoners in the Trenton, New Jersey, State Prison, has caused much censure to be laid at the door of the keepers. It has been discovered that a convict, whom the public was induced to believe committed suicide, was actually brought to his death by severe punishment administered at the command of the keepers. The severity of the treatment of prisoners in the Ohio Penitentiary is equally as unmerciful and inhuman.

CONGRESS, thinking there will be another Presidential election in the future, has moved toward making arrangements for the counting of the electoral vote.

It is said there is no clause in the silver bill which will compel Secretary Sherman to circulate the silver money.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

St. Louis, Mo., February 22, 1878.

To the Editor of the Recorder:
As an item of news, we may mention a double tragedy which occurred at the Liddell Hotel in this city, last Tuesday. To be as brief as possible, we will simply say, on that day John Gamberling blew out the brains of Maggie Leider by shooting her through the right temple, and he then placed the pistol to his own head and ended life's wave in the same manner. The question may be asked and answered by the simple word sin. They were lovers, loved well but loved badly.

The great feature of attraction with us this week is the Bench or Dog Show at the Skating Rink, which wound up this evening. Over 600 dogs, of different breeds, from all parts of the United States and Europe have been on exhibition, and some of them, whether in fee simple or in imagination, are said to be very valuable. There was one dog in the lot valued at $50,000, and your correspondent had something of a notion of buying this dog, but when he examined his pocket book found he lacked just $64,999 95. So sorry a dog could he buy out of the entire lot. We don't believe it a good day for dogs anyway.

Our Catholic friends throughout the city seem perfectly delighted with their new Pope, and your correspondent is really glad the honor was not conferred upon him.

Before we close, let us remind you and your readers, that our Standard and fifty-six years ago this day, in an humble cottage, in Westmoreland County, Virginia, was born one of the few men whose lives have changed the face and fate of the world. We may, of a truth, say that upon the slender thread of this infant being's life notably hung the destinies of the Anglo-Americans, but the political future of liberty loving people throughout every clime and nation. He was great in battle, but still greater in peace. He was a patriot without an ax to grind, and one who loved his country for his country's good.

We read in a Christian paper, last evening, and of course it must be so, that in the Senate of the United States the other day, when the silver bill was called up for final action, there were six of the would-be law makers too drunk to vote. In thinking over that matter to-day, the thought occurs to us, if the good old Washington should be permitted to come from the abodes of the best back to earth and visit the city of his own name, and for a few moments view the actions, at certain times, he would, notwithstanding, we have, in art, science and commerce, outgrown his most ardent and sanguine expectations, he would most surely hang his head in shame, and weep for our folly. We are, however, thankful that our heavenly Father gave us a Washington, and in honor of said name our Chamber of Commerce is closed, and we are having a general holiday.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

For Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Eruptions, Bores, or St. Anthony's Fire, Eruptions and Eruptive diseases of the skin, Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Pustules, Boils, Blisters, Trench, Tetters, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers, Sore, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhoea, arising from internal ulceration, and Uterine disease, Syphilis and Mercurial disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, General Debility, and for Purifying the Blood.

This Sarsaparilla is a combination of vegetable alteratives—Stillinger, Mandrake, Yellow Dock—with the iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most efficacious medicine yet known for the diseases it is intended to cure.

Its ingredients are so skillfully combined, that the full alternative effect of each is secured, and while it is so mild as to be harmless even to children, it is still so effectual as to purge out from the system those impurities and corruptions which develop into loathsome diseases.

The reputation it enjoys is derived from its cures, and the confidence which prominent physicians all over the country repose in it, prove their experience of its usefulness.

Certificates attesting its virtues have accumulated, and as many of these cases are publicly known, they furnish convincing evidence of the superiority of this Sarsaparilla over every other alterative medicine. So generally is its superiority to any other medicine known, that we need do no more than to assure the public that the best qualities it has ever possessed are strictly maintained.

Last week, Mr. and Mrs. Kite, of Bellevue, lost their little girl, aged about two years.

THERE has been no excitement about the town for many months; not even a dog tin-panned.

The travel over the Bellevue pike last Sunday was immense, but it was all dead-head travel.

The matter of reorganizing the Sabbath school was taken up last Sunday, and, after some consideration, was postponed indefinitely.

The drug store of H. R. Biffe at this place now presents quite a business-like appearance, he having put in a stock of fresh drugs and medicines.

It seems that General Grant has passed out of the world. No such fuss being made in the Old World over him as there was several months since.

If a voter can drive into Florence and get out of his buggy without first shaking hands with five or six candidates, he will have to drive in at a late hour at night.

ONE of the candidates for Assessor has turned his attention to electioneering with his opponents, being satisfied if they will unite on him, his election is certain.

We have on file for our next issue a portion of our St. Louis letter, bearing on that much agitated subject, "Is There a Hell?" It will be found on our first page next week.

We hear of a young man who, since the assassination of John Goodridge, is very careful to drop his window blinds at dark. A good idea this; it keeps the light all in the room.

The Baptist meeting made quite a draw on Burlington last Sunday. There were scarcely enough able-bodied persons left in town to give it the appearance of a populated place.

The Deputy Sheriff, E. E. Foster, desires us to announce that he will be in Petersburg on the 6th of March, in Bellevue on the 7th, and in Carlton on the 8th, to collect taxes, and desires all persons not having settled to meet him and pay up.

The engineer, Mr. Thos. Kennedy, who last week engineered the route for the Wool-pen turnpike, informs us that he never saw more interest than is manifested by those engaged in and living along the route. He thinks the road will undoubtedly be built.

"Miss FORTUNE" attended the Burlington delegation to Bellevue last Sunday. She took passage with Dr. J. F. Smith and daughter, and on their return wrecked their buggy. The Doctor put his daughter in another buggy, laid his buggy out on the roadside, mounted a horse and came in on time.

That this is a progressive age was again demonstrated last Sunday morning by the appearance, about 11 o'clock, of a newsboy laden with the Cincinnati morning daily papers for sale. The agent found ready sale for his papers, and promised to be on hand at an earlier hour next Sunday.

We have two subscribers who we term as true friends to the Recorder, viz.: Mr. Cave Clure and Mr. H. P. Orsler. These have patronized the paper to the extent of three copies each ever since a few numbers after its publication was commenced. We would not object to many more following their commendable example.

The first fly of the season made his debut in our sanctum at a late hour the other night, humming his favorite ballad. His fly-bp seemed in fine health, and but little concerned about the reinvigoration of silver, the foreign troubles, the prosecution of the Louisiana Returning Board, the fresh occupant of the Papal Chair, or the heated discussion of the hell question by the big and little theologians.

Our new druggist attended the meeting at Bellevue last Sunday, and, never having attended meeting in the country (Bellevue men excuse the expression), was considerably astonished at the equanimity displayed by many of the ladies who attended on horseback. The breakneck speed at which these fair ones dashed through the mud and over hollows kept him frightened for fear of some serious results from their careless and daring riding.

That public opinion about which we have heretofore written is now a public fixture. It is fixed in a hole in the ground near the Court-house, and is of such immense dimensions as to contain water enough for all the Murphys who will visit the town in the next score of years. The present indications are, there will be no difficulty in obtaining the material with which to stock this public institution, which has been needed from the time since which the mind of man runneth not to the contrary.

A Campaign Incident.

The latest out in the way of a campaign joke is told on two candidates who were riding and campaigning together last week. To avoid confusion, we will call one of them Jones and the other Johnson, though of course these are not their real names. Now, both these gentlemen are candidates for the same office, and are real clever and sociable fellows. As all candidates are, Jones is a great fellow to make himself popular with the females, and especially those honored with the title of waterfemales. This peculiar trait in Jones' character has proven quite beneficial to him and annoying to his good-natured opponent, Johnson.

Well, the other day these two candidates rode up to a farm house late in the afternoon—milk time—and Johnson dismounted and hastened to the house, where he found an old-fashioned crier sitting in the middle of the room, but no person could be seen about the house. He resolved to investigate the contents of the cradle, and in a few seconds had exhumed a juicy-moist, dirty-faced little urethra about five months old. This he lifted from the cradle and commenced trotting it on his knee, then tossing it about to see it smile, and finally put it through the kissing part of the cradle, while the white-creeping one eye on the door to see his opponent enter the room and find him in possession of mamma's darling.

Jones did not appear, and Johnson finally quietly replaced the infant, putting its feet on the pillow and its head at the foot of the cradle, kissed it again and went in search of Johnson. Imagine his astonishment when he discovered him in the barn lot, in mud up to his knees, astride a calf, which he was holding by the ear with one hand while he held the large milk bucket in the other, talking to the lady of the house with all his might.

Johnson, seeing he was again better, mounted his horse and left Jones in the barnyard calling to him to wait a minute for him. Johnson did not wait.

The Florence Concerts.

The concerts given in the Odd-Fellows' Hall in Florence, last week, for the benefit of the Methodist Church, was not largely attended, the receipts for the three nights amounting to but about $75. The programme Saturday evening was very entertaining, consisting of instrumental and vocal music, tableaux and recitations. All engaged acquitted themselves with great credit, and especially did three or four of the little boys and girls. Among the latter was Besie Crigler, a little Miss not more than three or four years old, who displayed a most remarkable memory in singing a piece composed of forty verses, in which she made not a blunder. Master John Ashbrook is also entitled to a word of praise for the splendid manner in which he sang "Johnny Smoker."

Other little folks are equally entitled to mention, but we failed to learn their names and can not call to mind the pieces they rendered. "Who's Dat Knockin' on de Outside Gate," by Messrs. Jos. Wagstaff and Sam'l Comer, was splendid, and well received by the audience. Mr. Comer, during the evening, appeared in several different characters, in which he was immense, and never failed in bringing down the house. The beauty in the performance is, he discards Sam Comer entirely, and becomes so completely absorbed in the character that his old acquaintances fail to recognize him. The tableaux, under the management of the master hand of Mr. H. A. Caulter, were grand in every instance, while the ladies who had charge of the piano on the stage, and the members of the Florence Glee Club, showed careful cultivation in the rendition of their various parts. The only minor fault can be complained of was the limited attendance during the concerts. Saturday evening the Hebron Brass Band volunteered their services, and between scenes regaled the audience with music.

During a portion of this month, Rev. A. M. Vardiman (Baptist) has been engaged in holding a very interesting meeting at Bellevue. During the meeting the excitement ran high, and some twenty persons were received into the church by experience, and one or two reinstated. Last Sunday was the time appointed for observing the ordinance of baptism. In the forenoon the pastor, Mr. Vardiman, preached a very interesting sermon to a house crowded to its utmost capacity, while the streets of the town were thronged by those who were unable to obtain a position in the church building. Large crowds were there from Rising Sun, Petersburg and Burlington, which, added to the immense attendance from the surrounding country, ran the number well up in the hundreds. After the services at the church, the procession began its march to a suitable place for baptizing in Middle Creek, something over a mile distant from the church. The following persons were immersed, but our reporter failed to obtain the given names of several of them: Two Misses Arnold, Miss Orie Rice, Miss Ida Rice, Misses Ryle, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Brashier, Miss Matilda Rogers, 2 Misses Marshall, Miss Houston, Mrs. Ella Cooper, 2 Messrs. Cook, Wm. Dewey, John Ryle, James Green and Mr. Grant. The crowd in Bellevue, Sunday, is reported as the largest ever known to have visited the town on any occasion.

County Court.

February 20.—James Rogers appointed to administer upon the personalty of E. T. Green, the widow having waived her right to that duty. Richard Bots, M. B. Green and Michael Clure were appointed to appraise the estate. The Sheriff was ordered to pay to John A. Kendall, Clerk-Commissioner, $40 out of the Court-house fund for 1877.

H. J. Foster, School Commissioner, has received his February draft, and the teachers of the following districts are entitled to pay: 3, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 16, 17, 18, 20, 22, 23, 25, 26, 30, 40, and 42. Teachers must apply in person.

Married.

RICE—CRIGLER.—On the evening of the 20th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. J. Rice and Miss Fannie A. Crigler. Attendants—Charles Belsley and Miss Ida Clure, Wm. T. Riddell and Miss Lucy Rice.

After the ceremony and the usual congratulations, the crowd of guests, which was composed nearly entirely of the bride's associates and near relatives, was invited to the dining-room, where was found in waiting a splendid supper, composed of the numerous delicacies provided for such occasions. After supper, and about the time the parlor was a scene of mirth and enjoyment, the Hebron Brass Band arrived and added another pleasant feature, in the way of a serenade, to the enjoyment of the evening. The band discoursed several pieces of music, when a messenger was dispatched to invite them to partake of the supper which in the meantime had been arranged for them. One person was sufficient to capture the whole force of musicians, who came in and disposed of supper No. 2. It was near midnight when several of the guests took their leave, and the pleasures of the evening concluded.

Thursday, a procession composed of seven or eight couples in buggies, was seen bounding through the unfathomable mud on the East Bond road, on its way to Mr. Bond Rice's, father of the groom. Here, too, willing hands had spared no labor in preparing a splendid dinner, and one which was highly appreciated by the small party of guests present. In conclusion, we extend to the newly married couple our best wishes, and hope the path they traverse may be strewn with flowers of happiness, and success and contentment be their lot.

Probably a few of the first days of March will be fine weather, and probably they won't.

Probably the month of March will be an improvement on the past 28 days in the way of weather, and probably it won't.

Probably the roads will get better, and probably they will get worse. Probably no one knows, Professor Ties and the goosebumps not excepted.

Probably there will be considerable oats sown this month, and probably not as many as last year.

Probably you had better attend to sowing your tobacco seed immediately, or probably your neighbor will miss his plants this season.

Probably the last day of March will be as quiet as a lamb, and probably it will be raging like a lion.

Since the Grangers embarked in the merchandising business at Burlington, it is said a new interest has been awakened in the Order in that section. Members who, for some time, have been very indifferent in regard to the meetings now attend regularly and have become deeply concerned.

This has been one of the most poverty-stricken winters known. It was too poor to make either ice or sugar weather.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Summit Level.

SUMMIT LEVEL, Feb. 23.—We unlike some of our competitors, can not boast of the accumulation of news items from our burg and vicinity; but we trust our communication will not be too insipid to the many readers of the Recorder.

On yesterday there was the greatest concourse of people congregated at the Baptist Church at Bellevue that was ever known to assemble at any one time in that village. A very interesting sermon was delivered by the pastor to only a portion of those who assembled, not more than half of the congregation being able to gain admittance to the church; the seats, aisles and even the pulpits being closely packed. After the close of the services, the congregation repaired to Middle Creek to witness the immersion of the twenty converts who had, during the past two weeks, united with the church.

Last Sunday we noticed a young man passing through our city whose countenance denoted sadness. When asked why, he replied that he had offered to trade his horse for a cushion, but it was no go. Start from headquarters with the reins in your own hands, next Sunday, Eddy.

It seems that our section of country is blessed or cursed with scribbles, and we will leave all minor matters to that ancillary author, "Eskosicks," to chronicle.

What has become of the founder of Gimlet Gap? Mr. Editor, do you not know? We fear we are doomed to disappointment. We had hoped our seasonal armor, preparatory to seeing the dizzy heights of the Gimlet, when, for let these many days, no news or dispatch has arrived at our city, or any information pertaining to the locality of Gimlet Gap. [Don't know where he is, but expect he might be caught by a band of hidden in one of the chimneys on those craggy plains.—Ex.]

As the fishes are like "Sardines" news items, accumulating in the literary brooks, we will attach a line to our hook.

HOOK AND LINE.

Plattsburg.

PLATTSBURG, Feb. 23.—Messrs. Kennedy and Burk put in an appearance last Monday, in the forenoon, and began work immediately on the proposed new pike from Walton's to Burlington. The work progressed rapidly the first and second days, but on the third day it was evident that the fun was of another kind. The first bone of contention was at Plattsburg, at the first crossing of Woolper. The first survey out the little farm of James Tolin in two unequal parts. The second contention is between Mr. Edw. Clark and John Smith, Smith's route being the shortest. The committee men resolved into a body similar to the Electoral Commission, three against two. Each and every fellow was in high spirits until they reached his land. Vocal music was furnished occasionally by Messrs. E. Gaines, J. Lillard and J. Bots. Such old familiar tunes as "Out of the Wilderness," and "Marching to Old Virginia" were chanted with a melody that could hardly be expected from untrained voices and on such an occasion.

The time for a change of base among those who shift their worldly effects every year has now arrived. If you should happen to be so unfortunate as to own an old chancy, and these fellows could find you, they would call about once every hour. A gentleman who owns real estate in this burg has had so many calls of late, he has taken the pains to enumerate them, commencing on Monday morning. First, "Is the Mr. A. 't' would like to rent that house over there for a short time?" Answer—"Not for rent." Second, "Answer—"Mr. A. come to see if you would rent me that house; heard it was for rent." Answer—"Never sold anybody's house was to rent." Third, "Answer—"Mr. A. thought I'd call and see if I could rent your house for a month or two; would like to move right away; haven't a chicken, pigs, dogs, or anything that will disturb anyone." Mr. A.—"How much family have you?" Third, "Answer—"Only eleven in family." Mr. A. (furious)—"Those is fit for nothing. Going to rent it down to-morrow." This is only the first day's proceedings. On each succeeding day of the week the calls increased, until twenty-seven applications had been answered.

Quite a gay party assembled at Mr. J. W. Vossell's a few evenings since. Several gay boys from away off about the Recorder city were on hand, and by the bonor light of the moon and the cool stirring music of Moers, Hensley and Fowler, tripped the nimble toe until near midnight.

Public transportation from this burg to our city since Christmas has been in rather a precarious condition, and a fellow didn't know whether he was safe or not in making the attempt to get to the postoffice to send a letter, particularly if he had a dose or more candidates who would hold him spell bound till he would sink deep into the mire clay.

What has become of "Sardine" is a question asked by all who read the Recorder. Various conjectures are afloat concerning his whereabouts. Some think he was struck by lightning during the late storm; others think that he was drowned out, as he is a slackwater animal, and could not stand so much fresh water. We think he still lives, but would inform him that in going to the Recorder city he must pass along the Line, and that he might come in contact with one of those big crabs in the neighborhood of Wm. Walton's, right in that near pass called Gimlet Gap, and in their struggle get caught on that Fish Hook just on top of Summit Level. We are a patriotic friend of little "Sardine," and knowing several of your correspondents would like to chew the little fellow up to pieces, even to his tiny little bones, we give him as friendly aid and caution him to keep his dry skin, and work up the sand, occasionally coming to the surface to blow his mud, like the old whales when they are approached.

Mr. Galtshoff-Beecher has just disposed of the largest bulk of tobacco that was ever sold in this part of the country. The weight of the crop was something over 13,000 pounds, and realized him $35.20 per cwt. for leaf and $2.50 for trash.

Professor O. Gaydas closed his school last Thursday. The principal part of the evening was devoted to the rendition of speeches, dialogues and vocal music. The little fellows were all prepared, and recited their pieces pleasantly, notwithstanding quite an audience was present.

LOOKING TO GOD.

BY JULIA M. CLECK.

Looking up through the mists and darkness, To yon realms of glory and light, Where God's hallowed presence forever Dispel the gloom of night.

Praying the fervent to guide my frail bark, As it swiftly glides down the tide, And when life's fiercest tempest assails me, My defenseless mind to hide.

Though my feet oft grow weak and weary, As through earth's dreary desert I stray, My petition goes up to the Father I may never fall out by the way.

Thou' the world may condemn and upbraid me, And unkindness cause many a smart, Their false judgments never can move me, For God knows what is in my heart.

Though of all life's joy and gladness, My soul should be bereft, I know that for me there is refuge In the Rock of Ages' cleft.

For my trust is in God, not humanity, In the narrow path I'm striving to walk, But, as hundreds that have gone on before me, Making many a grievous balk.

And when the last scene shall be over, And my form shall rest 'neath the sod, Will some friend inscribe on my tombstone, She died looking to God.

Rabbit Hash.

REMARK: Hash, Feb. 22.—The bottom of the rabbit are sinking again, since the last rain, which makes business slow. The ferry company say there is less business doing than they ever recollect of before.

There is talk of a new store at this place, but I have failed to learn the name of the party. They say probably the stock will be on hand in the course of three weeks. A couple of Covington men are talking of opening a new store in Rising Sun.

The Murphy fever made its appearance in East Bend last Tuesday night, and thirty-eight were suddenly attacked and now wear a little knot of blue to keep off the effect of the interesting drink. We are in hopes none of their members will carry cures in their pockets to keep the smell of whisky off their breath. There is nearly a hundred in membership in Rising Sun, and the Indians are becoming interested in the temperance cause of Boone.

Ben McIlhon had to kill his dog the other day, as he showed mistakable symptoms of hydrophobia. It has been near five weeks since he was bitten by a dog that was thought by some to be mad. He is the fifth one that has gone mad or had the distemper, as some call it; but Ben says his was mad. It is not very strange that some will insist on keeping their dogs to see what is the matter with them, even after they begin to howl fits, and then let them get loose and run off as the life of some man or woman, or that of stock, is nothing, compared to that of a dear dog.

Black Jim Stephens shipped 21 head of hogs from here to the city Sunday night. Sam Smith shipped 3 hds. tobacco Tuesday night, which sold at $24.4.

Our City Directory is composed of William Steel, the foundryman of this place, Robert Platt, the Captain of the Rising Sun, and Rabbit Hash packet, Stephen M. Ke, a retired pilot off of the same line who aspired to something higher and went to driving a dray, and Dad Yonell, who is so familiar with everybody that he black and white call him Dad. They meet at the Grange store at 6 a. m. and remain in session till 6 p. m. to consider the welfare of the city. We will just suggest one resolution for their consideration: Be it Resolved, That any boy or short that refuses to assist its mates to root up the streets and sidewalks, and to move each and every fence stake within the limits city at least three times a day, shall be confined in the stry pen on half rations until his appetite will make him more diligent in his work after the precious words that their owners are so afraid their own hogs will fail to get.

Mr. Editor, couldn't you come down some in your rates of announcement of candidates? We all want to serve the dear people of Boone. So, if you will tumble to a nickel apiece, and do a wholesale business (which, maybe you are doing now), we will all be candidates. Now, mind, we are not pleading poverty, so Bellevue, Petersburg and Burlington need not boast of their wealth; but the wind work for a pike to Bellevue and to Burlington has been going on, and we are saving our nickels for that; still, by joint action, we might raise a $5 Wm.

St. Louis, Mo., February 22, 1878.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

We stated in our last that the all-absorbing topic with us at this time, both as regards by mind, and shallow minds, is a subject embodied in one small word, "Hell."

It is a little word, but the more we look at it, the more stupendous and awful it appears. Having no regular preacher at our church last Sunday, and not wishing to be bored by a blower and striker, we thought we would stay at home and study this question; or, if you please, find out what other writers have to say on this subject, as we suppose it concerns us, as well as other great minds of the land.

But as we proceed, we wish to mention right here one curious feature about the discussion of this subject at this particular time, and it is this: Every, or almost every, divine throughout the length and breadth of this land abuses Beecher; but the very moment the last named individual speaks on any subject, the whole theological world is up in arms. This appears to be rather odd of place to us. Beecher is nothing but a man, and has the right to speak as a man, and what he has to say as a man is entitled to only the respect and consideration that is commonly due to man's wisdom, and nothing more.

But to our deliberations on this important question, aided, as a matter of course, by what we learn from others, man of himself knows nothing but what he learns from others. We find, upon close examination, the word "hell," as applied in the New Testament, occurs nine times as a translation of gehenna, once as a translation of tartarus, and all the other times as a translation of hades. The learned world agrees that hades simply meant unseen; tartarus meant, among the ancients, that part of hades, or the unseen, where the damned, or condemned, were confined; and gehenna meant Jerusalem, the Valley of Hinnom, south of Jerusalem, once celebrated for the horrid worship of Moloch, and afterward polluted with every species of filth, as well as the carcasses of animals and dead bodies of malefactors, to consume which, in order to avert the pestilence which such a mass of corruption would occasion, constant fires were kept burning; hence hell—the fires of hades, the place of punishment in hades. It meant "torment," it meant everlasting fire. So, identify Thomas Sheldon Green, Donnegan, Liddell and Scott; and we may say such is the testimony of scholars of the present day.

We read of hell in the New Testament in the following passages, and in each instance the word is a translation of gehenna:

1st. Whosoever shall say to his brother, thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. Matt. v. 22.

2d. It is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell. Matt. v. 29, 30.

3d. Every man who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell. Matt. x. 28.

4th. It is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than, having two eyes, to be cast into hell fire. Matt. xviii, 9.

5th. Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte; and when he is made ye make him two-fold more the child of hell than yourselves. Matt. xxiii, 15

VETO NO GO.

STILL they come is the cry.

ENGLAND is a very undecided nation.

VETOS are not worth much these days.

The turnpike fever and politics make a lively mixture.

Who says he knows the times will now be better? Echo says who?

The machine for making the silver is to be put in operation without delay.

This week we announce R. C. Green as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney.

On last Saturday, Hon. B. F. Wade, of Ohio, died. Wade was one of the daddies of the original Republican party.

It can not be said of the remonetization of silver that it was done so quietly that the country knew nothing of the move.

The Murphy movement has given East Bend a broadside. Quite a number have taken the pledge during the past fortnight, and a vast amount of good is expected to be accomplished in that section.

Up to March 31, four thousand seven hundred bills were presented to the House and Senate in Congress, and one thousand five hundred resolutions. This is enough to keep Congress busy during the next decade.

Young man, be careful how you make promises you don't expect to fill. A Buckeye chap failed to comply with his promises, and on last Saturday a jury of his country said he should pay $5,000 for his breach of promise.

Altaquen the silver bill, when first passed by both houses of Congress, was carried by more than a two-thirds majority there was some apprehension that should the President veto it, an attempt to pass it over the veto would fail. That the President would not give it his signature was conclusive, and on last Thursday he returned the bill accompanied by his objections. The House, so soon as the message and the vetoed bill were presented, laid aside all other business for the consideration of the bill and message. The issue between the President and the law makers was met squarely in the face, and in two hours and one-half the President's objections were extinguished by a vote of 196 to 78. The bill and the action of the lower House were immediately reported to the Senate, where its consideration was given preference, and the veto kicked out by a vote of 46 to 19, and the bill was declared a law. The President's veto notwithstanding. This speedy action in overriding the Chief Magistrate's veto does not often occur in this Government. It seems that the objections to the bill, as urged by Mr. Hayes, were of such a character as to make friends for the measure instead of reducing its friends. In the House of Representatives the veto message was allowed read once, but a second reading was denied the document, as was also its being printed. The veto message is generally regarded as a very weak state paper, and is not at all satisfactory to the opponents of the bill. They would much rather the President had withheld his message and allowed the bill to become a law than made such weak objections to it. Among the reasons given by Mr. Hayes for his disapproval of the measure is that neither the people of the United States nor the Government will be promoted by dispensing silver as one of the precious metals which furnish the coinage of the world. He claims that the law impairs pre-existing contracts, and the new dollar provided for is worth only ninety-two cents, and is a legal tender for all debts contracted when the law did not recognize such coin as lawful money. But these, with the other objections of the President, effected nothing. Of the seventy-three votes cast against the passage of the bill over the veto, sixty-four came from the Eastern States, one from South Carolina, one from Louisiana, one from Florida, one from Texas, one from Ohio, two from Michigan, one from Missouri, one from California. It is to be hoped that this law will settle the business troubles and renovate generally the distressed condition of the land.

When the bill establishing the office of court reporter, and to which we have heretofore referred, was passed in the House of Representatives, our Representative, Mr. Rouse, had Boone excepted from the provisions of the bill. Mr. Rouse did the correct thing, and in our opinion the law will be a legal nuisance.

The whippit g-post bill was defeated in the Senate on the 28th ult. The vote on the bill was 17 for to 17 against it, and this threw the deciding vote into the hands of Lieutenant Governor Underwood who remarked that he was more in the interest of humanity than of economy, and voted against the law.

The annual lumber product of the country is placed at 10,000,000,000 feet, a considerable portion of which is intended to replace timber cut only a few years since, which has decayed. It is said that the renewal of telegraph poles alone requires 43,620,000 feet, a quantity nearly equal to the product of Maine.

The stock law has been amended, and the amendments will be submitted to a vote of the people at the August election. We have no information as to what the amendments are, but suppose they are those proposed by Mr. Rouse when making the canvass.

Some of the Florida negroes have lately been kidnapped, taken to Cuba and sold into slavery. The President has been informed of this proceeding and is arranging to have the matter investigated.

The Secretary of the Treasury has given orders to the bosses of the mints to grease up their machines and be ready to set about the manufacture of the silver dollar.

Corn planting is under way in the State of Texas.

Now for the Resurrection Act's slaughter.

This reading of Elder Keene's letter gives one an appetite for spring dishes.

Don't get excited over the silver question. You will be able to carry all you get.

The Medical College at Louisville turned out seventy-one young doctors last week.

Last Monday, President Hayes completed the first year of his career as President of the United States.

A bill appropriating $5,000 to provide for the erection of a monument over the grave of Zachary Taylor was passed the lower House of the General Assembly.

The investigation of the treatment of the prisoners in the Ohio State Prison still progresses, and the State's disgrace held up to the glaring light of the civilized world.

We are indebted to Mr. D. Riggs, of Petersburg, for the following extracts from a letter written to him by Elder W. S. Keene, who now resides in Florida.

 The climate is all that could be desired, at least, thus far, and I believe that summer in Florida, in any difference, more desirable than winter. The thermometer is now, 12 in, 74° in the shade, and I am writing on the porch in my shirt sleeves.

My health is fine. The ladies have flowers in bloom, and there are plenty of flowers in the woods. I have caught some fish, killed some game and done some preaching.

My garden looks fine. Peas, beans, radishes, lettuce, corn, cucumbers and tomato plants set out, all looking well for a plentiful supply of garden sass.

 I have 60 orange trees growing, but some of them are not looking well on account of not receiving the proper attention from the former owner of the farm, but I'll try and bring them out. I wish to set out enough to make 150 or 200 on this place. I want this year to get in land enough to make 15 acres on this home place, for next year I have to grub, ditch and fence, as well as break. 'Tis slow work but will keep striking.

And now how do I like Florida? Fully as well or better than I expected. The climate is glorious; the land can be made to produce almost anything. Of this I'm fully satisfied. Living is as cheap as in Kentucky. Orange culture a success: also lemons, figs, peaches, plums, bananas, grapes, mulberries, strawberries, &c. Vegetables of all kinds do well; other things of course I have not tested as yet.

I am satisfied that a man coming here to take the country as he finds it and be contented, can make a good living and in a few years become independent.

I firmly believe, also, that real estate will be very greatly enhanced in value in the next few years.

Schools are being planted all over the country, but I would not advise a man to come here unless he has some capital, say $1,000 or $1,500, and one who intends to work himself. Such a one can make a success here. There are a good many places for sale at reasonable rates and already improved. Remember me to all my old friends and brethren. — W. S. KEENE.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2, 1878.

The silver bill in Congress has passed, and, but for the successful scenes in the Senate during the night session, the whole matter would soon be forgotten. An effort is made to withhold from the public the names of Senators who took part in the bacchanalian revel but it will not avail. The people have a right to know who they are, and their names should go down to everlasting infamy. The value of the brandy snashes, whisky toddies, crackers and cheese that were used during that important session would be a fruitful field for investigation by over-zealous Congressmen, who in view the Cupid's rescound with speeches in favor of retrenchment and reform. The silver bill will become a law in spite of all the sinister motions that have antagonized the measure. Orders have been issued to the superintendents of all the mints to put them in readiness at once to commence coining under the provisions of the law. Senator Laurier feels keenly the rebuke and censure of the Legislature of Mississippi for his vote in favor of Wall Street rather than the people of his own State. Senator Bruce, his associate, though of a darker skin, is indignant by the same body for his vote in favor of restoring silver to its original standing when the national debt was made payable in coin. Never mind, Lamar, live and learn.

Louisiana affairs have been the occasion for eloquent speeches, and Democrats and Republicans have crossed their rhetorical swords, and the smoke of the conflict has not yet lifted.

The Patent Office, with its unsightly walls, and temporary roof, still stands a disgrace to the nation, waiting the tardy action of Congress in making an appropriation to rebuild and refit it for use. Thousands of needy poor could have work and bread, but Congressmen care but little for the people, and Washington is a pleasant place to spend a winter, and dog-

I'LL LOVE NO ONE BUT THEE.

When far away from home and friends,
And all that's dear to me,
There's one that's ever in my mind,
And that, dear one, is thee.
And if we should meet again,
Upon life's stormy sea,
I'll say to you those words are true,
I'll love no one but thee.

'Tis said that absence conquers love,
But ah! that can not be.
For while the years pass slowly by,
My heart still clings to thee;
Yes, clings to thee with love as strong
As ever was and can be.

'Tis said that absence conquers love,
But ah! that can not be.
For while the years pass slowly by,
My heart still clings to thee;
Yes, clings to thee with love as strong
As ever was and can be.

'Tis said that absence conquers love,
But ah! that can not be.
For while the years pass slowly by,

Grains of Gold.

False delicacy is affectation, not politeness.

Man doubles his evils by brooding upon them.

There are few voices in the world, but many echoes.

We must tell some men a great deal to teach them a little.

A man's trials can not be innumerable if he lives to talk about them.

Sincerity is the soul of virtue. When she flies away the whole body decays.

As liberality makes friends of enemies, so pride makes enemies of friends.

It is more wise to prevent a quarrel beforehand than to revenge it afterward.

There are few things more productive of evil in domestic life than a bad temper.

The happiest man is the benevolent one, for he owns stock in the happiness of all mankind.

Of all earthly music, that which reaches the farthest into heaven is the beating of a loving heart.

Of all ignorance, that which is silent is the least productive, for prayers may suggest an idea, if they can not start one.

Among men of the world, company only signifies a great consideration for themselves, and a perfect indifference about others.

One hour lost in the morning will put back the business of the day; an hour gained by rising early will make one month in the year.

A celebrated philosopher used to say, "The favors of fortune are like steep rocks; only eagles and creeping things mount to the summit."

The demon of dullness which is allowed to dwell at home has more to do with driving young men into vicious company than the attractions of vice itself.

It is not the grandeur or diminutiveness of the objects, but the greatness or littleness of the views entertained of them, which affect and form the character.

"Not Even Married."

The other evening a sprightly little girl about seven years old entered a store on Woodward avenue, and after considerable hesitation she whisperingly inquired of a clerk:

"Do you keep nursing bottles here?"

"We do," he answered, and exhibiting two or three different styles he asked which she preferred. As she was looking them over he remarked:

"It's for your little brother, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir, it is," she stiffly replied.

"You didn't think it was for my son, did you?"

Her indignant look haunts him still.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, Josh Billings was an auctioneer in Plainfield.

The Boston Globe says there is no such word as "can't." Certainly not. It's "can't."

Some of the Western theaters don't burn much gas now, the houses are so light without it.

THAT which we call life is a journey to death, and that which we call death is a passport to life.

Ain't it a little singular that a woman's voice always has a wry tone when it drops from the telephone.

A WISCONSIN girl has refused an offer of marriage on the ground that her father was not able to support any larger family.

A MONROE (Iowa) Justice of the Peace has ruled that a father has no right to occupy the parlor while the daughter and her beaux have possession.

"What's the different?" asked the teacher in a school, "between one yard and two yards?" "A fence," said Tommy. Then Tommy sat on the ruler fourteen times.

A BASHFUL young man applied to his village paper on the important subject, "How to win a woman's love."

The reply was, "Kiss the babies, caress the tomato, and pay strict attention to the old lady."

It is supposed that by 1880 there will be in the United States about two millions and a half of old maids, as the last census gives 1,836,288 single women who are supposed to be looking for impossible husbands.

AN old lady, sleeping during divine service in a church in Liverpool, let fall her Bible with claps to it, and the noise partly awakening her, exclaimed aloud: "What! you've broke another jug, you lot, have you?"

DOCTOR—"I am pleased to say, Mrs. Fitzbrown, that I shall be able to vaccinate your baby from a healthy child of your neighbors Mrs. Jones." Mrs. Fitzbrown—"Oh, dear, doctor, I could not permit that! We do not care to be mixed up with the Joneses in any way."

If you dream of a Patagonian with the chills and fever paying assiduous court to a rheumatic lion with a pink poisonous draped gracefully over a point-aiguille tunic, cut bias in a dark night, it is a sign that you'd better wake up, for you are dreaming like a three-legged jack.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,
For all the purposes of a Family Physic, and for curing Constipation, Jaundice, Indigestion, Foul Stomach, Breath, Headache, Irritability, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Dropsy, Tumors, Women's Diseases, as a Dinner Pill, For Purifying the Blood.

Are the most effective and congenial purgative ever discovered. They are mild, but effectual in their operation, moving the bowels surely and without pain. Although gentle in their operation, they are still the most thorough and searching cathartic medicine that can be employed, cleansing the stomach and bowels, and even the blood. In small doses of one pill a day, they stimulate the digestive organs and promote vigorous health.

Ayer's Pills have been known for more than a quarter of a century, and have obtained a world-wide reputation for their virtues. They correct disordered action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so composed that obstructions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they gripe much less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not inflamed. They reach the vital fontains of the blood, and strengthen the system by freeing it from the elements of weakness.

Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, these Pills may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take; while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

I concluded to let you know, and, if you wish to inform your patrons, through the medium of your paper, of my whereabouts and a little of what I know and see—not that I know so much more than others. Everyone here knows a great deal, and they take a particular pleasure in informing every other person who will not turn a deaf ear. The majority of spirits that meet here are congenial and social. They give you a very fine opportunity of knowing what others are doing, and of telling others what you are doing here.

Everyone comes here for some purpose, and you would reasonably suppose that purpose was to get cured of some disease that was considered incurable at home, or at least that they had derived very little benefit from the home treatment. That is generally true, yet a great number come through curiosity, and in a very short time they are taking medicine, speaking of what their physician says, and are willing to part with it without considering particularly whether it will be of any benefit to them. Another class are the ones who

The Secretary of the Treasury has asked Congress for an appropriation of seventy-five thousand dollars to be used in building vaults for the keeping of silver. It is said the committee will grant the request, that silver may be kept in the vaults of the silver.

A speech to the Cincinnati Enquirer, from Washington says, Senator Beck made an able speech on the financial condition of the country, Saturday. His text was his resolution to stop payment to the Sinking Fund, but his earnest covered pretty much the whole range of finances. He denounced, especially, the policy which has been pursued in relation to the payment of the national debt, and laid a large share of the responsibility for the present distressed condition of the country to the ruinous policy of financing the payment of the national debt in a single generation. He advocated legislation which should begeth that burden to posterity, and showed how the passage of his resolution would afford immediate relief. Then he branched off on the tariff, and devoted the major portion of his speech to that. He berated the Morrill tariff as the worst ever devised, and gave Morrill and Dawes the credit of being the fathers of it. He came out radically for free ships and the lowest kind of revenue tariff, which he believed should be levied mainly on articles not produced in this country, including tea and coffee. He also advocated an income tax, which, with the tax on tea and coffee, would, he believed, produce very nearly a sufficient amount of revenue. One of the first passages in the speech was his review of the decline of American commerce. An American citizen, he said, could buy anything under the sun except obscene literature and ships. He thought that partnership ought to be dissolved, and he produced a startling array of figures showing the amount of money paid annually to foreign countries for carrying our commerce. The speech was listened to attentively, but was delivered without any attempt at spread-eagle oratory. It was one of the few speeches that will live in manuscript.

The mode of electing the President is now receiving some attention in Congress. One of the members on the Sub-Committee, and to whom was referred all measures looking to the amendment of the Constitution of the United States in that particular, has, in the past few days, submitted a report in opposition to that made by the Sub-Committee. He reviews the history of the provisions of the Constitution relating to the question, and claims that in the convention which framed the Constitution, a proposition to elect the President and Vice-President by a vote of the people was voted down by a large majority, because it was believed that such an election was tending to consolidate, and, therefore, the present plan of electing by States was adopted. It is claimed by the Executive by the direct vote of the people that it would, to a great extent, eliminate the States as political entities and factors in our system, and tend to nationalize the Government.

Last Tuesday a week, a fire broke out in Hot Springs, Arkansas. The flames spread rapidly, and soon got beyond the control of the only fire engine there, clearing the valley of every vestige of a building for the distance of a half mile, including nearly all the business part of the city. Near one hundred and fifty buildings were reduced to ashes and about one thousand people rendered homeless. Owing to the narrowness of the valley but little was saved. The loss is estimated at three hundred thousand dollars and upon which there was twenty-five thousand dollars insurance. No lives were lost or personal injuries sustained. There were but few hotels or boarding-houses in the district burnt over, and ample hotel accommodations still remain. There is now great distress among the unfortunate inhabitants.

Last Saturday morning, Jerry Tullis, a miserly millionaire, died in Cincinnati, from the effects of self deprivation that he might amass riches. Tullis was, by those who were not acquainted with his circumstances, considered a worthless, poverty stricken individual, when in fact his wealth was well along in the millions. He lived only for the wealth of this temporal sphere, and his happiness consisted in hoarding up treasures here. His fortune is estimated at three million dollars which will likely be given his only relatives, two widowed sisters, a nephew and a cousin. The old man, just before his death said he hoped his fortune would go to some one who would enjoy spending it as much as he, making it. If that was the old man's will it would be no trouble to find heirs.

No new candidates to introduce to the dear people this week.

There will be no more fighting between Russia and Turkey. England does not want to indulge in war, as she plainly shows by the way she bristles up and then backs down.

The Treasury of the State of Virginia is exhausted, and the State's machinery is about to stop running on that account. The Legislature of the State is now endeavoring to furnish a manner of relief.

The New York Sun gives an account of a most wonderful instrument known as the automatic telegraph, invented by Professor Thomas A. Edison. This instrument excels the telephone in many respects.

Florida is infested by parties who are traveling through the State, pretending they want to purchase land, but really their object is to pass counterfeit money. The bogus money they deal in is twenty dollar bills.

The public indebtedness of South Carolina has been the subject under discussion in the Legislature of that State for some time. It is now proposed to levy a tax sufficient to meet the interest of the entire debt, and to constitute a court to pass upon the bonds presented for payment.

The people of the State should mark all those "bumcombe" legislators now in the General Assembly, and see that their seats are, at the next session, occupied by men who have the interest of the Commonwealth at heart, and not the desire of personal popularity achieved by legislative humbuggery.

The Germans in Cincinnati held a mass meeting, Saturday night, and adopted resolutions remonstrating against the city giving another dollar toward the completion of the Southern Railway. They consider Cincinnati has done her share, and that the Trustees should complete the work as they agreed to do when the city responded to the call for six million dollars. The meeting was very earnest in its demands.

The Spring Term of Criminal Court is near at hand with its grand jury and other equipages for investigating the state of morals in Boone. There is one offense that the grand jury can not be too diligent in investigating. That is the habit the young man of the day has of making a walking arsenal of himself. Seldom a disturbance occurs in which one or more pistols are not drawn and flourished about as if defying both law and officers. If those who are so fond of carrying pistols were treated to a merited number of indictments, at each term of the court, pistols would be less indemand.

Last week, Mr. Hamilton, of Kenton, introduced and had passed in the lower house of the Legislature, a bill reducing the pay of the Assessors from fifteen to twelve cents per list taken. If this bill lives to become a law, it will greatly reduce the value of the office. If the labor of all the smaller officials has decreased in value, surely the services of the more pretentious officer are of less value, and should be lowered in order to prevent the destruction of the equality of pay among the officers of the land. We have been listening patiently to hear of Mr. H.'s introducing a bill to curtail the per diem of the members of the General Assembly, but, thus far, we have listened in vain. Probably the extension of session of the Legislature was for allowing Mr. Hamilton more time on the construction of this measure. There is no doubt but it will be done. $5 per day is "war prices," Mr. H.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

March 5, 1878.
Mr. Norman asked leave to withdraw from the House a resolution in regard to printing the report of the Insurance Bureau. The request was granted, the resolution withdrawn and the following adopted as a substitute: "That the Commissioner of Insurance be, and he is hereby directed to let out to the lowest and best bidder, and in one contract, upon the execution by the successful bidder a good and sufficient bond to execute said work, the printing of the report of Insurance for 1877, together with such other printing as may be necessary for the Department, and the said Commissioner is herein directed to receive from the fees and allowances received by him under the law creating the Bureau a sufficient sum to pay for said printing." A bill to repeal all laws granting lottery privileges to persons or corporations was passed.

Insurance Bureau to the lowest and best bidder was adopted.

SENATE.

March 6, 1878.
The following were among the bills given leave to be brought—A bill to pass a law restraining the collection of debts by judicial process for the period of two years.—A bill to amend the local option law.—A bill to prevent and punish fraud as to the making of cheese and butter.

HOUSE.

The only business of general importance done in the House was the passage of a bill regulating the rates of discount charged by banks and other corporations. This bill provides that in the discount of any evidence of debt, corporations authorized to loan money may take the discount in advance at the rate of one dollar in the hundred, for every sixty days, and at that rate for a longer or shorter period including the three days of grace. If any greater discount is taken, the excess taken for interest or discount may be recovered by the party paying the same, or any creditor of such person may recover the same by bill in equity, provided the party aggrieved shall bring suit to recover the usury or discount within twelve months from the time his right of action accrues. Any corporation so discounting such evidence of debt, charge or receive any exchange upon any bill of exchange, either inland or foreign, drawn in order to enable the person entitled thereto to realize the funds upon such discounted evidence of debt, the excess for interest or discount, and also the exchange, shall be void, and the excess recoverable as above stated.

SENATE.

March 7, 1878.
A resolution recommending the purchasing of H. L. Todd's residence for the Governor's mansion was adopted. A bill imposing a tax and prescribing the same, on the privilege of selling wine, ardent spirits, or malt liquor within this Commonwealth, for the purpose of raising a revenue for the improvement of the rivers in this State was referred to a special committee.—A bill to repeal the office of Governor's Private Secretary was brought in.

SENATE.

March 8, 1878.
Several amendments to the Moffitt liquor law were offered, and the bill and amendments recommitted.—A bill for the erection of a monument at the grave of Zachary Taylor was passed.—Leave was given to bring in a bill to establish an infirmary asylum in this State.

HOUSE.

Mr. Hamilton's bill regarding the payment of Assessors was amended as follows and passed: "Amount allowed Assessors shall not exceed fifteen cents on the first three thousand, ten cents on the next three thousand, and six cents on each of the last lots on the residue."

On the ninth there was no business of interest to the readers of this column transacted.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
SEALED PROPOSALS
Will be received by the President and Directors of the Woolpert Turnpike Road Company for the construction of a turnpike road on so much of the route as lies between Wm. Walton's, on the Burlington and Bellevue pike, and John W. Berkshire's, on the Burlington and Petersburg pike. It will be let in sections or as an entirety. Contractors may file their bids, therefore, for the construction of a portion or all of said road. The survey of Thos. Kennedy, Engineer, is on file with Dudley House, in Burlington, and may be seen by persons desiring to file bids. The road is to be constructed according to that survey. The bids must be for macadamizing, bridging, building culverts, and must be for the entirety of work, or made separately; the work to be completed as required by the survey and report of said Engineer. Bidders should state in their bids the longest time required for the completion of the portion embraced by their bids. Monthly estimates will be made as the work progresses, and 20 per cent thereof will be retained to secure the performance of contracts. A sufficiency of material will be donated along the route for the construction of the road, including bridges. All bids must be filed by 10 a. m. March 22, 1878. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

The Only Southern Republic- an Paper of National Rep- utation and Influence.

LOUISVILLE COMMERCIAL.

Squarely and honestly independent, bright, newsy, able. Stands for honest money, and in the main for the doings and utterances of Hayes' Administration, so far as developed, with faith in him for the future; but not afraid to say for him or anyone else if they deserve it.

A really good paper, valuable to thinking men of both parties, and indispensable to Southern Republicans.

Its market and financial reports are carefully collected every day, and are of the most value to all business men and farmers who have dealings with Louisville.

Notice the high price, but it is a price and try the Daily Edition for 3 months at only $2 25, or one month for only 80 cents.

Daily, only 80 cents per copy; 82 25 for three months; $3 per year. Send 80 cents and we'll give you one.

Weekly, Best Family Newspaper in the South, only $1 25 per year. Great inducements to Clubs. Agents wanted everywhere.

LOUISVILLE has a negro to hang on the tenth of May.

The Southern mail claims were defeated in Congress.

THE big, white silver dollars have entered upon their mission.

ARE our law makers at Frankfort waiting for their constituents to instruct them to adjourn?

THE people of Fayette County have resolved that the whipping-post should be re-established.

THE number of general acts passed by the Legislature this winter, can be counted on your fingers.

It is said Conkling is preparing to come to this State, when he intends administering to President Hayes.

A Miss Indianapolis wants a mine located there. About all she will get is one with a july following.

THIS week we announce Geo. W. Shott as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff of Boone County.

ON the first page, this week, will be found a copy of the new interest law that goes into effect on the first day of next month.

LAST week Hon. G. V. Rouse introduced a bill in the lower House of the General Assembly to create an additional voting place in the Taylorsport Magisterial District.

THIS race for county officers is, in our opinion, about made up, and the returns can commence constructing their tickets. There is quite a quantity of good material from which to make selections.

On the 17th, about four hundred Cubans met in New York, and manifested a considerable desire for a renewal of the Cuban War.

SEVERAL of the States over which is hanging a heavy debt, contemplating facilitating the bell punch as a means of raising their revenue to pay the debt.

There was not a large number of candidates in town Monday. For County Judge there were three aspirants, three for Assessor, two for Jailor, two for clerk and one for Sheriff.

SAYS THE Chicago Inter-Ocean: "The Kentucky Legislature has voted hard all winter discussing the American flag and the whipping-post. It voted against raising the flag, and lost the whipping-post by one vote."

JURORS should know no man only as represented to them by the evidence in the case when tried. The testimony produces his moral photo which they should fit in the frame prepared by the law.

THE Leechmere National Bank, in East Cambridge, Michigan, was robbed of forty thousand dollars, in the daylight, on the sixteenth. The thieves, a man and a woman, made good their escape.

—This grand jury of the present term of court is composed of some of the very best material the county affords, and while trifling matters and malicious attempts to indict will be ignored, such offenses as deserve attention will be thoroughly investigated.

GENERAL CASSIUS M. CLAY was granted a divorce from his wife, at the late term of the Fayette Circuit Court. The application was based on a separation of five years, which by the statute is made a legal ground for divorce, and the decree, of course, was granted.

The Confederate monument at Lynchburg, Va., was struck by lightning on Thursday last. The marble eagle surmounting the monument was shivered into pieces too small to be counted, and the entire monument, from top to bottom, was badly damaged.

The committee appointed by the Democratic caucus, and to whom was referred the bill introduced by Banning for the reduction of the army, is disinclined to recommend the bill as a party measure because, Texas and California Democrats positively decline to support it.

THE Cincinnati Commercial says in regard to Blaine's speech assailing the timber industry: "It displays Mr. Blaine in his true proportions to the country, and he is to be not a plumed knight, but a coarse, sneering Know-nothing, catering to racialities and indulging in malice". The Commercial has but little love for Mr. Blaine.

It has been reported that Sitting Bull's forces were on the verge of starvation, but it now turns out in evidence that such is not the fact, and that the warriors are in good trim for fighting, the winter where they are having been mild and provisions plentiful. Sitting Bull is preparing to give Uncle Sam more amusement this summer.

THE whipping-post question is being discussed by the press in this state and arguments for and against the law re-establishing it forcibly advanced. To us it appears if the backs of the perpetrators of the lesser offenses were ornamented with stripes, the Public Treasury would be increased and vacant cells in the State Prison more numerous.

A fearful earthquake occurred at Columbus, Ky., Monday morning. The shocks were so violent as to rock houses, to roll bedsteads across floors, to turn over safes and presses, smashing them, and to ring locomotive bells.

A portion of the Mississippi bank caved in, leaving a house on the ragged edge. All the people were suddenly awakened and badly frightened.

The members of the Literary Society that meets at Mr. Wm. Conner's want to know why, as a class, there are less Christians among lawyers than any other class of men. We think, if our friends will count noses, they will find nine-tenths of the legal fraternity members of the church, but as to whether or not they are Christians, we can not say, because what makes a Christian is a disputed question even toward Smithville the other day, who told him that he saw a man just from Brownville, who said he knew a man living near Johnsonville, who saw a cousin to a preacher living near Shawsville, that had an own cousin living near Jamestown, who started to Middletown the other day on foot, and on his way he saw a hat lying in the middle of the road just as it should sit on a man's head. He looked at it for a few moments and concluded from general appearance it was a valuable hat and worth capturing. So he procured some rails, made a sort of a bridge, walked toward the aforesaid hat, and when completed, mounted same and made for its prize, which he brought with an earnest grip; but the hat remained steadfast. After a few hard jerks, up came the head of man who, after drawing a longbreath, said, "Partner, if you get me out safe, for heaven sake try and get my horse out safe, it is the only animal I have left." At first we were rather inclined to doubt the truth of the aforesaid narration but coming so straight and from a preacher and an editor, it must be so. But Mr Editor, the mud or dirt roads are in an awful condition.

 Speaking of roads reminds us that there has been a terrible fight, for the past ten days, between the railroad lines running East, as rates from East St. Louis to New York have been down to 12 cents per 100 pounds on the 4th class goods, and in some few instances grain has been transported from the first named point to the latter, at a distance of over 1,000 miles, at the unprecedented low rate of 10 cents per 100 pounds. A compromise was effected yesterday, at a basis of 30 cents from St. Louis to New York, and 35 cents from Chicago to the last named place on 4th class goods.
 Dealers in grain are terribly blue over the prospects of a cessation of Eastern hostilities, and market for all kinds of grain, the past two days, has been something like a panic. How civil they are over there, not to cut each other's throats in order that we may get rich. Verily, verily the heart of man is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked!
 Business generally very dull.

Read This THE EMPTY SLEEVE

Is one of the most amazing enigmas in the world, and is after a painting by Miss A. H. Sawyer, also 23x30, inches. It represents one of Nature's noblemen with his little son on his knee, posing wonderfully up the Empty Sleeve. The man is dressed in a long's clothes, and therefore the picture has no political complexion. It is a fine ornament for any parlor in the land, and we propose to give it to the person who furnishes the greatest number of subscribers to the Record between now and the 10th of May next. Two subscribers for six months will count one; four for three months, one. It is not necessary that those competing for the prize should send their subscribers all at once, but they may send in the names and money as fast as they secure them, and they will receive due credit therefor. The paper will be sent to any address. The money must accompany the order. Be careful to write names, towns, county and State very plainly.

Considerable frost Tuesday morning. Some bug juice up in the hair Monday. Hex fruit has been very plentiful of late. The best way to keep apples—Sound. The fruit-bugs are about getting on a burst. Some complaint of fly in the wheat fields. Old Boreas sent in a message Saturday night. It is said the Murphy movement has an eye on Burlington. WM. CORBIN has a male hog of the Poland-China stock for sale. We are sorry to learn the choir is threatened with disintegration. The grand jury is now investigating the sword of some of the boys. The Murphy move is making a clean sweep in the Rabbit Hash locality. We are glad to learn that Prof. Stephenson's school is still on the increase. Another nuptial knot to be adjusted this week. This one unites Mr. Everett Walton and Miss Nora Cloud. We were asked Monday, who are the town "dads"? and we are sorry to say we had to report the town an orphan.

The painters have started out on their spring campaign. The town will now commence denning its summer's garb. If you plant garden in the moon and did not attend to it last week, you will be left for the moon was full Monday night. There have been fewer mortgages recorded during the past six months than for a corresponding period for some time. The fine weather recently reduced the attendance at court last week. Few of the farmers except jurors were in attendance. The horse show Monday was limited to two animals—Geo. W. Drabury's lightning trotter and A. F. Origer's fine draft horse. W. F. McKim has increased his stock by adding china-ware, harness, &c., and says what you can't find in a country store you can in his.

The hangman's supply of meat became exhausted and he replenished by executing a veal for Mrs. Dempsey by hanging it in the grape arbor. There seems to be a leak in the mail service. Petersburg for a while this month received from a box to a dozen mails per week, and Bellevue a like number. This week A. Corbin and son favor us with a nice advertisement. These gentlemen are live business men, and want the public to know what they are doing. The Richmond Register says: "The boys got on a drunk, and then on the war path; now they are on bull." That is the path traveled by some of our boys. The little boys with their rubber slings have appeared upon the streets, and the next tidings will be the announcement that somebody's boy has his eye "slung out." The Rev. J. W. Hentley, Universalist, will preach at the Christian Church, Florence, Ky., on the fourth Sunday, March 24th, '78, at 8 o'clock p. m. All are invited. A son of John Stephens, who resides near Bullittsville, was taken from a horse one day last week, and received a considerable cut on the scalp—probably the result of a kick. The Boone County Recorder is one of the newest and most interesting local papers in the State. It columns fairly "buzz" with interesting items every week.—Robertson County Tribune. Burlington is to be regaled by a E. K. fountain this summer, manipulated by E. K. Foster and Tim Westaby. The equipage is now in town awaiting the advent of warm weather. We call the attention of our Boone County friends to the card of M. Giegoldt, proprietor of the Indiana House, Aurora, Ind. Mr. Giegoldt keeps a first-class hotel, and takes great interest in seeing that his guests are well provided for, and their visits made pleasant. He keeps the best hotel in South-western Indiana.

Original Court. Monday was the day upon which the March Term of the Boone County Court convened. Judge McGinnis, having business at Louisville, did not appear. The court was presided over by Judge P. U. Major, who proceeded to hold an election for Special Judge. On the first ballot, Judge P. U. Major was unanimously chosen, and was sworn in by the clerk. The Court then proceeded to organize the grand jury, which is composed as follows: J. A. Stephens, J. A. Gaines, F. K. Wagon, M. C. Cline, F. Dickey, L. W. Lasing, H. T. Snyder, H. P. Marshall, John Beall, W. H. Slater, W. T. Smith, S. P. Graves, Geo. W. Terrill, Jerry Carpenter, Andrew Dickerson, Wm. Watts. The court then adjourned till 1 p. m. When the court convened in the afternoon, Judge Major proceeded to charge the grand jury. In the commencement of the charge, the Judge said he would not give a long charge, as the jury was composed of men familiar with their duty as jurors. The crime chiefly noticed by the Judge was the offense of carrying concealed deadly weapons, which he denounced as a crying evil in the Mississippi Valley, and a crime the grand jury had in its power to suppress. The delivery of the charge occupied only about twenty minutes. Capt. George W. Terrill was appointed foreman.

The grand jury having retired, the Judge notified the public officers present it was their duty to make a report as to whether or not they had any public money in their hands. The only case in which any steps were taken was the Commonwealth against J. F. Tully, who several terms since was indicted for malicious tampering. Tully was arrested and put upon trial, during the progress of which he "skipped out," leaving his bondsman, his father, in the lurch. The bond was declared forfeited, and Monday the old man brought his son back, surrendered him to the court and asked to be released from paying the forfeiture. On the previous trial the jury fixed the fine at $75, and Monday Judge Major ordered a replea, which was served upon young Tully, who was not able to pay the fine and was held to jail. Promptly at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, court met, Judge Major on the bench and Colonel Montfort present and ready for business. The orders made on yesterday were read and signed. Petit jury No. 1 was then empaneled and is composed of the following: Lewis Conner, J. B. Winston, Wm. Lancaster, Thos. A. Marshall, H. Hoffman, W. F. Grant, R. Whitson, S. P. Graves, John Moody, Cy Bruce, J. P. Utz, Wash Gaines. The calling of the docket was commenced. The first case was the Commonwealth against Ross Tuppenan. This case has become familiar to nearly every man in the county, having been on the docket since '73. It took its old course—adieu and continued.

Several minor indictments were disposed of during the morning. Jury No. 2 was impaneled as follows: Jas. K. Duane, Noah Craven, Ben Kelly, S. P. Graves, A. Q. Baker, W. T. Ayler, Wm. Rouse, Thos. Goodridge, W. T. German, Ben Rouse, Wm. M. Conner, B. K. Sleet. The docket for the day was soon exhausted, and the court adjourned. LAST Saturday night was the regular meeting of the literary society at the Florence X-Roads, and our special item-remember bled himself thither, but failed to take any notes, not even enough to pay toll. However, we managed to squeeze the following from his recollection, which is generally good, especially if you owe him anything. He estimated the crowd at 35 souls, big and little. The first on the programme was the examination of the query box, from which the following were taken, being only a portion of the questions propounded: Why does a tree grow round? Ans.—Because of the pressure of the air. What was the color of Jesus' hair? Ans.—Color of a filbert. Why are there less lawyers Christians than any other class of men? Not answered. When is the right time to marry? Ans. (by a lady). When you can get ready. (If asked a lady, when she can get a man in the notion; if asked a man, when he can get a lady in the notion.—Rex.) How long was Noah building the ark? Various answers. How many bones in the human body? Ans.—206. (Dr. Dick says 245.—Rex.) When, where and by whom was the first newspaper printed in the United States? [The answer was incorrect, the time being 1704; place, Boston; editor, John Campbell, is correct.—Rex.] What should a person marry for, love or money? Ans.—Love. All acquiesced. There were about half a bushel of queries, but the above were the most important. The next in the routine of business was the reading of an original piece by Mr. A. F. Origer. After this came the discussion of the proposition, Resolved, That women have more influence over men than money. The principal actors of the evening were Wm. Conner affirming and A. F. Origer denying. The negative got a verdict. In conclusion, our reporter wishes to return thanks for a cordial invitation to attend next Saturday night, at which time the society proposes to pass upon the stock law.

LAST Wednesday a week the house of Joseph Graves, a son of C. C. Graves, formerly of this county, but now residing in Jessamine County, was burned, together with its contents. This is a severe loss to Mr. Graves, and we are sure he will have the sympathy of all who know him in the county. On last Sunday J. A. Davis, of the firm of Davis Bros., at Habor, started for New York City to lay in a stock of dry goods and notions for the spring and summer trade. Mr. Davis is a good buyer, and when he returns with his stock you may look for a perfect slaughter in prices.

ELDER H. J. FOSTER WILL Preach on the 24th Sunday in March, 1878, at 8 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. J. A. Davis, at Habor, Ky.

Last Sunday, ex-Sheriff B. K. Sleet, while indulging in a jumping exercise with a crowd of friends, slipped a leader in his leg between the hip and knee, from which he is still disabled. There is a strong effort being made to have a flouring and grist mill built in Bellevue. The gentlemen who desire embarking in the business are from Indiana, and only await the securing of a mill-site.

Last Friday, Jim Westaby was breaking a young horse to drive, but succeeded in breaking the bridle bit first. The team started to run, but Westaby succeeded in running them. A wheeling accident occurred on our little road on last Tuesday. One John Hirschman, a boy about 17 years of age, hired from Mr. John Smith's farm, had some stock on Mr. S's willows. Mr. S. went to drive them off, when young H. interfered and dragged Smith, who boxed the boy, whereupon the boy pulled out a pistol and fired, the ball striking Mr. S. in the shoulder, not entering but making a black spot. The boy commenced running, when Smith pulled out a pistol and fired twice, neither shot taking effect.

Solon Stephens has resigned as Director of the Grange store, and D. H. Mirkle elected in his place. Calvin Riddell is their clerk for the next six months. For once they have the right man in the right place. Personal.—W. M. Rogers, candidate for Assessor, was in town last week. L. C. Gower, our little Mr. D., is getting a great deal of practice now. Mr. James W. Scott has gone to Denver, Ill.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE. Special Correspondence to the Recorder. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 16, 1878. Congress gladdened the hearts of many needy ones by the passage of the act granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the war of 1812. This act embraced officers, enlisted or drafted men in the military or naval services, who served fourteen days or were in any engagement and honorably discharged. Persons may be paid to the surviving widows of all such persons, provided that it shall cease when they marry again. The act also provides for the reinstatement, upon the rolls, of all persons who served in the war of 1812, or of the Indian wars, whose names were stricken from such rolls because of their participation in the rebellion. The surviving widows of such persons are entitled to pensions under the act.

The Borchard savings bill seems to meet with great favor and the Senate has passed Walker's bill for a long bond for the same investment of savings. These bills look to the same end, a convenient and safe investment of the small savings of the people of the United States in Government securities. The question of relieving the publishers of newspapers from the bewildering and onerous tax under the present law is now occupying the attention of the Finance Committee, and the unjust discrimination of previous acts is likely to be wiped out. Commissioner Lo Du finds great difficulty in satisfying the public that he has a fitness for the place he is trying to fill in the Agricultural Department. His schemes for raising tea, dates, &c., are accepted by the press with all sorts of suggestions for adding to the productions of our country. The paper desires the planting of a large area to raise chewing gum; another wants the dismal swamp purchased, and utilized for the production of bon-bons, and advises the Commissioner to purchase from abroad a supply of the best bon-bon seed. Yet another points out though common dates may be well enough, our soil and conditions are better adapted to the growth of many dates.

A suit is in progress at Alexandria, Virginia, brought by a son of Robert E. Lee, against the United States for the recovery of the Arlington estate, which was bought in by the Government during the rebellion, under a direct tax sale. Think of it! 16,000 brave lie here entombed, men who dared to do and die for the cause of their country, of the dead, the passing strands their silent tears are spread, and glory guards the sacred round the bivouac of the dead." NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS. Petersburg, March 12.—Dr. W. M. Terrell has arrived from Cincinnati with a crisp new sheep suit, and has hung out his shingle in the pill business as a partner with his father, Dr. W. H. Terrill. The elder gentleman, one day last week, in making a professional call on a sick patient out on the noble plains of Woolper, became so absorbed in contemplating the lost-bird beauty of the new piece that he lost his medicine saddle pockets. They were returned to him in good order by the finder, he being too much afraid of the contents to appropriate any of them. An impression has by some means been made upon the people in the surrounding vicinity that the distillery at this place had been stopped. We desire to correct this, as well as to state the fact that no such thing is thought of. There are nearly eight hundred cattle in the pens, and the average daily consumption of grain is about six hundred bushels. There is a small shanty on Tanner street, nearly sandwiched between two residences, which is familiarly known as the Red Lion. It is doing quite a lively business in the retail of hard cider and spikes, and thereby working up a strong tide of popular strength in favor of a fresh enforcement of the notorious anti-spike law next August. Two of our noble youths exultingly exhibited themselves as admirable specimens at this place one evening last week. Our old friend George Robert Borkshire, who so respectfully declined (through this column) to run for any office a few weeks since, has just purchased from Mr. J. C. Jenkins about ten acres of land just upon the westward border of our city. There is a very gentleman so settled for life. Mr. Eljah Parker has been kept chained at home for more than a week, past by serious sickness among his children. This week-like weather of last week put business into the farmers of this neighborhood, and they put in the whole time in industriously booting up the sand for the crop of 1878. Rabbit Hash. RABBIT HASH, March 17.—The Murphy met at the Methodist Church to-day. The house was called to order by the "boom," O. J. Harris. He called on Rev. Robert E. Kirtley, who made a very able address after which he and sixteen others signed the pledge, making 114 that have signed here, with more to follow. A shooting accident occurred on our little road on last Tuesday. One John Hirschman, a boy about 17 years of age, hired from Mr. John Smith's farm, had some stock on Mr. S's willows. Mr. S. went to drive them off, when young H. interfered and dragged Smith, who boxed the boy, whereupon the boy pulled out a pistol and fired, the ball striking Mr. S. in the shoulder, not entering but making a black spot. CHILDHOOD DAYS.

Oh, days of my childhood,
That swiftly have flown,
Come take me again
To my once happy home,
Where father and mother,
So dear unto me,
Once gladdened the days
Which no more I shall see.
I am tired of wandering,
I'm weary of life,
I care not to stay here
Mid' tempest and strife.
To live all I lack,
As I wander alone,
And weep like a child
For the days that have flown.
Oh, days of my childhood,
I call you to wait!
You never can comfort
This sad heart again.
You are gone, but oh, grant
Just this favor to me—
Let forever in the future
My thoughts be with thee.

How to Heal Injured Trees.

Injuries to trees should be replaced as soon as discovered. Limbs broken by ice and snow should be sawn off smooth, and this wound covered with paint, varnish or wax. Barking by mice often looks more serious than it is. The majority of cases will recover if the wound is protected by a thick poultice of cow dung and clayey loam, bound on with a piece of coarse material. In very severe cases the tree may be preserved by connecting the bark, above and below the wound, by means of twigs of the same tree; the ends can be channeled, and inserted under the bark, above and below, to dredge the wound, covering the exposed parts with wax. Something besides the cow dung and loam plaster should be always in readiness for protecting cut surface. Either with thick red paint, tinted by a little amber or other color; grafting wax, melted, but not too hot, or shellac varnish may be used.

Grafting wax is made of wax three parts, rosin three parts, tallow two parts. These are to be melted together in an iron vessel kept for the purpose, at as low a temperature as will serve. It may be applied with a brush to wounds. When used in grafting it is more convenient on a cloth. Old cotton, calico or other fabric that will treat readily, is torn into strips, made into rolls soaked in the hot wax until thoroughly penetrated, drained of the excess of wax, and when cool is ready to use.

To make varnish, place shellac in a wide-mouth jar, with strong alcohol to cover it, and set it in a warm place until dissolved; or set the bottle in a saucpan of cold water, with some sticks to keep it from the bottom, and set on the stove to heat gradually. Be cautious of fire. If too thick, add alcohol. Keep the brush in the varnish, with the handle through the cork.—American Agriculturist.

An Erect Position.

A writer on health very justly condemns the habit of lounging, in which a very large number of persons indulge, as injurious to health. He says: "An erect bodily attitude is of vastly more importance to health than is generally imagined. Crooked bodily positions maintained for any length of time, are always injurious, whether sitting, lying or standing posture, whether sleeping or waking. To sit with the body leaning forward on the stomach, or to one side, with the head elevated to a level with the head, is not only in bad taste, but exceedingly detrimental to health. It cramps the stomach, presses the vital organs, interrupts the free motion of the chest, and enfeebles the abdominal and thoracic organs, and, in fact, unbalances the whole muscular system. Many children become slightly hump-backed, or severely round-shouldered, by sleeping with the head resting on a high pillow; when any person finds it is easier to sit or stand, or walk or sleep in a crooked position than a straight one, such persons may be sure his muscular system is badly deranged, and the more care he is to preserve an upright position, and to get back to nature again, the better."

"What is a carnivorous animal?" Professor Miller asked the boy with seven warts on one hand and a sprained thumb. "This boy, who stood near the head of the class, when it formed 'left in front,' and who had played hockey the day before, paused, stood on one foot, and said, in a tone that indicated some doubt on the matter, 'A carnivorous animal is one that eats man grass.'" Then the school went into a sort of executive session, and the Professor vetoed the rattan bill over the boy's veto several times.—Burlington Hogue.

"How many genders are there?" asked a schoolmaster. "Three, sir," replied a little blue-eyed girl—masculine, feminine and neuter." Pray give me an example," said the schoolmaster. "Why you are masculine because you are a man, and I am feminine because I am a girl." "Very well, go on," said the schoolmaster, "but I fancy Mr. Jackson is a neuter, because he is an old bachelor."

It is a sad moment for a bachelor when he finds that his hair is so thin that he is unable to hold a pen back of his ear.
An exchange gives the startling intelligence that dressed hogs are moving toward the seaboard.

One who does not believe in immersion for baptism was holding a protracted meeting, and one night he preached on the subject of baptism. In the course of his remarks he said: "Some believe it is necessary to go down into the water and come up out of the water when they are baptized." But this he claimed to be fallacy, for the preposition "into" in the Scriptures should be rendered differently, as it does not mean "into" at all times. "Moses," he said, "we are told went into the mountain, and the Savior was taken into a high mountain, etc. Now, we do not suppose that either went into the mountain, but upon it. So with going into the water; it simply means going down to or near the water, and being baptized in the ordinary way by sprinkling."

He carried this idea out fully, and in due season and style closed his discourse, when an invitation was given to anyone that felt disposed to rise and express their thoughts. Quite a number of the brethren arose and said they had been present on this occasion, that they were pleased with the sound sermon they had just heard, and felt the souls greatly blessed. Finally a certain gentleman of the "Fetionie" extraction, a stranger to all, arose amid silence that was almost painful.

"Misther Breacher, I ish so glad I vas here to-night, for I has had explained to my mint some tings I could never belief before. We reat, Mr. Breacher, dat Taniel was cast into a ten of lions, and came out alive. Now, I never could belief dat, for de witt peasts would shust eat him up right off. He vas shust close py or near to, and did not get into de ten at all. I vas so glad I vas here to-night."

"A gain we reat de howey children vas cast into de fireish furnace, and dat alwash looket like a pig story, too, for dey would be burnt right up; put it is very plain to my mint now, for dey vas shust close py or near to de fireish furnace. O, I vas so glad I vas her to-night."

"And den Mr. Breacher, it ish said dat Jonah vas cast into de sea and into de whalish pelly. Now, I never could belief dat. It alwash seemed to me to be a pig fish story, put it ish all plain to my mint. He vas not taken into de whalish pelly, put shust jumped on his back and rode ashore. O, I vas so glad dat I vas here to-night."

"And now, Mr. Breacher, if you will shup explain two more passages of Scripture, I shall be, O, so happy dat I vas here to-night. One of dem ish vere it says de vicked shall be cast into a lake dat burns mit fire and primstone alwash. O, Mr. Breacher, shall I be cast into a lake of fire and primstone if I pes vicked; or shust close py near enough to be comfortable? O, I hope you tells me I shall be cast shust by a good way off, and I mit peso glad dat I pes here to-night. De other passage is lat von which said, blessed are dey who do dese commandments, dot dey have a right to de tree of life, and enter in through de gates into de city. O, tells me I shall get into de city, and not close py or near to shust near enough to see what I have lost—and I shall be so glad I vas here to-night."

Old Si on Round Dancing.

Old Si read an article on the dance of death, otherwise the waltz, and remarked:

"Dey's kickin' upon er monghty rumpus bout a little swingin' o' corners in de country!"

"Well, what's de matter now?"

"Dis hyar burrah 'bout folks patten' juba an' sashayin' 'round 'n' wuhlar is de harm in dat?"

"Why, they say it is unhealthy and sinful."

"Yes, I sees dat; but ar' hit unhealthy when er ole 'oman waltzes 'round at 'er camp-meetin' and fo' preagin' 'eldern exersisin' dar 'micles tryin' to hold her on de ground?"

"That is not de question."

"Dat's de question I see puttin'! An' I wants to know' ef hit's sinful for de parson to put his arm 'round de gals an go in washin' wid dem at dese big creek baptisin's?"

"Are you in favor of waltzing and balls and such unchristian-like proceedings?"

"I hain't needer 'gin ner fer bit, dat I know on, but my flatiron on dat is dis: Ef folks'll keep dere boys out of dese groceries and billiard shops, and de gals offen de streets so much, but make 'em stay at home an' work fer de bread, prance 'round in de parlor ez much ez dey please, and shout 'glo'ry halloo!' tell dey means hit, dare'll be er big enflammasion in religion in this country 'forelon'. Yer heah me?"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Quaker's address to a Watchmaker.

"I hereby soude thee my pocket clock which standeth in need of thy aid. The last time it was in thy friendly school it was in no way benefited or profited thereby, for I perceive by the index of its mind that it is a liar, and the truth is not in it. Purge it, therefore, I beseech thee, and correct it from the error of its ways, show it the path wherein it should go; and when the layest thy correcting hand on it, see that it be without passion, lest thou shouldst drive it to destruction; and when thou seest it conformable to the above named rules, send it home to me with a just and true bill, drawn out in the spirit of moderation, and I will remit it in the root of all evil."

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN
HAIR
RENEWER

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and as satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Price, One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

The saloon keepers in Louisville are a unit in opposing the Moffet liquor law.

At Danville, over four hundred persons confessed conversion during a recent revival.

The Legislature is still pounding away as if they intend to get through if it takes all summer.

SOME of the professional counterfeits now have their machines in operation and are issuing counterfeits on the new silver dollar.

The will made by Tullis, the miser, who, a few weeks since, died in Cincinnati, is being contested. This is a fine bone for the lawyers and officers of the courts.

The Germans and Americans in St. Louis are almost at war. An attempt is being made to close the doors of the public schools against the German children.

The Legislature passed an act authorizing the County Judge Adair County to purchase a mad-stone to be used in the county. The General Assembly believes there is such a thing as hydrophobia.

This mild winter has been of great advantage to the poorer classes in the large cities in this country. A severe winter, coupled with the hard times, would have greatly increased the suffering among the poor.

The International pedestrian contest was decided in London, on last Saturday, O'Leary, the American constant, gaining the victory by walking five hundred and twenty miles in six days. The affair was one of the most extraordinary pedestrian competitions on record.

On the first page, this week, will be found the amendment to the road law.
This amendment went into effect as soon as passed, as shown by the letter from Senator Norman, and which we also publish. In the first section of the amendment we find the duty of collecting the poll tax assessed for road purposes is taken from the Sheriff and put upon the several Supervisors of roads, each Supervisor collecting the tax in his district. This, we have no doubt, is a very good change, from the fact that the Supervisors have a better advantage to collect the tax than the Sheriff now has.

The second section is amendatory to section 224 of the old law, which requires the Supervisors of roads to notify the hands, between the first day of April and the first day of July, in each year, to work the roads if they choose to pay their poll tax in this way. The amendment extends the time for working roads to the first of September. It requires of each Supervisor a verified settlement with the County Court on the first Monday in January, showing exactly what he has done in the way of collecting and disbursing the road tax in his respective district. This section provides for and tells what is to be done with the delinquent list that may be returned from time to time. We fail to see the necessity of taking the list of delinquents out of the hands of the Supervisors and putting it in the hands of the Constables who will not give it the attention that the officer from whom it was taken would.

The third section fixes the mode of getting rid of derelict Supervisors, who might be tempted to apply the funds collected to their own use rather than to the keeping of roads in repair. It, no doubt, would have been as well to have required of the Supervisors a bond to discharge the duties of their office in the proper manner. This is required of all other collecting officers.

The fourth section of the amendment gives the amount of fine to which a removed Supervisor may be subjected in case he fails to turn over to his successor, in a certain specified time, all the road money in his hands at the time of his removal from his office.
The penalty is a pretty severe one, if the jury before whom he is tried should desire to give the extent of the law.

THE Idaho Avalanche, published at Silver City, contained the following market quotations for the second of this month: Eggs, seventy-five cents per dozen; butter, fifty cents per pound; chickens, from seventy-five cents to one dollar each; ham, twenty five cents per pound; bacon, the same price per pound; sugar, eighteen to twenty cents per pound; flour, eight to nine dollars per barrel; oats, four cents per pound; hay, twenty-five dollars per ton; mess mackerel, six dollars per kit; mutton, twelve and one-half cents per pound. Paying such prices as the above for the necessaries of life demands that a person should reside in a silver city, or some other place of wealth. Our farmers ought to feel somewhat favored, because when they go to market they do not have to take two horses to carry money enough to purchase what goods one horse can carry home.

THE Frankfort correspondent for the Louisville Courier-Journal charged some of the Representatives at Frankfort with drawing more mileage than they were entitled to, and an attempt was made to expel the correspondent from the hall. Some of the gentlemen against whom the charges were made denied them with tears in their eyes. The correspondent still holds the fort, and it is presumable that nothing short of an investigation will settle the matter.

A VERY large and enthusiastic meeting has been held in San Francisco to protest against the proposed legislative bill abolishing the teaching of music and languages in the co-mmopolitan schools. Speeches strongly opposing the bill have been made in the Senate.

THE Secretary of the Treasury has somewhat changed his views on the financial question, and don't think resumption, on the first day of January next, possible. He also claims he has a right to issue $300,000,000 in greenbacks.

It seems that the trouble among the foreign powers is very difficult to adjust. A cloud of uncertainty still hovers over the belligerents, and the prospects for more bloodshed is not to be said unfavorable.

SHERMAN is weakening.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer of last Saturday, in its publication of the statistics regarding the growing wheat crop in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky says: "Never before in the history of these three great grain-growing States have such cheering prospects" in regard to the wheat crop been known.
The average increase in acreage exceeds thirty per cent. in the three States, while in condition the increase is fully ten per cent. over any year since 1864. The weather since seeding time has been exceedingly favorable, and but little of the crop was winter-killed. What was thus damaged was in the extreme north and on exposed and ill-fitted ground for the crop in the central and southern portions of Ohio and Indiana. The damage from the fly has been but slight, and what little there was occurred in the early sown wheat last fall. A remarkable fact in regard to this is that up to this time the fly has not reappeared in those fields operated on last fall, as is usually the case.
This is accounted for in many of our reports by the statement that the open winter and early spring have pushed the crop far forward as to render it invulnerable to the spring attacks of the insects. The growth of the crop has been so strong (in many places being as far advanced as in May, unusually) that in many counties the fields are reported as being grazed by many farmers in order to retard the rank and rapid growth. All that is asked for by the farmers to insure an unprecedented large crop is a continuation of favorable weather." This report is very flattering, and the broad prospect for another year uncommonly good.
In this section the area of wheat sown last fall is considerably in excess of that sown any previous season for several years. For some time, the wheat in this particular county has been a failure, and but little attention has been given that crop till within the past two years, and both of these produced a fair yield, hence the increase in the quantity sown last fall, which will be extensively increased again this fall if the yield corresponds with the present prospects.

ON the 22nd inst., in Alabama, three brothers were executed for the murder of a widow woman with whom they had fallen out about a land trade.
The woman was murdered after night by being shot through a crack in the side of her house, the contents of the gun taking effect in her side and producing instant death. No one except the widow's two small children were present when the killing was done.

LAST week, a Virginia jury decided that the marriage of two negroes during the time of slavery is binding, and therefore the wife of a negro who was married before the war can not make a valid will. This decision settled upon a mulatto in that State quite a large fortune.

Assembly.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., March 18, 1878.
To the Editor of the Recorder:

I received a RECORDED-to-day, and find an article with my name attached, and immediately below, in large letters, "Is There a Hell?" I don't know what was intended by it, whether to find out if there is such a place, or whether you were mad at receiving such an article and was forced to set that on my heels to scare me off. But bluff is the game in Arkansas. A man will do a great many things here that he would scorn to do at home. So we go along. If the first was the cause, and there are some who believe there is no such place, send them to Hot Springs, the nearest spot on earth.
It will cure in three days or no charge.
That there is a hell is the first thing of which a man becomes convinced after arriving here. If not satisfied there is such a place, in about one week he will think there ought to be two, one for this part of the community and another for the rest of mankind. It is told here that the first Arkansas traveler who came through here, saw the curious formation which has the appearance of burnt stone, and also discovered the fine spring the water of which he concluded to taste. The water scalded his mouth, when he broke for his wagon, and shouted to the boy, "John, drive back, hell's not a mile from here." Some of the visitors are of the opinion that this place is only a resort for the wicked of the New World, and after it becomes more famous, and all the scoundrels and villains of this continent collect here,
it, like Sodom and Gomorrah of old,
will be destroyed by fire, not having a good man to save it. Some contend that the hot water is caused by the preparations that are now under way for that purpose.

You would naturally suppose I have been swindled. Correct. I stand up like a little man. It was done thusly.
When I had been here about a day,
and hearing of so many being swindled out of their money in so many ways, I concluded the best thing a man could have at Hot Springs was a little bank account. It seemed huge.
It gives one weight in a community.
Think of it. At a watering place with money in bank. Myself and partner thought of all this, and came to the conclusion that we would investigate the matter thoroughly and see which was the bank, there being two. After an hour or so inquiring among the best business men of the city, we concluded to deposit $50 each as a reserve fund, in the State Bank of Arkansas.
Style of firm—Sumpter, Latta & Co.
Sumpter is a leading member of the Methodist church (I mean no disrespect to the church). Latta, a son-in-law of Person Brownlow, and Co., the father of some of our whisky fraud, or $50, and five or six days gave me a fine opportunity to scrutinize the plux of Latta, and I concluded $25 was enough, if not too much, in his bank. In a few days thereafter the great fire came and destroyed about one-third of the city. The bank Company had two or three houses burned that were probably worth $1,000 each.
For two days the vault was too hot to open, but on the third day it was opened, and the contents found to be all right. The Bank claimed to be paid only twenty per cent. at that time, but would pay the remainder the week following. I tried for all mine, but ten dollars was enough for any one man, in the opinion of Mr. Latta. He thought in a week we would need the remainder, so call around then and get it. That face of his caused me to long to see the next week come. On the day for me to make my draw a new sign was hung on the door, "Going into Liquidation." I was surprised. I had no idea of being paid. I thought the sign meant I was in and got your money. We found, however, in Arkansas, liquidation means I will pay you whatever I please,
and you can accept it or not.

Something New to Persons Wanting Anything in the Way of Stoves, Grates and Mantels, Tinware, &c.

I have in store (at Wells' old stand) a Full and Complete Stock of Stoves, or anything usually kept in a Stove Store, hereatofore have been Grumbling of High Prices of Stoves in Rising Sun. All I have to say is, give me a call and see for yourself.

I Think I Can Make it an Advantage to Anyone Wanting Anything in My Line.
I HAVE IN STORE A COMPLETE STOCK OF

Hardware, Iron and Steel, Guns and Ammunition, Locks, &c.
I keep on hand a Full Stock of AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY. Also, agent for

THE BUCKEYE MOWER AND REAPER, CHILLED PLOW, &c.

I can sell you goods as Cheap as anyone if not Cheaper. Thanking you for your Past Patronage, and Hoping for a Continuance of the Same, Respectfully Yours

The Bank claims it owed $24,000, and had something over $6,000 in the vault and a bank balance of over $2, 000, and five or six hundred coming from the burned district, and not mentioning any debts outstanding by which they might realize something. On this statement they are willing to pay about fifteen per cent. Is not this a convincing argument that if there is no hell one ought to be manufactured immediately?

I suppose I was one of the smallest depositors, the largest being an old gentleman who came here for the purpose of mining and placed $2,400 in the bank for safe keeping. This was about all he had. A great many persons were here for treatment, and having but little money placed it in the bank to defray their expenses here and carry them back home to their families. The Bank closed with all they had, and they stay as long as the hotels will keep them, and then get home any way they can. While some have passed home others have to foot it, and some are waiting for money from home, while others are waiting from day to day, to get the little money that will be handed out to them by the State Bank of Arkansas.

The officers of the defunct bank called a meeting of the creditors to be held one evening in the Park. Previous to this, the creditors held a meeting in which they denounced the proceedings, and asked that a competent book-keeper be allowed to see the books kept by the bank. The officers agreed to meet them at the Park, and give them a clear showing of the books.
The books were there, but it was cas-ier to read from a piece of paper, the statement before mentioned, and it would not do for everybody to handle bank books, consequently you must accept my figures, saith Mr. Latta.

It is said Mr. Latta and his bookkeeper each had a large revolver in his vest, to prevent or over them in trying to get their money to go home.
Mr. Latta is a very bold man, so he says. He also claims that threats were made but that he is afraid of no man; that the banking firm is composed of men who came here to grow up with the country. Good fellows, they will grow up if the cripples will give them a chance.

A young Mr. Julian, of Frankfort, Kentucky, came here a few days since and by drinking plenty of broom-corn, or some other kind of booze, rather instead of hot water, he finds himself minus $50 after three days' stay, and can not tell where any of it went,
except $2.50 he paid to compromise a cane broke of fifty cents proportion.

The Hot Springs Telegraph of this morning, mentions a case where White Pine or some other party fleeced a young man, yesterday, of $25. Also a case of a young man who left the Quinn Hotel, yesterday morning, to go to the Postoffice and has not been heard from since. It is supposed he has wandered off to the woods to die,
as they do that sometimes down here.
They suppose that love is the cause of it. I am of the opinion such might be the case, but it is the worst looking woods I ever saw for a man to go into on such a mission. I should prefer something more inviting. I do not doubt for a moment that love is the chief cause of all the acts I have recorded—the love of money and the love of pure cussedness. Pure cus-siness is the chief product of this hot water. The moral of all this is, be careful what you say about hell, or the need of one, until you see Hot Springs.
If you want to come here, buy your ticket, put two weeks' board in your pocket, and do not let anyone know you ever had any money, buy small checks and get the money on them whenever you can, and bring a detective along to tell whether or not it is good.

THE EMPTY SLEEVE

It is one of the most startling revelations in the world, and is after a painting by Miss A. R. Sawyer, size 28x30 inches. It represents one of Nature's noblemen with his little son on his knee, peering wonderingly up the empty sleeve. The man is dressed in citizen's clothes, and therefore the picture has no political complexion. It is a fine ornament for any parlor in the land, and we propose to give it to the person who furnishes the greatest number of subscribers to the Record between now and the 10th of May next. Two subscribers for six months will count one; four for three months, one. It is not necessary that those competing for the prize should send their subscribers all at once; but they may send in the names and money as fast as they secure them, and they will receive due credit therefor. The money will be sent to any address. The money must accompany the order. Be careful to write names, towns, county and State very plainly.

How is your fruit?

Tux boys are all at home again.

NEXT Monday is County Court.

CONSIDERABLE blow Saturday night.

THE wind sent the dust endwise Sunday.

Tux leaves are making their appearance.

TAKING depositions now ongeth the lawyers.

Tux try of young chickens is heard in the back yard.

A SUPPLY of coal is still a good thing to have in stock.

SOME considerable freeze in the ground Monday morning.

CRACKIT COURT convenes on the third Monday in April.

IF any of the candidates want cards, let them come this way.

CONSIDERABLE wind vent rushing through this country Sunday.

TIMES hard, business dull, and, as a natural result, news items scarce.

Tux hens have resumed in earnest. Eggs are worth six cents per dozen.

IT is no use being in too great a hurry about putting away your overcoat.

PROVIDE thyself with a spade and wheelbarrow, for the looting season is here.

THREE men, one white and two black, now take their meals at the expense of the county.

DON'T take down your stoves the first time you see the loafers hunting the shady side of a house.

THE equinox sometimes knocks the weather into smithereens. Saturday night and Sunday, for example.

THE literary society that meets at Wm. Conner's had a very interesting meeting last Saturday evening.

THE vegetable kingdom has been greatly enlivened by the balmy breezes of the past few days—in a horn.

Tux present low price has reduced the quantity of tobacco that would otherwise have been planted this season.

Tux entertainment at the Big Bone Grange Hall, last week, we have pronounced as first-class—large attendance every night.

MR. J. T. HALEY has been quite successful thus far in finding a ready sale for Hitchcock's Analysis of the Bible in this county.

WE are indebted to Capt. Benj. C. Colkin for sending us Jacksonville, Florida, newspapers. Also to J. A. Davis for New York papers.

WE are sorry to note the death of Mrs. Abalom Conner, of Florence. She died at 1 o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Conner is particularly unfortunate, this being the fourth wife he has lost.

WE direct attention to the advertisement of H. Lake, who is a first-class shoemaker and now has his shop in the rear of Geo. W. Stephens' shoe store. Stephens and Lake are the shoe kings of that town.

THERE is no community in the county that could be benefited more by a good road than that through which the Woolper pike proposes to pass. It passes the section under the caves of these good markets: Aurora, Lawrenceburg and Cincinnati.

A few evenings since a tramp stopped at the Boone House and took lodging for the night. Now, had this been all he took, this item would have never been written—but, instead of taking lodging only, when he was parted he took a cap, coat and vest that was the property of Henry Bates, a colored at-tache of the house. A tramp that will feloniously draw on the wardrobe of a crippled darkey is one of the worst class of tramps.

Tux illiterates that congregate in Speedwell Grange Hall are making speed in deciding well the mooted questions of the land. Last Saturday night they had up the question, resolved, That there is more pleasure in married life than in single life. It may be we have the question wrong and forego; but, any way, the arguments were made before two married ladies and one single lady, who acted as Judges. They unanimously decided there is more pleasure in single life than in married life.

MONDAY was a beautiful spring day, but during the night a violent change came in the weather programme, high wind, hard squalls, violent lightning and some rain being the first notable change. Sunday morning came, some cooler but bright and clear, the wind blowing a gentle breeze, which by 2 p. m. had veered to the north-west, considerably increased its velocity and lowered the temperature. By noon the mercury had descended several degrees, overcast appeared on the streets, and a general rain was made for coal piles. At an early hour in the afternoon clouds overcast the sky, and a fine drizzle fell about as though intended to light on a green grass, which is still lying up to its head. The sun, when about taken, appeared in the sky, and upon the world again and created some little uneasiness among those who expect a large fruit crop. The between midnight Saturday night and Sunday there was a change of nearly every variety of climate presented to this part of the mundane sphere.

THE Criminal Court this spring was of small dimensions and of short duration, it adjourning early in the afternoon of the fourth day of the term. The grand jury found and reported some thirty-five indictments, nearly all for misdemeanors. The Terrell case was continued and set for the first day of the fall term of the court, at which time the parties are to be before the court and a day set for its trial, either at that term or some other term. This case is about as near settled as it was three years since, and no human can tell whether or not it will ever be any nearer. The defense has been particularly fortunate in obtaining new trials and having the case continued from time to time. They have such an array of counsel that it seems impossible to get them all before the court again at one time, and on this ground the case goes over from time to time.

Tux following, accompanied by about a peck of splendid cake, was sent to this office by Mr. and Mrs. Walton, who were wedded at Elder R. Stephens' on the 20th inst.: MARCH 22, 1878. To the Editor of the Recorder: We regret your inability to be with us at our reception. Accept our compliments to you, the printer and the devil. MR. and MRS. WALTON. We accept the compliments and the cake, and the trio named in the note unites in extending the newly married couple their best wishes, hoping they may enjoy a long and happy life.

Tux jailer received another boarder last Monday. This one came in charge of Constable McVethy, of Petersburg, and Wm. Green. It is a negro man, whose domestic relations, as he claims, were rendered unpleasant by the presence of a step-child, the mother of which complained that he was abusing the child and had him arraigned to answer the charge, which was established by her testimony and the man sent to jail to learn to treat children well.

INVENTORS, to secure intelligent and prompt action on their cases, should employ an attorney in daily intercourse with the officers of the Patent Office. We direct attention to Foster's Patent Office, 509 Seventh street, Washington, D. C. Mr. Foster has practiced before the Patent Office 19 years. Send to him for pamphlet and references. Also send for information under the new pension law.

LAST Friday, turnpike contractors swarmed in Burlington. On that day the Petersburg and Woolper Turnpike Company opened the bids for constructing the Woolper pike. Henry Dressman, of Kenton, had the lowest bid ($8,000), but the contract was not awarded on account of not having sufficient money subscribed. The company took time, and the final result will be known in a few days.

ON Wednesday afternoon of last week, as the Walton-Cloud wedding party was returning from Elder Stephens', the buggy in which Mr. Edward Berkshire and Miss Una Cloud were riding was turned over near the tollgate kept by Mrs. Furlong on the Florence pike. The horse attached to the vehicle ran off the side of the road, with the above result, but fortunately nobody was hurt.

Tux best place in town for getting up funerals is the public crier. A light flat rock covers the top of the criers, and on more than one occasion have little boys been seen to move the said rock and take a survey of the death trap. Leaving the criers in the condition it is in is a piece of carelessness that should be remedied. Some child may fall in and drown.

At every term of the Criminal Court, about the same persons are called to go before the grand jury. It is believed by the jury that these fellows are the knowing ones, but they generally know as little or less than anybody else. Sometimes these fellows skip out, and to avoid this they might be made to give a perpetual bond, as they are always wanted when court meets.

WE are requested to announce that on the 18th of next month the shoelists will hold their first meeting this season at this place. Mr. J. F. Blythe now has a challenge from an Aurora club for a contest between the two clubs. The shoelists propose to back their skill with enough money to make the match interesting.

MONDAY evening there seemed to be considerable practice in shooting at glass balls indulged in within the town limits. There is a statute against the discharging of firearms within the corporate limits of a town, and those indulging in such a pastime may be laying up a small stock of trouble for the future.

A negro named Samuel Lilly, and from the Union neighborhood, was brought before Judge Phelps, Monday, on the charge of battery, and in default of $500 bond was committed to jail to await his trial which is set for next Monday.

Tux Recorder is just two years and six months old this last.

Is any of our readers have a copy of the Recorder of the 28th of February, 1878, they will confer a favor by furnishing us with same.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

New York, March 19—10:40 a. m.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

We arrived in this city this morning at 10:30, and immediately on our trip was one of great interest and pleasure, we shall endeavor to give you a short account of the same. We left Cincinnati at 8:30 Sunday evening at 8:30. The trip was very pleasant, and we arrived at Cleveland the next morning at 7:30. Here we breakfasted, and also had a fine view of Lake Erie from the city. The trip was very pleasant, and we arrived at Buffalo the next morning at 7:30. Here we breakfasted, and also had a fine view of Lake Erie from the city. The trip was very pleasant, and we arrived at Buffalo the next morning at 7:30.

We changed cars at Buffalo and ran up to Niagara Falls, arriving there at 8:30 p. m. We had been on the cars all night and up to this hour in the afternoon, and felt like taking a little exercise. Consequently we decided to walk to the Falls, but we were not fairly out the depot before we were so beset by back-drivers as to render it not a little difficult for a man to enjoy the privilege of walking alone. It was really amusing to hear them, and to notice the lively competition for the privilege of carrying us to the great cataract and showing us the "lights."

Finally one fellow, who had a good double place and good carriage, offered to take us down, show us all the points of interest, and then drive us back, all for twenty-five cents. This offer we accepted, not because we wanted to ride, but because we thought the driver would be valuable as a guide in showing us around.

We first entered Prospect Park, which gave us a very fine view of the city from the American side. In fact, one can lean over the railing of the inclosure and place his hand in the water as it rushes over and makes a beautiful leap to the great cataract. We then descended to the lower part of the entrance of the suspension bridge which spans the river at this point. Here we got a splendid view, not only of the Falls but of the river below, as well as of the Canadian side. We then descended to the bed of the river by means of an inclined plane, and from this point looking up we think we got the best and most romantic view of all. We then returned to the town, crossed our driver, gave him his "quarter" (and we really think he earned it), visited the principal business houses in the city, and had a very pleasant trip.

About 10 o'clock we took a sleeper, and told the police detective who angrily tucked us in to call us at 6. Promptly at the hour, and just as we were running into the city of Albany we were aroused from a sweet, refreshing sleep by the faithful driver and told that we would stop in the city twenty minutes for breakfast. By the time the train stopped we were ready to step out, which we did and had a cup of coffee, and a few mouthfuls, poorly mentioned, and in a few minutes were again speeding on our way.

We crossed the Hudson River at this point and ran down its eastern side one hundred and fifty miles into the great city. From our earliest recollection we have heard much in praise of the picturesque and romantic scenery of the Hudson, and we were keenly on the lookout. Here we were engaged in conversation with a gentleman who was familiar with the country, and who seemed pleased to point out everything of interest as we passed along. We got a good view of the Catskill Mountains, gazed upon the palisades, saw Sing-Sing prison, West Point, and had our attention called to the little neck of land between the city and the river, the river from which Arnold made his escape from Washington and his soldiers joined the British slop in the river below. We had a tolerably good view of the city, the island and several smaller ones. The scenery along this river is grand and romantic beyond description.

As we neared the city, after running some distance through the suburbs, we ran under ground for a distance of about five or six miles, and were then landed in Central Park, at which place we took a street car and soon found ourselves in our hotel.

But our watch warns us that the small hours of night have crept upon us, the time now being 1:05 a. m., and we must lay down our pen for rest. Very truly yours, J. A. DAVIS.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23, 1878.

Residents of the District have no rights that anyone is bound to respect; ergo, President Hayes cannot give the Capital of the Nation the poor privilege of being represented at the Paris Exposition by an Honorary Commissioner.

The Postoffice Commission has agreed to report a bill authorizing the Department to adopt a "stamped letter sheet envelope," to be sold by Postmasters as envelopes are now. Its use will lessen the tonnage of the mails, prevent the reuse of wasted stamps, will be a great saving and convenience to the general public, as one-half of all letters may be written on such "stamped letter sheet envelopes."

Three suits were brought some time since in the Supreme Court of the District, by direction of the War Department, against Gen. O. O. Howard for alleged misappropriation of the funds of the Freedmen's Bureau. These suits were brought to a sudden termination by a judgment in each case for the defendant, and Gen. Howard stands fully acquitted in the courts and before the country, in whose service he has borne an honorable part.

The House was resonant with the angry and tumultuous din, with its ever attendant sub-base of noise and bustle, on the occasion of the discussion of the contested election case Dan vs. Field. Quivering over the wires there came a message, the reading of which cast a gloom of sadness over the Speaker's face, and gave a sepulchral muffle to the gavel as he repeated the House to order to announce the death of a fellow member, John E. Leonard, of Louisiana, who had but as yesterday occupied his seat in the House in perfect health.

Mr. Leonard was a man of high standing in the community, and his death is a great loss to the country. He was a member of the House for many years, and was highly respected by his colleagues and the people. His death is a great loss to the country, and his family is deeply mourned.

The Democratic Meeting.

There being a large crowd in town, Monday, it was thought, by some of the leaders of the Democratic party, an opportune time to take steps looking to the organization of a Democratic Executive Committee, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the members of the late Committee.

The meeting was held in the Court-house, and called to order by Wm. Watts, who stated the object of the meeting as above set forth.

On motion and second, Judge F. A. Boyd was chosen Chairman, and W. L. Riddell Secretary of the meeting. Judge Boyd, upon taking the chair, thanked the meeting for the honor bestowed upon him.

The meeting then proceeded to business. Numerous suggestions were made as to the proper mode of procedure, and finally a motion was adopted, authorizing the Chairman to appoint a committee composed of one Democrat in each voting district in the county, who are to meet in Burlington on the third Monday in this month, and select five gentlemen to be recommended to the State Central Executive Committee for appointment as the Democratic Executive Committee for Boone County. The Chair appointed the following as said committee: From Florence, Dr. S. S. Scott; Petersburg, J. Frank Grant; Taylorport, Wm. Watts; Verona, Thos. Hall; Walton, L. L. Yoell; Bellevue, S. P. Brady; Burlington, W. L. Riddell; Union, J. M. Stansifer; Hamilton, G. M. Allen; Carlton, J. A. Wilson. The Committee is instructed to select,

as Chairman of the proposed Executive Committee, a Democrat residing in or near Burlington.

There being no further business before the meeting, Dr. Scott submitted the following preamble and resolution bearing on the approaching gubernatorial race:

WHEREAS, Hon. Thos. E. Jones, of Newport, has rendered distinguished services in both the General Assembly of this State, and the Congress of the United States, and

WHEREAS, We regard him, eminently qualified to fill the position of Chief Executive of the State, therefore, be it

Resolved, That he is respectfully requested to allow his name used in connection with that office before the Democratic State Convention when it meets to nominate a candidate for the office of Governor of Kentucky.

The Doctor then eulogized Mr. Jones, in a few remarks, as did also Mr. Wm. Watts. The vote taken upon the adoption of the preamble and resolution was unanimous.

The meeting then adjourned to meet in Burlington again on the third Monday in this month.

Our Canadian neighbors suspicious of the United States and Russia have formed an alliance, and that the United States will, so soon as Russia and England commence fighting, begin an invasion of that Dominion. This is where the Canadians are undoubtedly mistaken. This Government has all the territory it can oversee, and being aware of that fact, will not, for some time to come, display any degree of wisdom in attempting to extend its boundary.

The English claim that neither Russia's proclaimed objects in the outset, nor after events of war, have justified her in approaching Constantinople, or the Dardanelles and Bosphorus. The Russian claim is that the treaty with Turkey does not interfere with the rights of any European power, and that, with arms in hand, she will await any attempt to dispute the fruit of her sacrifices.

LAST Saturday, Senator L. C. Norman introduced and had passed in the Senate, a bill amending the charter of the Covington & Lexington Turnpike Company. The bill provides for a considerable reduction in the amount of taxes paid by the Company, because of the damage done the pike by the repeated crossing of the Southern Railroad.

On the 29th ult., Senator Norman, in the absence of Lieutenant Governor Underwood, who was attending the funeral of Representative M. H. Marriot, at Elizabethtown, presided as Speaker of the Senate. He presided with much ability, and in a very creditable manner.

MONDAY the County Court appointed Supervisors of roads for the ensuing year. These officials commence under the new law now in effect. If the Supervisors are ignorant as to what the law is, the fault lies not at our door, for we published the amendment last week.

For the past two weeks we have been nearly over-run with job work, and should the paper not come up to its usual standard attribute it to that as a cause. We are not grumbling because of plenty to do.

ANYONE finding W. W. Turner's discharge from Capt. Arnold's company will please leave it at the County Clerk's office.

THE Legislature has remained in session until its members commenced dipping off, and now it has resolved to adjourn.

IN NEW YORK AND BACK.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

In our previous communication we gave a brief account of our trip to the East. We shall now draw upon our memory for some of the facts we saw in the great city, and also for a few facts connected with our homeward trip. We carried with us, to New York, two letters of introduction and recommendation from prominent business men in Cincinnati to trading merchants of New York. These letters established us, at once, on a good footing and was of great value to us in our business relations. Thanks to the name of about six of the leading drygoods houses of New York, and we were determined to ascertain where we could do best before we began buying. We spent about two days in examining stocks, and having prices quoted to us before we decided where we would do best. The first stock that we looked through was that of A. T. Stewart & Co. They showed us through carefully and pleasantly, and quoted us inside prices. They then conveyed us in a hack to the retail house up, and showed us all through it. This is, indeed, a mammoth concern. It is simply immense.

It occupies an entire block, and consequently fronts four streets. They retail on the first, second, and third floors, the remaining three being used in connection with the wholesale house down town. This is not only the largest retail drygoods house in New York, but the largest in the world.

We continued to visit one house after another, and told the merchants there we had been accustomed to buying our goods in Cincinnati, and had come to New York to see if they could beat Cincinnati, and if they could not, we were going home to buy our goods.

We noticed they were very careful to give us the head man of each department to show us through, and give us prices. The house that impressed us most favorably was that of H. B. Claflin & Co. This is the largest wholesale dry goods house in New York, and also in the world. We were shown to their private office to see H. B. Claflin himself. We love to see such men.

He is a very plain man, medium height, about sixty years of age, smooth face and wears a soft, slate-colored hat. We met in New York several friends who use to sell us goods years ago when connected with Cincinnati houses. This meeting was mutually pleasant and made us feel much more at home. We cannot tell you much about New York, as we were only in the business part of it.

We visited the Postoffice, the prominent hotels, saw the Tribune building that was erected by Mr. Greely, also the Court-house which is still unfinished. It will be remembered that it was his connection with the latter building that sent Tweed to the prison in which he still languishes. We took only one-half day for pleasure, while in the great city. We took a steamer and ran out to Staten Island for the purpose of getting a good view of the ocean. On our return we visited the dock-yards, saw a number of ocean vessels loading and unloading.

We boarded one which was loading with cotton seed oil for France. The sailors were all Italians and could not speak English, and we were denied the pleasure of holding any conversation with them. We like the New York people. They are shrewd and sharp on business, plain, affable and pleasant, socially. We never were treated better in our life. We left New York on Friday night, at 9 o'clock, on the Baltimore & Ohio route. We ran through the State of New Jersey into Pennsylvania, reaching Philadelphia at 12 o'clock, Baltimore at 4:15 and Washington at 6:30 a. m. Here we ate breakfast, and as we had about two hours time, we visited the Capitol, and had a hurried view of the city.

We saw Ben Butler's residence which is said to be the finest private residence in the city. One-half of the dwelling he rents to Senator Jones, of Nevada, for thirty thousand dollars a year. We were told that Jones had not been known to walk to the Capitol since he has been in the city, the Capitol not being over one square and a half, but has his chariot drawn by four horses, to call at his door each day, and convey him to the Senate Chamber. This, in our opinion, is putting it on a little too thick. At 8:40 we boarded our train for home. We passed Harper's Ferry, saw John Brown's little fort in which he was captured. We crossed the Allegheny Mountains, reaching the Ohio River at Parkersburg 105 miles above Cincinnati at 11 p. m. We crossed the river at this point and reached Cincinnati at 6:30 Sunday morning. Here we met our horse and buggy, and arrived at home safe and well to dinner, and found the loved ones all well, and much pleased with our trip.

Ayer's
Cherry Pectoral

For Diseases of the

Throat and Lungs,

such as Coughs, Colds,

Whooping Cough,

Bronchitis, Asthma,

and Consumption.

The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvellous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. In almost every section of country there are persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. AYER'S PECTORAL always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs.

As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued and restored to health.

This medicine gains friends at every trial, as the cures it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will.

Eminent Physicians throughout the country prescribe it, and Clergymen often recommend it from their knowledge of its effects.

THE WIDOW.

She is modest, but not bashful;
Free and easy, but not lacking
In the grace of her dress and action;
Not too young and not too old;
Half-maturing, half-developed;
Now advancing, and how shy—
There is mischief in her smile,
There is danger in her eye.

She has studied human nature;
She is schooled in all her art;
She has taken her diploma
As the mistress of all hearts.

She can smile and she can frown;
When to smile and when to frown;
Oh, a maid is sometimes charming,
But I know an old widow.

Are you sad? How very serious
Will her handsome face become.
Are you angry? She is wretched.
Lonely, friendless, dumb!
Are you faithful? Will her laughter,
Silver sounding, will ring out;
She can laugh and she can play
As the angel does the trout.

Ye old bachelors of folk,
Who are grown so bold and wise,
Young Americans of twenty,
With the love-looks in your eyes,
You may practice all the lessons
Taught by Cupid since the fall;
But I know a little widow
Who can win and fool you all.

Diffidence of Great Men.

It may comfort some of our readers, troubled with an excess of modesty, to know that great men have been diffident in company and have broken down in attempting to speak.

The eloquent Robert Hall made an utter failure the first time he attempted to speak.

The great Pitt was exceedingly shy in his intercourse with men. Lord Camden was on terms of the greatest intimacy with him, and one day remarked as Pitt was at his house:

"My children have heard so much about you that they are very anxious to get a glimpse of the great man. They are now at dinner. Will you oblige me by going in with me for a moment?"

"O, pray, don't," said the orator in great alarm. "What on earth would I say to them?"

"Give them the pleasure of seeing you at least," said his lordship, laughing, as by half led, half pushed him into the room.

The Prime Minister of England approached the little group. There he stood looking alternately at the father and the children, and twirling his hat for a few minutes without being able to utter a sentence.

When Daniel Webster was a school boy, he tells us: "Many a piece did I commit to memory and rehearse it over and over again in my room, but when the day came, when the school collected, when my name was called, and when I saw all eyes turned upon my seat, I could not raise myself from it."

Cowper's friends purchased him a place as Clerk of the House of Lords, where his duties only required him to stand up and read the parliamentary documents. The thought of standing up before such an audience was so terrible to him, that, as the time drew on, he was in agony of apprehension and tried to hang himself.

Wild Men.

In the island of Rio there are wild men who live in trees, and have no language but cries, and in Samatra, the residents of Palembang said there were men who lived in the forest, with whom not only the European, but the Malays could have no intercourse. He himself had never seen one. Yet, strange to say, they have a petty traffic with the outer world, yet not through the medium of speech. They live in the woods and live by the chase. They hunt tigers, not with the gun, but with arrows, which they blow out of a tube with such force, and which are so keen of point, and touched with such deadly poison, that a wound is almost immediately fatal.

These tiger skins or elephant tusks they bring for barter—not for sale, for they never sell anything, for money is about the most useless thing they can have. They cannot eat it, drink it, or wear it. But, as they have wants, they can change, yet they themselves are never seen. They bring what they have to the edge of the forest and leave it there, and the Malays come and place what they have to dispose of and retire. If the offer is satisfactory, when they return again they find what they brought gone, and take what is left and depart. If not, they add a few trifles more to tempt the eyes of these wild men of the woods, and so at last the exchange is effected, yet all the while the sellers keep themselves invisible.

A man in a church fair, who had a fifty cent bowl of oyster stew, suddenly rose in great excitement and began to pull off his coat and vest. "Why do you do that?" asked the pious lady who took the fifty cents. "Why, great heavens, there is a little oyster away down in there and I am going to div for it," said the man.

A new boot for gentlemen has a steel clad toe. The increasing army of book and tree agents has had something to do with the introduction of this fashion.

In North Carolina a woman used her baby as a missile, and finally as a knock her husband, who had killed the baby.

Atlantic Wrecks for 27 Years.

We have before us a statement showing the number of lives lost in crossing the Atlantic during the last thirty-seven years. In this period fifty-six fine steamers were wrecked and in twenty-nine instances more or less lives lost. Nine vessels were never heard from after leaving port. These are the President in 1841, the City of Glasgow in 1854, the Pacific in 1859, the Tempest in 1857, the United Kingdom in 1863, the city of Boston in 1870, the Scandavia in 1872, the Ima in 1873, and the Colon in 1877. The number of lives which were blotted out aggregate 1,397. Of the remaining 1,400, four were burned, five were sunk by collision, two by colliding with icebergs, two foundered at sea, and thirty-four were wrecked on various coasts. This is a suggestive showing, for it at once calls to contrast the relative peril incurred by dependence on human judgment and human handwork. Of the entire total of steamers lost, but two cases can be ascribed to the machinery, namely, the Anchor Line steamer Hibernia, which foundered through her propeller shaft having been drawn from its place after the propeller had been lost; and the Ismailia, of the same line, which was once spoken under sail, her machinery being disabled, and was never heard of afterward. Neither has any boiler exploded, or occurred, on an Atlantic steamer during the period mentioned. So far as the record before us is authority, the inference, therefore, is that the greatest loss of life is due not to the lack of safe vessels, but to failure in judgment, or the incompetence of those who handle them.

Thirty-four steamers, as above stated have been wrecked, and an inspection of the localities where the wrecks occurred shows that several have happened in about the same vicinity. For example, the City of New York in 1861 and the Chicago in 1868 were both wrecked on Daunt's Rock, near Queens town. No less than twelve have been destroyed on the coasts of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. It may be asked if vessels cannot be built strong enough to withstand driving upon the rocks, as in the case of the Atlantic and the Schiller, at least for a sufficient time to allow the passengers and crew to obtain assistance or to make their escape; but here the question of cost obtrudes itself, and the answer of those who have considered the subject is that vessels cannot be so constructed and yet profitably used. Taking this into account with the aggregate number of lives lost, in all 4,780, and it will be evident that the problem of reducing the dangers of the sea, becomes, as we have frequently urged, one depending upon the efficiency of life saving inventions. Devices which will keep large numbers of people afloat for considerable periods, devices that will keep individuals afloat water, that can be rapidly adjusted to the person with no possibility of mistake, devices for taking lines from the wrecked vessel to the shore, devices for indicating the relative position of ships to each other, new signals for fog and for night, and contrivances of that nature, all are subjects for the inventor's skill in devising better modifications and improvements.—Scientific American.

Food Facts.

It has been observed that a small quantity of beef tea, added to other articles of nutrition, augments their power out of all proportion to the additional amount of solid matter.

The saying that "an egg is equivalent to a pound of meat," is a mistaken notion. It is a question whether, weight for weight, eggs are equal to beefsteak. With many persons, particularly of nervous or bilious temperament, eggs disagree. Almost anyone can eat an omelet who would find a pound of meat superfluous, and yet the former may contain several eggs. The nutritive power of milk, and of the preparations from milk, are very much undervalued; since there is as much nourishment in half a pint of milk as there is in a quarter of a pound of meat. Hence milk might be taken as a sort of representative diet, and as better adapted to sustain the body in health, or to strengthen it in sickness, than any other article of food.

The almost universal testimony of men and women who have undergone great fatigue, such as riding long journeys without stopping, or sitting up several nights in succession, that they could do it best upon an occasional cup of tea—and nothing else. But a little tea or coffee restores quite as much as a great deal of food, and great deal of tea, and especially coffee, impairs the power of digestion.

Six Months Without Sleep.

A responsible gentleman of Calaway County proposes to exhibit another wonderful specimen of endurance in human nature, provided he can find someone to accept the terms. He has now in charge a man who has not slept a wink in six months. This man proposes to wager $5,000 worth of lands and personal property in Johnson County, Ill., against $500 in money, that he can and will do without sleep for thirty days and nights; the exhibition to be in Paducah, and under the supervision of a committee selected for the purpose. A correspondence has been entered into with the party, and if satisfactory arrangements can be effected the sleepless hero will be on exhibition in our city in a few days.—Paducah Sun.

THE SOUTH.

Ostracodons are already leaving their cards in Marshall County, Miss. A frost surprised the citizens in some parts of Georgia.

In some parts of Tennessee considerable hail has jointed, and some of the farmers were leaving frost last week.

Madison County, Georgia, boasts of a horned rooster, that wins all his fights, not by kicking and spurring as ordinary roosters do, but by butting.

The Houston, (Ga.) Home Journal says:— "In grain crops in Houston County is in splendid condition and cheering to those who desire Southern independence."

For two weeks the weather in Georgia has been uncommonly fine, and the farmers have been pushing their work. Corn planting is at hand.

The wheat prospects in Tennessee are the best ever known there.

The area in this cereal is very large, two-thirds of the tillable land being devoted to this crop.

Dawson (Ga.) Journal: Southern Georgia is in a blaze of enthusiasm on the subject of agriculture. Agricultural Societies are in active operation in nearly all the counties.

Webster on Politics.

Mr. Webster, in one of his conversations with his biographer, made this extraordinary statement: "I am not unwarlike," said he, "and it would be affectation in me to deny it, that I have a public reputation to leave to posterity; but it has been earned with difficulty. If I were to live my life over again, with my present experience, I would, under no circumstances and from no considerations, allow my life to enter public life. The public is ungrateful. The man who serves the public most faithfully receives no adequate reward. In my own history God, the most disinterested and the least stained by selfish considerations, have been precisely those for which I have been most freely abused. No! I have nothing to do with politics. Sell your iron, eat the bread of independence, support your family with the rewards of honest toil, do your duty as a private citizen to your country, but let politics alone. It is a hard life, a thankless life."

ON BROADWAY.
For any ghost to do—who meant business. More than that, for forty years, he had made old Kent committed every year in Calaveras, and no spiritual post office coming due every anniversary.

quiet of the surviving community. I'll tell you what, boys, I've always been inclined to throw up the Calaveras ghost for that alone. It's a bad precedent, sir. If that sort of thing is going to obtain in the Foot Hills, we'll have the trails full of 'chaps formerly knocked over by Mexicans and road agents; every little camp and grocery will have stock enough on hand to see security for surviving life and property, eh? What's your opinion, Judge, as a fair-minded legislator?

Of course there was no response. Yet it was part of the Doctor's system of aggravation to become discursive at these moments, in the hope of interruption, and he continued for some moments to dwell on the terrible possibility of a state of affairs in which a gentleman could no longer settle a dispute with an enemy without being subjected to succeeding a spiritual embarrassment.

But all this digression fell upon apparently inattentive ears.

"Well, sir," after the murder, the cabin stood a long time deserted and tenanted. Popular opinion was against it. One day a ragged prospector, savage with hard labor and harder luck, came to camp looking for a place to live and a chance to prospect. After the boys had taken his measure, they concluded that he'd already tackled as much in the way of difficulties that a ghost more or less would be of much account. They sent him to the haunted cabin. He had a big yellow dog with him, about as ugly and savage as himself, and the boys sort of congratulated themselves, from a practical point of view, that while they were giving the old ruffian a shelter, they were helping on the cause of Christianity against ghosts and goblins.

They had little faith in the old man, but went their whole pile on that dog. That's where they were mistaken. The house stood almost three hundred feet from the nearest cave, and on dark nights, being in a hollow, was as lonely as if it had been on the top of Shasta. As if you ever saw the spot when there was just moon enough to bring out the little surrounding clumps of chaparral until they looked like connecting figures, and make the bits of broken quartz glisten like skulls, you'd begin to understand how big a contract that man and yellow dog undertook.

They went into possession that afternoon, and old Hard Times set out to cook his supper. When it was over he sat down by the embers and lit his pipe, the yellow dog lying at his feet. Suddenly "Rap, rap!" comes from the door. "Come in," says the man, gruffly. "Rap!" again. "Come in and be d-d to you," says the man, who has no idea of getting up to open the door. But no one responded, and the next moment smash goes the only sound pane in the only window. Seeing this, old Hard Times gets up, with the devil in his eye and a revolver in his hand, followed by the yellow dog, with every tooth shining, and swings open the door. No one there! But as the man opened the door, that yellow dog that had been so chipper before suddenly begins to crouch and step back step by step, trembling and shivering, and at last crouches down in the chimney, without even so much as looking at his master. The man says the door shut again, but there comes another smash. This time it seems to come from inside the cabin, and it isn't until the man looks around and sees everything quiet that he gets up, without speaking, and makes a dash for the door and tears round outside the cabin like a mad, but finds nothing but silence and darkness. Then he comes back swearing, and calls the dog. But that great yellow dog that the boys would have stared at all their lives, and growled at almost all their lives, and has to be dragged out, like a coon from a hollow tree, and lies there, his eyes starting from their sockets, every limb and muscle quivering with fear, and his very hair drawn up in bristling ridges. The man calls him to the door. He drags himself a few steps, sniffs and refuses to go further. The man calls him again with an oath and a threat. Then what does that yellow dog do? He crawls edge-wise toward the door, and when he gets within the edge of the bunk lit by the faster than a knife-blade, then, half way, he stops. Then that d-d yellow dog begins to walk gingerly, lifting each foot up in the air, one after the other, still trembling in every limb. Then he stops again. Then he crouches. Then he gives one little shuddering leap—not straight forward, but up—clearing the floor about six inches, as if—

"Over something!" interrupted the Judge, hastily, lifting himself on his elbow.

The Doctor stopped instantly.

"Juan," he said, coolly, to one of the Mexican packers, "quit fooling with that rattle. You'll have that stake out and a mile loose in another minute. Come over this way!"

The Mexican turned a scared, white face to the Doctor, muttering something and let go the deer-skin hide.

We all raised our voices with one accord, the Judge most penitently and apologetically, and implored the Doctor to go on. "I'll shoot the first man who interrupts you again," added Thornton, paranoically.

The Doctor, however, had lost his head. "Well, the dog ran off to the hills, and neither the dream nor cajoleries of his master could ever make him enter the cabin again. The next day the man left the camp. What time is it? Getting on to sun-down, ain't it? Keep off my leg, will you, you d-d Greaser, and stop tumbling around there!" Lie down!

But we knew that the Doctor had not completely finished his story, and we waited patiently for the conclusion. Meanwhile the old gray silence of the woods again asserted itself—but shadows were beginning to gather in the heavy beams of the roof above, and the dim aisles seemed to be narrowing and closing in around us. Presently the Doctor recommenced lazily, as if no interruption had occurred.

"As I said before, I never put much faith in that story, and shouldn't have told it, but for a rather curious experience of my own. It was in the spring of '82, and I was one of a party of four coming up from O'Neill's, where we had been snowed up. It was awful weather; the snow had changed to sleet and rain after we crossed the divide, and the water was out everywhere; every ditch was a creek and every creek a river. We had lost two horses on the Truth Fork, we were dead beat, off the trail, and sloshing round with night coming on, and the level broke like a nut in a corner. Things were looking black and scary, when, riding a little ahead of the party, I saw a light twinkling in a hollow beyond. My horse was still fresh, and calling out to the boys to follow me and bear for the light, I struck out on a little cabin that half burrowed in the black chaparral. I dismounted and rapped at the door. There was no response. I then tried to force the door, but it was faster and more solid than with. I was all the more surprised when one of the boys who had overtaken me told me that he had just seen, through a window, a man reading by the fire. Indignant at this want of hospitality, we both made a resolute onset against the door, at the same time raising our angry voices to a yell. Suddenly there was a quick response, the hurried drawing of a bolt, and the door opened.

"The occupant was a short, thick set man, with a pale, careworn face, whose prevailing expression was one of general good humor and patient suffering. When we entered he asked us hastily why we had not 'sung out' before.

"But we knocked!" I said, impatiently, and almost drove your door in."

"That's nothing," he said patiently. "I'm used to that."

"I looked again at the man's patient, fatigued face, and then the whole cabin, in an instant the whole situation flashed before me. 'Are we not near Cave City?' I asked.

"Yes," he replied, "it is just below. You must have passed it in the storm."

"I see." I again looked round the cabin. 'Isn't this what they call the haunted house?'

"He looked at me curiously. 'It is,' he said, simply.

"You can imagine my delight! Here was an opportunity to see the whole story—to work down to the bed-rock and see how it would pan out! We were too many and too well armed to fear any tricks or dangers from outsiders. If, as one theory had been held, the disturbance was kept up by a band of concealed marauders or road agents, whose purpose it was to preserve their haunts from intrusion, we were quite able to pay them back in kind for any assault they might make. I need not say that the boys were delighted with my theory, and that the fact was revealed to them. The only one doubtful, or sympathetic spirit there, was our host, who quietly resumed his seat and his book, with his old expression of patient martyrdom. It would have been easy for me to have drawn him out, but I felt that I did not want to corroborate anybody else's experience; only to record my own. And I thought it better to keep the boys from any predisposing terror."

"We ate and we slept, and then, set down, patiently expectant, around the fire. An hour slipped away, but no disturbance; another hour passed as monotonously. Our host read his book; only the dash of hail against the roof, broke the silence. But—

The Doctor stopped. Since the last interruption, I noticed he had changed the easy, slangy style of his story to a more perfect, artistic and even stilted manner. He dropped now suddenly into his old colloquial speech, and quietly said: "If you don't quit stalling over these rats, Juan, I'll hobnob you. Come here, then, with you, and lie down!"

We all turned fiercely on the cause of the second dangerous interruption, but a night of the poor fellow's mad and frightened face withheld our vindictive tongues. And the Doctor happily, of his own accord, went on:

"But I had forgotten it was no easy matter to keep those high-spirited fellows bent on a row, in decent submission, and after the third hour had passed without a supernatural exhibition, I observed, from certain winks and whispers, that they were determined to get indication of their own. In a few moments violent snoring was heard from all parts of the cabin; large stones (evidently thrown up the chimney) fell with a heavy thud on the roof. Strange groans and faint yells seemed to come from the outside (where the intercession between the logs were wide enough). Yet through all this uproar, our host sat still and patient, with no sign of indignation or reproach upon his humored but lagging face. Before long it became evident that this exhibition was exclusively for his benefit. Under the thin disguise of asking him to assist them in discovering the disturbance, outside the cabin, those made took advantage of his absence to turn the cabin top, sy-turvy."

"You see what the spirits have done, old man," said the arch leader of the mischief. "They've upset that four barrel while we wasn't looking and then kicked over the water-jug and spilled the water!"

"The patient man lifted his head and looked at the floor, but drew back with a slight tremor.

"It ain't water," he said quietly. "What is it, then?"

"It's blood I look!"

"The nearest man gave a sudden start and sank back as white as a sheet."

"For there, gentlemen, of the floor, just before the door, where the old man had seen the dog hesitate and lift his feet—there! gentlemen, upon my honor, slowly widened and broadened a dark red pool of human blood! Stop him! Quick! Stop him I say!"

There was a blinding flash that lit up the dark woods and a sharp report. When we reached the Doctor's side he was holding the smoking pistol, just discharged, in one hand, while with the other he was pointing to the rapidly disappearing figure of Juan, our Mexican vaquero.

"Missed him, by g-d!" said the Doctor. "But did you hear him? Did you see his lurid face as he rose up at the name of blood? Did you see his guilty conscience in his face? Eh? Why don't you speak? What are you staring at?"

"Was it the murdered man's ghost, Doctor? We all panted in one quick breath."

"Ghost be d-d! No! But in that Mexican vaquero—that cursed Juan Ramirez!—I saw and shot at his murderer!"

NICKIE matinees have been uncommonly frequent during the past twelve months in the United States. Scarcely a week has passed but what from three to five persons have been checked through from time to eternity by the hangman. But the crime of murder does not perceptibly decrease. The murderer will, if this enforcement of the law is continued, find his business a perilous one, and then the benefits of capital punishment will be apparent.

If the European war goes on, the price of produce in this country will be advanced, and more prosperous times are anticipated. If blood shed is the only medium for settling the Eastern trouble, the sooner the fighting is commenced the better for the United States. But there is no Christianity displayed in one country's wanting others to engage in war merely to advance its interest.

At last a negro's skull has been broken, but a hole no larger than a turkey shot was made by the penetration of an electric current. This settles the question as to the possibility of a negro being hurt by a stroke on the cranium. A streak of lightning is about the only thing that would have fractured the negro's top-piece. Of course the negro was killed.

In New York is a man who proposes to take charge of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad and have it completed, and in operation within one year, and require no more bonds from the city.

GEN. JOHN W. WILLIAMS has taken the Murphy plot, is an item that has been going the rounds of the Kentuckians. He did not take it too soon.

In Richmond, Virginia, last week, two men fell out about a twenty dollar debt; drew their pistols and the result was two fatalities.

In Woodford County, Saturday, two men fell out about religion and one knocked the others brains out with a club, and then fled.

The new interest law now prevails.

The Pennsylvania Republicans will adopt an anti-Hayes platform.

On the 22nd, inst., a trio of negroes will be hanged in New Orleans for murder.

The Murphies moved on Bellevue last week, and enlisted twenty-seven recruits.

We regard Hon. L. C. Norman as justly entitled to the compliment paid him by our correspondent, "T."

MONDAY, the Legislature passed a bill making intoxication by any county officer a misdemeanor in office, and upon indictment and conviction the officer to be declared vacant.

The Ohio Legislature is wrestling with Cincinnati's white elephant. It seems the Southern Railroad is becoming unpopular with everybody over there except those handling the appropriations.

The eastern war kettle is merely simmering now, and the prospects for war are not so good as they were a week since; but these eastern powers are a very undecided set and in less than two days may change their minds and commence the slaughter.

We are not a prophet, neither are we the son of a prophet, but we venture the prediction that every principal road in the county will, in less than twenty years, be a turnpike. It will be but a short time till this part of the State is traversed with a complete network of turnpikes. Egypism has its temples broken in this section at last.

THE school law has been so amended as to require three trustees instead of one. The School Commissioner not unfrequently found it difficult to find a single individual willing to accept the position of trustee in some of the districts, and now it requiring three persons to preside over the affairs of a single district, the Commissioner's trouble filling these offices will be increased twofold. Another objection is, no three men in this part of the world was ever known to agree on the same proposition. But, in our opinion, the most serious objection is couched in the fact that a school trustee is exempt from working on the public roads or paying poll tax for that purpose, and there being forty-seven school districts in the county, it takes the much needed muscle of one hundred and forty-one men, or its equivalent, two hundred and eighty-two dollars, off of the roads. This can be avoided though, by electing trustees who are over fifty years of age.

It will be seen by reference to the proceedings of the County Court, in another column, that the Committee appointed at a past term of said court to investigate and report upon the propriety of selling the Poor-house land, and what it would probably sell for, when called upon for a report, at the last term of Court, responded that they had no report to make, and requested that they be discharged, which was done. This move shows that the Committee never gave the matter any attention at all. This is a very poor way to dispose of a subject that is continually harassing the County Court. It seems from the records that the members of the Committee even failed to show cause why they should be discharged.

Most a diabolical crime was committed near Louisville, one night last week. Two aged persons, a man and his wife, were murdered in their bed at the dead hour of night, and the building burned over their remains. The cause of the murder is unknown, although it is intimated that it was done to get rid of some very important and damaging testimony the murdered pair were in possession of and against some very suspicious characters who are to be put upon trial in a few days.

ACTING upon the suggestion of the Justices of the Peace, Judge Phelps will, in a few days, commence the investigation of the accounts of all the Road Supervisors since the road law which was lately amended, went into effect. This will be a considerable investigation, but we hope no bonanza in embezzlements will be dug up. It is inferable, from the suggestion of the Justices, that they suspicion some crookedness somewhere in the disbursement of the road funds.

ON last Saturday a check-raiser came to grief while attempting to have a forged check cashed in the Commercial Bank in Cincinnati. The check was for $1,490, and purported to be drawn by a firm there in the city, but it being made payable to bearer excited the suspicion of the officers of the bank and they had the man taken. Upon investigating the baggage of the man it developed considerable damaging evidence against him.

ONE of those men who always commences business on time is E. A. Tucker, Secretary of the North Kentucky Agricultural Society. He is already industriously engaged in arranging new and attractive features for the approaching exhibition. With the co-operation of the entire board, he would raise the Boone Fair to a much higher degree of excellence.

ANDERSON, the member of the Louisiana Returning Board who has been in hoc for several weeks, was liberated on the first of this month, under a decree from the Supreme Court of the State.

It was not altogether peace and quiet at the primary election in Williamstown, last Saturday. Broken bricks, broken heads, pistols and clubs figured extensively in the day's doings.

The prospect for small grain, for fruit, for early and fine pastures, and for the usual supply of live stock being good, why should we not expect better times as a natural consequence?

HAYES is accused of having sent to New Orleans for J. Madison Wells to his himself unto Washington to give advice concerning the appointment of a collector at New Orleans.

TEXAS has the "fightingest" bull in America. It vanquished a lioness in twelve minutes, last Saturday.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made for a race between Ten Brock and Mollic McCarthy, at Louisville, on the 4th of next July. The stake to be ten thousand dollars. This is expected to be the grandest day's racing ever seen in this country.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due.
To the Editor of the Recorder:

We know of no one act or deed done by the Kentucky Legislature that will give more universal satisfaction to the people of Boone County, than the passage of the law reducing the tolls on the Covington & Lexington Turnpike. It has been a consumption eagerly sought for these many years. As the people are generally misrepresented by those who should represent them, we deem it proper and right that credit and approbation should be given to one who faithfully performs his duty. To the Hon. L. C. Norman, our valued Senator, is due all the credit of having this act passed, and he is truly carrying out some of his promises in the late canvass. We hope the citizens of our county will not only give him their moral aid, but also their financial aid in the execution of this law.

Kentucky boasts of so few internal improvements, and as the turnpikes are the principal ones, high tolls are detrimental to the prosperity and progress of our great Commonwealth. The $100,000 which the Covington & Lexington Corporation received for a slice of their turnpike, the small cost at which rock is broken and spread, the low price of the farmers' products should be against high tolls, unless it is to perpetuate a great monopoly and impose a grievous burden upon the people.

Obey Court convenes Monday.

Sunday was a beautiful day.

The Legislature adjourned yesterday.

The wheat was slightly touched up by the frost last week.

It seems that horse-thieves are paying their respects to this county.

Miss Louisa Southgate, of Walton, has been visiting Miss Lillie McKenale this week.

A short list of special premiums to be awarded at the Florence Fair are advertised this week.

Now talk about the building of a pike from Waterloo to Bellevue is in order. Commence to agitate.

Last week, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Duncan lost their infant child by death caused by diphtheria.

We are not in the vegetable business, but nevertheless stuck some p's more than six weeks since.

The Woolper pike is to be built. The first installment of hands passed through town Monday, en route for the scene of action.

Peach, and some other fruit trees are now advertising that they contemplate going into the fruit business this season on an extensive scale.

The sport of shooting at glass balls is becoming quite popular with the boys. Some of them hit every ball, while several of them miss every one.

The change in the color of Mr. Paschal Bucker's residence, by the knights of the paint-brush, has given that portion of the town a decidedly different appearance.

That old tattling "she-male," Dame Rumor, is trying to convince this community that the matrimonial noose will soon be adjusted on one of the heretofore happy bachelors of this town.

Some of the young men of the town and vicinity have organized a school for their instruction in the fancy dances of the period. They have taken one or two lessons in scientific "toe tripping."

This latter part of last week, Professor Stephenson was compelled to dismiss his school on account of the serious illness of his wife, who was attacked with severe hemorrhage of the lungs.

There is considerable excitement in Lawrenceburg, Ind., caused by the discovery that the ghouls have been robbing graves in the city burying ground. One body is known to have been taken from the grave.

When the total cost of the public cistern was made known to one of the Justices, "blow a long whistle," thinking the sum was $150, but being corrected, and learning it cost $275, he was nearly petrified.

Some of the papers give Hon. M. Hamilton the credit of being the most sensible man in the Legislature, he having made a motion that the General Assembly repeal all the laws it had passed and then adjourn.

All Road Supervisors who failed to return their road reports at the April term of the Boone County Court, will save cost of a summons by attending to this duty immediately. Jno. S. PUEFELS, County Judge.

It is now thought that the assets of Mr. T. L. Swainman will be sufficient to pay 80 cents on the dollar. The creditors express implicit confidence in Mr. Swainman. No doubt they will have him continue the business.

James Lowman, colored, last week brought to our office a huge beetle, that weighed five pounds and measured twenty-four inches in circumference. This was a dead beetle, but of that class the cook generally likes to have about.

On last Saturday, an election was held in the town of Florence for choosing a Town Treasurer to fill the vacancy occasioned in that office by the resignation of Mr. T. L. Swainman. Mr. Swainman's name was placed on the poll-book and he was re-elected without opposition.

It costs a fellow one dollar and fifty cents less to commit matrimony in Kenton County now than it did some time since. The County Clerk charges nothing for license. Some applicant will, as long, make known to our County Clerk this state of affairs in the neighboring county.

You can now see, on Sunday morning, the boys stealing down the back alley with a long limber reed trailing on the ground behind them, and their coat tails propped up with an old oyster can filled with aquifers. Their objective point is Woolper or Gunpowder Creek, to hold sweet communion with the finny tribe and the snakes.

"Drifting With the Tide," a new song and chorus, by Will L. Thompson, is said to be even prettier than the famous "Gathering Shells from the Sea Shore," by the same author. Any music dealer will mail you either of these beautiful songs on receipt of price, 40 cents. Both have handsome picture titles. Published by W. L. Thompson & Co., East Liverpool, Ohio.

A few days since, Mr. C. C. Graves, who, of late years, has resided in Jessamine County, called upon us. He has moved back to Boone, thoroughly disgusted with the famous Blue Grass country. Mr. C. claims for the less pretentious county of Boone, a superior standard in the question of agriculture. He does not hesitate to assert that, he prefers dwelling in a poor county and among rich people to dwelling in a rich county and among poor people.

BURLINGTON, KY., APRIL 11.

BE HAPPY AS YOU CAN.

This life is not all sunshine,
Nor is it yet all showers,
And storms and calms alternate,
As storms among the dories.
And while we seek the roses,
The thorns fall off we scan,
Still let us, though they wound us,
Be happy as we can.

As well as joys to share,
And griefs and disappointments
Which you and I must bear.
Yet if misfortune's lava
Extends hope's dearest plan,
Let us, with what is left us,
Be as happy as we can.

The sun of our enjoyment
Is made of little things,
And oft the broadest rivers
Are formed from unmet springs.
By treasuring up small waters,
We increase our pleasures,
Enjoying what we can.

There may be burning deserts
Through which our hearts must go,
But there are green oases
Where pleasant palm trees grow.
Let us not, may I follow
The paths our hearts would plan,
Let us make all around us
As happy as we can.

Perchance we may not climb with Ambition, to its goal,
Still let us answer, "Present,"
When duty calls the roll!
And what of our appointment,
Be nothing less than man,
Be cheerful in submission,
Be happy as we can.

The New Speaking Machine.

First the photograph and next the aeroplane. It was sufficiently startling to know that a machine had been made which would talk with a voice entirely human in its tone and articulation, which would repeat in any language a song which it had heard, and was capable of conveying to foreign lands or remote centuries a speech impressed on a sheet of tin-foil, and there to reproduce it in an indefinite number of times with the inflections and intonations of the original voice; but now, its inventor, Mr. Edison, announces the aeroplane, which is, in fact, a phonograph with its power tremendously increased. Mr. Edison says he will make the Statue of Liberty enlightening the world, to stand in New York harbor, repeat the Declaration of Independence so that every word will be distinctly understood by every dweller on Manhattan Island; he fixed it to a locomotive and it will shout, "Clear the track—Number 126 is coming—Railway—Next station Elizabeth!" He will attach it to an ocean steamer and captains will converse with each other miles apart; he will fasten it to a light-house and the keeper will warn vessels off and tell them where they are. This roaring monster suggests a awful possibility. It would destroy a good deal of kind nature's sweetest music if it should sing "Trump, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching," all night in a densely populated neighborhood; but on the other hand it could announce the whereabouts of fires, head off runaway burglars by describing their dress and personal appearance, and preach and sing so that the people of this city would not have to go to church or opera. What an auxiliary of stumpy speaking would this bellying Typhon be in a hotly contested district unless two of them got to going once and refused to divide the time! What an instrument of slaughter will the aeroplane be in the hands of the malicious. It occurs to us, by the way, that this Mr. Edison has done enough and ought not to be allowed to prosecute his diabolical inventions any further. His brain ought to be muzzled. Will the Sheriff of Mingo Park please to restrain him?—New York Graphic.

How Much of Tobacco?

The entire mass of tobacco which is consumed in smoking, snuffing, and in chewing on the earth, is 4,000,000,000 pounds—manifestly too high an estimate for from 1,200,000,000 to 1,500,000,000 inhabitants. Let us take half as more probable, and let us suppose the tobacco leaves transformed into a roll, a tobacco serpent is created which with a diameter of two inches, and following the equator, could wind itself around the world thirty times. Let us suppose the tobacco is formed into tablets similar to the chocolate tablets and which, indeed, is the shape which the chewing tobacco of sailors and Yankess take, and we have a colossal pile worthy of being placed by the side of the third largest of the pyramids of Gizeh, that of the Mykerinos, and as massive and high as that of old regal edifices. Let us grind all the tobacco into snuff, and let us picture to ourselves the sad case that an evil nocturnal wind, one fine morning, blows the snuff over the ocean, and showers it on one of our German States, we are certain that more than one of the Lilliputian States would have much difficulty in recovering its existence by shoveling away the snuff.

It has been noticed that European bees, when imported to Australia, for a year or two keep their hives in good order, and make a very fair amount of honey, but after that time they become idle and wholly unproductive.

To be angry with a weak man is proof that you are not very strong yourself.

It is the wheat fields are reaping the harvest.

FASHION NOTES.

Kilt skirts must be the same length all around.

Bourette muslin is new fabric in diaphanous goods.

The yoke of the kilt skirt should fit the hips like a glove.

Bonnet coronets are very high, and turned very far back at the sides.

Quantities of pearl beads, white and tinted, are used in spring millinery.

The new styles of dressing the hair are as varied as the bonnets and hats.

Smart carriage capes, of the color of the spring basques, ulsters and saques.

Square necks, formed by long and high shoulder straps, are seen in opera toilets.

The correct length for the kilt skirt allows it to escape the sidewalk two and one-half inches all around.

Havana brown and black are favorite combinations of colors for check and basket woven spring bourettes.

The grounds of most of the spring bourettes are dark and sober, but the mixed cords and knotted threads of bright color shot into the fabrics give life and glow to their otherwise sombre or cold effect.

Habit basques, with short fronts and the back elongated to form the draperies of the skirt, like the back of a polonaise, will be worn in the spring over demitained skirts, flounced to the knee front, and with only one or two founces in the back.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

MEAT for repentance—mince meat.

MORAL cowardice is the curse of our race.

The whole thing in a nutshell—a worm.

One live frog is sufficient to make a spring.

A PLACE for reflection—before the mirror.

When one will not, two can not quarrel.

CHERISHED men all have very long memories.

Why is a setting hen a rarity? Because it's on nest.

SONG of ladies making their toilet— "Combing—we're coming!"

His but waters his soup who takes many words to tell a short story.

Why does beating an egg resemble a revolution? It breaks the yolk.

The blacksmith, it matters not how well he is paid, is always on the strike.

The Old-Fellow's grip—an old bachelor sewing a button on his breech.

REPORTS come that thousands of acres of wheat have been sown in Minnesota.

DOGS are very faithful; they will stick to a bone when everybody else has left it.

MONKEYS are imitative, but if they can't imitate some devilry they are not happy.

CATS are affectionate; they love young chickens, sweet cream and the best place in front of the fire-place.

The Courier-Journal hints that the sting of a bee will cure the rheumatism. Hanging a man will also cure the crook.

The donkey is an emblem of patience, but if you study him closer, you will find that laziness is what is the matter with him.

The divorce market must still be easy in Indiana. A country paper over there heads its list of marriages "Limited Partnerships."

THERE are thousands of acres of the richest lands in Arkansas that are now unproductive and comparatively worthless because of want of drainage.

HE who knows when it is going to rain and shelter himself, but they will try to hatch out a glass egg just as honestly as they will one of their own.

The Director of the Mint ought to have known that no coin could escape criticism that represented the American eagle as a bird with butterfly's wings.

"In selecting a husband," said Mrs. Puffer, "above all things choose a man of cultivation." This remark happened the girl to such an extent that she went and married a farmer.

The twenty-cent pieces should be retired. They often lead the newspaper man to make rash investments under the impression that his capital is one-fourth larger than it really is.

UNLESS you make allowance for the foibles of your mind, you betray your own; and you thereby subject yourself to the imputation of either wanting temper, or being lukewarm in your friendship.

At one of the schools in Cromwell, England, the inspector asked the children if they could quote any text of Scripture which forbade a man having two wives. One of the children eagerly quoted in reply the text: "No man can serve two masters."

An exchange has this startling piece of intelligence: "Nothing will be worn this spring by the fair sex, except longitudinal striped hose."

We presume this attractive though somewhat picturesque costume will not become the rage until the warm weather sets in.

RETROSPECTION.

Come, my wife, put down the Bible. Lay your hands on the book! Backward, mother, let us look! This is still the same old homestead! Where I brought you years ago. When the baby 'twixt us sat, That is now like winter snow. Let us talk about the babies. As we sit here all alone— Such a merry troupe of youngsters! How we lost them one by one.

Jack, the first of all the party. Came to us one winter's night. Jack, you said, should be a parson. Long before he saw the light. Do you see that great cathedral? Filled the transept and the nave? Hear the organ grandly pealing! Watch the slither hangings wave! See the priest in robes of office. With the altar at his back— Would you think that gifted preacher Could be our little Jack?

Then a girl with curly tresses Came to climb upon my knee, Like a little fairy princess. Telling at the age of three. With the years there came a wedding. How your fond heart swelled with pride When the lord of all the county Closed a street and gave a bride! Watch your baby for his bride! And the form reclining there! Would you think that brilliant lady Could be our little Clara?

Then the last— a blue-eyed youngster— I can hear him prattling now— Such a strong and sturdy fellow. With his broad and honest brow. How he used to love his mother! He is far off now, I hear. Captain of a royal ship! See the bronze upon his forehead! Hear the voice of stern command! To his mother's gentle hand? To his mother's gentle hand?

Ab! my wife, we've let our babies— Ours so long and ours alone— What are we to them great people. Stately men and women grown? Sober do we ever see them? Yes, a better test-drop starts. And we sit here in the firelight. Lonely hearts and lonely hearts. All their lives are full without us! They'll stay long in the churchyard. Just to lay us in the churchyard. Then they'll each go on their way.

KANSAS LETTER.

CLAY CENTER, KAS., April 6, 1878.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

Now that the lazy days of spring are upon us again, and time is a commodity in less demand than formerly, and leisure an article that begins to fall occasionally into our hands, we seize the opportunity to take the advantage of the fall and talk to the Recorder a little.

Our winter in this part of the American desert has been unprecedented for mildness. There hasn't been a freeze of ice half an inch thick since January 1st, and for the first time in many years, spring opens without any break-up of ice in the Republican River. As a consequence, there is not a foot of ice in any ice-house in town. Ice-creep will be at a premium next summer.

Clay Center was favored last week with a rare treat— nothing more nor less than two lectures from the eloquent lips of Gen. Judson Kilpatrick. On the first evening his subject was "The March to the Sea." His graphic descriptions of the brave men and gallant deeds of that great campaign were so attentively heard by a packed audience, composed largely of men who were eye witnesses of their faithfulness. The title of the second address was "The Irish Soldier of the Rebellion." The audience on this evening was not so large, owing to the presence in town of a traveling comedy troupe. The orator's descriptions of that evening of the glories of Malvern Hill, Mission Ridge, Stono and Lookout Mountain were well calculated to inspire anew the fire of battle in the hearts of the scarred heroes who bore so vividly in mind the scenes and events he so truly portrayed; and the glitter of their stern eyes, bent intently on the speaker, attested how the battle echoes were resounding through the corridors of memory.

The Francis Murphy temperance movement was inaugurated in Clay Center last week, led by Mr. J. B. Campbell, of Fort Scott. His burning zeal seems to be contagious, and, after a week's work, more than six hundred blue ribbons flutter in the breeze from the breasts of men women and children who have pledged their word and honor to totally abstain from all intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

The Murphys came in just too late to carry out election. On that occasion the whiskey and wine party were as clearly drawn up in opposition as ever were Democrats and Whigs, and with grief and lamentation we record the fact, whiskey prevailed.

says that many of the farmers in the bottom lands that are inclined to be too well dispensed with the use of the corn drill. They say that when we have wet seasons, the grass and weeds get such a start that it is impossible to overcome them by plowing "one way," as can only be done when corn is drilled. On rolling lands in this county the drill is used to great advantage.

There are Louisiana papers which suggest that Mr. Hayes has begun to draw Mr. Biden's second year's salary.

The Clock of Clocks.

In Menlo's building, Reading, Pa., is now on exhibition, in all probability, the most wonderful clock in the world. It was built by Stephen H. Morgan, a watchmaker, at Hazleton, Pa. He is about 70 years of age, and was fully twenty years in perfecting the clock. Mr. Morgan paid $5,000 for it. Mr. Morgan never saw the Strasburg clock. In fact he has not traveled more than two hundred miles from home at any time. This clock stands eleven feet high. At its base it is about four feet wide, and at the top about two. It is about three feet deep at the base, gradually less toward the top. Its colors are dark brown and gold. The Strasburg clock is thirty feet high, yet its mechanism is not so intricate as this. The Strasburg clock's figures are about three feet high and the American clock's about nine inches. Three minutes before the hour, a pipe organ inside plays anthem. It has five tubes. Bells are then rung, and when the hour is struck, double doors in an alcove open and the figure of Jesus appears. Doubtless the doors to the left then open, and the procession of the twelve apostles appears. As they appear and pass Jesus they turn towards him. Jesus bows and the apostles turn and proceeds through the double doors in the alcove on the right. As Peter approaches Satan looks out at a window above and tempts him. Five times the devil appears, and when Peter passes, denying Christ, the cock flaps its wings and crows. When Judas appears, Satan comes down from the window and follows Judas out in the procession, and then goes back up to his place to watch Judas, appearing on both sides. As the procession passes, Judas and the three Marys disappear, and the doors are closed. The scene can be repeated seven times an hour if necessary, and the natural motion of the clock produces it four times per hour, whereas the Strasburg procession is produced but once per day, 12 o'clock. Below the piazza is the main dial, about thirteen inches in diameter. To its right is a figure of Time, with an hour-glass. Above this is a window at which appear figures representing Youth, Manhood and Old Age. To the left of the dial is a skeleton representing Death. When the hour hand approaches the first quarter, Time reverses his hour-glass and strikes one on a bell with his scythe, when another bell inside responds; then Childhood appears in response. When the hour hand approaches the second quarter or half hour, there are heard the strokes of two bells. Then Youth appears and the organ plays a hymn. After this Time strikes two and reverses his hour-glass, when two bells respond inside. One minute after this a chime of bells is heard, when a folding door opens in the upper porch and at the right of the court, when the Savior comes walking out. Then the apostles appear in procession. The clock also tells the moon's changes, the tides of the seasons, days of the month and year, and the signs of the zodiac; and on top a soldier is constantly on guard, walking backward and forward. As the hours advance, Manhood, Old Age and death take part in the panorama.

Sensations During Hanging.

A question has arisen which very few living persons are in a position to answer, viz: What are the sensations experienced during hanging? Some of the few who have been able to give an account of their consciousness at so critical a moment say that, after a moment of pain, the chief sensation is that of a mass of brilliant colors blinding the eye-balls. The Quarterly Review (vol. xxxv), treating of this matter says: "An acquaintance of Lord Bacon, who meant to hang himself partially, lost his footing and was cut down at the last extremity, having nearly paid his curiosity with his life. He declared that he felt no pain, and that his only sensations were of fire before his eyes, which changed first to black and then to sky-blue. These colors are ever a source of pleasure. A Captain Montague, who was executed in France during the religious wars, but was rescued from the gibbet at the intercession of Marshal Turenne, complained that, having lost all pains in an instant, he had been taken from a light that defied description. Another criminal who escaped through breaking of the halter, and that after a second or two of suffering, a light appeared, and across it a most beautiful array of trees. All agree that the unconscious is quite momentary, that a pleasurable feeling immediately succeeds, that colors of various hues start up before the eyes, and that these having been gazed upon for a limited space, the rest is oblivion. The mind, averted from the reality of the situation, is engaged in scenes the most remote from that which fills the eye of the spectator. All the Year Round.

THE SHELBYVILLE SENTINEL

Warning to American Workmen.

The United States Consul at Buenos Ayres, in a recent report, states: "I have been in receipt of letters since I have been here, asking me to advise the American workmen in regard to the condition of the labor in this country. I would not advise anyone to come here with a view to bettering his condition. They can not expect to find employment of any kind. Every variety of manual and mechanical labor is suffering with a general depression of business, and establishments requiring skilled labor are reducing rather than increasing the number of their employees. If persons will come here in search of work, they should bring sufficient money to pay their return expenses. Every few days the consular is visited by distressed Americans, who, having been induced to come out here, have been badly disappointed upon their arrival to find no opportunities to earn a livelihood, thus finding themselves without means either to live here or return home, they become objects of charity."

A Mechanical Curiosity.

A monk of the Benedictine monastery at Reigen, between Brunn and Vienna, has completed a mechanical curiosity in the shape of a self-governing terrestrial globe, 1.4 meters in diameter. A combination of wheels gives it a motion similar to that of the earth, and when once set going it will revolve for three weeks. At the north pole of the axis are three plates, on which the days, months, and years are indicated, and over these is a similar globe, by means of which the motion of planets around the sun is exhibited. The larger globe sets the smaller one in motion by the agency of twelve wheels. The construction of the mechanism took more than ten years' patient application, and was completed after numerous experiments. As regards geographical details, the map of the globe is carefully drawn, and shows all the late discoveries. The steam engines, railway and telegraph lines, and the details of the ocean are all distinctly shown. The maker of the globe is a self-taught mechanic and artist, who, during the past thirty years, has adorned the monastery with numerous examples of his skill and ingenuity.

An interesting paper appeared not long since, in the English Agricultural Gazette, on the color of animals and its relation to their health or diseases. The nature of the food or surrounding earth appears to exert an influence on the color of both animals and plants. Alum directly influences the color of the flowers of the hyacinth, and tempestuous cold bell flowers and certain other birds to grow black. The natives of the Amazonian region feed the common green parrot with the fat of large-skinned fishes, and the birds thus fostered become beautifully variegated, with red and yellow feathers. Young oyster shells taken from the shores of England and placed in the Mediterranean at once alter their manner of growth, and form diverging rays like those on the shell of the Mediterranean oyster.

"You go on spending every cent you bring your hands for striped stockings, and there isn't a cent to be in your house," is what a drunken man was telling a barber's pole, when a policeman arrested him the other day. When taken to the station-house he said he "guessed he could rectify his wife if he wanted to, 'thout bein' rested."

IN STRICT CONFIDENCE.

DEAR NEPHEW: I turn to you, love, in my trouble.

I know you will help me, but I must speak or die. I've found out at last that all this is a bubble.

Don't think, though, with Jack there is no need to worry.

Your house is superb and dear Jack is just splendid.

The baby's the sweetest that ever you saw; I think that my home would be Heaven deuced!

To Harb, were it not for my mother-in-law.

Of course, I set out with a view to adore her.

Jack's mother, you know!—I threw open my heart.

And daily in humblest salams bent before her.

To win her affection, I tried every art. I credited her with all good in creation.

I shut my eyes tight and would not see a flaw.

But now, spite of all, to my own consternation, I find myself hating my mother-in-law.

If I wish for a thing, she'll advise to the contrary.

She waylays my orders for dinner and tea. She criticizes the nurse-maid, and nags cook and Mary.

She criticizes my friends, and politely snubs me.

She tries to control all my household expenses.

She'll turn every key, if she could, in her lock.

With strictures she drives me half out of my senses.

I wonder if Job had a mother-in-law?

And Jack, if he knew it, of course would be worried.

But then, I suppose, and I'll never tell her, she would say, "why I often seem hurried."

Yet to speak would be useless I know.

To some things no but than a man can be blind.

He'd not understand, but just answer, "Oh, please!"

She doesn't half mean it. Go on and don't mind her."

Just fancy "not minding" my mother-in-law!

If I dance at a party, "Such conduct is

There are some who fail to see the propriety of having a Democratic Executive Committee in the county. They can see beyond their nasal appendage, and conclude that said Committee has nothing to do but look after the contest in races for county offices. Leaving out all that these short-sighted individuals imagine compose the duty of the Committee, and still there remains abundant reasons for reorganizing that piece of party machinery. The duties of such a body are not confined to the narrow limits of a county, but it figures in a greater or less extent in all the campaigns to and including that for Chief Magistrate of the United States. These same blind persons will brag and boast that in their infancy they were fed upon Democratic milk, and now they kick because an attempt to keep up the organization is being made.

This Court of Appeals affirmed the decision of the Kenton Circuit Court in the case of Commonwealth against Smith N. Hawes. It will be remembered that Hawes was brought from Covington to Lexington and tried upon three charges of forgery, and was acquitted. The Commonwealth then proposed to try Hawes for embezzlement, but the court dismissed the indictment on the grounds the charge was non-sustainable. This was appealed from, and the lower court was sustained in its ruling.

The continued lax condition of the live-stock market renders the traders of this county, mum as to what price they expect to pay for sheep and lambs this spring. Those who handle large numbers of sheep and lambs every season will now scarcely make the farmer any offer for that kind of stock, they intending to buy only as they want to put it upon the market. The market has been uncommonly harassing during the past few months, and much money has gone from the pockets of the country traders to where "the woodland wineth," and hence forth traders will take fewer risks.

Our statement, last week, in regard to our Representative's mileage, Hon. J. A. Gaines thinks reflects upon him. To show that the mileage drawn by Mr. Gaines was correct, is only necessary to state how he computed the distance when he made out his account for mileage. From his residence to the city of Covington he counted 19 miles; from Covington to Lexington, 95 miles; from Lexington to Frankfort, 23 miles, entitling him to $43.80, a liberal estimate in favor of the State.

The Somerset Reporter gives center when it says: "Merchants who do not advertise have time to sit on the stile-blocks and sing 'Revive us again.'"

MARION COUNTY has in her army of candidates for office, a negro who wants to be jailer.

The Kentucky Legislature gave birth to a new county and named it Leslie.

The last session of the Legislature cost the State $100,211.69.

One of our reporters had the pleasure of being at the depot when the excursion train arrived last Saturday, bearing its precious burden of beer casks in the shape of the Ohio Legislators, and we must confess that our expectations were not gratified.

It was common during the late civil war when John Morgan's command would pass through a country where the people had never seen a "reb" for the children to peep from behind the house and say, "W-y, law, marm, they look just like our men." So we expected of the Legislators, but were mistaken. While it is true they seem composed of flesh and blood (an unusual amount of the former) still there is to be considerable difference between them and our countrymen.

They appeared to have a particular fondness for conversing with the "colored" population, for during their stay we didn't see as many as three engaged in conversation with anyone except a negro. We presume, however, they thought them to be the better informed citizens of Pulaski.

Five of the grand (?) statesmen (?) during their sojourn sauntered off down to a negro shanty below the saw mill, and one engaged two of the fair sex of dark complexion in conversation, whilst the other four assembled themselves around the landlady and amused themselves dandling the negro papooses on their knees. Governor Bishop's attention being called to them he stepped on the platform of the cars and endeavored to call them away by hallooing, "All aboard!" But, alas! alas!

If the Governor of Ohio will obtain a requisition from Governor McCreary we will send them a whole car load of negro babies to nurse.

In justice to Governor Bishop, we will say that he appears to be a respectable, pleasant gentleman, having a bow and smile for all. We hope he will be successful in teaching his statesmen that Kentuckians do not consider it a mark of refinement to see State Representatives so intimate with the colored female population.—Somerset Reporter.

NOT MUCH PRAISE.

The Hopkinsville New Era, speaking of the Legislature, says: "There never was an assembly of statesmen so competent to draw its per diem and master the mathematics of mileage."

The failure of the Legislature to adopt effective measures of relief for the Penitentiary and the Kentucky River was a delinquency that can hardly be excused by the people of Kentucky. These two questions are of special importance to the State, and ought to have been disposed of at an early period in the progress of the session.—Louisville Evening News.

The Kentucky Legislature, died at 12 o'clock yesterday. It went down to the grave unloved, unhonored and unsung. Although in many minor changes of the law its judgment was correct, and will be approved by the people, yet it found its mental stomach unable to digest the weightier matters that came before it and has spewed upon the Commonwealth useless laws and impracticable measures.—Anderson News.

The Kentucky Legislature, having made itself infamous, by what it failed to do, adjourned on Wednesday, after a session of one hundred and two days. When its history comes to be written, it will not take its place in the annals of the State, for either its local or its industry. Innumerable local bills have been rushed through, but the great material interest of the Commonwealth has not exactly been ignored or neglected, but has been debated, amended and substituted to death.

The Legislature at its late session, among other weaknesses, betrayed a strong disposition to trammel the judiciary of the State. It was imbued with a spirit of retrenchment and reform, in everything except its own expense and the mileage of its members, and it did not care to revert the admonition of the distinguished John Marshall: "The greatest scourge an angry heaven ever inflicted upon an ungrateful and sinning people, was an ignorant, a corrupt, or a dependent judiciary," all of which will be entailed upon Kentucky when the compensation of judges is not equal their necessity.—Frankfort Yeoman.

The Legislature adjourned Wednesday, without doing anything for the relief of the overcrowded Penitentiary. One thousand convicts are now confined in a space too small, for a less number, and if the future is to be judged by the past, the number in the next two years will be doubled. Our Representatives wasted a great part of the session in a wrangle over minor matters, leaving the most important questions till corn planting time, and then hurry home with the modest suggestion of a called session of the legislature should be made next year. But their constituents have wasted time and money enough without another draw upon the State Treasury in fruitless dilatory motions to gratify personal and sectional purposes.—Jesseamine Journal.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20, 1878.

The wheels of legislation move slowly as time wears on. The cheerful sunshine of spring time the future with more hopeful prospects, and men in business are committing themselves to their daily toil with brave hearts and more heroic purposes.

The financial question, by an undercurrent of irrepressible conflict, has drifted out of the arena of legislative enactments, or divided public sentiment and the gulf is now closed that has for years been a yawning chasm between greenbacks and gold.

While statesmen and politicians are discussing the best method of resuming specie payment, silent and persistent forces have brought the country to face resumption as a living fact. If this continues for a few days, the whole specie reserve of the nation will be brought into active circulation, and the tendency already to quicken the sluggish activities of trade. Values are now established, and from this onward it may be safe to expect an era of unprecedented prosperity. The wealth to be given this country by a crop—in breadth of area and in quantity unparalleled—will put into circulation among the farmers, millions upon millions, that shall from them flow in ever increasing channels.

No country in the world has such powers of recuperation as a domain so diversified and well adapted to call into active exercise its aggregated industries. The Assistant Treasurer at San Francisco reports the first deposit of coin ever received by him on account of sales of public lands in payment of a currency obligation. 414 new postoffices have been established since the first of December, and the settlement of new fields in the far-west is creating the necessity for new postal facilities at a rapid rate. It is estimated that $200,000 will be collected in this District, by the introduction of the musical Moffet register, and we may shortly expect to hear its tinkling jingle above the hum of all other sounds.

Commissioner Le Duc proposes for the Department of Agriculture a wider field of effort than that of a mere conservatory of pumpkin seeds, a distributing medium of Congressional favors. He claims that we are importing articles from abroad at an expense of $250,000,000 annually, that can be raised with profit by our own people. The cost of imported sugar alone is $110,000,000 per year. The Commissioner is confident that tea, olives, dates, figs and English walnuts can be raised profitably in many sections, and asks Congressional appropriation to test the experiment.

Economy in the House is showing itself in a manner anything but promotive of the interest of the people. For 25 years Congress provided for the publication, at a cost from $50,000 to $200,000 annually, of a meagre illustration of patents granted, known as the Patent Office Gazette, at a subscription price of $5 yearly. A saving of $150,000 was effected, as the subscription, to a great extent, defrayed the cost of publication. The present Congress is so tardy in its appropriations that thousands of inventors who have paid in advance for the Patent Office Gazette will be deprived of it in consequence of the lack of funds to continue the publication. SRO.

Last week we were shown an ancient silver coin. It bore the date 1740, and is the property of N. W. Botts. Wonder how old Craddock was when this piece was coined. Its surface is tolerably smooth, and probably it is the one used by him in cutting teeth.

INVENTORS, to secure intelligent and prompt action on their cases, should employ an attorney in daily intercourse with the officers of the Patent Office. We direct attention to Foster's Patent Office, 509 Seventh street, Washington, D. C. Mr. Foster has practiced before the Patent Office 19 years. Send to him for pamphlets and references.

Good order should now prevail in Burlington. The fourth and is watched over by the vigilant judicial eye of his Honor Judge John S. Phelps, while the north end is under the guardian care of his Honor Judge H. J. Foster. As to riots, riots and breaches of the peace they have concurrent jurisdiction, but Judge Phelps has the better material to work upon, it seems.

Although the Jubilee who were anointed at the April term of Circuit Court were not discharged last Thursday, the case was just then getting down to work.

The principal ones that have been called up to date of this writing are the damages of Andrew Dolph against Hede Wilson, which was continued, and Emma Galt against Scott Rice and Michael Clopp. This suit was brought by the plaintiff to recover a piece of land sold by his father while he (Philip's father) it is alleged was insane. The plaintiff was represented by J. S. Jell, of Rising Sun, Ind.; O. D. Liddell, of Lawrenceburg, Ind.; John F. Fisk, Covington, Ky.; Green & Riddell, of Burlington. The defense was represented by Calvert & Winzler, of Burlington, and Col. John J. Landrum, of Warsaw. The testimony in the case was in the shape of depositions, the reading of which required from Thursday at noon till Saturday noon, the court holding a recess both Thursday and Friday nights. Saturday afternoon the attorneys commenced filing in the wind work, and when court resumed Saturday evening, O. D. Liddell, A. Winston, John F. Fisk and J. S. Jell each delivered himself of an elaborate argument. Monday the argument was resumed by G. Winston in an hour and a half speech which was followed in the afternoon by his colleague, J. J. Landrum, in a two-hour argument. J. Riddell then closed the argument for the plaintiff in a three-hour speech. The attorneys on both sides of the case have worked earnestly and laboriously for their clients, and seemingly as much interested as the parties to the suit. The testimony and arguments adduced in the case give a strong coloring of a new trial of the deceased Garfield for lunacy. The amount paid by the defendants for the land used for something near $8,000, which makes these one of some magnitude. The Judge took time, and it will probably be several months before a decision is rendered.

APRIL 15.—A. D. Riley qualified as Town Marshal of Union.

W. S. Ryle appointed guardian of Joseph Kyle, colored.

Dr. J. M. Grant, Dr. J. C. Terrell and Dr. W. H. Blanton were appointed as Local Board of Health in and for Boone County.

APRIL 18.—R. L. Howlett, J. A. Story, R. Garrison and Nicholas Schwartz filed reports as Road Supervisors.

THURSDAY night, Judge Phelps and Jas. B. Fennell were leaning back against a desk in the Court-room, listening intently to the testimony in the Garland-Rice-Clore case, when the treacherous piece of furniture slipped and "spilled" the functionaries. Gaining their feet, they took seats elsewhere, and in a few moments Judge Foster came in and dropped down in a chair near the tricky desk and reared back, but could not stop going back till he hit the feet of his back on the floor. Of course, a torrent of laughter greeted the fallen Judge's supporters so soon as he got himself on end.

APRIL BLOSSOM bouquets ornamented the breasts of some of the young girls' coats Sunday.

Last week we published an item for which we came near being rebuked out of you may imagine our surprise, when, upon receiving the Commonwealth Saturday evening, we discovered, in the Burlington news, the same identical item with the wording slightly varied. We at once sought the correspondent for said paper at this point, named him of his danger, and suggested that he get himself in company with a couple of his shavers. In language of offense he declared he did not furnish the paper with the item, and that it surely was captured from the columns of the Express. The unfortunate correspondent was much alarmed, and is now but little more than skin and bones, and the haggard look out of his eyes he attributes to the street, expecting to be knocked down at every corner, shows his mental agony to be great. A fellow feeling prompts us to suggest to the Commonwealth that, by giving the proper credit to items in the future, it might prolong the earthly sojourn of its worthy reporter.

We have received a copy of The Southern Humorist, a new monthly paper published in the Courier-Journal building, Louisville, Ky., by Lester C. Hubbard & Co. It is a capital paper. It portrays the comical side of life in the South, particularly as it was in the past, reviving the rich old stories and incidents over which the dust of many years has gathered. The present number contains, as one of the leading features, Trotter Knott's irresistibly funny Duluth speech, which set the world agog with laughter, with many other selections of equal merit. It is profusely and humorously illustrated, and is artistically and carefully gotten up. The subscription price is $1 a year; a dime inclosed to The Southern Humorist, Louisville, Ky., will secure a sample copy. The publishers offer a premium for contributions. Who will send the best joke from this section?

We have on our table two interesting books, for which we are indebted to our friend, Dr. Mc. H. Raymond, of Virginia City, Montana. One is entitled, "The Vigilantes of Montana; Trial, Capture and Execution of Henry Plummer's Notorious Road Agent Band;" the other, "Wonder Land Illustrated; or, Horseback Rides Through the Yellowstone National Park."

The doctor was one of the exploring party mentioned in the last named book.

A XERO woman, in a theological discussion with a white lady, the other day, took her grounds that she would go to heaven, and being asked how she knew that, replied: "The Bible says a rich man can't crawl through a needle any more than a camel can get his head through a needle."

From the maneuvers of some of the boys from the far off heights of Woolper, it seems that they are actually leaping in this part of the moral vineyard. It is no uncommon thing to see two or more of them going through performances which look very suspicious. These things we have been telling you are facts, Mr. Editor, and there's no winking. (We'll risk one wink on it any way.)—Ed.

Let us issue we notice that your correspondent from Union, takes exceptions to the justice done some of the ladies who took part in the dramatic entertainment as he places to term it. As to the performance of the ladies, we must hasten to say they all did extremely well for non-professionals, but we only made the exception in favor of Miss Reed because we thought her part was played with an air which bordered on a real professional. Now, second, it was not a concert as he terms it. Well, if it was not a concert, it resembles what Bobby Newcomb made his reputation at, which is worth mentioning for being the best minstrel troupe in the United States, such as Sour Kraut, and Aunt Femina were prominent features.

Rabbit Hash.

RABBIT HASH, April 11.—The Murphys met at the church last Sunday, 8 p. m., Boss Harris) the Chair. Brother Platt made a few remarks, after which 19 persons came forward and signed the pledge, making a total of 82.

Walter Ryle has returned from the Hot Springs, Arkansas. His condition is not much improved.

RABBIT HASH, April 10.—The prospect for a crop of small grain is still good. Some corn has been planted.

Tobacco plants are reported abundant. Three of the candidates furnished our village within music this week, viz.: Riddell, Roberts and Parker.

The men are about to make the country, but the people have begun to wage war against them. The day last week, Solon Stephens killed 10.

There is a man canvassing this locality for walnut knots for making veneering.

VIRGINIA CITY, MONTANA.

VIRGINIA CITY, MONTANA, April 12, 1878. To the Editor of the Recorder:

Enclose please find $3, my subscription to the RECORDER. My subscription expired last fall, but you have failed to "X" my paper, and have failed to send me the money. To make equal, I send for next year in advance. A few days ago I sent you a copy of "Wonderland." It is a description of the Geysers, and a trip I made to see them in 1872. Also sent a copy of "The Vigilantes of Montana."

Nearly year ago, when I left Kentucky, I promised some of my friends there I would write something about this country for the RECORDER, but I have not done so yet. Not because there was nothing of interest to write about, but because I have felt incapable of doing the subject justice. I have now some very interesting subjects of the country, which I send beyond description.

I was well pleased, and satisfied with the change I have made. I never saw as pleasant a winter as we have had. There hasn't been over four inches of snow at any one time this winter, and it has not rained since last fall, till a few days ago when it sprinkled. In consequence of the above, the country has been better little in the valley. Eight miles below this point the ground has a snow drift and all winter. The past two weeks, and in mountain sides now begin to look quite green. I have had less use for an overcoat and undershirt this winter, than any winter I remember ever passing. I have not worn either a half dozen times.

BURLINGTON, KY., APRIL 25.

THE ANGRY BABY.

No human saw that sight
But felt a shudder of pale fright;
He sat in a window three stories high—
A little baby, with no one nigh.
A stranger saw him and stopped to stare,
A crowd soon gathered to watch him there;
A gleam in a flutter—'tis a baby bright
Came past the window a butterfly bright!
From fields of clover and perfumed air,
Wayfarer inched, what brought you there?
The baby saw it, and eagerly Reached out to catch it with crowling gleo—
With fat, pink fingers reached out,
The awful horror no tongue can tell!
Poor little baby, so sweet and bright!
Pale faces quivered, and lips grew white.
Weak women fainted; strong men grew weak;
'Tis a poor one woman's heart-piercing shriek,
Horrar for the awning! Upon the fly
It caught the youngster, and tossed him high!
The bouis proudest made baby scowl;
He caught his breath, air, and then set up a Wail!
All blessed the baby that had no law;
But a madder baby you never saw.

Women as Journalists.

Among the journals of the great centers through the country, one that has not upon its working force a portion of women would most decidedly point the exception rather than the rule. The metropolis will be found to furnish an exemplification in this particular; not only by the number of women acting as correspondents or contributors, but in the matter of those who are members of the regularly organized staff. Upon that of the New York Sun are two—Mrs. Emily Verelstatter, on the editorial staff at a salary of something over $2,000 per annum, and Miss Anna Ballard, who has had, among other details assigned her, the business of the Sun's office. Each of these ladies has a desk in the editorial rooms, which she occupies precisely as the gentlemen do theirs, and the fact that each of them have held their places on that alert newspaper for years may be considered as the highest tribute of commendation to their ability and fitness for the position which they have so filled.

Attached to the force of the New York World are Miss Mary Humphries and Miss Lucy Benedict. As in the case of the ladies on the Sun, these have been several years engaged on the columns of the World. The art criticisms of Miss Humphries have been the delight to her readers, she having brought to her work, in addition to a naturally fine mind carefully cultivated, an experience which had been gathered during years travel through Europe's art production. Miss Benedict receives her detail like the members of the staff and fills it with perfect satisfaction. Catherine L. Hodges in the St. Louis Journal.

The Advantage of Being a Woman.

"Make way for the ladies!" is the law of civilized society from the equator to either pole. "Will any gentleman oblige a lady?" asks the omnibus driver in his blandest tones; no sooner said than done. For whom are the titbits saved at the feast? Who is served first and has the best set breakfast, dinner and supper? Woman, lovely woman! Who pays for them? Man, the wretch!

Man loves and runs away. Woman brings about for breach of promise and gets damages. Woman loves and she rides away. Man brings his actions and gets booted out of court.

Whatever things are beautiful, whatever things are rare and costly, are at the disposal of woman to make her irresistible. Even the robin red-breast lays down his melodious lute, and justly so, since a bird in her hat is worth two in the bush. The little bow-wows give up their brass collars, they may shine on her snowy neck. She goes forth conquering and to conquer. Man—poor devil—with his chimney pot hat, and his coat—made of the wool of the congenial sheep—is a mere collection of cylinders, and his garments seems con-derned to enhance his ugliness.

Who toils and suffers all hardships; bears the burdens of the day and rig-or and hardship of the night? Man, the unlovely rascal. Meanwhile, woman, bless her sweet heart! gives a smile, an order or two, and is queen of herself—that heritage of joy.

These are only a few of the reasons which show what a grand and glorious thing it is to be a woman, and what cause for gratitude that human being has, who is thus sublimely privileged.

Barley, which was never before a subject of export, has been sent from the United States and Canada to the extent of four million bushels since September last. The oat crop has also been drawn upon to a moderate extent.

The Los Angeles, California, Express states that hundreds of thousands of lambs are going to waste in that country for the want of paying markets to ship them to.

An old rail-splitter in Indiana put a question upon a young man who had been upon his bald head, in words: "Young man, when my wife was a girl, she was a fine girl."

"To lay kittens," was the unexpected reply.

How Men of Genius Carry Over

Curran was a convivial life. Butler was sullen and biting. Gray seldom talked or smiled. Deane was either taciturn or satirical.

Carlyle doubts, object and constantly denounces. Dr. Bentley was loquacious. So also was Grosvenor.

Tasso's conversation was neither gay nor brilliant. Hogarth and Smith were very absent minded in company.

Southey was stiff, sedate, and wrapped up in himself. Chaucer's silence was more agreeable than his conversation.

Goldsmith "wrote like an angel and talked like poor Poll." Leigh Hunt was "like a pleasant stream" in conversation.

Burke was entertaining, enthusiastic and interesting in conversation. Milton was unapproachable and even irritable when pressed into conversation.

Dryden's conversation was slow and dull, and his humor saturnine and reserved.

Fox in his conversation never faded, his variety and animation were inexhaustible.

Ben Johnson used to sit silent in company and drink his wine and their witticisms.

Kirwan, though copious and eloquent in public addresses, was meager and dull in colloquial discourse.

Addison was good company with his intimate friends, but in mixed company he preserved his dignity by a reserved silence.

La Fontaine appeared heavy, coarse and stupid; he could not speak and describe what he had just seen; but then he was the model of poetry.

Cornelius in conversation was so insipid that he never failed in wearing; he did not even speak correctly in the language of which he was such a master.

Some short time ago a woman was trying hard to get her drunken man home, and as she pulled him along the street, her words and actions were so tender that a citizen halted and said: "Well, all drunkard's wives have not your disposition." "Sh-h-h!" don't say anything," she replied in a whisper. "I've got to tell him my name to get him home, but wait till he drops in the hall—be there then!"

An absent minded editor having courted a girl, and applied to her father, the old man said: "Well, you want my daughter; what sort of a settlement will you make; what will you give her?" "Give her," replied the editor looking up vacantly; "Oh, I'll give her my pen." "Take her," replied the father.

In Danbury lives the champion boy for patience; he comes from a chivalric borrowing family. The other day he went to a neighbor's for a cup of soup milk. "I haven't got any but sweet milk," said the woman petulantly. "I'll wait till it cools," said the obliging youth, sinking into his chair.

The sea-otter is so deeply imbued with the fear of man, that all attempts to keep it alive after its capture have failed, as it perishes by self-imposed starvation, all through its unconquerable fear of man. Oh, woman, woman, how deeply and strongly you do not remind me of thesea-otter.

When a kitten crawls into bed with you at two o'clock in the morning, and you throw it on the floor, and it crawls back, and you pitch it out of the window, and it climbs on the roof, and comes in at the attic and takes its place in the bed again, what can a poor woman do but cry?

A blacksmith, having been slandered, was advised to apply to the courts for redress. He replied, with true wisdom: "I shall never sue anybody for slander. I can go into my shop and work out a better character in six months than I could get in a Court-house in a year."

A NOVEL decoration was worn the other day by a recruit in the Austrian service. When passing muster the sergeant asked what order he was wearing. The recruit blushed deeply, and stammered: "The medal which was given our cow at the late agricultural exhibition."

Two country attorneys overtaking a wagoner on the road, thinking to break a joke with him, asked him why his horse was so fat and the rest of the lean. The wagoner knowing them to be limbs of the law, replied that the horse was a lawyer, and the rest were his clients.

There was considerable amusement caused, not long ago, by a female witness, who, on the oath being administered, repeatedly kissed the clerk instead of the book. "It was some time before she was made understand the proper—or, at least, the legal thing—to do.

A. J. Coshaw, while gathering pecans in Gonzales County, Texas, recently, saw from his place on a limb of the tree something glittering on the ground below. It was a Mexican silver dollar. He dug at the root of the tree and unearthed 88,000 worth of coin.

"JOHNNY, what does your mother keep a cat for?" "To lay kittens," was the unexpected reply.

KENTUCKY.

Kentucky! on thy gently brow,
We place wreaths of green;
Inlaid with birch and myrtle's bough,
And bluegrass braids between.

We plant it o'er with mountain pine,
And hempen sheaves that gleam;
And deep beneath the folds we twine,
The lilies of the stream.

Beneath arise before our sight,
With falcon plumes of pride;
And cast a spell of magic might,
Through all thy borders wide.

From valley's stream to mountain peak,
We see thy glory rise;
Reflected in each lowly creek,
That glides the morning skies.

The battles and the "Bloody Ground,"
Are sacred in our song;
And all thy noble deeds abound,
To point the course of wrong.

A Kenton and a Boone thought dead,
Still live in memory dear;
Fain would we follow as they lead,
Without regret or fear.

The savage warrior sleeps beneath,
The gentler ray of peace;
The broken bow and rusty sheath,
Bid savage warfare cease.

Like rampart now we see the stand,
When danger lower'd his eye;
And they across majestic grand,
With eagle piercing eye.

Even now we feel thy mighty wand,
Uplifted like ancient shields;
When civil discord shook the land,
Thou wouldst not bring no yield.

All hallow'd be thy glorious name!
Bright emblem of the past;
A tall man to hope and fame,
Still cherished 'till the last.

The Fine Art of Eating.

A pretty young lady the other day, treated herself in a restaurant to a lunch which for artistic simplicity can not be surpassed. Most young ladies have an inclination to lunch with have called for an unknown quantity of meringues and baker's trash, ending with a leaping saucer of ice-cream. Not so this young lady. She had a solid, rosy, well nourished look about her which indicated, a priori, that she lived on better things. Her lunch fulfilled one's expectations. She sat down calmly, looked over the bill of fare from top to bottom, and then, ignoring all creams, custards, meat pies and mixed messes, ordered—brown bread and butter and young onions. She ate them in a beautiful manner. It was good to notice how daintily she tackled the tender, pale-green shoot, dipped it in the tiny pyramid of salt, and conveyed it to her mouth. She ate six of the tender pale-green onions, and enjoyed them. She was fond of the onions, and had none of that affected squeamishness about eating them which most young ladies display. She ate them honestly, and her way of doing it showed that she was quite accustomed to the "table manners" of good society.

The young woman with her onions had the true idea of the fine art of eating. It is to have only a few dishes at a time, to have them abundant in quantity, and of the best quality. No epicurean would consent to have twelve or fifteen courses at his dinner, consisting of mixed up and shaken together materials from the four corners of the earth. Such a dinner is alike destructive to appetite, digestion and all that is esthetic in the art of eating. It savors of the too-muchness of galvanized iron ornamentation in architecture. The true epicurean's dinner will always be made up of only a few dishes, but those unsurpassed in material, cookery, and furnishings. Variety he has in plenty, but he obtains it by having fewer dishes, and once, and so on, passing from simplicity into floridness, and from floridness into simplicity again, but it is the simplicity of the true art. One kind of rightly cooked meat, vegetables ditto, two or three dainty little side dishes, and a pyramid of perfect fruit, luscious from the fruit—no one who really knew the true art of enjoying his food would accept anything more. And he would have a different round of dishes every day for a week, because there would be so much to choose from.

As a word, however, the foundation of cookery will always be beef steak, coffee and bread. Our English friends make merry over our short comings in the above staples. Almost no English novel is written without reference to Americans, that it does not have some allusion to the solo-leather beef steak of the United States. Next after the beef steak, the Englishman's notes of travel deal with our muddy, bitter coffee, and our vile hot bread. One will be surprised when he stops to recall the hospitable mansions in which he has breakfasted at different times, to think how few of the housekeepers broiled their steak instead of frying it, steeped the coffee instead of boiling it, and had whole some homemade bread. Those benevolent ladies who are forming themselves into associations to kindly help and guide friendless and untrained young women, would confer an untold benefit on humanity if they would teach, first themselves, and then the untrained young women, how to cook a beef steak and make coffee and bread as it should be done.

No matter how deliciously cooked one's food may be, though, there may be surroundings which take away his appetite. If he raises his eyes in a public dining-room and behold as countless host of his fellow-men eating with their knives, plunging those dangerous implements well down their throats at every mouthful; if they sit curled up like the letter S, with their elbows propped upon the table; if they "schlurp" their coffee like a cat, if they quander; if they talk so loud that he knows every bottle of ale and vanilla custard that are ordered in a circuit of ten feet around him, the epicurean will hardly care much for his dinner. Refined and dainty table manners are an indispensable element of the fine art of eating—eating being an operation which is not superlatively pretty to look at, at its best.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Union.

Geo. Hahn, the village shoemaker, took his departure from our midst the other morning, leaving behind him many warm friends who regret his decision to make the classic village of Beaver Lick his future home. It is a matter of regret that a little unpleasantness engendered by the late contest for city marshal had something to do with the removal. We were about to salute to his last and awl, but perhaps had better not.

Our town will soon be as celebrated for its music, in proportion, as the Paris of America. Since the advent of the organ, very great musical talent has been developed here, and you need not be surprised to be called upon to print a programme for a musical entertainment that will rival the Cincinnati May Festival. Dr. W. H. Blanton is one of the leaders, and among musical critics is pronounced peculiarly fine and especially adapted to sacred music. He prefers the music of Beethoven to all the other great masters.

Joe Wagstaff has not been in town since he came out to prospect for Ben Sleet. It was generally supposed here that as he would have to pack home the switch-tail filly he rode, he would not return till he could borrow a better horse.

Now Mr. Editor, there is an ancient tradition here that can not help being interesting to your readers, who have had patience to wade through the watery productions of the inking-ink that acts in the capacity of your Florence correspondent, and for their benefit I shall attempt to give you a few outlines in this communication. It had been generally believed that that far famed Spanish knight of the olden time, Don Quixote, had passed away from this mundane sphere in his day and age. But not so, says our tradition, but it is believed that he came over with the gallant Christopher Columbus to the new world, and on that eventful day, when that bold navigator landed on the Island of San Salvador, and laid claim to the new continent for the Royal Patrons, Don Quixote was the second man whose feet pressed the shore of America, and seizing a staff that bore the Royal Colors of Spain, he attempted to plant it in the sand, but his then great infirmities, notwithstanding his arduous task, caused it to imitate the motion of a dogstar, from which time to the present day, the aforesaid knight has been known by the name of Wagstaff. This is true, will account, in a great measure, for the usual tone of your Florence correspondent's communications. His great age and infirmities render him easily imposed upon, and since Jeff Ux says Wagstaff's story about believing that someone has again invaded our poor old Don, this venerable man can have but few rivals; we might say but two in point of age. The Wanderer Jew, and Craddock, of the Paris True Kentuckian,—but he deserves to rank with, if not above, the Honorable Representative from the county of Kenton, as a specimen fossil of the age of knighthood and chivalry.

This Outskilt Recorder is mean enough to expose the profession in this shameful way: "An editor's wife never goes through her husband's other trousers' pockets to strike a pack-age of love-letters." Editors are not like the wicked, unfaithful men of the town—editors rarely have other

Yet less than one short-decade ago, the man whose body lay in that coffin was the domineering ruler of New York City. His breath made and unmade men. Monday week the Supervisors of Tax assessable and commence investigating the returns made by the Assessor for the year 1878.

The widow of R. D. Jones has received checks for $2,500, the amount of her deceased husband's policy in the Bowling Green Masonic Life Insurance Company.

Our young friend, James Duncan, is having a commodious house built, but then it is to be occupied by Jimmie's brother-in-law. We can't say for what period, though.

There are five or six farms on the Covington and Lexington pike, in the neighborhood of Greenwood Lake, for sale. These farms being offered for sale is owing chiefly to the hard times.

Of last Monday, J. A. Davis was in town making arrangements with regard to repairing the room now occupied by Mr. Hawes as a store, and into which he will shortly move and open up the merchandising business.

The Assessor thinks there will be a considerable falling off in the total valuation of the property assessed this spring, as compared with that of 1877. It is right that there should be, since everything else has depreciated in value.

It will not be many days till a residence will commence going up immediately west of town, on the tract of land conveyed to Henry Hoffman by James Duncan. There are several good locations around this "burg" we would like to see occupied.

Monday we saw Geo. Hughes drive into town with a patent beehive in his wagon, or a patent churn, we could not say which; but as George has been known to use the former, we will call it a beehive and say that he is going to cultivate a crop of bees this season.

It has been discovered that geese are very fond of the Colorado potato bugs, and will devour them wherever found. Some of the potato-growers in the Bullittville neighborhood have given their geese the job of bugging their potatoes, which they are doing in a very satisfactory manner.

The Bowling Green Post-Dispatch says: "A gentleman from Christian died yesterday that the rust is affecting the entire wheat crop in that county. We learn that the same thing is true of the wheat in many sections of Warren, and some of our farmers are actually plowing up the crop to put in corn."

We direct the attention of our lady readers of the town and the surrounding country to the advertisement of Mrs. E. A. Seaman in another column. Mrs. Seaman has opened out a stock of milliner goods at this place, and we trust those wanting articles in her line will give her a call. She proposes to do as well by them as those in the city will.

INVENTORS, to secure intelligent and prompt action on their cases, should employ an attorney in daily intercourse with the officers of the Patent Office. We direct attention to Foster's Patent Office, 609 Seventh street, Washington, D. C. Mr. Foster has practiced before the Patent Office 19 years. Send to him for pamphlet and references.

We understand that the citizens in the vicinity of Florence X-Roads are organizing an excursion party which will visit the Kentucky River bridge, on the Southern Railroad, on the 21st of this month. All those desiring to make the trip will furnish their names, accompanied with $2, to Will Conner, who has the excursion in charge. A grand time may be expected.

QUINS.

May's new. Gases will be at a premium now.

It is about time to commence plowing. One town has more and better shade every year.

Putting down the Morphies—Planting potatoes.

The fragrant crab-apple now sheddeth its odors.

The potato-bug has commenced his spring reconnoiter.

The most popular thing in business circles—Bankrupting.

The reason for the trader to gather the juvenile nut is here.

Contrabands made on Sunday are void. The annual innumerable marriage contracts.

Just wait, young man; you will get a position after a while, but it may be a horizontal one.

Sharpen up your sheep shears, that they may be fit for use when your neighbor borrows them.

Look up your paragon bottles and have their contents replenished, for the green apple will commence business in a few days.

Bullfrogs could furnish more good hands to work on a bunch route than any other town of its dimensions in the country.

Last Thursday, the Deputy County Clerk, Mr. M. T. Garnett, was started from a semestral slumber by a gentle and careful knocking on the Clerk's office door.

The knocker was invited in and seated. But few minutes were allowed to waste till the gray-headed individual asked Mr. G. if he could get marriage license there. He was informed that that depended somewhat on circumstances.

The Clerk at once commenced his pumping process, and finally extracted the information that the lady he wished to take for better or worse was in town. Mr. G. had him bring the lady to the office, when he prepared the bond, and they signed it. Miss Mary Johnson and Mr. Peter Monroblech (who will not stop to pronounce that last name for you). The services of Elder H. J. Foster were then sought, and the parties made man and wife, as provided by the statutes of the Dark and Bloody Ground, when they departed. No one knows from whence the parties came nor whither they went.

Married. McKIM—RICH. On the 25th ult., at the residence of the bride's father, in Kentucky, County, Mr. W. F. McKim, of this town, and Miss Florence Rich. No cards.

The ceremonies were performed about 5 p. m., and after supper the newly wedded couple took their leave of the friends and relatives who were assembled to witness the ceremonies and started to Burlington, where the groom had furnished and in waiting his future residence. Not even an informal reception was indulged in. When the citizens of the town retired that night, in the town was a furnished and vacant house, and the next morning found residence occupied by Mr. W. F. McKim and lady. We wish them much joy.

The summer time-table of the Southern Railway, which went into effect on the 28th ult., will appear in our next issue. This road now offers increased accommodations to the patrons of the line. Special attention will be given to the accommodating excursion parties, either to High Bridge or Cumberland River on regular or special trains. Information regarding rates will be cheerfully furnished by the agents or the office in Cincinnati. Passengers whose necessities are urgent will be carried on any freight train, to all of which superior cabooses are attached.

The following lines we take from the Somerset Reporter, and pronounce Pulaski an exception:

In Pulaski County there is not a man who desires the office of Sheriff. The county has had a Sheriff for several years. Mr. Samuel Tate, by special appointment, has been collecting the taxes. It seems that he is the only man that will assume even that responsibility, and as he has heretofore made a faithful and efficient officer in that respect, he will probably be continued in the position if he desires it.

County Court. APRIL 13.—Robt. M. Wilson allowed $20 for the benefit of Lucy Hammon.

APRIL 27.—B. K. Slet allowed $7 50 amount of fee bill paid the Clerk of the Court of Appeals on account of the Bounty Fund case.

APRIL 29.—Neal Brown leased of the county Edward Fitzgerald, aged 8 years, the lease to expire March, 1880.

Personal Mention. THOS. CLORE, of Bellevue, has been seriously ill for several days.

Miss HETTIE KIRKPATRICK has returned from a visit to friends in Covington.

Our young friend I. G. Hamilton has decided to spend the summer in Burlington and devote his time to reading law.

Our druggist, Hugh R. Riffe, was absent the first of the week attending the nuptials of his sister and Henry Smith, of Union.

The following came to hand last week: LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 23, 1878.

W. L. RIDGELL, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor in regard to the new Democratic Executive Committee for Boone County last hand. The appointment of the following committee has been duly confirmed by the State Central Committee, as follows: Benj. Kinley, Clerk; Charles J. John, Sam. Hays, John E. Green, W. H. Tarrill, John C. Riley, Respectfully, JOHN WATTS KERRY.

BURLINGTON is a very nice little town, but it is more for improvement. The population is more or less wooden, and the people are afflicted with the spring fever and that it is not badly for anyone to visit there. Covington Sunday Press.

The top-ple of the reporter who got up that item is affected with woodiness, to say the least.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

The Phonograph and its inventor—A Congressman—Astonished—The Postoffice Department in Want of Means—The Financial Outlook.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder. WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26, 1878. THE LATEST INVENTION.

The scenes witnessed before the Senate and House Committees on Patents, last Friday, recalled to mind the early days when Morse, under great difficulties, was seeking to interest Congress in the construction of the first telegraph—a line between this city and Baltimore.

The master genius of this later occasion was Thomas A. Edison, who sat at the table before the Phonograph, his latest invention, and one that has made his name world-wide.

This young man, just past thirty, has already taken out one hundred and fifty-eight patents, mostly in telegraphy and electrical apparatus. The committee rooms were filled with Senators, members and men and women from among the most cultured and scientific in the land. All eyes were upon

THE BEARDED EDITION.

Whose shaggy brown hair stood out at every angle, in spite of comb and brush. His eyes of piercing gray looked out from under a high, arched forehead, while his prominent nose and nervous fingers suggested the artisan just in from his workshop.

THE PHONOGRAPH.

Is a cylinder covered with small spiral grooves. At the end is a crank by which it may be turned. The speaking disk or diaphragm rests against the cylinder, and on the outer side is a mouth-piece. On the inside of this a delicate steel point is adjusted so as to follow the grooves as the cylinder revolves. This cylinder is covered with tin, the crank turned, while the inventor

WATTS, STROVE AND WHISTLES.

Into the mouthpiece of the instrument, and the sound issuing from the reverse side of the diaphragm or tympanum forces the needle to make impressions upon the tin. Reversing the instrument, the needle drops into the same points in the grooves as the cylinder revolves. These indentations cause sound waves to be given back from the mouth-piece

IN THE EXACT TONES OF VOICE.

With their original pathos and intonations, and so distinct that they were distinctly heard by everyone in the room. "Old Uncle Ned" was sung, Yankee Doodle whistled, poetry was recited; S. S. Cox made a speech, and when the cylinder was reversed and again set in motion, song, whistle, speech and poetry all sounded forth clear and distinct.

ONE UNBELIEVING MEMBER.

Thought it was ventriloquism, and insisted on Edison leaving the room, after which he tried the experiment himself, and leaning back in his chair he exclaimed: "I'll be—d—d if the thing don't talk!"

We should like to tell more of this wonderful inventor and invention but we must turn now to more practical things.

ABOUT SHERMANIZE.

This time the cry comes from the Post-office Department, who report 10,000 post-offices of registered letter blanks, and as money to be any printed to send them. That this is an enormous sum the public is shown by the fact that the Department has on file orders for $500,000 blank.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK IMPROVING.

The manifest improvement in the business outlook is greatly encouraging all classes. Many banks are paying out specie, and thousands upon thousands of gold are coming into use, thereby greatly increasing the amount of money in circulation. It is stated that over $100,000,000 of gold and silver that has long been hidden out of sight, will now be added to the available capital of the country.

This inflation of the currency is a good thing, and will stimulate the depressed valuations and give them stability. It makes little difference now whether the Resumption Act is repealed or not. Practical resumption has already commenced.

LINES TO THE CUCUMBER.

The cucumber green the feral board
Embroided in condiments rare,
And the epicure glaucously rubeth his paunch.
At sight of the treasures there
The doctor smiles a sick-like smile
And giveth a crocodile groan.
And the marble man goes out the while
And polketh up a stone.
The undertaker mournfully asks
"What will his measure be?"
And the sexton marketh a spot "reserved"
Under the willow tree.
Tis hard the times and 'tis scarce the cash
And so with a sighful cry
We welcome waft to the fruitful furrow
That giveth the folk employ.

During the last year of the la-war, when a call was made for one-year men, there was a young man in West Virginia who had some aspiration for military honors. He wrote to the Governor for a Captain's commission to raise a company of one-year men. He was sent a Second Lieutenant's commission, with privilege of Captain if he got up a company. He put up a tent, hired a man to beat the drum, and in a few days got one recruit, and that was he got in a month.
The Governor, thinking that he might have a company raised, wrote to ask him if he had a hundred good men for one year. The Lieutenant wrote back that he did not have a hundred good men for one year, but he had one—a good man for a hundred years.—Detroit Free Press.

A LADY who once in girlhood sat on Dr. Johnson's knee, has died in England, aged ninety-seven years. If the mere fact of sitting on a gentleman's knee is conducive to female longevity, and our young girls wish to prolong their lives, we know lots of young men who are willing to assist in the hygienic work of devoting their knees to that purpose two or three nights in the week.

How women can sit bolt upright and not change a position, looking neither to the right nor the left, during a sermon in church, passeth the understanding. A man will sit on a picket fence all the afternoon to see a ball match, but put him in a church pew for three-quarters of an hour, and he will wobble all over the seat. It can be said for the women that they do not wobble.

On hearing that a "river convenwould attend. The only information we could get was that it felt very dry and would like to go to Frankfort (applause) but feared that there might be some trouble about the matter of mileage.—New Era.

It is stated as a significant fact that in the experience of prison-keepers that while wives constantly visit and almost invariably desert them in their troubles.

When you see a woman balancing

FASHION NOTES.

White and blue are worn with good effect.

Blush pink is a fashionable color for full-dress bonnets.

Street basques are increased in length this season.

Soft drapery is quite novel, and will be quite popular.

The real Roman pearls are beads
most used by stylish milliners.

The most fastidious women wear hosiery to match their dresses.

A perfect fitting corset is indispensable to a perfectly-fitting dress.

New veils are narrow black net pieces, to be worn like a mask veil.

A novelty for summer dresses is being colored linen in open patterns like lace or brocade.

The ulster will be the most fashionable garment in linen for summer traveling purposes.

Evening toilets are all made Princess or Empress robes, and the trains are full a yard long.

The merchants say that more goods have been sold on opening days this year than ever before.

A modern costume of fine cambric or percale is as pretty and elaborate in its way as one of silk.

Neat and pretty dresses for young ladies and school girls are made of hair-pressed summer silks.

Broadened grenadines of two colors, or two shades, are among the richest dresses shown for summer.

In all goods, both foreign and domestic, there is a marked improvement in the quality and finish.

The styles of millinery are so varied and many this season, that out of the hundreds displayed no two look alike.

One of the prettiest novelties brought out in millinery, is flowers whose petals are formed of thin flakes of mother of pearl.

The evening shoe, whether for balls or receptions, is de rigueur, low, with French heels, and must match the toilet. Boxtoes, whether round or square, are preferred both for evening and street wear.

Fine hosiery will not be hidden by close, high boots this season, as even for street wear, low shoes with high heels will be adopted, the uppers bearing of fancy cloths to match costumes, and foxed with black kid.

There are shown some beautiful sets of wide collars and deep cuffs in colored silk Torchon—pale straw color, gold color, pink and blue, shaded and producing a beautiful effect under gas-light when worn over dark toilets.

The latest novelties in laces are real round point and Duchesse lace collars in the shape of a square Pompadour, front and back, and opening in back instead of front. Deep cuffs to match come with these, reaching almost to the elbows.

On the insteps of the finest clocked and embroidered silk and lisle-thread stockings are seen delicate lines of silver and gold thread, cropping out here and there, and on others appearing seedings of Roman, pearl and fine glass beads.

Two thousand trimmed pattern hats and bonnets were actually the number exhibited last week on the opening days of a well known New York house, and among the two thousand there was not a single old style in shape, trimming or millinery material. Everything was new.

A cow belonging to Jane Arnold died suddenly, and had in her one full grown, fully developed calf and forty-seven little ones, about the size of small pigs. Ten responsible witnesses testify to it. The calves were all dead.

Horses are cheap in Texas. Pretty fair horses adapted to saddle or wagon but unbroken, can be had for twelve

Not long since, a minister prayed for those in his congregation who were too proud to kneel and too lazy to

HAIR
RENEWER
This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.
Its effects are as wonderful and as satisfactory as ever.
It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.
It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.
By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.
As a dressing, nothing has been found so effective or desirable.
A. J. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."
Price, One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye
FOR THE WHISKERS.
This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF THE FARMER'S MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF BOONE COUNTY, KY.

ARTICLE I.—NAME.
This Association shall be known by the name of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boone County, Ky., its object being to insure its members against loss by fire or lightning, and its place of business being

ARTICLE II.—OFFICERS.
The officers of this Association shall be a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Assessor, with twelve Directors, each of whom so elected shall be a member of this Association. Three of the Directors, with the President and Secretary, shall compose an Executive Committee.

ARTICLE III.—ELECTIONS.
The first election for officers and Directors of this Association shall be held on the first Saturday in January, next, at which time the officers and twelve Directors shall be elected, six of whom shall serve till the next election, and six for one year longer. The next election shall be held on the first Saturday of the ensuing January, and thereafter annually, on the said first Saturday, there shall be elected a full set of officers, and six Directors to serve for two years. The election shall be held by three Judges chosen from among the members for that purpose, who shall certify to the correctness of the election, which certificate shall be filed away with the papers of the Association. In all elections a plurality vote shall elect. Officers and Directors thus elected shall hold their successors are elected and qualified.

ARTICLE IV.—VACANCIES.
Should a vacancy occur, by death, resignation or otherwise, the President shall appoint a member to fill the vacancy till the next annual election after the occurrence of such vacancy.

ARTICLE V.—PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT.
It shall be the duty of the President to preside at all meetings of the Association. In the absence of the President, the Vice-President shall occupy his chair.

ARTICLE VI.—SECRETARY.
The Secretary is to keep a true record of the official transactions of the Board, and of the proceedings of all meetings of the Association. He shall procure a sufficient number of blank policies containing the Constitution and By-Laws, together with all books, stamps, stationery, etc., that may be needed.

ARTICLE VII.—TREASURER.
The Treasurer shall receive all moneys paid by members of the Association, whether on assessment or otherwise, and keep a correct record thereof, and pay out no money except on order signed by the Secretary and countersigned by the President. He shall give bond to the satisfaction of the Directors of the Association. His books shall be open for inspection at all reasonable times, and he shall make settlement at each of the annual meetings of the Association.

ARTICLE VIII.—ASSESSOR.
It shall be the duty of the Assessor to assess all damages occasioned by fire or lightning, subject to appeal.

SECTION 1. This Company will make insurance for the term of five years only.
2. This Company will insure dwelling-houses, barns, stables and out-buildings, for which Premium Notes will be required at the rate of 1 per cent. of the insured value.

3. Furniture, goods and produce contained in insurable buildings will be insured, and not more than two-thirds of the cash value of any building or contents will be insured.
4. Every person wishing to become a member of this Company shall, previous to being insured, deposit his Application and Premium Note with the Secretary of said Company, pay a cash premium of $2 on every $1,000 or fractional part thereof of the insured value, and $1 for the survey.

5. If insurance be wanted on more than one building in the same policy, the amount on each must be named; also, the amount on furniture, goods, grain, etc., must be specially named.

A Future Female Diary.
Monday—Just as I had settled my household work for the day, I was called away to see a jury, and had to remain in the law courts till the evening.

Tuesday—Some riots having taken place in our neighborhood, was forced to act as special constable.

Wednesday—Received a letter from my friend Susie, who has heard that the militia is to be called out. Visited her and discovered that the women, as citizens, are now liable to military service.

Thursday—Had to attend an inquest as a Coroner's jurymen. A very unpleasant duty, indeed, as it was held upon a man who had committed a most horrible suicide.

Friday—Having failed to obey the orders of the County Judge, was locked up in prison for contempt. I owe this scrape to the extravagance of my husband—a man who will buy his hats and coats, and will not work for our living.

Saturday—In deep tribulations. The governor of the jail is a female, and as a matter of course, favors the male prisoners. Asked for a book and was furnished with a work on Roman law. Cried myself to sleep over a passage which told me no one could obtain the privilege of a citizen without accepting a citizen's duties and responsibilities.

Oh, why did I give up the privileges of a real woman for the miseries of a mock man?

A most unfortunate man, a resident of Murry County, Georgia, has, since the war, accidentally killed five men. The first was slain by an axe slipping from his hand as he was striking the victim on the head; the second he drowned by snagging and sinking a boat in which the pair was crossing a stream; the third was shot through the brain, being mistaken for a turkey; the fourth was killed by a tree he had chopped down, and the fifth was killed at a logrolling. He was put on trial for his life on several occasions, but each time was exonerated from all blame. He is a peaceable, law-abiding man, simply the victim of a chain of unhappy circumstances.

A doctor went out West to practice his profession. An old friend met him on the street one day and asked him how he was succeeding in his business.

"First rate," he replied. "I've had one case."

"Well, what was that?"

"It was a birth," said the doctor.

"How did you succeed with that?"

"Well, the old woman died, and the child died, but I think I shall save the old man yet."

SAYS Bob Ingersoll: "Woman has the right to do as she pleases." Well, whether she has or not, that's exactly what she does—if married.

No man can get rich by sitting in alcoves and stores.

16. In all cases when the policy is to be assigned, the assignee must sign the Premium Note or give a new note. The assignment shall be made in the policy and sent to the Secretary, with a recording fee of one cent.

17. This Company will not insure any buildings situated in any town or village.

18. Whenever any alterations shall be made in any building insured by this Company, unless permission in writing is first obtained from the Company to make such alterations, such alterations shall void the policy. And if, during the insurance, the risk be increased by the erection of other buildings, or by the use or occupation of other buildings or premises, or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the insured to give notice to the Company immediately, and if, for this or any other cause, the Company shall so elect, the Company may terminate the insurance, after giving notice to the insured of their intention to do so, in which case the Company will refund a ratable portion of the premium.

19. Every person who applies for insurance in this Company, and at the time of such application is insured on the same property in any other company, shall state the fact of such insurance in such application; and in default thereof, or if he shall make a false statement thereof, the policy issued thereon shall be void, and if he shall afterward, during the existence of such policy, procure insurance on the same property from any other company, he shall give notice thereof to the Secretary with all reasonable diligence, and the case shall be referred to the Company, and the policy shall be void, and the policy shall be forfeited. And in all cases of double insurance, this Company shall be liable for such ratable portion only of the loss or damage happening to the property insured as the amount insured by this Company shall bear to the whole amount insured thereon, without reference to the date of the different policies.

20. Every person having buildings insured, or who may hereafter improve or rebuild, shall have the privilege of taking out a new policy and cancelling the old one by giving a Premium Note and paying $2 on every $1,000 or fractional part thereof of the additional sum insured.

21. All persons insured by this Company and sustaining loss or damage by fire shall forthwith give notice thereof to the Secretary, and within thirty days after said loss deliver a particular account of such loss or damage to the Secretary, verified by oath or affirmation. And whenever any loss shall happen and a difference shall arise between the insured and the Company, the same shall be determined by three disinterested arbitrators of this county, to be mutually chosen by the insured and the Company.

22. No assessment upon the Premium Note shall be declared until a loss shall happen by fire or lightning, and in no case shall the person insured be held responsible to the Company for a larger sum than the amount of his Premium Note.

23. No insurance shall take effect till the amount insured for insurance shall exceed $100,000, and the Association shall be considered insolvent when the entries for insurance fall below that amount.

24. Whenever an assessment shall have been made upon the Premium Note and the sum determined which each person shall pay on his or her note, if such sum shall not be paid within thirty days after the same shall have been demanded by the Company, or their agent, the Directors may, at their option, annul the policy of insurance given upon such note, and may retain in such note and collect thereon such sum as assessed.

25. Losses shall be payable in sixty days after the same shall be ascertained and proved, according to the terms and conditions included in and annexed to the several policies of insurance.

26. The By-Laws of this Company shall be altered or modified without the consent of a majority of the members at a called or annual meeting of the members.

27. All persons employed by the Company in the discharge of their duties shall receive their compensation in advance, and they shall be paid by the Company, and the Secretary shall receive one dollar per month for his services; such blanks to be filled at the option of a majority of the Directors.

A Printer's Misfortune.
Some years ago, when the writer was a reporter upon an Eastern paper, it devolved on him to write for the same edition an account of a presentation of a gold-headed cane to the Rev. Dr. Mudge, the clergyman of the place, and the description of a new hog-killing machine that had just been put in operation at the factory. "Now, what made Mr. Mudge mad was this: The inconsiderate buccannier who made up the form, got the two locals mixed in a frightful manner, and when we went to press, something like this was the appalling result: "Some of Mr

WORDS OF STRENGTH.

BY SCRIBLER.

There are three lessons I would write—
Three words as with a burning pen
In tracings of eternal light,
Upon the hearts of men.

Have hope. Though clouds environ now,
And gloom shades the horizon in a scorn,
Put thou the window from thy brow—
No night but has its morn.

Have faith. Where'er thy bark is driven—
The calm's report, the tempest's mirth—
Know this—God rules the host of Heaven,
The inhabitants of earth.

Have love. No love alone for one,
But man to man, thy brother's care;
And scatter like the circling sun,
Thy charities of air.

Thus give those lessons on thy soul—
Hope, Faith and Love, and thou shalt find Strength when life's sorrows rustle roll,
Light when thou closest eyes are blind.

Good South, Bad North.

All the great crimes committed in the North have been by such saints as Beecher, McCoskey, Gilham, Chace, and other shining lights of the Church. Infidels like Ingelsoll rejoice in these exposures, as they use them to show that religion is a mockery and a farce, espoused by hypocrites for the sole purpose of hitting their vitality. But the Church should be no more condemned on account of the corruptions of its members than the war of the Revolution should be condemned because of the treachery of Arnold. But while the Church of the North seems to be permeated and infected with rottenness the people of the South have abundant cause to congratulate themselves on the fact that the ministers and leading members have not entailed upon their Churches any of the scandals which are almost daily chronicled at the North. Neither the preachers nor the members of the Churches furnish heinous details of the filthy amours to gratify the purblind world. While a moral pestilence and a religious blight pervades Northern society the South is still stander amantibus. Her people are held up as beacons, murderers and assassins. Those who are continually giving over the denunciation of the Southern people should come to the task with clean hands.—Memphis Appeal.

New Wheat Field.

It is said that returned Chinamen, who have learned on the Pacific slope to prefer wheat to rice as the staple article of food, are introducing not only the taste for it, but also its cultivation in their native land. For the past few years considerable quantities of wheat have been exported to China; but it is said that the home production is increasing so rapidly that there will soon be a surplus for export. So careful close is Chinese agriculture, that the wheat never yields less than forty bushels to the acre, and even at twenty-five cents a bushel this pays well. Some anti-Mongolian has figured up that China has ten times the available area for wheat culture than the Pacific States possess, and labor costs but a quarter as much. At the prospect of increase in the culture of wheat by the Chinese, our anti-Mongolian friends fear that China may become the formidable competitor of California. To all this we would simply add that, if a half civilized country can compete with us in the production of raw material, it certainly can not in manufactured products. A little more competition with American wheat in European markets might prove very advantageous to our millers, by preventing so much of our wheat from leaving the country.—Colorado Farmer.

The Weather For May.

In his forecast of the weather for the month of May, Professor Tice thus states it:

First and second, cloudy and threatening, with severe storms in places; 2nd to 5th, clear or fair; 5th to 8th, cloudy and threatening weather, with rain storms; 8th to 11th, clear or fair, with probably frost on the 8th or 9th in the northern or central portions of the continent; 11th to 15th, threatening weather with heavy rains and severe storms in places about the 13th or 14th; 15th to 17th, clear or fair; 17th to 20th, cloudy and threatening weather, with local rain storms; 20th to 22nd, clear or fair; 22d to 25th, cloudy and threatening weather; 25th to 28th, generally clear or fair; 28th to 31st, cloudy, threatening weather, accompanied by local rains and storms. The warmer days will be about 1st, 11th, 12th, 19th, 25th and 31st. The colder days about the 3d, 8th, 15th, 20th and 26th.

A CHIEFTAIN First Lord of the English Admiralty, on the first trip down the Thames in a rather leaky vessel, observed the men working at the pumps. "Dear me!" he said, "I did not know you had a well on board, Captain; but I am very glad, as I do not desire water."

An editor narrowly escaped having his pocket picked of $10,000 in a crowd in Philadelphia. The thief got off with his wallet, but fortunately it contained nothing except sixty cents and a recipe for making paste that will keep six months without souring.

There is a man only twenty-five years of age who has married fourteen wives. He is a clergyman and married to these his wife.

To the Editor of The Recorder:

Circumstances sometimes hinder a man from doing that which he'd other-wise do. Such is the case with me, and has been for some time so that I have not been able to follow up the chain of argument. It seems from a late article of Universalist's, that he has come to the conclusion that he had driven me from the field, or that I had found out that my Bible did not teach the doctrine I attempted to defend. Far from it I feel him not presuming to think that, after years of study of the Word of God, I would come out and say that I had found out that the Bible did not teach eternal punishment. And another point. I did not commence this controversy with the intention of arguing certain Greek terms which I consider as a useless waste of time. If we are to take words by their meaning, or as Universalists say, determine the meaning of a word from its association with any passage of Scripture, then I would like for Universalist to give me some light on what the Saviour meant when speaking of everlasting life and everlasting death. Take this passage: "Depart, ye cursed, into an everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." Now, I would ask him what does cursed mean. It can not mean blessed; then it must mean condemned. Again, what does everlasting mean? If, as Universalists say, we are to determine its meaning by its use, then please tell me its meaning here. Before you say it means a period of time having an end, please inform me what subject the Lord Jesus was speaking upon. If, as you have admitted, eternal life may mean a period of time having no end, then, pray tell me why everlasting punishment may not mean the same thing. Come, my friend, confine yourself a little closer to the premises of the question, and don't waste so much time in silly blabbing over the meaning of two or three little words. Jesus said that "the way was so plain that the wayfaring man, though a fool, might run and read and not err therein." Then why need we waste time in foolish babbling over the opinions of others? In my former articles most of my remarks have been comments upon the opinions of others upon this deeply interesting subject. It is one that is inexhaustible. It has made earth a house of sorrow and weeping, and filled it with graves. Sin made hell. Had there been no sin there need not have been a hell. And just as well might we attempt to prove that the Bible doesn't teach the doctrine of man being a sinner, as prove that it does not teach the doctrine of a future endless eternal hell. But God's Word teaches it, and all the wisdom of man can not put a different construction upon it that will ever do away with the hell. Universalism, Infidelity and every other ism that man can invent may preach their doctrine, and yet the word of God stands as firm as the eternal columns of heaven, and every human being who dies in sin, but too truly will realize what the Psalmist meant when he uttered the solemn and impressive words, "The wicked shall be turned into hell with all the nations that forget God." But says Universalist, did not David say what kind of a hell? When a man's fingers are pinched, how quick he will cry out with the pain. So with my friend. Approach him with a passage which positively teaches eternal punishment, and how quick his conscience will make him cry out with holy horror. What else, I ask, could he mean than a place of eternal punishment, if my friend's method of determining the meaning of a word be taken as a standard? David is speaking of the final destiny of the impenitent, the wicked, all nations under heaven that forget God. If the wicked are not turned into everlasting never-ending punishment, I would like my friend to tell me what God will do with them. I would like him to tell, if he can, what God will do with the tens of thousands of the human family that have lived in utter neglect of God and eternal things. If David, in speaking of the wicked, did not mean an endless hell, please tell us what he did mean. These are questions my friend has never yet answered. He has undertaken to prove there is no future endless punishment for the wicked, but has never yet told us what he would do with them in the great day of judgment. I am inclined to think he does not fully understand the nature and character of God and his government. These are matters he should study and thoroughly understand before he attempts to reason away the words of eternal truth, and prove the existence of an eternal hell a fable. But aside from all this, human law is founded upon a higher law of God which every careful reader of the Bible may see. Human law requires the punishment of crime. The violator is brought to justice, and must pay the penalty of the crime. Surely men, it is not unreasonable to suppose that higher law from which all human civil law originates, will require every offender to be brought to justice. "The soul that sinneth it shall die." Is the decree which has gone forth from the eternal law-giver, who has said heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away. Justice and mercy go hand in hand, and He who hath spoken it will repay it. But I am trespassing on my space. D. T. R.

A WOMAN'S ANSWER.

Before I trust my fate to thee,
Or place my hand in thine,
Before I let thy future give Color and form to mine,<

Before I will all for thee
Surrender my soul to-night for me.

I break all slight bonds, nor feel
A shadow of regret;
Is there one link within the past
That holds thy spirit yet?

Or is thy faith as clear and free
As that which I can pledge to thee.

Does there, within thy dimmest dreams,
A possible future shine,
Wherein thy heart could henceforth breathe
Untouched, unshaken by mine?

Let no false pity spare the blow,
Oh, let me before all is lost.

Look deeper still—if thou canst feel Within thy inmost soul,
That thou hast kept a portion back
While I have staked the whole,

Let no false pity spare the blow,
Oh, let me before all is lost.

Is there within thy heart a need
That mine can not fulfill?
One eager that any other hand Could better take or still?

Speak not, lest at some future day
My whole life wither and decay.

Lives there within thy nature hid,
The demon spirit, Change, Shedding a passing glory still
On all things new and strange?

It may not be, but I will ask thee now,
But shield my heart against these own.

Couldst thou withdraw thy hand one day
And answer to my claim
That fate, that to-day's mistake,
Not thou, hast been to blame?

Some say that the heart is true, but thou—
Oh, surely, thou wilt warn me now!

Yes, answer not; I dare not hear;
The words would come too late;
Yet I would spare thee all remorse,
So comfortless, my fate;

Whether on my heart may fall—
Remember, I would risk it all.

"Is There a Hell?"

To the Editor of the Recorder:

We rejoice that the "very pointed and positive" writer still liveth, and living, yet speaketh; though we regret that our other friend has been so indisposed to continue. Allow us to say (and will God pardon us!) we were really amused at the article of last issue. Wonder if the writer positively knew which end of the pen he held?

He doesn't admire Greek. Maybe he doesn't know the New Testament was written originally in Greek. He quotes a passage introduced by Bro. "Long." Our Scripture and arguments bearing thereon stand in our last, in refutation of the endless punishment, false, wholly untruthful. Undoubtedly it means condemned. We didn't say it meant blessed. But he wants to know what "everlasting" means. Had he noticed Scripture alluded to in last, he would have ascertained it does not always mean endless, and can not when applied to things limited in nature. With regard to the "everlasting death" he says the Saviour speaks of, we would say, the Scriptures nor Saviour know no such expression. Death, the last enemy, is to be destroyed (1 Cor. xv. 26). If everlasting (eternity) was used in direct connection with death, we would have to conclude, from the light of other Scripture, it to be in a limited sense, as it is in many places in the Bible.

But he says: "Jesus said that the way was so plain that the wayfarer man, though a fool, might run and read and not err therein." Then why waste time in foolish babbling over the opinions of others? (Bro. "Long," take notice.) He continues: "In my former articles most of my remarks have been comments on the opinions of others." He then is going to stop his "foolish babbling." Glad to hear it! Though, isn't he a little off? Reader, count and examine. But about the quotation. That is a clincher—provided, of course, Jesus said it; but the mischief is, Jesus didn't say it! "D. T. R." is famous on quoting. We reckon one circumstance of his two or three months' suspense was looking for a quotation not to be found, produced in his first. The prophet Isaiah (xxxv. 8) used language a little similar to that ascribed Jesus.

He wants to know what David meant. Well, we showed him, from David's own language, that he didn't mean an endless hell, but was delivered from the same hell (sheol) on earth, and termed it the "lowest." Please apply the standard here of determining the meaning of a word, as you rightly accept the usage as the correct way. Also on the expression of Jobly Jacob (Gen. xli. 38), "Then shall ye bring down my gray hairs in sorrow to the grave (sheol)." The original sheol, all scholars agree is the same as the Greek hades. Bro. "Long" informed us that it meant the unseen, or, in other words, literally the state of the departed. It has a figurative meaning—a state of darkness, doubt, sorrow, trouble, etc. Note, reader, Bro. "L." says "it (hades)—sheol, if you please) simply meant the unseen." Bro. "D. T. R." says positively a place of endless punishment. "How pleasant for brethren to dwell together in unity." "United we stand, divided they fall." Don't think, brother, we are quoting this line as Scripture. No, no, no. No one has spent "years of study" in Scripture.

He wants us to inform him what God will do with the wicked, that is, those in sin, or the authority of the Sacred Volume we will say, through the medium of Jesus He will save them. "Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins." (Matt. x. 21). He gave Himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time. (1 Tim. ii. 6). Testified how? It was already testified theoretically; it was to be practically by actually saving them. That was the only testimony yet to be. Again (Phil. ii. 10) we are told, "Every tongue shall confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father." As "with the mouth confession is made unto salvation" (Rom. x. 10) well did the Apostle say confess "to the glory of God."

But we must forbear giving many other passages in our mind. These show they will be saved from their sins, not in them, mind you, through Christ and to the glory of God—a blessed and God-honoring consummation! We showed from the Scriptures in our first that He would destroy sin and establish righteousness in all hearts, reconciling "all things unto Himself," and therefore, "will not contend forever."

The Florida investigation has come to a halt.

The Springfield Music Hall in Cincinnati
cost $200,000.

The Paris of America is now enjoying its music festival.

The crop of small grain and fruit has been taken out in prospects.

This week the Master Commissioner opposed to the front again with several parcels of realty for sale.

We are under obligations to B.
Leslie, Insurance Commissioner, for a copy his report for the year 1877.

The troubles along the Rio Grande have not subsided, and more troops are wanted down there to keep the peace.

The late cold weather will seriously affect the fruit crop, either by causing it to drop or not maturing as it otherwise would have done.

The United States Senate has passed a bill repealing the bankrupt law.
The bill goes back to the House, and if enacted it will be a law on and after the first of September.

The cold weather has been general in the North, and the frost during the week done considerable damage to the winter wheat crops.

The Cincinnati Enquirer is loud in its calls for a reconsideration of the vote refusing to give $2,000,000 to have the Southern Railway completed.

Try to do better.

That the wheat crop is not going to be as large as promised early in the spring, is the general opinion of the farmers. Rust and fly have made their appearance in some fields, and the wheat looks badly.

The corn crop is planted, and the acreage is larger than that of last year.
Many meadows were so badly infected with white-top last season that they were plowed this spring, and planted in corn. The corn has done but little growing the past week, and shows the effect of the cold, damp weather.

Tobacco plants are reported plentiful, but there seems to be a determination on the part of the farmers to reduce the area of this crop in Boone, at least for the present season.

To which party the next House of Representatives in Congress will belong is now an unsettled question. The Democrats are making arrangements for a strong fight to retain their majority, while the Republicans are industriously at work preparing to attack the weaker places in the Democratic lines. The Democrats are endeavoring to have the State of Ohio re-districted, which, if accomplished, will give that State a Democratic delegation. Such a delegation from that State, and the members they are sure of gaining in other States, will leave the majority where it now is, but the Democracy will have to move with cautious tread.

The Assessor's book for 1878 was returned by that officer last Monday.
This book shows the area of the county to be 149,517 acres, valued at $3,910, 053. There were 1480 dogs, and sheep to the amount of $458 killed by them.
3,342,567 bushels of corn, 1,009,764 pounds of tobacco, 6,984 tons of hay and 31,281 bushels of wheat raised.
The corn crop was smaller than that of 1876, while the tobacco crop has larger. The falling off in the total valuation of property is $455,720.

On next Saturday, the Executive Committee meets in Burlington for the purpose of further considering the political outlook in the Commonwealth of Boone. The Committee, on the first Monday in this month, resolved to call a convention to nominate the candidates, and on Saturday they are to put their heads together and invent a plan for selecting delegates.

The Commissioner of Pensions has received applications from six thousand and persons who claim pensions under the law granting pensions to the soldiers of the war of 1812. When the bill was pending in Congress, it was urged that there were but few persons who would be benefited by this law, but they are waking up in every neighborhood.

There has been considerable excitement prevailing in London, Canada, concerning the threatening raids of Fenians. Troops have been called out and cars put in readiness to transfer soldiers to threatened points. It is said that the Irish in that country have little or no sympathy for any such moves, and are true to their mother country.

On last Saturday afternoon, an attempt was made to assassinate Emperor William. The would be assassin is a native of Leipzig. Three shots were fired at the Emperor, but none of them took effect. At the time the attempt was made, the Emperor and his daughter were out riding.

The Executive Committee is aware of the fact that should it refuse to act in the present campaign, and the opposite party should elect one or more officers at the August election, the members of the Committee would go down to their graves branded as traitors to their party.

We have been thinking all this time that the editors of the Frankfort Yeoman were Murphies, but last Saturday when we received a copy of the Yeoman of March 30th, we commenced to doubt.

It will be seen, by reference to any column, that the Governor has offered $5000 reward for the apprehension and delivery to the jailer of the county, of the assassin of John Goodridge.

In Fayette County the Democracy is badly torn up over the result of the late convention which nominated candidates for the county offices.

The Cincinnati Enquirer is loud in
its calls for a reconsideration of the vote
refusing to give $2,000,000 to have the Southern Railway completed.

Try to do better.

That war which has been talked about so much in Europe does not commence.

The tramp nuisance is becoming unendurable in the South. In some localities they have commenced growing on the trees.

At the last term of the Kenton Circuit Court, Julius Corbin was suspended from the practice of law in this State for the next twelve months.

At the convention in Independence, Kenton County, last week, to nominate candidates for county offices, a full team of Covington men were invited.

A town located in the center of a prosperous community is surely the place for building up a business. Patrons can be drawn from the four points of the compass.

Some of the distillers in Cincinnati,
it seems, from recent developments,
have been engaged in handling crooked whisky, and some of them have been taken in by the detectives.

Some of our farmers say their wheat will be ready to harvest next week.
The rust is injuring some of the crops.
Mr. John Woods has a field badly damaged by rust. Others say they never had better crops.—Somerset Reporter.

As an instance of what energy and industry can do, and of the resources that are within the reach of observation and thought where least would be expected, we mention the fact that a citizen of this place has, in the last three months, collected up, in bones on the commons and old waste iron, and shipped to Louisville, nine car loads of 20,000 pounds to the car, which have averaged him all expenses paid, $100 to the car. Think of that ye indolent loungers and marble players about the streets: you have made nothing; he has made $300 per month.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION!

$500 REWARD.
COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.
Whereas, it has been made known to me
by Hon. John S. E. P. Kelly, Judge of Boone County, that some unknown person or persons murdered John Goodridge in said county on the 18th day of December, 1877, and have since that time been endeavoring to elude the law, and are now going at large, now, therefore, I, James B.
McCreary, Governor of the Commonwealth aforesaid, do hereby offer a reward of FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS for the apprehension of said unknown person or persons, and his or their delivery to the Jailor of Boone County, and his or their conviction.
In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort the 15th day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eighth year of the Commonwealth.
JAMES B. MCCREARY.
By the Governor: J. FRODOARD JOHNSON,
Secretary of State.

TRULY RURAL.

Two swains and the village chimes
Most merrily chime,
The greenest corn and warlike call Unhappily thine home,
The blushing plover in the clover;
The quivering poplar's plume;
The sweetest melody in the air
Bucolic, was a whole.

Two Jokers, happy, hand in hand,
Stole stilly to the stile;
The crooked neck, the owlets owled,
Beat about on the while,
The ladybird in union
Together kate-does;
The whippersnapper set up cry,
And ominously croak.

The gentle rooster hummed his hymn
And two his female friends;
Sle tried to say a tender poem,
But couldn't quote it right;
And when he gave a mighty gasp,
She smiled a sickly smile;
There was not (for the sake of rhyme)
A mole within a mile!

She heaved a mighty, deep-drawn sigh,
And he in answer sobbed;
And round her taper, shrinking waist
He gently, coolly, stole;
Then, while the distant curfew peal
Lugubriously poined,
She drew a pickled onion forth
And eyed it with a frown.

Farming in England and America.

In a great many cases the tenant farmers in England possess more property than the American farmer who owns his land. The value of the former consists in stock, tools, and produce, and his net yearly income is larger than the net income of the latter. His land averages thirty bushels of wheat to the acre, for which he receives a larger price than the American farmer, whose average yield is about ten bushels to the acre, the net produce being about three times that of the American; and the yield of other products would bring him about the same proportionate income. Then the English farmer has another advantage over the American. The value of the English farm, like the American farm, is in proportion to the productive capacity. The English tenant pays three per cent. per annum rent on the pure cash money. If his farm cost or was valued at nine thousand pounds, he would pay a yearly rental of three hundred pounds; while if an American buys a farm for nine thousand dollars, and borrows half the money, he pays at least three hundred and fifteen dollars per annum interest money, so that the English really, in many cases, pays less rent than the American, who ostensibly owns the farm; and the former, though but a tenant, occupies in many cases, generation after generation, for a longer period than the history of this country dates, while the American hardly ever appears to be a permanent resident, though he owns his land, but is always waiting for another chance to turn up.

Another thing; the expenses of the English farmer are less than those of the American, and they do much more work and take a much more active interest in the affairs of the farm, and this is not confined to the male portion of the family. Call upon the English farmer on business; if he is not at home, his wife will transact it all the same; give all the information required in regard to the stock or crops; she will show you over the farm, show the stock and describe their points. Remember, she is the daughter of a farmer, and before the times of horse-racing, would go to the grain field and reap the same as a man; would do the milking and feeding if necessary; would make a hand in the hay field, shaking out the grass and raking hay in fact, while in her father's house, she is every inch a farmer's daughter, and when married, no less a farmer's wife, while her well-rounded form and ruddy cheeks bear testimony that her out-door labor is conducive to health. And at the same time her education is not neglected, but is adapted to the wants of a farmer's daughter and a farmer's wife.

There may be no piano in it; it may lack Greek, Latin, German, and French, but it will embrace a large fund of common sense with little spicing of city cousins. I wish it understood that I neither oppose Greek, Latin, German, nor French; but teach our mother-tongue first; then whatever else money or time will allow, hoping that none of these things will unfit us for the daily duties of life. Another advantage which the English farmer has, he is nearer to his market; he does not send his produce thousands of miles to find a consumer; but is so near that in many cases he disposes of his products direct to the consumer. His butter is sold in roll once a week. In fact, circumstances which control one do not affect the other in disposing of their products.—"Hillside Papers," in N. E. Farmer.

There can be no doubt that the Northern Democrats are looking after a continuance in office, and not South or West. The best way to bring them to their senses is to defeat every measure desired specially for their constituents until they come to terms. —Dallas (Texas) Democrat.

Now is when the woman of the house lights down like an apparition in the midst of the domestic goddess, swinging a broom, flapping her skirts, kicking sideways with both feet at once, snuffing her eyes, bumping her back and head, and shouting, "What a shame!"

...The bachelor the club is a home.
...Even the married man, if his wife
...should turn out that, unamiable care-
...less and what the world calls nagging,
...if she should prove a bad manager and
...no agreeable companion, there is a
...temptation for him to go from the frets
...and annoyances of home to the cheer-
...fulness and comforts of the club room.
...When home proves to be the one spot
...on earth from which a man fondly
...turns, there must be something radically
...wrong in married life.

Marriage is the natural state for both men and women; but if parents insist so much on the necessity of large incomes, and prefer that their daughters should study fashions and folly rather than make themselves good housewives, they must not be surprised if young men hold aloof from a state of life which may bring unlimited anxiety and expense, and must not condemn as altogether selfish the right to protect one's self from debt.
Club life may be useful in preventing early and imprudent matrimonial engagements; but, on the other hand, it often leads young men to form habits not in keeping with their means. The youths, engaged among young bachelors is the great evil of club life, and even to husbands it is a temptation to neglect those home duties which a wife, whether dull or amiable, whether wise or foolish, has a right to expect from a man who has married her.

Youth a Preparation for Manhood.

A vigorous plant in spring gives promise for the best results in autumn.
With equal certainty it may be foreseen what boys and girls will make the strongest marks upon the age and command the highest respect and esteem of the community. By their mental and moral tastes, they foreshadow their approaching character and positions. When young people despise parental restraint, hate school rooms, scorn a good book or paper, and are seldom seen perusing useful and serious studies calculated to subserve the purpose of a manly life, but instead are seen wasting precious hours in the haunts of idleness, folly and dissipation, it requires no prophet to predict that these are the ones from whose ranks the paupers, beggars and tenants of our prisons are to come, and this, too, at no distant day. The fact is as inevitable as any law of nature.
Ignorance and vicious habits are millions to anybody's neck.

On the contrary, when you see a sober minded, steady lad or lady, who respects the authority of father and mother, whose seat in the school-room is regularly occupied, who loves a good book or paper, and prefers to spend time in the company of those from whom something useful can be learned rather than in the society of the idle and the giddy, who "remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," and is habitually attendant to the means of the moral and religious, as well as the intellectual culture, we may know that these are the ones who, whether they occupy public positions or private stations only, will be esteemed as the
as the wise and honorable of their generation.

It always pays to be polite. As a student, when ascending the Hudson River, the other day, an old gentleman was unable to find a seat. A young man, noticing this, gave the old gentleman his chair and went forward.
Two minutes afterward the boiler blew up, and the old gentleman was killed, while the young man who had given up his seat escaped unscathed. By all means be polite.

The truth is plain to all just people.
The Radical party committed a great crime. They committed it by the aid of great rascals; they are now trying to break the severity of public sentiment by proving that the tools they used were bad tools. —Vicksburg Herald.

It is a proud reflection that almost all business men and intelligent observers agree that the only obstacle to an improvement in the condition of the country, is our own national Congress. —Hartford Courant.

For Diseases of the

Throat and Lungs,

Such as Coughs, Colds,

Whooping Cough,

Bronchitis, Asthma,

and Consumption.

The reputation has attained, in consequence of the successful cure it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. In almost every notion of country there are persons, generally known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use.

All who have tried, acknowledge its superiority and whose virtues as restorers, no medicine is as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. CHERRY PECTORAL always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disease, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs.

As a safeguard to children, and the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, it is valuable for, by its timely use,

multitudes are rescued and restored to health.

This medicine, sales friends at every stage, for the cure it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will.

Excellent Physicians throughout the country

prescribe it, and clergymen often recommend it from their knowledge of its effects.

THE DOUBTLESS HOUSE-TRIF.

BY HENRY T. STANTON.

The story of this rhyme is founded on an actual circumstance which took place in Kentucky. A home, the property of a man, was stolen in Bourbon County, and the thief, after a long chase, was killed in Rowan County, near the edge of Morgan. The rhyme, which is all accurately described, is a fair trial from two to six weeks. Address

This most pleasant and enjoyable affair of the season was the initiation of Revere Geo. M. Bedinger's picnic grounds, last Saturday. On these grounds, which will doubtless become a favorite resort on account of their desirable location, assembled quite a number of the belles and beaux from Lexington, Beesee Grove and the Florence neighborhood to do homage to Terephos.

The day was passed in the most civil and sociable manner, there not being an occurrence to detract from the enjoyment of any. Mr. Bedinger has gone to considerable expense in preparing these grounds, and we hope he may be well recompensed during the season.

Since it became evident that the Democratic Executive Committee of the county intended to take charge of the campaign now progressing, the friends of the army of candidates have been vigorously studying and levitating plans for the adjunction of the fight the Committee had determined to confine to the Democratic camp. The friends of every candidate had their plans, and in some instances they were divided in that particular matter, each faction vying its proposition to prevail, and was so blinded with partiality for what it considered right that it was seemingly too stubborn to yield a single point or accept a single proposal from its friend or foe.

This was the perplexing condition the Democratic host in Boone assumed the first week in this month. The members of the Committee, knowing the unsettled condition of the party, gave the matter serious consideration, and adopted what they considered the most equitable plan, seeking the interest of no particular candidate, but discharging their duty without fear or favor.

Last Saturday was the time at which they were to publish their edict. At an early hour the smiling faces of several of the candidates commenced showing up in town, and by noon quite a crowd had assembled to learn at once as possible, the law made by the Committee.

About 4 p.m., the Committee having agreed, it repaired to the Court-house to announce the result of its deliberations. An anxious crowd of candidates, "war horses" and reformers, assembled in the hall, in breathless silence, looking closely upon its high law being read, and it becoming evident that some objections present were pre-emptive and a desire to discuss the same.

The Committee, it quietly withdrew, leaving the hall to the anxious and impatient assembly. The proceedings of the Committee were to appear in columns.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Full Report of Saturday.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Boone County, met at Burlington, Saturday, May 10, 1878.

B. K. Slater, Chairman, and all the Committee present.

On motion, the following plan was adopted for holding the primaries and the convention:

The Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Boone County, met at Burlington, Saturday, May 10, 1878.

It is resolved that a convention for the selection of candidates for the general election be held in Burlington on Monday, the 17th day of June, 1878.

The Democratic voters of each voting district are requested to assemble at their respective voting places on Saturday, the 15th of June, and select, by holding an election, the number of delegates to which they are entitled, as shown below. In order to make the election successful, they will be allowed each voter to vote for the number of delegates to which his district is entitled, and those persons receiving the highest number of votes will be the accredited delegates from that district.

The voters will, when voting for delegates, also be requested to express their preference for a candidate for each county office to be filled; and where there are more than two persons candidates for the same office, they are requested to indicate, not only their preference, but also their second and third choice, as may be necessary, so that they may choose to indicate, in order that, if anyone for whom they may have voted is dropped or withdrawn for any reason is not before the convention, they will not be left without a candidate to be fully understood by their representatives.

The poll books of each district must be in the hands of the Chairman of each delegation, and will be the basis for the election of delegates elected thereon; and they will be required to give each candidate whatever vote or fraction thereof he is entitled to, as shown by said poll, as long as said candidate is before the convention; and when said candidate is dropped or withdrawn, the delegates shall cast the vote that had been cast for him in the manner indicated by those voting for that candidate, in order that a full and fair expression may be given to the will of the people.

Said election shall be held between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The number of delegates to each district is as follows:

We have selected Hebron as the voting place for the primary in the Taylorport precinct.

On motion of J. S. Huey, the Committee adjourned sine die. B. K. Slater, Ch'm'n.

JOHN T. GARRETT, J. S. HUEY, W. H. TARRILL.

LAST Friday, the stock law Grangers and the anti-stock law Grangers met in joint discussion of the proposed amendment to the stock law. The discussion was spirited and very earnest. Bros. Grady and Watts opposed the amendment, while Bros. Crider and Crider fought bravely for it. The field of battle was in the hall of the County Ground.

In the yard at the Southern Hotel at Florence can be seen quite a curiosity in the way of a tree-bark growing out of a dead locust post. The bark is some three feet in length, and emerges from the post about five inches from the ground.

This week we announce J. M. Stamler as a candidate for the office of County Attorney.

There is strength in unity, is the cause assigned for such a revival in the matrimony traffic.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Full Report of Saturday.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Boone County, met at Burlington, Saturday, May 10, 1878.

B. K. Slater, Chairman, and all the Committee present.

On motion, the following plan was adopted for holding the primaries and the convention:

The Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Boone County, met at Burlington, Saturday, May 10, 1878.

It is resolved that a convention for the selection of candidates for the general election be held in Burlington on Monday, the 17th day of June, 1878.

The Democratic voters of each voting district are requested to assemble at their respective voting places on Saturday, the 15th of June, and select, by holding an election, the number of delegates to which they are entitled, as shown below. In order to make the election successful, they will be allowed each voter to vote for the number of delegates to which his district is entitled, and those persons receiving the highest number of votes will be the accredited delegates from that district.

The voters will, when voting for delegates, also be requested to express their preference for a candidate for each county office to be filled; and where there are more than two persons candidates for the same office, they are requested to indicate, not only their preference, but also their second and third choice, as may be necessary, so that they may choose to indicate, in order that, if anyone for whom they may have voted is dropped or withdrawn for any reason is not before the convention, they will not be left without a candidate to be fully understood by their representatives.

The poll books of each district must be in the hands of the Chairman of each delegation, and will be the basis for the election of delegates elected thereon; and they will be required to give each candidate whatever vote or fraction thereof he is entitled to, as shown by said poll, as long as said candidate is before the convention; and when said candidate is dropped or withdrawn, the delegates shall cast the vote that had been cast for him in the manner indicated by those voting for that candidate, in order that a full and fair expression may be given to the will of the people.

Said election shall be held between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The number of delegates to each district is as follows:

Bellevue..... 223 9 Taylorport..... 201 8

Burlington..... 88 4 Union..... 189 8

Carlton..... 100 4 Verona..... 144 4

Florence..... 129 4 Walton..... 156 4

Hamilton..... 182 7

Petersburg..... 205 8 Totals..... 1802 78

All persons having identified themselves with the Democratic party will have the right to vote unqualifiedly; but a voter never may vote with the party with which he is not affiliated, and he will be required to pledge himself to support the nominee of the convention.

The following persons were appointed to conduct the primaries in the different precincts to elect delegates:

Bellevue—Judges: J. H. Alden and James Rogers; Clerk: L. P. Arnold.

Burlington—Judges: Thomas Finch and Ben Rouse; Clerk: M. T. Garrett.

Carlton—Judges: Jas. Hastings and Thad. C. Kyle; Clerk: Jas. A. Wilson.

Florence—Judges: W. Nugent and Ben Stephens; Clerk: Butler Carpenter.

Hamilton—Judges: Chas. Smith and Andrew Ellis; Clerk: G. M. Allen.

Petersburg—Judges: R. J. Rice and J. H. M. Weathers; Clerk: J. Frank Grant.

Taylorport—Judges: John Stephens and Milton Gaines; Clerk: A. B. Whitlock.

Union—Judges: Henry Bannister and Henry Wiley; Clerk: John T. Connelley.

Verona—Judges: Jas. Hume and John Sleet; Clerk: John P. Roberts.

Walton—Judges: Robert Conner and Samuel Hind; Clerk: Will Brook.

We have selected Hebron as the voting place for the primary in the Taylorport precinct.

On motion of J. S. Huey, the Committee adjourned sine die. B. K. Slater, Ch'm'n.

A SUMMER SONG.

If all the world's a garden were,
And flowers grew by the million here,
I would not have you for a flower,
Through all the summer hours,
Oh, I would have the garden through,
For honey, till I came to you.
Then I should have with you here,
In sun and moon together,
And I should have in glory there,
Through all the changing years,
Oh, I should have you for a flower,
Sweet flower, under the sun,
Or I would be a king and coin,
Your golden hair in money,
And I would only have to seek
Your lips for beads of honey,
Oh, I would be the richest king,
That ever wore a signet ring.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18, 1878.
To the Editor of the Recorder:

After several weeks profound silence, I send you and all your readers a happy greeting. If it were necessary, I suppose I could give several good and sufficient reasons why I have not paid you my respects within the past six or eight weeks; but "you know how it is yourself," and I will not say anything more about it, with the single exception that I am happy in the belief that yourself and the rest of mankind have not lost much thereby. I promised you long since that I would never leave you for a week, you will be amazed and surprised, if I should in the future fail to come to time, just consider that I do not feel like doing you so often, and that is all there is of it.

Our city is as quiet as a graveyard, and many are fretting because we are so poverty-stricken that we can not have a musical festival to revive our drooping spirits, as our friends have in the Queen City. Never mind. Just wait a little while, until we get a little better off in this world's goods, and then we will build a music hall as large as any of theirs. We put all our spare cash in our Chamber of Commerce building, two years ago, which is twice as large as theirs and cost four times as much; so don't consider us altogether lacking in enterprise. We will have a music hall after a while, and it will be a whooper—that is, if the Sheriff don't sell us out, or somebody force us into bankruptcy.

In the way of news, I have to say that the notorious Joe Fore met his doom on the way of the transgressor as expected about Thursday last. He was killed by another convict named Billy Rogers, who seized him and cut his throat from ear to ear, thus ending the career of one of the most desperate men of the nineteenth century. He had been taking his meals in the hospital dining-room, to keep out of trouble with the convicts. Rogers was admitted to hospital on that day. Fore was eating his supper, when Rogers entered the room and said: "Fore, what in hell do you do here? This dirt for you." Fore arose and made a pass at Rogers, when Rogers seized him, and whipping out his knife, ripped it across Fore's throat, killing him almost instantly.

It may not be improper for me to say, J. H. Fore first came into prominence as a doer of desperate deeds on the night of July 28, 1871, when he assassinated his brother-in-law, Mr. Munson W. Beach, at the residence of the latter, No. 706 Pine street, in this city. Fore was born and brought up in the neighborhood of Shelbyville, Ky., and, inheriting wealth in his early years, and every advantage attaching thereto. On the 13th of October, 1873, he married Miss Alice N. Babcock, daughter of Rev. Wm. B. Babcock, of this city. The young husband had $28,000 in cash, besides valuable lands in his native State, and a bright future lay before him. He was classed among the rising young men of the country. But in less than three years after their marriage his money was all gone and his conduct became unbearable, and on the 10th of July, 1874, Mrs. Fore filed a petition for a divorce, alleging habitual drunkenness and ill-treatment. Up to this time Mr. Beach had declined to interfere in the brewing troubles between Fore and his wife, and had restrained Mrs. Beach from taking any part; but when Mrs. F. determined upon separation, he then tendered his aid and protection, thereby bringing down upon himself the ire of Fore. Fore then threatened to not only kill Beach, but his own wife, which led to some talk, but as too long delayed.

On the night above named, about 10 o'clock, Mr. Beach was seated on the steps of the house 706 Pine street, in company with Col. R. H. Musser and Mrs. T. D. Rapp. The three were seated nearly side by side, and were conversing, when Fore approached from the east. Halting as he came in front of the steps, he made a left face, raised the revolver he had just secured in his right hand and fired. The first shot killed Mr. Beach; the second shot did not hurt, but came very near hitting Mrs. Beach, whom it is supposed Fore had mistaken for his wife. To make a long and horrible story as short as possible, he was cleared off the gallows upon the old plea of insanity, and strange to say, his wife lived more than two years thereafter, and died in the month of this city, for some time was not considered sane to the satisfaction of the medical men.

Having said this, it is but right for me to say (which we can say of our own knowledge) that he belonged to, or sprang from, one of the most respectable families in your State, and the writer has never doubted his inability, but his head seemed to be upset only for viciousness. His large and influential family has the sympathy of the writer, as we know several of these years ago; but we suppose Joe died without a friend to shed a tear over his grave.

days has been cold, damp and windy, and many are of the opinion that the wheat crop through the middle and southern portion of the State is somewhat, if not greatly, damaged, by excessive rains.

The Recorder of day before yesterday is just to hand, but I have not time to digest its columns as yet. I merely notice that my friend and well wisher, "Universalist," and a party signing himself "D. T. R." are still talking over the much agitated subject, but for the present, at least, I must desist. Before I close I wish, in justice to myself, as well as my gentlemanly opponent, "Universalist," to say, as he accuses me of a neglect in notice of his first article, that at the time I wrote my first article I was not aware that there was such an individual in existence. Neither had I noticed a single article on the subject in the Recorder. You will remember that I stated it was the all-absorbing topic out this way, and affirmed at the time that the subject was inexhaustible. I may hereafter let you hear from me again on the same subject, but with no idea of exhausting it. As ever, yours, Bos A. Long.

HERE AND THERE.

Shortorns are productive in Texas. Winter wheat looks well all over Canada.

Pork is lower in Iowa than it has been since 1860.

Grape culturists look forward to a red-letter wine year.

Colorado shipped more cattle last year than ever before.

A dangerous horse distemper has broken out in Tuscola.

Early sown oats yield the best, make the heaviest oat, and feed straw.

Few dairy cows in Maine average two hundred pounds of butter per year.

The Texas wool crop, this season, it is thought, will yield two million pounds.

Harvest will come very early this year. The wheat is at least two weeks ahead of time.

Guinea hens keep potato fields free from the ravages of the beetles, as reported in Westfield.

Wooden floors are objected to for poultry-houses, for they tend to make the fowls duck-footed.

The Texas cotton crop will be so large that the cotton-worm will work more than eight hours per day.

Keep a sharp look-out for insects and keep them thoroughly in check, otherwise they will trouble you through the season.

Curran worms will soon make their appearance. Give them hell, but don't put all the accent on the first syllable when speaking about it.

Potatoes grown on tobacco stalks used as manure are free from worms or grubs, it is reported by a man of experience; another adds, they are also free from rot.

Rile your year's stock of wood under cover so soon as it is well dried and it will keep in good order.

If you have not a wood-pile, pile it neatly and cover it with boards.

Gov. Sprague, one of the fastest trotting horses in this country, for which J. I. Case, of Racine, paid $27,500, is at Taylor's Driving Park, Freeport, Ill., training for the races which take place the last of May.

In raising poultry, the breed that will furnish the heaviest bodies, and the most delicious flesh in the least time, and lay the largest eggs at the earliest age, and produce the largest number of them, will be the most popular among the masses.

There is gambling at the want of success in the return of some of the crops of the Ontario Agricultural Farm School. Canadians do not look favorably upon seventeen and a half bushels per acre, when they have whole counties that will average thirty-five bushels per acre.

The cattle imported into Texas from Africa in 1864 are doing well and are found to be useful. Camel-breeding in this State is said to be profitable. Some of them will travel one hundred miles in a day, and one made one hundred and fifty miles in twenty-four hours.

The terrible drought which has afflicted, for some time past, the whole of Australia, is at length breaking up. Sheep and cattle have suffered severely, and, in many instances, owners have lost one-half their flocks and herds. The want of water is really the cause of Australia; and it seems doubtful whether this can ever be effectually remedied, although large expenditure has been incurred for the arrangement of the water supply.

The small land owners in the western States, who have a very hard time of it, are in a very hard time of it, and are in a very hard time of it.

AYER'S Cathartic Pills.
For all the purposes of a Family Medicine, and for curing Constipation, Jaundice, Indigestion, Bile Worms, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Hemorrhoids, Piles, and all the Blood Disorders.
Are the most effective and congenial purgatives ever discovered. They are mild, but effective in their operation, moving the bowels surely and without pain. Although gentle in their operation, they are still the most thorough and searching cathartics.

tic medicine that can be employed: cleansing the stomach and bowels, and even the blood. In small doses of one pill a day, they stimulate the digestive organs and promote vigorous health. Ayer's Pills have been known for more than a quarter of a century, and have obtained a world-wide reputation for their virtues. They correct diseased action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so composed that obstructions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the everyday complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they grip less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not inflamed. They reach the vital fountains of the blood, and strengthen the system by freeing it from the elements of weakness. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, these Pills may be taken with safety by anybody. Their stimulating properties never overheat, and make them pleasant to take; while they are equally reliable in any season.

It done.
Sh, candidate, sleep, thy war-fare's over.

A ALL 1,640—over half of the county.

Monday
for some of the candidates, and a splendid day for it.

It looks very much as though the Democrats of Boone will pull together for a time at least.

The declaration of independent candidates does not have as many warm adherents as some other declarations.

The voters war has commenced boiling in a few places. These soldiers and iron-clads may possibly be called into active use.

The Ohio Republican convensa-had quite a stormy time. The party in the platform, the plank adopted President Hayes.

The grand jury in Kenton County,
its recent term, indicted T. J. Phelps, Judge of the Kenton County Court, for willful neglect of official duty in keeping the records of the county.

The Republicans have applied to Grant, and said in their State convention, the other day, that he would do to depend on. This action on the part of the Buckeye Republicans is significant.

That there should be a reduction made in the army of candidates in Boone was highly necessary to prevent some, one-half of the men being neglected, neglecting husbandry and neglecting the substance of those not going to position in the official frame.

Boone County Attorney,
every aim is to render justice to all men, secured his vote overly all the candidates on the track.
said he took seven choices for Assor and about half that number for Jorge, and then wept because there were no more candidates to vote for those offices.

from his own lips. In him were concentrated largely the elements of and Sankey, though he was more genial than either. He told me that time that he had been preaching about 22 years, had held meetings in the large cities in the Union, and had baptized, since he commenced teaching, about 9,000 persons, and have heard, since his death, that fully 12,000 have been added to the Church within the past sixteen years, through his preaching. He was truly great and good man. May our kind Heavenly Father bless his bereaved family, whose hearts are crushed by this sad calamity, and the thousands his converts, who will be grieved by the news of his death. At the time of his death, he was on his way to hold another meeting; thus, like a true soldier on the field of duty, he died with his whole armor on. It is said just before his crash came, he was speaking to a friend about the lamented Bliss, and that sweet singer, his spirit took departure from earth, amid broken rears, splash of water, and a terrible wood disaster, thus emphasizing the thought he so often expressed in our hearing, "that if it pleased God, he would like to die with the harness on."

This one is christened "The Tele-

use of which ordinary conversation

The tide of popular opinion ran against the investigation so strongly that it forced Congress to pass a resolution to the effect that the investigation would not be allowed to interfere with the title of the President to the office of Chief Magistrate. This is an acknowledgment of the folly of the move which is calculated, at least intended, to accumulate political capital to make Clarkson N. Potter

The Rockport Gazette truly says: "When times like the present take us, it is certainly sound policy to keep our money in circulation as much as possible." Patrons of the trade, home mechanics, home doctors, home printers and the thousands of dollars will be kept in circulation at home instead of being carried away. Show us a town where its citizens don't patronize home tries, and we will show you a less, worthless, dead town."

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

St. Louis, Mo., June 18, 1878.
To the Editor of the Recorder:
The week has rolled away, and this evening finds me not five feet from where I was this evening one week ago. It has been rather an eventful week with many. Last Tuesday all of our city schools closed until the 1st of next September, thus setting free for the time being, between 50,000 and 60,000 of the rising generation, to romp, trapeze, and doubtless get spanked within the time, as such seasons bring on the patience of the dear masters at home. Said action also turns loose upon the community between 800 and 900 of that interesting class of citizens known as school marms, some of whom will go to Saratoga, some to Long Branch, some to their coun-tymen, and probably some will emigrate to the state of matrimony. I say let them go, as the good book says, it is not good to be alone, and I have always thought it equally as bad for fair women to have to travel life's steep alone.

This day, one week ago, the wires brought to us an account of a terrible railroad disaster on the Texas Central in which some thirteen were wounded and the Rev. Knowles Shaw was killed.
This Rev. gentleman was a dear friend of ours, and we knew him only to love and honor him. He was a Christian preacher of wonderful powers, and his life, that terminated so suddenly and sadly, had been an eventful one. He was born in the State of Mississippi, about the year 1838, and while young his parents moved to the State of Indiana, where, at an early age, he was left an orphan. His parents were poor and the son shared the fate of a poor and friendless orphan. He was a musician by nature, and for a time, earned his livelihood by amusing the crowds with his violin performances.
His genuine aptness and general good nature won for him many admirers, and secured in the person of a good man a friend in time of need, who took him to his home, where, along with household duties, he acquired the rudiments of a common school education. After arriving at manhood, he married a sensible and devoted lady, who willingly and nobly shared his poverty, and saw all the encouragement that her warm and loving heart could suggest.
He became a member of the Christian Church nearly five years after marriage, and while engaged teaching a country school in this State, he became acquainted with Elder W. H. Hooper, and was induced to turn his steps

BURLINGTON, KY., JUNE 29.

LINES.

Remembered on the little Lulu, youngest daughter of John R. and Betty Snyder, and grand-daughter of Henry P. and Elizabeth Crisler, who departed this life May 5, '78.

She passed away like the flowers of May,
Without a murmuring sigh;
Her home was in her Saviour's love—
She did not fear to die.

Oh! keep and for the dear one dead,
Whom suffering now is over,
Her spirit from the chains has fled,
To be enthralled no more.

Thy will, Thy sovereign will alone
Rules each created thing;
Thy power can the limbs of darkness own,
Thy prisms all shall bring.

But, ah! how hard it is to part
With one we love so dear;
It softens even the hardest heart,
And starts the silent tear.

'Tis hard to see them clothed in white,
Placed in their narrow bed;
There to pass that dreamlike night,
Known only to the dead.

But, Thee, O God, Thou knowest best,
How Thy powers to use;
All must go to Thy behest,
And none dare refuse.

The day is past and gone,
The evening shades appear;
Oh! may we all remember well
The night of death draws near.

Ye, hope, sweet hope still cheers the breast,
And says in tones of love;
Thou' here on earth death bids us part,
We'll meet in Heaven above.

There, there no sorrow shall e'er come,
No tears bedim the vision;
There'll be no parting in that home,
That house beyond the skies.

Cutting and Carving of Hay.

For dairy purposes, and feeding young cattle and growing animals, a ton of early cut and cured hay is worth from two to three dollars more than the same hay if allowed to stand till the seed are ripe. But where it is to be fed to working-horses, mules or oxen, as a part of the daily ration, grass which is allowed to stand in the field till the seed are almost or fully ripe is much to be preferred. Indeed, for lively teams, or for horses or mules which are put to hard or fast work, early cut hay always proves more or less injurious. And the explanation seems to be this. When grass is cut before it is fully ripe, or just at the period of full bloom, all the gum and starch and non-mineral nutritive matter is contained therein that ever will be. When, however, the grass stands till the seed is ripe, in the process of ripening, and not before, a good share of phosphoric acid (the substance out of which bone is made) is taken up from the soil to form the seed—and the seed it is which gives the tonic property and strengthening quality of the ripe grass made into hay over green grass cured in the same manner.

If, then, in feeding, we want only these matters which make fat and flesh, and increase the flow of milk, we should cut our meadows just before the time of blooming; if we want a quality of hay which will produce muscle and nerve and force, and increase the size and strength of the bones of the animal to which such hay is fed, we should wait and harvest our grasses just as we do cereal grains, at the epoch of maturity. But there is one disadvantage in cutting hay when the plants are in the epoch of blossoming, and that is the increased time, expenses, risk in curing—two days of the finest weather being necessary to do the work as it should be done, and prevent mildewing in the stack or the barn. And there is one advantage, early cut hay never exhausts the soil to the same extent that late cut hay invariably does, and meadows mown early may either be cut the second time, or pastured soon after midsummer. And there are also two sides to the question of late cutting hay, the advantage being, that it may be cut, cured and stacked the same day, and be all the better for such expedition; but a crop of hay cut and cured just at the epoch of the ripening of the seed is the most exhaustive of all crops, not only because it is nothing, or next to nothing, left on the field after harvesting, not even a stubble, but because all the best grasses which make hay take up out of the soil as much nutritive matter as any of the cereals.

Previous to the war, during it, and some years after, the demand for hay to supply the markets of the South, and during the war the army, sustained prices, and made the growing of hay profitable and the trade in it a lucrative business. As a matter of course, hay became one of the most widely grown crops within easy communication of all the great avenues of transportation, like the Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois, Wabash, Ohio, and to some extent, more southern rivers, and the hay fields dominated the country along them to the extent that corn or cotton, or wheat did in their favored districts. But the increase of railroads still further increased the area within profitable hay cultivation, till supply soon exceeded the demand, and now hay sells for less than the labor required to cut, cure and haul it to market. This has been regarded in the hay-producing regions in the light of a public calamity, and especially since the crop of last year, as remarkable for quality as quantity, has hardly been salable at any price. But in the light of the fact, now generally understood or recognized, that, at all crops, hay when sold off the farm, is the most exhausting, and will, therefore, exhaust of any other, impoverish the soil, the failure of the demand for hay must be looked upon as a Providential circumstance, which will compel the adoption of some other form of husbandry, and quite naturally of cattle, horses, sheep or swine, without one of these animals on such a thing as a prosperous agriculture, except, perhaps, in tropical or sub-tropical regions.—Home and Farm.

A WIRY little woman about forty years old, and with snaky curls down her back, stepped up to the President, and announced that she was the Goddess of Liberty, and that she had "descended from the dome of the Capitol this morning on purpose to see the President." The door-keeper, somewhat surprised, showed her to the ante-room, and asked her to remain there awhile. He shortly afterward let a party of ladies in to see the President, who merely wished to pay their respects to him. Unseen by him, the Goddess of Liberty slipped in with the party. Inside she created somewhat of a scene by rushing up to the President, repeating her assertion that she was the Goddess of Liberty, just stepped from the dome, and demanded the pardon of her son, who she said, was now in New Jersey penitentiary. The President, equal to the occasion, maneuvered her out into the hall again. She planted herself by the door-keeper, and refused to move until she had received the pardon of her son. The door-keeper, after considerable trouble, got rid of her by saying that the Attorney General had all the papers in her son's case now at the Capitol, and she had better go up there immediately, as he would look up his office for the day. Hearing this, she decamped, walking briskly in the direction of the Capitol.—Washington Star.

The Hottest Place in the World.

One of the hottest regions on earth is along the Persian Gulf, where little or no rain falls. At Behrin the arid shore has no fresh water, yet a comparatively numerous population contrives to live there, thanks to copious springs which burst forth from the bottom of the sea. The fresh water is got by diving. The diver sitting in his boat winds a great goat-skin bag around his left arm, the hand grasping the mouth; then he takes in his right hand a heavy stone, to which is attached a long line, and thus equipped he plunges in and quickly reaches the bottom. Instantly opening the bag over the strong jet of fresh water, he springs up the ascending current, at the same time closing the bag, and is helped aboard. The stone is then hauled up, and the diver, after taking breath, plunges in again. The source of these copious submarine springs is thought to be the green hill of Oman, some five or six hundred miles distant.

To Keep Butter Hard.

To keep butter firm and solid during the hot months in summer, the following method is largely in use in England: Pulverized carbonate of soda and pulverized alum, at the rate of a teaspoonful of each, are mingled together at the time of churning and put into the cream. The butter comes out firm and solid, and with a clean sweet flavor. The powdered carbonate of soda and alum do not enter the butter, but, after acting upon the cream, pass off with the butter milk. The ingredients should not be mingled together until they are wanted for use, just when the cream is in the churn, ready for churning. Another, and perhaps the best method for hardening butter—is to keep it in a cool cellar, where the temperature is kept even by means of ice, or its construction, and then carrying the article to market in refrigerated cars or other receptacles.

Why Craddock Don't Die.

The Kentucky Press Association never meets twice in the same place. The devastation attending a convention makes it impracticable to attempt a second meeting in any one Congressional district within a quarter of a century. The convention meets regularly on the second Wednesday in strawberry time. The exercises, outside of eating and drinking and sleeping three in a bed, are monotonous. The trial of John G. Craddock for the defalcation of thirty-seven and a half cents some eighty years ago, is renewed from year to year, and is the only important business attempted by the convention. The trial results in the conviction and disfigured expulsion of the treasurer. He is then re-elected in order that he may be tried upon the same grave charge another year. This is the reason Craddock never dies.—Southern Humorist.

There died in an asylum near London, the other day, a lunatic in whose stomach one thousand eight hundred and forty-one indigestible articles were found—namely, twenty buckles; fourteen bits of glass, ten pebbles, three bits of string, a piece of copper, one fish-hook, a pin, nine brass buttons, and one thousand seven hundred and eighty-two tacks and nails.

At the close of a recent lecture, someone threw a head of cabbage on the stage. Stopping down, the lecturer held it up to view with the remark: "Some gentlemen have lost their heads. He can have it by calling on the janitor after the audience is out."

The total value of the foreign export from the port of Charleston for the year 1877, was $16,018,978.

FASHION NOTES.

Watered silk will be worn again. Belt buckles are very fashionable. All bonnets have strings this season. The novelty is scarce in the Don Sol. Lace turbans are worn by boy babies. India pongee is worn again for costumes. Pearls are used profusely on bridal toilets. Bracelets of gold filagree are pretty.

The "Fra Diavolo" is the latest round hat. Lace mittens are not suitable for street wear.

No loopings in back draperies are fashionable. Gabrielles are the favorite dresses for small girls.

Short skirts are worn with some of the kilt skirts. The wrists of new lisle thread gloves are lace locked.

Round hats are worn only by the girls in their teens. Mirecourt is the name of the finer grades of torchon lace.

Bridal dresses are no longer made entirely of white satin. The swallow-tail jacket is affected by nobby young ladies.

Large gilt and silver balls are used as ornaments for chip hats. Nun's serge is the correct thing for mourning traveling dresses.

Four-button undressed kids are the things for full street costumes. Bourette batiste is a new knotted linen fabric for midsummer wear.

There is a revival of spotted silks and satins and soft twilled foulards. The Don Sol scarfs are of silk chenille, and bright colors are preferred.

A new design for note paper at Tiffany's has a long, thin initial at the side. For second mourning, gloves are switched across the back with lilac or gray.

Navy blue flannel, for making kilt suits is sold as low as forty cents per yard. A new design for a hat rack is a large horseshoe of highly polished wood.

Reclining are now carried on the arms of young ladies, as in the olden times. Beige beads in graduated shades are a novelty for trimming black silk dresses.

Crimped braid fringe, combined with grape, is used for trimming mourning dresses. Dust cloaks of India pongee are chosen by fastidious women who can afford them.

Short dresses are so much favored that train dresses are made only for house wear. The most fashionable trimming for linen and batiste dresses is Russian embroidery.

White muslin veils, dotted with Roman pearl beads, are pretty novelties for full dresses. Old-fashioned French calicoes are again popular, the favorite pattern being the palm leaf.

Menu cards with colored bows of ribbon tied in the corner are among the novelties. The most fashionable evening dresses have the corsage opening V shape, front and back.

Striped black silk grenadine, with chenille bourettes, is used for bonnets, capes and strings. The favorite flowers for the hand-painted hats are bluebells, forget-me-nots and poppies.

Silk dresses are trimmed with flounces in front, almost to the waist, at the moment, by Worth. "Whalebone" fringe is a misnomer. It is a braid fringe which resembles shredded whalebone.

Beige chip, lined with black velvet and bound with gold braid, is the favorite style of bonnets. Tinted mother of pearl buttons are the thing for beige, cashmere or camel's hair traveling dresses.

The bridal traveling dress is of beige camel's hair or cashmere vogue, combined with seal brown silk. Grenadine lace is the name given to a new trimming of open work designs embroidered on grenadine.

Gold braid linings for the brims of white and beige chip bonnets are worn by the most fashionable women. Plain or polka dotted white silk, with white satin trimmings and accessories, the bridal dress of the moment.

A dash of Jacquemint red is the only spot of bright color on many of the most fashionable hats and bonnets. The trains of the full dress toilets measure three yards from the waist to the extreme end of the train in the back.

The novelty in handkerchiefs is of pale blue or rose-colored linen batiste, with white borders scalloped to match.

Everything is embroidered in Paris at present—shoes, dresses, gloves, handkerchiefs, scarves, cravats, wraps and even the hair.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

I would gladly convince you your Lungs can be healed and your Cough cured, if you will give me a fair trial from two to six weeks. Address
S. MCGUFFIN,
RISING SUN, IND.

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chills, Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed into the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or insalubrious localities.

This is a compound remedy, prepared with scientific skill from vegetable ingredients, which rarely fails to cure the severest cases of Chills and Fever and the concomitant disorders. Such a remedy the necessities of the people in malarious districts demand, and it is gratefully received over any other medicine yet discovered for the cure of intermittents, as it is so quick and so safe, and so free from any injurious effects, and as it is so easily and so speedily taken, it has been extensively employed during the last thirty years in the treatment of these distressing disorders, and so unvarying has been its success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. It is, therefore, so highly recommended as a sure remedy and specific for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South. It is peculiarly the malarious poison in the blood, and from the system from its influence, so that fever and ague, shakes or chills, once broken up by it, do not return until the disease is again contracted.

The great variety of disorders which arise from the influence of the malarious poison, as Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Biliousness, Toothache, Stomachic, Catarrh, Asthma, Pleurisy, Epilepsy, Aneurism, Erysipelas, Pain in the Bowels, Colic, Paralysis, and derangement of the stomach, all of which become intermittent or periodical, have so speedily responded to Ayer's Ague Cure, which cures them all alike, and protects the system from future attacks. As a preventive, it is of immense service in those countries where Fever and Ague prevail, as it stays the development of the malarious poison, and the first approach of the malarious epidemic. Travelers and temporary residents are thus enabled to defy these disorders, and few will ever suffer if they avail themselves of the prophylactic remedy.

For Adverse Complaints, arising from impurity, it is an excellent remedy; it stimulates the organs of the body, and induces a healthy action, and is able to cure where other remedies fail.

BURLINGTON, KY., JULY 18.

MOTSPUR'S DESCRIPTION OF A POP.

My legs, I did deny no prisoners; But I remember, when the fight was done, When I was dry with rage and extreme toil, And nothing stronger than a raw salted skin, Within forty miles, came there a certain lord, Truly dressed, nobly in fact, with a cutaway coat.

Plushy necktie, and pants louder than the band wagon of a circus, including the band. He was fresh as a bridegroom— To speak truly, he was a trifle too fresh. His chin, which I advised him to wipe off, Was now red, and showed like the

He was seated like too cream At a cherry table with vanilla, mock, Rose water, cologne, hair oil, etcetera. And I can not pretend to say what else. Twisted his finger and his thumb he held A pounce-box (see Webster's Unabridged), Which, ever and anon, he gave his nose. And still he smiled and talked, and as The soldiers bore dead bodies by, He called them out unthoughtfully and unmanly. Between the wind and his nobility. With many holiday and snobbish terms, As "Aw, wally!" "Oh, you stah!" He addressed me, among the rest, Demanded my prisoners, in her Majesty's Behalf. I then, all snorting with My nose being stuck in the air, as he pestered. With a seven-by-nine poppity, Out of my grief and my impudence I lifted him one shaft the wheel-house, And you might have heard his little Coat crack as he passed. Over into the next county. This bald, unjointed chest of his, my lord, Disturbed my love, and I wish you had not his mysterious disappearance. Come 'twixt my Dutch and my high Majesty. —Old City Derrick.

A Woman's Conscientiousness.

The Haverhill (Mass.) Gazette has a correspondent who tells the following story: "Perhaps the record has not been made with any previous one. The Lowell and Boston Railroad, at Willow Bridge, Somerville, a plain, but substantial, neat brick house upon the top of the hill, only a moment's walk from the station. Its doors have not been opened for 12 years. Twelve years ago one of the brightest and smartest mechanics to be found in our bustling city, a young, handsome, whose only apparent fault was his daily wages, of which he was very careful, saving all he could for one bright object of his life, which was to marry her whom he had won, as soon as they could get money enough to commence housekeeping. She was conscientious to a fault, brought up in the most puritanical of puritan families, good, pure and beautiful. One bright morning in spring he invited her to take a drive in the suburbs. They halted after about an hour's drive in front of this house. He asked her how she liked it. Of course she wished it was theirs; they could be so happy if they only had a home like that. He invited her in. The house was just completed, and very nicely furnished. Judge of her surprise when he quietly informed her that the property was his. She was completely dumfounded, and, of course, wanted an explanation. How, when he came in possession of so much property? He tried to avoid the question, but she was firm. He finally told her that he drew $20,000 in some lottery scheme, and with its funds built and furnished this home for her. She turned upon him as though he were the vilest gambler, vowing then and there that she would never be his wife till he gave back the property which he had gained by the means she considered unlawful. She scorned all efforts of his to occupy the house. They separated; parted at the door, which has not been opened since. The furniture remains the same to-day as when they left it years ago, except what age has done. Both are wanderers upon the face of the earth, both lives blasted."

Recipe for Kissing.

One may get too much of many good things, but not of kissing. It is simple yet excellent. One experienced writer has given us some capital advice on kissing. "Don't kiss," says he, "kiss all over as grasshoppers walk. Don't kiss everybody, including nasty little dogs, male and female. Don't sit down to it. Stand up. You need not be anxious to get in a crowd. Two persons are a plenty to corner and catch a kiss. More persons spoil the sport. Stand firm. I want to hurt you after you are used to it. Don't kiss in a hurry. Providence will give you strength for the ordeal. Do not job it down on the beautiful mouth as if appearing for frogs. Don't grab and yank the lady as if she was a struggling colt. Do not ruse her hair, scratch down her collar, bite her cheeks, squish her rich ribbons, and have her mused and ruffled. Take good aim—the lips meet, the eyes close, the heart opens, heaven itself opens before you—and the act of kissing is learned."

SOME history presents to the world of dress a picturesque array of beautiful effects. There is no one leading style, since a number of fancy productions in this direction are accepted. These are now selected to match dresses or their adornments, and also to suit certain styles of shoes or slippers. Unchecked lace thread stockings, with open-worked designs, are purchased by many ladies who are otherwise very fastidious. This need form of economy is practiced by many "low" fashionable ladies who are rather fastidious in their tastes. Lisle thread hose with hair-line stripes are pretty, and plain tulle-trimmed are purchased for ordinary wear. An excellent quality can be had for fifty cents per pair.

Go to Work, Young Man.

The present age seems to be very prolific in the production of numbers of young men who have, somehow or other, educated themselves up to the belief that they were created to make their living by doing nothing. Every city, town and village in the land is filled to overflowing with young men who are idle—hunting clerkships, or some other place where they hope to obtain a living without work. Numbers are hanging around, living from hand to mouth, waiting for a vacancy in some overcrowded store, and when a vacancy occurs, offering to work for a salary that would cause a "chuck" to support absolute honesty; and when remonstrated with by friends, invariably answer, "I don't know what to do."

We would say to those who want to know what to do, go to work! There is work enough to do by which you can earn an honest living, and gain the respect of those whose respect is worth seeking. Quit loafing about, waiting and looking for a clerkship in some store with a wheel-barrow load of goods. Get out in the country on a farm and go to work. What? Why, in the Mississippi Valley, there are acres of virgin growth, awaiting the stroke of the hardy ax-man; and thousands of acres of tillable land that need only the sturdy plowman to yield its treasures, richer far than the mines of the Elk Hills; and yet you say you don't know what to do.

Go to work—go to the woods—go to the fields—and make an honest living; for we have in our minds large numbers of your kind who are better suited to picking cotton than measuring saikos; to cutting cord-wood than weighing sugar; to keeping up fences than keeping books, and to mauling rails than dishing out whiskey by the drink; and we can assure you that the occupations you are better adapted for are much more honorable in the eyes of persons whose respect is worth having.

HERE AND THERE.

It is the season for precautionary cabbage leaves in the hat.

In North Carolina every fence is adorned with blackberry vines.

Many farmers in Lehigh County, Penn., have not storage for their hay crops.

The Journal of Chemistry says that hot alum water is the best insect destroyer known.

Flour is now carried from the Western granaries to the ovens of London in twenty days.

Tennessee and Kentucky are enjoying the most superb blackberry crops in the memory of man.

Ice is regarded as a prime necessity at Bombay, and the supply is obtained from this country, being shipped chiefly from Boston.

The striped bugs whose affection for the melon vine has cost many a farmer his crop of melons, can easily be exterminated by a solution of caustic.

Ten selected head of three-year-old cattle, of an average weight of two thousand one hundred and seventy-eight pounds, have been shipped from Paris, Ky., to France, to take part in the show.

Columbus, Georgia, boasts of a remarkable rooster which, after deliberately setting on a nest of duck eggs, has succeeded in hatching out seven young ducks, which he is now attempting to take care of.

Grains of Gold. None are overstocked with patience. The right must sometimes yield or fight.

Temper is so good a thing that we should not trust it.

It is better to need relief than to want heart to give it.

It is a very easy thing for a man to be wise for other people.

Let no stream of your life always be a murmuring stream.

A punctual man can always find leisure, a negligent one never.

All persons know when they are knaves; few when they are fools.

Most men like self-sacrifice in their friends better than in themselves.

Every art is best taught by example; good deeds produce good friends.

Purposes, like eggs, unless they be hatched into action, run into rottenness.

Men generally wake way for him who is determined to push boldly past them.

It is a truth not often realized, that men must be already wise in order to love wisdom.

If patrons were more disinterested, ingratitude would probably be a great deal more rare.

If you listen patiently to calumny, you are only a trifle less guilty than the actual calumniator.

The manner in which a command is obeyed is of more importance than the mere fulfillment of it.

When the sun of virtue is set, the blush of shame is the twilight. When that disc is in darkness.

When we get old, our friends find it very difficult to please us, and care but little whether we are pleased or not.

Good temper is like a sunny day, it sends a brightness over everything; it is the weather of joy and soothe.

FASHION NOTES.

A small cord is used again in the arm-holes of dresses.

A unique garniture for the neck is a bird nestling in lace.

Checked cotton braids are used for trimming lion dresses.

The military jacket is one of the latest styles for young ladies.

Spotted satin, with pug handle, forms the favorite coaching parasol.

Spanish blonde lace is a favorite trimming for grenadine dresses.

Caps in the style of that worn by Charlotte Corday are fashionable.

Any dress for young girls are late ornamented with hand painting.

Russian ladies wear from a dozen to twenty bracelets—when they can get them.

New styles in stationary are ornamented with grotesque old English figures in color.

Kid gloves are exhibited, the backs of which are covered with flowers painted by hand.

Cardinal caps reaching to the elbows and quite straight around are also fashionable for wraps.

A very pretty ornament is composed of pink and white daisies and a golden arrow fixed to a hair-pin.

Among absurdities for children are the wide collars and cuffs similar to those worn by their mothers.

The single-breasted cut-away coat in English shades is the favorite wrap for traveling and country use.

Long sleeves are made tighter than before, and without trimming, the lines and the cuffs taking its place.

For the semi-negligence of a country toilet hats which are a cross between a round hat and a bonnet are worn.

Dinner caps are printed in a diagonal band of different colors and designs, with a bow of ribbon to match each card at the top.

Monogram fans are in great favor. They are ornamented with tiny flags. All nations being represented, a lady may declare her nationality and patriotism by her fan.

There is a revived furor for the English walking hat. The sides are not turned up so high as so close to the brim as they used to be, and the front has a round effect.

A little beauty of a dress for a little girl is of gray cashmere, piped with coral color and trimmed with killings of gray faille, and bows of gray and coral ribbon and gray silk buttons to match.

For young women no feathers are so popular as the soft willow clusters, tipped with gold or with straw. In their dressy evening toilets these feathers are white instead, and are tipped with pearl beads.

Many waists are cut with a low, square front and back, but high upon the shoulders. The demi-train is finished with narrow knife-platings. The elbow sleeves are completed by a deep fill of lace. Cascades of fine platings give a dressy expression to the drapery sleeves.

India pongee is much used for costumes again. It comes in the stylish beige. Shades and costumes made from it are excellent for their coolness, yielding texture and durability. Some have the ecrus laces and insertions for trimmings, just as they were formerly used while other the demi-train is finished with narrow knife-platings.

The elbow sleeves are completed by a deep fill of lace. Cascades of fine platings give a dressy expression to the drapery sleeves.

Lawn-tennis is now the fashionable game in England. It has superseded rinking and croquet in popular favor, and pervades the country like an epidemic. It has even been introduced in English colonies in different parts of the continent, and is said to excite the liveliest wonderment and interest among the staid Germans of Hamburg, who, however, do not exhibit the least inclination or desire of participation in a game requiring so much useless exertion.

The friends of Grant are positive that Bristow shall never be bothered with the perplexities of the White House. Cincinnati Enquirer.

We have altogether too much foreign feeling in this country. Irish, French, or German have no business here, as such; we want only Americans.—Springfield Republican.

It is understood that the finger of probability points to General Grant as the next President of the United States. It would be sheer aspersion to bestow the contrary. It is morally certain that if the election next to occur the coming fall, he would be the coming man.—Chicago Journal.

Considering that the Secretary of the Treasury is accumulating at the rate of two millions per month standard silver dollars which nobody wants, and that the law confers on him the power to offer these in exchange for greenbacks, the feat of resumption, at any moment, may not be a very difficult one.—New York Times.

After all the dinner speech making of American toadies in England, and the united reciprocal oratory about the common enemy, common sense, common religion and so on, there is no more lost between the two countries. The English dislike the Americans by instinct, and the American resiprocates.—Cincinnati Gazette.

WOMAN AND MAN.

Pop I went the gay cork flying,

Sparkled the gay champagne;

By the light of the day that was dying,

He flung up the goblets again;

Let the last, best toast be woman,

"Woman, dear woman," said he;

"When you drink to your sex with me?"

But she caught his strong, brown fingers,

And held them tight, as he fear,

And, through the gathering twilight,

Her fond voice fell on his ear:

"Nay, ere you drink I implore you,

By all that you hold dear in vain;

Plunge a woman in gushing tear drops,

Rather, by far, than in wine."

"By woes of the drunkard's mother,

By the children that begged for bread,

By the face of her whose loved one

Looks on the wine when 'tis red,

By the kisses changed to curses,

By the tears more bitter than brine,

By many a fond heart broken,

Pledge no woman in wine."

"What has wine brought to woman?

Nothing but tears and pain;

It has torn from her heart her lover

And her household gods all scattered;

Lie tangled up in the vine;

Oh! I pledge thee no woman

In the curse of so many—wine."

We feel some delicacy in making mention of the following facts, but necessity having stalked in upon us compels us to step aside from our preference in regard to the matter, and therefore, we are no longer left to our choice in respect to the subject. Seven weeks more completes this paper's third year of publication, and in that space of time, as is the misfortune of nearly all the country newspapers, we have allowed a considerable amount of unpaid subscription to accumulate on our book. During the same time we have assumed obligations expecting to discharge them, to a great extent, with this unpaid subscription. The amounts owing us by different individuals, while to them are very small, to us, in the aggregate, is a considerable amount, and sufficient to eliminate several of our smaller contracts. The labor and the material the business demands can be obtained for nothing but the cash, and we hope that our patrons who are indebted to us on account of subscription will make it a point to have their accounts squared before the next year is commenced. That is the way to make the paper interesting to both publisher and patron.

SOME of the Road Supervisors whom the records made delinquent as regards the road tax, have appeared in response to the notice sent them by Judge Phelps, and had their accounts adjusted, leaving them without a cloud hanging over their official career, as was placing them beyond the reach of an indictment by the grand jury. No doubt that there are many more, if not all those who have served as Supervisors, who can have the matter satisfactorily arranged, and we urge upon them the necessity of giving the matter proper attention, and that too, before incurring any unnecessary expense

In some instances, those who have giving attention to their accounts, have developed the fact that the county is indebted to them, while their reports

THE THUGS OF INDIA.

When I was at Etou, the "cock of the school" was Jack Melcham, a six-foot hero. He was the ideal hero of everyone, for there wasn't an atom of "bally" about him. He was a

English lad; not eager to fight, fighting's sake, there being no animal-istic victories and deeds of noble daring? with a recital of which I, a mere youngster, was, on my arrival, entertained by my companions?

Tall, his clean-cut figure was singularly slight. It was only when tested that the muscle it possessed was discovered. His hair was Saxon yellow, his complexion as fair and his speech and manners as gentle as a woman's.

One could only detect the lower depths from the round chin, firm grip of the small mouth, and a certain clear, steady, unblenching glance in the large gray eyes.

When I began my first term, Jack

Melcham took me under his protection, adopting me as his fag, and many were the kindnesses and services he rendered me.

In fact, a strong affection grew up between us, and I grieved almost as the loss of a brother when he quitted

Etou for Cambridge. My pleasure, therefore, may be conceived when,

seven years later, on going out to an uncle who held a high civil appointment

in India, nearly the first name I heard mentioned was Jack Melcham's.

Two years previously he had inherited a large fortune, and was in India for tiger and elephant shooting. He delighted in many sports, among which he did not reckon a dozen reduced, buckskinned men chasing one poor fox.

"Said my uncle, sipping his

sangaree, "You know Jack Melcham, the Rajad-vel (White Rajah), the natives call him up in the hills? "

Then you know a deuced good fellow?

The women are mad about him. The men would be envious, if they did not like him too well. His prowess in tiger and lion shooting and his cool courage are renowned all over India.

If a native village is visited by a king of the jungle, which has carried off a sheep or a child, the terrified wretches instantly send a prayer to the Rajad-vel to come and shoot the monster before he devours the whole lot of them.

Charlie, his adventures would fill a book."

"Just like him!" I cried, rubbing

my hands. "He's the jolliest, bravest fellow that ever stepped, uncle!"

"I'm not going to ginsay it, lad, but

I'll add this rider: he's a bit too darlingly absurdly inquisitive."

"I'll tell you, Charlie. You see he not only hunts beasts, but men."

"Men, sir? Good gracious!"

"It's true, though only one class of men—those diabolical Thugs. If he comes across one, he captures him and gives him up to justice. The whole set of them are infuriated, and have vowed by sacred vows to be revenged.

Already they have made several attempts on his life, but have failed; consequently their awe of the Rajad-vel

This is August 14th, the day of the battle of Gettysburg.

You can't warm by a fire that is not burning.

ICE is a scarce commodity in this city.

WHEAT is not so common as it was.

The bee season is drawing rapidly to a close.

Few are the blackberry merchants this season.

The farmers have had some restless weather.

FINE weather on the turnip seed that was sown last week.

PEACHES are going to be a considerable more than plentiful.

Mr. J. W. DUNCAN's wife has been quite ill again for several days.

TURNIPS will be an abundance of apples this fall. A little more cider.

The weather is not so cool that there is danger of getting frost-bitten.

WATERMELONS are now in order, and soon other things will be out of order.

NEXT Monday is the election. In the Burlington District you have only a baker's dozen of votes to cast.

The tangled condition of the corn will be an aggravation to the farmers while sowing their small grain this fall.

A WOMAN in Mount Sterling has been married six years, has three children, and is now only eighteen years of age.

In the afternoon of next Saturday there will be a picnic in Win. Walton's woods, on the Burlington and Bellevue road.

TURNER have been very few new suits brought since the last term of Circuit Court. There are three divorce suits pending.

GRASSHOPPERS are very scarce, as yet. Probably they were the victims of the hot weather, or the late cold snap this spring.

Geo. BUCHANAN, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., has the most reliable for good, cheap and neat work in monuments in tombstones of the best materials.

JUDG PHILIPS holds his last regular term of court next Monday. On the first Monday in September his successor will relieve him of the office of County Judge.

W. M. CONNOR has for sale ten thoroughbred Southdown bucks; also, a lot of stock ewes, a bunch of which he will offer on the street in Burlington on Monday next.

LAST week the wife of Wm. Allen, who lives in the vicinity of the mouth of Woolper, died. Her attending physician, Dr. L. H. Platt, pronounced the fatal disease cholera.

THERE will be a basket meeting at the Universalist Church on Middle Street on the second Sunday in next month. Rev. W. S. Bacon will officiate in the religious services that day.

The invitations for a select party, to be given in the Morgan Academy Hall on the evening of the 16th, are out. There being no providential interference, a grand time is anticipated.

The picnic given by the Hebron Cornet Band, last Saturday, was well attended and quite a pleasant affair. The amusement was prolonged in the evening by a ball in Hebron. This was also successful.

The wind that preceded the rain which visited this section on last Friday did considerable damage by blowing the corn down and breaking it off. Hay stacks and grain shocks were also its victims.

We hear considerable talk among the boys about competing for the prize to be awarded the shabbiest turnout on the third day of the Fair. Doubtless this will be the most amusing feature of the entire exhibition.

We understand the team for Justice of the Peace in this Magisterial District is composed of W. T. Gorman and John A. Kendall. As there is no opposition, the election of these gentlemen is a thing to be set down among the certainties.

The rain that fell Friday was very much needed. Some of the farmers were complaining that the lower blades on the corn stalks were burning. Another good rain this week or in the early part of next week will insure a fine crop of corn again this year.

We understand that Professor Stephenson has received sufficient encouragement to be induced to teach another school in the Morgan Academy. We trust those of our readers who desire patronizing schools other than the district school will give this institution a trial.

An arrangement is being made to have a select reading in the Methodist Church on the night of the 14th. If the arrangement is successful, the reading will be advertised in the next issue of this paper. Everybody will be expected to attend and bring all their folk.

I CAN NOT SING.

I can not sing the song you ask,
When sad and thoughtful arise
Why can't I sing to other words
That cause such bitter eyes?

I know that pleasure decked the hour
When first the song I sung,
But those are gone I sang it long,
They died when I was young.

'Tis sweet to know they passed away
To rest from toil and care,
Where angel hands can join the song—
I know they're over there;

While I am left to fight alone
The battle here below,
And when I try to sing the song
Mine eyes doth overflow.

I can not sing the song you ask—
Nay, pardon me, my friend,
Until we reach the pearly strand
Where songs shall never end.

Then, at the golden harp I tuned
For a still sweeter strain,
I'll join with those I loved so well
And sing the song again.

Racing on the Rail.

[New York Sun, July 10th.]

The local train on the Pennsylvania

Railroad which starts from Jersey City at 7:37 in the evening, leaped out of the station on Monday like a charger that had been spurred. An old gentleman in the smoking car said "Bless me!" with what little breath remained in his body, recovered his equilibrium and his cigar, held tightly on to the back of the seat in front of him.

The telegraph poles flew by like speers;

the contiguous shop fronts seemed a solid streak of light, and a mad sort of snorting rolled down from the loco-otive upon the rushing wind. In an instant the train was flying through the limits of Jersey City, among those thick-planted buildings which are half tenement houses, half pig-pens

and all wood, and out of the right hand windows passengers beheld a shower of fiery sparks whirling about the precarious roofs of these, falling upon areas of tar and dry shingles, driving in at open windows and pelting astonished citizens on their doorsteps like a fierce hail. Passengers held their breath and thought the coal was bad and the engineer had dropped off. But after a minute, as the train bounded and leaped along the open flats, a contained passenger, whose long beard was blown back over each shoulder observed, with something of a gleam

in his quiet tones, "Now there'll be fun," and waved his hand in a stately way to the northward.

Another train was coming along in the same direction upon the track of the Delaware and Lackawanna. It was bounding under a mad impulse, and the smokestack upon its locomotive was emitting a shower of sparks. Passengers then saw that there was a race.

The track of the Delaware and Lackawanna road makes a sweep southward

just beyond Jersey City, and for the rest of the distance to Newark runs parallel with and only a few feet separated from the Pennsylvania track. When the passengers caught sight of the rival train it was thundering down the curve, seemingly bent on striking their own at right angles. But in a minute it turned, and the two locomotives were dashing toward Newark neck and neck.

For a moment neither drew a jot ahead of the other. It was an unpleasant and yet a fascinating sensation.

The coaches flew straight as a die,

swerving not a hair's breadth either to the right or to the left, striking the roadway only at intervals, flagellating

the iron railings with fierce, sharp blows, and seeming bent on striking them in twain. Passengers looked at one another out of their respective windows in an alarmed way, as if wondering which would be annihilated first.

The Delaware and Lackawanna fireman threw open the doors of his furnace and gorged it with coal. In response a million sparks flew from the funnel and danced backward, mingling brilliantly with another million out of the sounding Pennsylvania. Both locomotives blazed and roared, and the wheels of the cars flying after them

ground terrible music out of the iron track and struck fiery blows at every bound. So near together were the two trains that the passengers could almost have shaken hands across. But they were rival passengers now, and glowered

at one another under the fiery vail which the locomotives threw backward.

When the Delaware and Lackawanna

fireman came down from the Pennsylvania iron horse, and it was known that the

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

BURLINGTON, KY., AUGUST 8.

UP AND BE DOING.

It is useless to mope over our troubles all day
And to rail at the lot we inherit; Near in mind that success is the crown of hard work.
And we have far more than we merit.
Though the past has been dark and the present
not so clear,
And a storm over the future be brewing,
Bright sunshine will smile on a very long while.
If you will only be up and be doing, Cautious—Then get up with the lark and to work like a man.
The dictates of conscience pursuing,
And to overcome the strife in the battle of life,
Never yield, but be up and be doing.
Never think it beneath you to dirty your hands,
Should duty require you to do so;
Be cheerful and patient, take things as they come.
And fear nothing, like Robinson Crusoe,
As you steadily plod o'er life's dangerous road.
The chart of the past reviewing,
Yet while you look o'er the record track,
Still keep traveling on and be doing. (Chorus)
The drop that is constant will wear out the stone.
So, if fortune is slow to reward you,
Be ready and willing, and toil on in life,
And your conscience, approving, will guard you.
Make hay while the sun of your youth brilliantly shines,
Or else all your life you'll be ruing
The time you have spent and the chances you've lost;
So don't fret, but be up and be doing. (Chorus)

Crop Reports.

[Department of Agriculture, July 22.]
CORN.—Area under cultivation, nearly 50,000,000 acres, a slight decline from 1877. The decrease is in the West. Illinois decrease, 7 per cent., or about 670,000 acres. Tilled drained lands show superior crops; but on un-drained lands have not recovered from excessive rains. Of 1,032 counties reported 287 average 100, 252 above 100 and 513 below. Very few Western counties are above 100. Texas has 200,000 acres more area under corn in 1878 than in 1877. Southern crops are remarkably promising.

WHEAT.—The crop of winter wheat gathered is very large in the Middle States, and in the Ohio Valley it is unexampled in luxuriance. Even in the Northwest the winter wheat harvest was unusually fine. In the South the conditions of growth were unfavorable, and hence the low figures of that section bring down the general average to 101. Generally, good harvest weather is reported, together with an ample supply of efficient labor. The winter wheat crop has been secured in good condition. With reference to the spring wheat crop, the high condition reported in June is again reported in the East,
the Northwest and California in July.
The condition of the whole spring wheat crop, taken altogether, is 103.

RYE AND BARLEY.—The condition is 101. A high condition prevails in the Eastern, Western and Middle States, but in the South, except in Alabama and Texas, the amount grown is inferior and limited in extent, especially barley.

OATS.—All the States are 100 or above except the following: New Hampshire, 99; Vermont, 98; Massachusetts, 95; North Carolina, 91;
South Carolina, 93; Georgia, 93; Florida, 92; Michigan, 97; Texas, 92; California, 79; Oregon, 80. General average, 101. Tennessee and Nebraska, 112.

Reports from Milwaukee state that,
from a summary of 200 reports received by a leading commission firm
there from points in Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Illinois during the past three weeks, the damage to the wheat crop by the late storms and excessive high temperature averages 17 per cent.
in Wisconsin, 27 per cent. in Iowa and 27 per cent. in Minnesota. Messrs.
Talmadge & Lindman, commission merchants of Milwaukee, report returns from 47 points in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois, most of which indicate considerable damage to the growing spring wheat crop; but the reports of the corn crop are generally quite favorable, the forcing weather of the last three weeks having much improved its condition.

Cooking Food for Stock.

It is claimed that by steaming or cooking food for stock it is more nourishing, and that a less quantity is required to produce the same results as that not cooked. This is undoubtedly true, but the expense counteracts in a great measure the economy, and the cost of the apparatus to do it precludes its use, unless there is a large amount of stock to be fed. The same purpose can be effected if the grain is malting, the same as barley is in the making of beer.
If they be moistened with water and left in a pile till it heats and commences to ferment, it will answer the same purpose as cooking it. This converts portions of the indigestible substances into di-gestible ones, which is what cooking the food does. This is more easily done than cooking the food, and saves the costly apparatus. A large box to hold the hay, that it may be somewhat compressed, is all that is required, and if grain and pulped roots are mixed with it and all fermented together, the whole makes a food superior to that fed raw, and the mixture is better than any fed on labor, but the saving on items of feed is not great.

Ill-Natured Remarks.

It was the confession of a Christian man, "Often have I felt disturbed and troubled by the recollections of remarks which have fallen from my lips, of uncharitable and ill-tempered tenor.
Those to whom they were uttered may never have recalled them, and those of whom they may have been spoken may never have heard them; but my own memory has treasured them up, and they are now often reverted to with pain and solicitation. I may have thought at the time they were justified by circumstances, and were no more than frank expressions of my convictions; and yet I can not conceal from myself that they had in them a spice of malignity, of which I should have been ashamed." How many might,
with propriety make a similar confession?
The staple of conversation with many is this very freedom of remarks on the conduct of others. Severe remarks on their acts, suspicion of their motives, doubts of their sincerity, exaggeration of their feelings, unfair construction of their words and a general misrepresentation, more or less gross, of their conduct, are things which we daily observe in conversation. None we presume, are blameless in this matter; but the general prevalence of the evil diminishes it in its criminality.
The best men need caution, and are safest when they put a bridle on their tongues. All men are our brethren;
they claim with us a common origin;
they are pursuing the same sorrowful journey of life; their eyes, as well as our own, must soon close in the sleep of death; we must rest side by side with them in the grave, and appear with them at the judgment. If there were then no divine prohibition of evil speaking, our human sympathies should suggest tenderness of the reputation of others. Kindness, love and forbearance better become us; and we should remember how assailable we ourselves are, and how sad it would be for us, if as we meet to others it should be measured to us again.

A Gigantic Swindle.

A fraud of a startling nature, and doubtless, one of the most stupendous in its purposes and results of any previously perpetrated in this State, has recently been discovered, amounting to nothing less than the counterfeiting the great seal of the State of California, and its application to the prodigious schemes of thievery. The main object to which all this daring villainy has been designed has been the wholesale seizure of the public lands, under the guise of legal sanction, and on a scale compared with which the brief period of deserted land grabbing was a mere spasm of petty larceny. It is known that information of the fraud has been in possession of the State authorities for some weeks past, but the reason it has been withheld from the public is not explained, unless it may be attributed to the cause of justice, in facilitating the searching out the guilty parties. For what period, and to what extent, this fraudulent instrument has been used, outside investigation has not yet determined, but it is quite certain that many thousands, maybe millions, of acres of land, including some of the best improved and most valuable in the State, are held under fictitious titles, devolving on the employment of this counterfeit. It is further hinted that men of prominence and hitherto esteemed integrity are concerned in this fraud, and that its perpetration will, in due time, solve the mystery of many an easily acquired fortune in various quarters. From the extent to which the fictitious titles to land are held in all parts of the State, it is evident that hundreds have been, directly or indirectly, concerned in the villainy, while the victims may be estimated by the thousands. It seems no less assured that public officials, in some quarters, have been implicated in the business, and shared in the guilty profits.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Beautiful Allegory.

Mr Crittenden, of Kentucky, was once engaged in defending a man who had been indicted for a capital offense.
After an elaborate and powerful argument, he closed his effort with the following striking and beautiful allegory:
"When God in his eternal council conceived the thought of man's creation, he called to him the three ministers who wait constantly upon the throne—Justice, Truth and Mercy—and thus addressed them: 'Shall we make man?' Then said Justice: 'O God, make him not, for he will transgress also.' 'O God, make him not, for he will pollute thy law.' But Mercy, dropping upon her knees, looked up through her tears, exclaimed: 'O God, make him—I will watch over him with my care through all the dark paths which he may have to tread.'
Then God made man, and said to him,
'O man, thou art the child of Mercy;
go and deal with thy brother.'"

A Gleaning Tree.

Quite a sensation has been created in the Amity Church neighborhood, Clark County, Alabama, by a pine tree which grows like a human being in distress or dying. A number of persons of both colors visited the place recently to hear the doleful sound. With the colored people the interest was enhanced by the fact that the tree stands hard by a large graveyard, and is also near the place where a man of their color was killed by lightning a year or two ago.

FASHION NOTES.

Silver ornaments of all kinds are very fashionable.

The small round turban is again worn by young ladies.

Passmenterie fringes and lace are employed on dresses.

Coiffures are arranged lower, and so,
of course, are bonnets.

New gloves have an embroidered coat-of-arms on the back.

"Marigold," one of the many shades of yellow, is in much favor.

The "ombrelle duchesse" is one of the latest styles of umbrellas.

Spiral bands are largely worn instead of the plain round bangle.

Novelties in fans have the upper part representing geranium leaves.

For general wear, four-button kids to match the dress, are in most favor.

A new style of hair-dressing is called Moules coiffure, after the late young queen.

Black velvet belts are very much improved by being embroidered in variated silk.

Some mantles are made entirely of passmenterie, and beads play an important part.

Old fashioned steel bed satchels are again worn as chatelaines, in rivalry of the velvet pockets.

Brussels net is a new material for evening dresses, embroidered in leaves of pale drab or orange.

The most popular traveling bag is made of canvas, and can be richly braided and embroidered.

The Rembrandt hat of white and plush with plumes, is intended for blondes for dress occasions.

The latest bracelet out is a serpent of gold, with scales of red and green enamel. Brides wear them.

A handsome black straw hat is trimmed with double-faced ribbon, and a large butterfly in bold filigree.

Weits are not worn by quiet young ladies; they must not wear lace till they are twenty-one, or married.

Outside pockets are seen on some of the latest toilets. With the present style of dress they are almost indispensable.

The latest extravagance in stockings is to have them in pale-tinted silk, embroidered in frosted silver leaves and seed pearls.

Balsamine, a fabric well familiar to the last generation, is revived, and is much in favor on account of its durability and beauty.

Some of the newest parasols are adorned with large monograms, but they do not appear to please ladies, as they are too conspicuous.

Different colored ribbons are used in combination for trimming dresses. For black dresses gold and red are used;
for white and delicate tints, pink and blue.

Gold bands dotted with jet flowers are worn with Roman coiffure. A long narrow band is worn over the brow and a broad one further back serves as a comb.

Satin is the favorite material for parasols, which are much longer this season than last. Some are figured white, others are of plain black or white satin.

The Balsamo hat, named after Dumas' last play, is one of the newest hats, and when trimmed simply with a long veil caught with a bunch of flowers, is very handsome and becoming.

New imported opera cloaks are made of gold embroidered Indian shawls.
The shawl is sewed into shape without being cut, is faced with gold satin, and ornamented with gold passmenterie.

Spreading Them.

The Republican Campaign Committee are not getting as much money as they require, if the next House is to be won; still it is rolling in tin rather lively for the hard times. Full 95 per cent. of it comes from the office holders. Republicans in private life are not so patriotic this year as usual, or else they have less money. There is a complaint that none of the Departments are coming up to the work as they usually do during an exciting contest. The well known fact that clerks are not required to subscribe has much to do with it. A man with eight in family and $1,200 annually is not liable to subscribe unless there is moral suasion applied from some direction. Just now there is most complaint against Schurz's department. The clerks are either less patriotic than usual, or the office of Secretary and the President have removed the fear that their names will come off if they do not subscribe.
It is a singular fact that the Post-Office Department, presided over by a Democrat, has contributed twice as much, in proportion to the number of clerks employed, than any other Department. The Committee are gratified at this, but they don't know how to account for this, for not the least pressure was used to extort subscription. In every instance the clerks were informed that they could subscribe if they chose, and what they liked,
but in no case would their positions be made dependent upon their subscriptions. Yet a greater number contributed than any other Department, compared with the force employed.

The Committee report that postmasters generally through the country are subscribing quite liberally, far more than the other class of officials.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvellous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. It is almost every section of the country there are persons, public and private, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it, acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. CHERRY PECTORAL always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs.

As a safeguard to children, and the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued and restored to health. This medicine gains friends at every trial, as the cure it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will.

Eminent Physicians throughout the country prescribe it, and Esgerymen often recommend it from their knowledge of its effects.

wound on the side of his head leaves a suspicion of foul play.

At the last session of the Legislature, the law governing the sale of intoxicating drinks was so amended as to materially increase its stringency, and when compared with the local option law it appears its superior in many respects. The amendment makes it unlawful for any person having a license to sell spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, by the drink or otherwise, to sell, give or loan any such liquors, or the mixture of either, knowingly, to any person who is an inebriate or in the habit of becoming intoxicated or drunk by the use of such liquors, or to suffer or permit any such person to drink any such liquors, or the mixture of either in his bar-room, saloon, or in or upon any tenement in his possession or under his control. Anyone so offending shall be subjected to a fine of $50 for each offense, to be recovered by an indictment of a grand jury in any court of competent jurisdiction, or by warrant before the County Judge, or a Justice of the Peace of the county in which the offense was committed;
and the person so found guilty shall also be deemed as having forfeited his license, and the court before which the trial is had shall so adjudge. In addition to the fine above mentioned, the violator together with the surety on his bond are liable to a civil action for damages by the wife, or the father, or the mother, or the children of such inebriate or person so in the habit of getting drunk or becoming intoxicated, in which punitive damages may be assessed, but not until the person so selling shall have received written notice forbidding such sale. Thus we see that a landlord is required to be particularly careful to whom he sells intoxicating drinks, and unless he is a man in whom his friends have considerable confidence, it will be difficult for him to execute the required bond; for no man wants to sign an obligation that places him in an attitude to be assailed at any term of court on account of the action of the principal in the bond. The license law as it now exists is calculated to accomplish much more than was ever accomplished under the local option law. The law is so plain that its violation will be easily avoided by those selling whisky, if they are so disposed. There is not a landlord in the county that does not know the persons to whom this amendment has direct reference, and even if a stranger is an inebriate, it is not necessary that he should revel in drunkenness a week or ten days before the proprietor of the premises discovers that he is a person referred to in the law. It now remains to have the law as amended enforced. The whole matter is in the hands of the courts and the juries. The law is a good one if enforced, and if not enforced it is like all other disregarded laws.

For several years our town has been the recipient of a considerable amount of gratuitous and damaging advertising. For instance, if a person applied by letter to any of the citizens for information in regard to the property of engaging in any branch of business, no matter what, he would receive, by return mail, an answer stating if he came here his starvation would be a mere matter of time, and that a very short time too. This is the style of encouragement that has been given every person who has been the least inclined to come here and go into business for the last thirty years.
Could anything be better calculated to destroy the business of a town than its citizens constantly proclaiming to the world that it is fit for no branch of industry? There never was that kind of a town or village in this country. They are all adapted to some branch of industry if the citizens only learn what it is. It seems that the people here have entertained the opinion that the patronage of any business located here must be confined to the narrow limits of the town, never taking into consideration the wealth of the surrounding country. When a person asks for information regarding a town the citizen ought to tell him the advantages, and let him do the judging as to whether or not he will starve.

There was a terrible railroad accident the 6th, on the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad near Mingo Junction, Ohio. A passenger train running at the rate of forty miles on hour, collided with a freight train, wrecking both trains and killing and wounding a large number of persons.

The platform adopted by the South Carolina Republican Convention declares that the principles of equal civil and political rights can only be enforced by the Republican party; reiterates an abhorrence of violence, intimidation or frauds in elections; denounces Democrats for attending Republican meetings; charges Democrats with being unfaithful to the pledges made in 1876;
denounces Democrats for frauds, intimidations and violence in 1876; for assassinations and murders during that campaign, and for what they consider a violent seizure of the State Government; denounces the unseating of certain Republican members of the Legislature; arraigns Democrats for abolishing or removing certain election precincts; arraigns the fraud investigation; reaffirms a belief in the fair election of Hayes and Chamberlain, and pledges the Republican party to the work of purifying the public service. The ninth article in the platform says: "We deem it inexpedient to nominate candidates for Governor and other State offices, because, owing to the condition of affairs in this State, occasioned by rifle-club rule and two years Democratic supremacy, it is impossible for Republican voters in many counties, without incurring great personal danger, to organize for the campaign or to vote at the election when held."

Wonder if the President is not getting tired of having it repeatedly affirmed that Chamberlain and Packard were elected? Not nominating any candidates for State offices in South Carolina is intended expressly for political capital.

The Pioneer Press says though Gen.
Grant can never again be President of the United States, he may, through the shrewd maneuvering and patient wire-pulling of a class of disreputable politicians, or through the general apathy or blindly-aroused enthusiasm of a careless public, become the candidate of the Republican party, with the double evil result of obtaining the lasting discredit of that party and the election of the Democratic candidate. It should not be necessary to argue this point. Everybody knows that it was only by dropping Grant and all that the world implies, that the party succeeded in 1876. Everybody with an eye to see and a mind to reason, should see that Grant would be a heavier load in 1880 than in 1876.

According to the Oldham Era, the result of the late election in Oldham County has been rendered null by all the persons constituting the board to compare the polls being candidates.
All the Justices of the Peace in the county, with one exception, were also candidates, and when the time for counting the vote arrived, the Justice that was not a candidate was absent from the county, and those who under other circumstances would have composed the Board to canvass the vote, met and adjourned.

The Democrats of the Eighth Congressional District met in convention at Somerset, last week, and cast two hundred and twenty-six ballots without making a choice of candidates for Congress, and then adjourned to meet again on the 11th of next month.
There were four candidates, Durham, Fox, Turner, and Thompson. The friends of each candidate were evidently determined to give nothing in favor of the opposing candidates. The assembly was extremely boisterous.

The dry weather, this month, has left its mark in nearly every neighborhood in the county. The ground, during the dry weather, was so thoroughly dried out that the light showers which have fallen within the past few days did but little good. The crops in the county are in need of a rain that will thoroughly wet the ground, and unless received in a very short time, the crops will be materially injured.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction reports that the allowance of school fund for each white child returned for the school year ending June 30th, 1879, is $1.60, being five cents less than it was last year.
The decrease in the valuation of taxable property in the State shows in the school fund again.

One day last week, two men went into a bank in Indiana, and after having a check cashed, one of them requested the Cashier to tie a string around his finger, which appeared to be sore.
While the Cashier was thus engaged, the thief's pal sneaked to the vault and successfully abstracted $5,000.

THERE will be a general swearing
in on the first Monday in next month.

While the Institute is in session it might take some step looking to the proper manner of presenting to the public the necessity of having better school-houses. In many districts the school-houses are very indifferent buildings, fit for neither winter nor summer schools.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

St. Louis, Mo., August 10, 1878.

To the Editor of the Recorder:
I received no paper last week, and none for this week up to this p. m. What is the matter?—Hope you have not fallen a victim to the scorching rays of old Sol.

The forepart of the week with us, in the way of heat, was a sort of second edition of what we had in the middle of July; but we had quite a storm last Thursday evening, and last night we had about the heaviest rain this camp ever saw. It not only sprinkled and poured, but came down in one solid sheet for the entire night. There were, during the evening several lightning strikes about the city, but no very serious damage done anywhere, as yet reported.

Our approaching fall session is the all-absorbing topic, just now, on the streets and in counting-rooms. Candidates are as plenty as bees around a elder press, and many of them as noisy as the rats on the levees. The Democracy of this city, by their own foolishness, gave away three Congressmen last election, and there are almost certain to do the same thing this fall.—Hon. Samuel T.
Gliver, of this city, and Hon. Geo. G. Voss, of Sedalia, are stamping the State, presenting their claims to the good people thereof for the United States Senatorship, as they elect this coming winter. They are both gentlemen of ability, and either would make a representative of whom we need not be ashamed; but if we were going to make a guess, there is a man by the name of Phelps, holding an important executive position at this time, that has had an eye on the aforesaid position for the past two years, and will most likely come ahead of all the rest of 'em when they come to count the votes next winter. At least, such are the conclusions of more than one man. Gov. Phelps is a sly old con, and batters his way through the term for getting drunk, but he can beat any of the boys when it comes to log-polling.
Gov. B. Gratz Brown, who was notorious for outwitting his watermelon, is now a leading spirit in the grand temperance reformation.
Mifflin Rumor says Gratz will be a candidate for Governor on the prohibition ticket;
but that is a long time between drinks with some men, and we fear most too much for the red-headed statesman. Gratz, however, is a talented fellow, and ought to stick to his pledge.

Our business men generally, irrespective of party, sympathize with Gov. Bishop in his policy. He is regarded as an honorable man in all his business relations; and surely, any man that had done an honorable business, paying dollar for dollar, for an ordinary lifetime, and then fell, is entitled to the consideration of his fellow-men. We are all weary of the same politics or not. By the way, we notice failures are becoming quite common in the blue-grass region; but we suppose there won't be quite so many after the last of next month.

New wheat continues to come in freely, at the rate of 75,000 to 125,000 bushels per day, and is quickly taken at prices satisfactory to producer and consumer.

As ever yours,
Ben A. Long.

A POETIC GEM.

"William," she cried as she gazed on her Will.
"Why don't you gaze on me?"
He smiled a smile that was full of life,
And answered her:

"It is well for you, dear little maid,
That you weep, for I have wept.
It is well for you, for you know it is true,
Your tears you have not shed."

You know that I have been true for years,
And many a tear I have shed.
But now I see—ah! I see it,
That many tears you have shed.

Many a time when others sleep
I never sleep a sleep,
But think of you, and think you true,
And my reward I've reaped.

Go wink your winks at other men,
And sing the songs you've sung.
But when you sing, no sighs will bring
The thoughts then songs once bring.

Farewell, farewell, you've cried your cry,
Your fully you have said:
Of tears the trace is on your face—
Please wash it when I'm gone.

"William!" she shrieked, "William, William!
My heart is torn in two!
Oh, cruel, cruel cruel man,
You know not what you do!"

She felt into her William's arms,
And William he fell in hers,
Each strove a strive the more to love,
And did not give a word.

Mixed Farming.

The history of the last ten years teaches one important fact in Western farming—a greater diversified industry. Every farmer should study the capabilities of his farm. A reckless risk of all the labor of the year on one or two varieties of products is dangerous in the extreme. Nor should farmers suddenly abandon one branch of business for the reason that it is unprofitable this year. The same cause that will induce one man to abandon hog raising will induce thousands of others. The same way with wheat, barley, or corn. And probably the very year from this cause which it was supposed it would not pay production, results in the most profitable crop. All articles, from over production or want of demand, experience their periods of depression. Corn and hogs follow the inevitable law. But in succession of seasons in the Northwest these have proven to be the remunerative sources of profit. And as the demand in Europe for the hog product is ten fold what it was twenty years ago, the present depression is no cause to abandon so profitable a branch of industry. Continue to breed the best class, and take better care of them. Do not rely wholly on hogs, or horses, or cattle, or wheat, or corn, or any other one staple product. Study how many profitable articles can be raised on the farm. "Do not put all the eggs in one basket."—Iowa Register.

Recipe for Curing Meat.

To one gallon of water take 1½ pounds of salt, 1 pound of sugar, 1 ounce of saltpetre, 1 ounce of potash. In this ratio the pickle can be increased to any quantity desired. Let these be boiled together until all the dirt from the sugar rises to the top and is skimmed off. Then throw it into a tub to cool; and when cold, pour it over your beef or pork. The meat must be well covered with pickle, and should not be put down for at least two days after killing, during which time it should be slightly sprinkled with powdered saltpetre, which removes all the surface blood, etc., leaving the meat fresh and clean. Some omit boiling the pickle and find it to answer well, though the operation of boiling purifies the pickle by throwing off the dirt always to be found in salt and sugar. If this recipe is strictly followed, it will require only a single trial to prove its superiority over the common way, or most ways of putting down meat, and will not soon be abandoned for any other. The meat is unsurpassed for sweetness, delicacy and freshness of color.

Curing Hydrophobia.

Many years ago Noah Hatch, of Northumberland, a wealthy farmer, had three children bitten by a rabid dog. On the first symptoms of rabies in the children he started for the ocean. Portland was the nearest port, and one hundred and twenty-five miles distant, but he reached it in about twenty hours by a frequent change of horses, and immediately put the children on board a sailing vessel and took them out on a short distance, and, fastening weights to them, three times took them to the sea, keeping them under as long as was safe without extinguishing life. The effect of the submergence was the cure of the children. Alpha, one of the bitten children, had hydrophobia spasms and would snap his teeth, froth at the mouth, and would bark like a dog, before reaching Portland. This individual, now nearly seventy years old, resides in Bethlehem, and Mrs. Charlotte Waters, now living in Hartford, was one of the bitten children. The dog that bit the children bit several animals that subsequently became rabid and were killed.

At a bachelor ball he once fell in love with a young lady, but abandoned all idea of marrying her, when he found that she and all her family were opposed to it.

When a man is again becoming a bachelor, he is again becoming a bachelor.

Why Men Don't Marry.

Rev. Henry Morgan once lectured in Boston on "Why men don't marry." His headings were these: Men don't marry, first, because they can't. They can't get the ones they want; because many of them are married; they dare not face the music; they dodge the question. Third, because they are skeptical; they have no faith in woman; they think marriage a lottery. Fourth, they are selfish; they can not yield for another's good; they can not support a family—want the sweets of life without enduring its burdens. Fifth, woman's extravagance. Here the speaker showed the true cause for man's hesitating; expensive living and extravagant dress. It costs as much to launch a woman on the sea of wedded life as it would to fit out a small schooner. As to the life, cordage, penants, streamers, etc., the difference is in favor of the schooner.

Next, whom do men marry? Women, of course. John Howard, the great philanthropist, married his nurse 25 and she 62. John Wesley married a virgin. Peter the Great married a peasant girl. He later married a poor girl because he loved her. Shakespeare married a farmer's daughter. Byron married for money to pay his debts. Robert Burns married a woman he courted in the plow field. Milton parted from his wife. Washington married a widow. Franklin married the girl who saw him with rolls under his arm. Andrew Jackson married a lady whose husband was living. Edward Lytton, Bulwer married a widow. General Fremont married the daughter of Thomas Denton by eloping. Horace Greeley married a schoolmistress. Martin Luther married a nun. Father Hyacinth married a convert that finally converted him.

Pleas.

They have original views of what constitutes a picnic in Kentucky. In this part of the Union we count it an excursion to the country for social pleasure and pastime. Down in Kentucky they regard it as a rendezvous to settle old grudges with the revolver and bowie-knife. The telegraph has lately informed us that at a picnic in Lewis County, that State, William and Thomas Blankenship were recently stabbed to death, and ten or fifteen other persons were more or less seriously wounded. Now, that sounds comfortable. Such facts as these sharpen one's appetite for picnics. It is downright hospitality to invite a gentleman two a party of that sort then butcher him. It may seem like a human barbecue to people who are not accustomed to the thing, but it is delightful when one gets into the way of it. What can be more enticing than a picnic where to men are killed and fifteen wounded? There might have been more casualties, to be sure, but in all probability the day was not a good one for picnicking in Lewis County. It should be a source of deep regret to the Northerners that they can't have picnics of the good old Kentucky kind, where whisky flows like blood, and where the entertainment closes with several murders, just to encourage and please the "boys." We presume the invitations specially ask persons to whom they are sent to bring their revolvers, knives, and that they may be properly equipped, as no sport is usually expected, and usually provided. The story goes that there they do not say a man has been killed, they merely mention he had gone to a picnic; the rest is understood.—N. Y. Times.

What Voices Indicate.

There are light, quick, surface voices that involuntarily seem to utter, "I won't do it to tie." The man's words may assure you of his strength of purpose and reliability, yet his tone contradicts his speech.

Then there are low, deep, strong words, where the words seem ground out as if the man owed humanity a grudge, and meant to pay it some day. The man's opponents may tremble, and his friends trust his ability to act.

There is the coarse, boisterous, dictatorial voice invariably adopted to vulgar people who have not sufficient cultivation to understand their insignificance.

There is the incredulous tone, that is full of a covert sneer, or secret, "you can't dupe me, sir," intonation.

Then there is a whining, beseeching voice that says, "sympathize" as plainly as if it uttered the word. It cajoles and flatters you; its words say, "I love you; I admire you; you are every thing you should be."

Then there is the tender, musical, compassionate voice that sometimes goes with sharp features and sometimes with blunt features, but always with benevolence.

If you are full of affection and pretense, your voice proclaims it. If you are full of honest strength and purpose, your voice proclaims it. If you are old, odd, calm and firm and persistent, or fickle and foolish and deceptive, your voice will be equally truth-telling.

You can not change your voice from a natural to an unnatural tone without its being known you are doing so.

REMEMBER,
That a little of something is kept at the Prescription Drug Store, Rising Sun, Indiana.
And you can save money when you buy, for instance,
4 lbs. Baking Soda for 25c. Baby's Powder, 10c. per lb. or less.
1 lb. of Starck for 25c. Soda Ash, 7c. per lb.
Copperas, 5c. per lb.

KISSING.

There's a pretty good proverb

That is pretty much like this:

There's a man in heaven

Who has a kiss, and he says

But there's danger in delaying.

And the sweetest may forsake it.

So I tell you, faithful lover,

If you want a kiss, why take it.

Never let another fellow

Steal a march on you in this;

Never let a laughing maiden

See you spoiling for a kiss.

There's a royal way of kissing.

And the jolly ones who make it

Have a motto that is winning:

If you want a kiss, why take it.

Any fool may kiss a cannon.

Anybody wear a crown.

But a man must win a woman

If he'd have her for his own.

Would you have a golden apple?

You must find a tree and shake it;

If a thing is worth the having.

And you can't get it without breaking it.

Who would burn upon a desert

With a forest growing by?

Who would give his sunny summer

For a bleak and wintry sky?

Oh! I tell you there is magic

And you can't get it without breaking it.

For the sweetest part of loving

Is to want a kiss and take it.

The Most Useful Animal.

It would seem to be about time for that class of theorists who proclaim that "the horse is the most useful

of all animals and also the most intelligent," to look into the merits of the statement somewhat. The quotation is neither new nor original. On the contrary, it is very old; so old that it is worn threadbare. The fact is, the horse is neither the most useful nor the most intelligent animal. Horred cattle far surpass horses in usefulness, and the elephant is the superior of the horse in intelligence. With the intelligent sagacity - sagacity of the statement, however, we do not now propose to deal. Let us see how horses, as a class, compare with cattle in point of utility.

Suppose one of the other race were destroyed. If the horse, then, the ox would have to take his place as a draught animal, and it would be found to be no mean one. It is true, our roads would not be filled with fast teams, rushing along at great speed, at the risk of life to pedestrians; drafters would not race blunder and blunder with loads. Moving loads are travel roads would be limited to the speed of the patient ox; nevertheless, trade and traffic would not be seriously inconvenienced, for steam would quickly be made available, and, in the end, transportation would probably be cheapened.

Even under the existing state of things, it is more than probable that fully one-half the plowing and the other labors of the farm performed by animal power is still done by other power than that of the horse. It is only among the more civilized nations that the horse is generally used as a draught animal. Many others use oxen. Undoubtedly they might be used with profit where systematic agriculture is practiced, if it were not so fashionable to use horses. Many first-rate farmers know this, and avail themselves of this valuable labor.

Those who feed their ox teams popularly will find, in plowing, that a heavy plow of oxen will get over about as much work, day by day, as a team of horses. Here, as much depends on the feeding, training and handling as on the team used. A team of horses kept on grass and hay alone will not do as much work as a team of oxen on the same keep. A team of smart oxen, kept on oats, will do as much plowing in a day as a team of horses, but they may have to work, perhaps, an hour a day more to do it.

The horse has only one product to give us - labor. This is a most valuable one, and industry could not well do without it. Still the wheels of industry would not stand still if horses were swept out of existence. The value of cattle is of a manifold nature. The cow furnishes milk, cream, curds, butter and cheese; the refuse from the manufactures feed hogs. The ox furnishes labor, and, when that is done,

meat and labor of the most valuable kind. According to the report of the Commissioner of Customs at Washington, the export of butter from the United States for 1877 was $1,527,242 pounds, worth $4,424,616. Of cheese, there was exported 107,844,666 pounds, worth $12,700,627. The money value of the cows of the country is $450,-

000,000. To work the milk products,

$100,000,000 is required, and the total sum invested in the country is quoted at

$1,420,000,000, including $900,000,000 in the land used for pasturage and hay and other feed. The export of fresh beef to England alone, from January to December 31, 1877, amounted to $1,061,606. The total number of horses in all North America, in 1876, was estimated at 9,504,200. If worth an average $100 each - a large estimate - it would give $950,420,000, or only about $50,000,000 more than the investment in land necessary to feed

the cows of the country. We are unable to find the value of neat cattle for the same year. Let us go back to the census of 1870. The total number of horses in the United States in that year was 8,890,219. The number of cattle was 28,704,582. The average steer at three years old is worth about that of the average unbroken colt at the same age. The reader can figure for himself as to the relative value of cattle and horses in the country at that time. Since then, the scale has been turned largely in favor of neat cattle.

Let us now look at the value of horses, according to the Cincinnati

Price Current, the total number of horses packed and marketed in the

RENOVATE YOUR BEDS.

The time for plowing for small grain is at hand.

This week, the Universalist Association will take in the town.

Next Saturday is the last regular day for the examination of school teachers.

Let Wood & Welty renovate your beds. They are the best hands in the country.

Tux Universalists expect several able ministers to attend their association here this week.

Mr. J. W. DUNCAN has purchased a new organ. It is the sweetest toned instrument in town.

Tux town of Bellevue was in a very bad state of health last week, one half the population being sick.

One day last week, the wife of Dr. Adams, of Big Bone, was seriously injured by being thrown from a horse.

SLICK & CONNER have fed to hogs nearly 6,000 bushels of corn, raised by Michael Cline and Jas. Rogers, of Bellevue.

GIVE Wiles, the tailor, Lawrenceburg, Ind., a trial, and my word for it, you'll have clothes that will fit you, and save money besides.

As D. G. Grigby is in Texas, he is not now on the Board of School Examiners. His successor will be appointed as soon as practicable.

In the notice regarding the lost necklace, last week, the lady's name should have been Mrs. Alice Bailey instead of Mrs. Alice Duncan.

TO-DAY, Mr. Thos. Hall, formerly of this place, and Miss Laura Black, of Loveland, Ohio, will be united in the holy bonds of wedlock.

BUCKEYE timber is now in demand. Logs are wanted at 175 Pearl street in Cincinnati for the purpose of being worked into business cards, etc.

It appears that Scott Rice is to superintend the digging to be done on the county's land at Big Bone, and has commenced quarrying his forces there.

MR. SAMUEL PERKINS knows how to supply the wants of his fellow-man, and last week he presented us a basket of very fine apples, for which he has our thanks.

For several days Dr. Smith's wife has been suffering excruciating pain from two bone fclons, one on a finger of one hand and one on the thumb of the other hand.

The select reading given by Prof. F. Youmans in the Methodist Church, Wednesday night of last week, was not largely attended. The Professor's selections were good.

Last Saturday, Mr. J. A. Davis, Wm. Pfeiffer and one or two others were made quite sick by eating watermelons. Probably the melons were taken from dead vines.

DR. T. B. SMITH'S Agricultural Liment can not be excelled in the good it is doing in the way of straightening crooked limbs and curing diseases. Let everybody use it.

Some of the denizens of Woolper Valley are on the war path, a violation of the fish law being the cause of the trouble. No collision between the hostile parties yet reported.

If you want a fine monument or slab to erect over the grave of a departed friend, there is no better place to buy one than at Huchart & Co.'s marble yards, in Lawrenceburg, Ind.

ONE day last week, Mr. Samuel Pope brought to our office a peach twig about nine inches long, and upon which was a cluster of nine perfect peaches. This we consider quite a curiosity in the fruit line.

A MILK cow belonging to Joseph Cowen was found mired in the mud in a small ravine last Saturday. The animal was released, but died the next day. How long she had been there is not known.

It having been reported that Mr. John Crisler's honey is sour, and not fit for use, he requests us to deny said false statement for him. He claims that he has as sweet and beautiful honey as any person in the State.

The appearance of day, Sunday morning, was accompanied by a very lively thunder shower, which invigorated vegetation and gladdened the hearts of the farmers, who "smile great smiles" of partial satisfaction.

THERE will be a Sunday-School Convention held in the Christian Church at Petersburg, commencing on the 6th of September and continuing three days. Elder C. C. Cline is to preside over the convention. Every Sunday-school in the county is invited to attend.

An imported case of matrimony which proved fatal was quarantined at the Boone House Wednesday of last week. The parties were Jonathan Howe, of Gallatin County, and Catherine Reemer, of the Commonwealth of Boone. Elder H. J. Foster had charge of the case.

In our electric table, last week, the vote reported cast on the road law was cast for and against the amendment to the dog law. Some of the town dogs were so outraged by the mistake they threatened to mangle our underpinning if the correction was not made, which we hasten to do.

At a meeting of the morning of the 11th, the teachers of the different parts of the county convened and putting in an appearance, in obedience to the edict of the Commissioner, authorized by the school law. It soon became evident that the Teachers' Institute was not only to be attended by a large number of pedagogues, but that quite a number of the friends of education had laid aside the tolls of everyday life and were assembling to witness the display of knowledge possessed by those with whom is intrusted the education of the future men and women of the county.

When the Institute was organized, the roll contained the names of thirty persons, a portion of whom were authorized teachers, and the remainder expecting to make applications for certificates during the session. The organization scarcely reached a starting point the forenoon of the first day. During the adjournment at noon, a splendid organ, now the property of Mr. J. W. Duncan, was taken to the hall, and the exercises were continued with vocal and instrumental music; and on the last day, Friday, this feature was rendered quite entertaining by a corps of vocalists being in attendance and taking part in the singing.

Thursday the attendance was largely increased, and the exercises of the day more interesting, there being several lively discussions on different subjects. Some of those to whom were assigned the writing and reading of essays were not present, and the programme was accordingly curtailed.

Friday the house was uncomfortably filled, even the windows being occupied as seats, preventing the free circulation of the air, and rendering the atmosphere very unpleasant. The increased attendance apparently animated several of the teachers, and the work during the day was dispatched with more vim than at any time during the session. The last discussion of any importance was between J. W. Howe and Will Conner upon the use of the Bible in the schools. Howe favored the use of the Book, and Conner objected to it. They defended their respective positions with considerable skill, making the debate quite interesting to the several hearers.

Prof. Youmans' select readings was one of the entertaining features of the Institute. He was called upon several times, and always received a storm of applause. Fred is a considerable elocutionist, as well as a ladies' man.

At the close of the Institute, the record showed that forty-one teachers had appeared; that six certificates had been granted, as follows: Miss Kate Craig, J. G. Blanton, T. Z. Roberts, O. D. Buffington, Naoma Ellis and Mattie Vance; and that two were left on the block, the examination not being completed.

The Hop.

The ball given by the Terpsichoreans in the Morgan Academy Hall, last Thursday night, was a most brilliant affair. The attendance was large, and the music the best ever had here on any similar occasion. Those who attended are unanimous in praising and pronouncing it extremely recherché. The following named ladies were in attendance: Miss Whitlock, from North Bend; Miss Rabb and Miss Parker, of Rising Sun, Ind.; Miss Mary Light and Miss Ida Moore, of Covington; Miss Mary Parry, of Lawrenceburg, Ind.; Miss Queen Grubbs and Mrs. Webb, of Taylorport; Miss Bell Loe, of Ludlow; Miss Lou Bradford and Miss Eva Soards, of Hebron; Miss Emma Rouse, of Crittendon, Grant County; Miss Dora Clements, of Union; Miss Cora Stephenson, of Benton Station, Kenton County; Miss Rose, Miss Susie and Miss Dora Rich, Miss Sue Kreylich, Miss Sue and Miss Minnie Kyle, and Miss Carrie Pace, of Beech Grove, Kenton County; Mrs. Hattie Arnold, of Williamstown, Grant County; Miss Amanda Jeffries and Miss Wills Groger, of Cincinnati; Miss Malissa Utz, Miss Sanders and Mrs. Lulu Smith, of Florence.

The Burlington list was as follows: Miss Hettie and Miss Orestia Kirpatrick, Miss Lillie McKenna, Miss Nellie Byrle, Miss Carrie and Miss Virginia Smith, Miss Kate Seaman, Miss Annie and Miss Laura Cowen, Miss Kate Hall, Miss Fannie Bice, Miss Amelia Hughes, Mrs. Hattie Hughes, Mrs. Dempsey, Mrs. Pam Finch, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. America Conner, Mrs. Kate Lewis, Mrs. Genie Byrle, Mrs. Laura Tilley, Mrs. Lizzie Trimble and Mrs. Seaman. The dancing commenced about 9 o'clock and continued till 2 a. m., when the crowd, which had been gradually decreasing for three hours, dissolved as by mutual consent, not one regretting that he or she had been there, the night having been passed in such a social and agreeable manner.

The Boss Picnic.

The Odd-Fellows picnic at Woodside Park, last Saturday, was a very pleasant affair, although not so largely attended as generally expected. The committee had performed its work well, and the arrangements for entertaining visitors were perfect. The dinner provided for the day was the finest and most bountiful that ever graced a table on that ground. Not a person went away hungry, and provision enough, and that, too, of the most desirable quality, remained to satisfy the appetite of a multitude. The music was also an improvement over that of any previous picnic given at Woodside.

SEVERAL of the town boys excelled themselves in the doing the agreeable last week. The unusual amount of female beauty that illuminated the town the latter part of the week so completely overcame them that they abandoned all business and turned their attention exclusively to entertaining the fair sex. There were also two or three gallant young men, such as Dr. Cropper, Fred Youmans and E. W. Smith, visiting the town, who materially aided in furnishing entertainment for the ladies. The boys say, taking it all in all, the Institute was "what they call a affair."

Last Monday morning, about 10 o'clock, the water out of the public cistern. The corps of boys that always attend work done in the vicinity of their retreat at once went into council to determine what time would be required to perform the work. As it always was the case, the wise men differed, and the time was estimated by some at one day, and by others at three days. But Joseph listened not to the wise men and kept the pump handle revolving, but playing Tom Sawyer as often as possible. A copious stream flowed from that beautiful green pump till late in the afternoon, when suddenly the machine refused to raise the water. The wise men, who had been admiring Joseph's pluck, at once decided that the pump had given out; but Joseph, understanding the nature of the work, at once pronounced the supply of water exhausted. The pump was removed and Joseph descended to cleanse the walls and bottom of the cistern. Instead of finding had fallen off, and they presented a most disgusting appearance. Joseph removed all the foul and filthy accumulations, which were exuberant, and then returned to the surface, only to report the public cistern a gigantic failure. Now, if it is in order, we would suggest that the county sell bonds for the purpose of repairing and making tight that piece of public property known and designated among the county's effects as a public cistern.

Nuptial Knots.

For some days the theme in this community has been the double wedding which took place in the Hopeful Church last Tuesday at 8:30 p. m., the high contracting parties being Robt. Allen and Miss Annie Bruce, Jas. Craven and Miss Ella Rogers. By the appointed hour quite a crowd had congregated at the church to witness the adjustment of the nuptial knot, which was delayed but a few moments after the hour. Mr. Allen and his bride were attended by Mr. E. E. Foster and Miss Rosa Stanifer, and Mr. Craven and his bride, by Mr. George Snyder and Miss Fannie Stephens. Each couple and its attendants entered the church, and approached the altar by different aisles, meeting the minister, Rev. James A. Kirtley, who united them in the holy bonds of matrimony in a brief and impressive ceremony, at the close of which they passed immediately out of the church, and as soon as possible were on their way to Mr. J. O. Huey's, where they and a few of their host of friends enjoyed the unbounded hospitality of Mr. Huey and lady. Wednesday the happy pairs and a few friends were entertained by Mr. W. C. Craven and lady. The brides looked most handsome, and we wish them and their husbands long and prosperous lives.

Personal Mention.

Miss SUSIE GRAY is visiting Dr. I. R. McKenzie's.

FRIDAY last, J. Frank Grant, of Petersburg, honored us with a call.

ESQUIRE JOHN A. KENDALL started to Missouri and Kansas last Sunday.

Miss ANNIE and Miss Mollie Duncan, of Scott County, are visiting Mr. J. W. Duncan and lady.

Last week, R. C. Green re-joined a day or two in the romantic region known to the world as Big Bone.

JUDGE PHILIPS and lady are now sojourning in Lexington. The Judge will return to open the September term of court and install his successor.

Last Saturday, Miss Queen Grubbs, of Taylorport, and Miss Lou Bradford, of Hebron, two bandmates and entertaining young ladies, paid our office a most welcome visit.

A. B. PARKER, of the Andy Baum, is quarantined just below the city of Petersburg, there to remain till the yellow jack disappears in the South. A. B. gave us a very pleasant call, Thursday last.

Died.

GRAVES—At his residence in Bullittsville, a few minutes past 1 o'clock last Friday morning, Mr. Joseph C. Graves, in the 70th year of his age.

Mr. Graves was one of the most estimable citizens of the county, a true Christian, a good neighbor, and an indulgent father. He was the oldest male member of the Bullittsville congregation, having belonged to that church for forty years. The funeral services were conducted in the Bullittsville church last Saturday by Revs. J. A. and E. R. Kirtley, after which the remains were taken to Lawrenceburg and placed in the vault.

County Court.

August 7th.—Geo. H. Wilson resigned as Constable of the Carlton District, and John P. Ryle was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Jas. H. McDannell, of Warsaw, Gallatin County, qualified as assignee of W. P. Holton, of Walton, W. A. A. Bailley surety on bond. John E. Bots, M. S. Rice and Nathan Allen were appointed Commissioners to view a proposed change in the Woolper and Bellevue road. They will report at the September term of court.

Under the task of pumping the water out of the public cistern. The corps of boys that always attend work done in the vicinity of their retreat at once went into council to determine what time would be required to perform the work. As it always was the case, the wise men differed, and the time was estimated by some at one day, and by others at three days. But Joseph listened not to the wise men and kept the pump handle revolving, but playing Tom Sawyer as often as possible. A copious stream flowed from that beautiful green pump till late in the afternoon, when suddenly the machine refused to raise the water. The wise men, who had been admiring Joseph's pluck, at once decided that the pump had given out; but Joseph, understanding the nature of the work, at once pronounced the supply of water exhausted. The pump was removed and Joseph descended to cleanse the walls and bottom of the cistern. Instead of finding had fallen off, and they presented a most disgusting appearance. Joseph removed all the foul and filthy accumulations, which were exuberant, and then returned to the surface, only to report the public cistern a gigantic failure. Now, if it is in order, we would suggest that the county sell bonds for the purpose of repairing and making tight that piece of public property known and designated among the county's effects as a public cistern.

We refer our readers to the new advertisement of Davis Bros. in this issue.

If you want to make a point, drop your pencil. It will need one when taken up.

A mosquito can be disinfected by casting it over the fence into the back alley or into the pig-sty.

The kill skirt occasionally reveals a shoe heel with an inclination of 45 degrees. That is one objection to the kill.

He "thore" a sigh as large as a mackerel, and said, "Alas, she is gone!" We expect he will be gone about next Sunday, too.

If the Weather Clerk should ever be a candidate for re-election, his gross neglect of duty the past six weeks will be a strong argument in opposition to him.

A YOUNG man and a young lady both eating ice cream out of one saucer is what we would call bringing reform to a fine point. This was did at the Odd-Fellows' picnic last Saturday.

We call attention to the advertisement of Snyder & Swetnam, of Florence, in this issue. Besides this means of presenting their business to the public, they have had printed a large number of circulars which contain a "knock-down argument" in favor of the cash system. They are business men, and mean business.

LAST week, W. P. Holton, of Walton, made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. J. H. McDannell, of Warsaw, Gallatin County, is the assignee. The liabilities are as follows:

Lewis Rice.....	$1000	W. H. Gridley.....	$200
Warren Day Bank 300 Ben Teller.....	300	J. J. Landrum.....	700
J. J. Landrum.....	700	Geo. Lipp.....	150

H. J. Abbott.....	100	Mary E. Clarkson	130
Geo. Rhea.....	100
Green & Riddell.....	400	Total.....	$5513
F. Spencer.....	400

The assets consist of 31 acres of land near Walton, 6 horses, 24 acres of growing corn, 1 spring wagon and harness, and a few other smaller articles.

We heard a gentleman boldly assert, the other evening, that grammar is a humbug. Says he: "At the Institute, when a sentence was put upon the board, there was no uniformity of opinion as to what parts of speech the words were. Some would parse a word as a noun, some as an adverb, some as an adjective, and so on, and finally someone would propose to call it by some name entirely new to the teachers. Every teacher gave good reasons for his position, too."

TUESDAY the Fair commences. There has been considerable speculation as to whether it will be a success this year. The indications at this time are as favorable as were those previous to any past exhibition; therefore it can be expected to compare with any of the past. The admission being reduced to twenty-five cents has increased the patronage and given the society a longer lease of life.

THE bank men having brought suit on all the superceded bonds in the bounty fund case, every person held to pay the bounty tax is requested to meet the counsel, Geo. R. McKee and R. C. Green, in Burlington on Thursday, the 30th inst., to prepare to defend said suits. McKee has promised to be present.

At the shooting match in Aurora, last Saturday, J. P. Blythe came out second best. The first match was a tie between him and three others, each killing eight out of ten birds. To untie the match, they shot at five pigeons, 28 yards rise, the winning party killing four out of five and Jerry three out of five.

As the crowd was dispersing, Tuesday, after the wedding at Hopeful, a horse attached to a buggy and the yard fence, commenced kicking, fell down and created considerable excitement for a few minutes. The animal was released from the vehicle before any serious damage was done.

THE GOLDEN GATE.

BY ADELAIDE A. PROCTOR.

Dim shadows gather thickly round, and up the misty stair they climb,
The cloudy stair that upward leads to where the closed portals shine,
Round which the kneeling spirits wait the opening of the Golden Gate.

And some with eager longing go, still pressing forward, hand in hand,
And some, with weary step and slow, look back where their beloved stand,
Yet up the misty stair they climb, led onward by the Angel Time.

As unseen hands no back the doors, the light that floods the very air
Is but the shadow from within of the great glory hidden there,
And morn and eve, and noon and late, the shadows pass within the gate.

As one by one they enter in, and the stern portals close once more,
The halo seems to linger round those kneeling in the mystic stair,
The joy that lightened from that place shines still upon the watcher's face.

The faint low echo that we hear of far-off music seems to live
The silent air with love and fear, and the world's clamors all grow still,
Until the portals close again, and leave us toiling on in pain.

Complain not that the way is long—what road is weary that leads there?
But let the Angel take thy hand and lead thee up the misty stair,
And then with beating heart await the opening of the Golden Gate.

Common Schools.

The common schools of Boone County have become an interesting, and even exciting subject. The inquiry is every where being made, "What is needed to make efficient the common school system?" It is a hopeful sign of the times that many are dissatisfied with the results; though most of persons locate the inefficiency of the system where it does not belong, and there is a deal of idle and irrational complaint; yet all this is better than passivity and indifference. It will lead to scrutiny, and scrutiny may possibly lead to the inauguration of those measures which will make effective the agencies of popular education. Painless diseases are often the most dangerous; they indicate that mortification has set in and dissolution is near at hand. Oftentimes the restlessness and impatience of a sufferer is indicative of convalescence; so we take it that a good augury of the future that there is unrest, and some quieting private agony, produced by what seems to those thus afflicted as the unremunerative character of our school system.

The fault is not so much in the machinery as in the power that drives it. Public sentiment is not yet up to that plane of appreciation of the benefits of education which makes people willing to cheerfully pay the cost of education. The object men have in view when entering into society is the better to secure and protect the great ends of being, namely, the pursuit of happiness, and the attainment of private agony, produced by what seems to those thus afflicted as the unremunerative character of our school system.

The fault is not so much in the machinery as in the power that drives it. Public sentiment is not yet up to that plane of appreciation of the benefits of education which makes people willing to cheerfully pay the cost of education. The object men have in view when entering into society is the better to secure and protect the great ends of being, namely, the pursuit of happiness, and the attainment of private agony, produced by what seems to those thus afflicted as the unremunerative character of our school system.

THE GOLDEN GATE.

BY ADELAIDE A. PROCTOR.

Dim shadows gather thickly round, and up the misty stair they climb,
The cloudy stair that upward leads to where the closed portals shine,
Round which the kneeling spirits wait the opening of the Golden Gate.

And some with eager longing go, still pressing forward, hand in hand,
And some, with weary step and slow, look back where their beloved stand,
Yet up the misty stair they climb, led onward by the Angel Time.

As unseen hands no back the doors, the light that floods the very air
Is but the shadow from within of the great glory hidden there,
And morn and eve, and noon and late, the shadows pass within the gate.

As one by one they enter in, and the stern portals close once more,
The halo seems to linger round those kneeling in the mystic stair,
The joy that lightened from that place shines still upon the watcher's face.

The faint low echo that we hear of far-off music seems to live
The silent air with love and fear, and the world's clamors all grow still,
Until the portals close again, and leave us toiling on in pain.

Complain not that the way is long—what road is weary that leads there?
But let the Angel take thy hand and lead thee up the misty stair,
And then with beating heart await the opening of the Golden Gate.

Common Schools.

The common schools of Boone County have become an interesting, and even exciting subject. The inquiry is every where being made, "What is needed to make efficient the common school system?" It is a hopeful sign of the times that many are dissatisfied with the results; though most of persons locate the inefficiency of the system where it does not belong, and there is a deal of idle and irrational complaint; yet all this is better than passivity and indifference. It will lead to scrutiny, and scrutiny may possibly lead to the inauguration of those measures which will make effective the agencies of popular education. Painless diseases are often the most dangerous; they indicate that mortification has set in and dissolution is near at hand. Oftentimes the restlessness and impatience of a sufferer is indicative of convalescence; so we take it that a good augury of the future that there is unrest, and some quieting private agony, produced by what seems to those thus afflicted as the unremunerative character of our school system.

The fault is not so much in the machinery as in the power that drives it. Public sentiment is not yet up to that plane of appreciation of the benefits of education which makes people willing to cheerfully pay the cost of education. The object men have in view when entering into society is the better to secure and protect the great ends of being, namely, the pursuit of happiness, and the attainment of private agony, produced by what seems to those thus afflicted as the unremunerative character of our school system.

BURLINGTON, KY., AUGUST 29.

Gold is worth 100¢.

RAIN is needed badly.

NINETY cents make a trade dollar.

On the 18th, General Grant was given a grand reception at Vienna.

Our Plattsburg correspondent, sees a bright future for his town if—

A MAN was horsewhipped on the street in Falmouth one day last week.

THERE are about eight hundred candidates for the two hundred and ninety-three seats in Congress.

The Democrats of the Ashland Congressional District have nominated Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn for re-election to Congress.

The Philadelphia Times considers the nomination of Alexander H. Stephens by the Democrats of the Eighth Congressional District in Georgia as a mark of improvement.

It is a fact that Captain R. S. Williams is now squarely on the track for Register of the Land Office. The Democracy can find no nicer gentleman, or a person better qualified to fill the position.

It appears that some of the correspondents of the Shelbyville Sentinel have gotten into trouble over their communications, and the editor does not sympathize with them to an alarming extent, but says he warned them of the approaching danger.

We prophesy that when the Constable commences enforcing the stock law in this district the fun will begin. There is a determination on the part of some to have the law enforced, while there are others who want the stock allowed the freedom of the creeks and highways.

The Louisville Courier-Journal gives Cincinnati some severe cuts for the manner in which she receives the people from the South when fleeing from the yellow fever. Louisville will be well rewarded for her generosity to want the South in this her hour of sore affliction.

On the first page is a voluminous article on Common Schools. It is an inexhaustible subject, and the writer of the aforesaid article is ditto. The article contains several points that are worthy the consideration of the public. There is room for improvement on the present system.

ONE afternoon last week, there were seventy-one suits filed with the Circuit clerk. These suits are upon the supersedeas bonds in the Jenkins appeal in the bounty fund case. Several of the cases will be tried and the judgments appealed from, as certain as the judgments are rendered.

The Home Journal says the Mexican coins will buy a dollar's worth of anything in Louisville, except gas light and bank deposit. Blood-sucking corporations are always against the interests of the people. They give you the shank, but always exact the tenderloin for themselves. They clip after the fashion of Shyluck.

At present there seems to be no desire on the part of anyone to oppose the re-election of Hon. John G. Carlisle to Congress from this District. Mr. Carlisle has made an efficient, industrious, and attentive Representative, giving his constituents entire satisfaction in the discharge of his duties, and opposition to his second term would be mere folly. He will carry his party nearly to a man.

The protracted dry weather very materially injured the corn in this part of the State. Some of the farmers will have barely a sufficient amount to winter such stock as they are compelled to keep, and there will, as a result, be a great many stock hogs put upon the market at low figures. It has been several years since this part of the State has suffered for the want of rain, and the wail of hard times that will now go up will be loud.

The editor of the Lexington Transcript, Ben Deering, has gotten himself into trouble. He published that J. Barbee, an extensive cattle raiser from Boone County, had despatched a messenger to the grave of the late General Grant, to hear the words of the great hero as he lay in his coffin. He said of cattle with false pedigrees. Mr. Barbee sought out Mr. Deering, obtained a personal retraction, and then whipped him, by knocking him down and otherwise punishing him.

ABOUT midnight one night last week a mob visited the jail in Ripley County, Indiana, obtained admission and shot to death a prisoner who was awaiting trial for an attempted rape. This mob violence being north of the Ohio River, very little noise is made about it, but it had occurred in Kentucky, public print would have delighted in proclaiming the degraded state of morals here and the reign of terror abroad in the State.

LAST Saturday we received by mail a diminutive and neatly done up package in which were two copies of the Florence news. Upon the margin of one the following was written:

After minute examination I discover there is a paper published in Boone County, called the Boone County Recorder; so please exchange.
B. H. CHICKEN.
FRANK T. SMITH.

Well boys, you measured our corn in your half bushel, but you found the difference two to one in favor of the Recorder, and accordingly sent two copies of the news. We will "do" with you.

LAST Saturday week, Samuel C. Field, editor of the Woodford Sun, and County Attorney elect for Woodford County, was accidentally shot and instantly killed. He and some of his associates, among whom was the town Marshal, were eating a melon when a revolver which the officer had on his person dropped from his place of concealment, striking upon a stone discharged one chamber. The ball struck Fields in the right side of the neck, severing the jugular vein and passing out at the top of the head. Fields was a very popular young man, and society and the press lose a valuable member.

Why the trade dollar should be disfranchised to the extent it has been in the past few days is passingly strange. The trade dollar contains 420 grains of silver, while the dollar of the "dads" contains 412 grains, seven and one-half grains less silver than the trade dollar; yet it is received as a dollar; the trade dollar, as ninety cents only. Upon whom does this swindle, devised by the money sharks, fall heaviest? Upon the poorer class of course. They have hoarded this coin as a coin worth one dollar, which they now find depreciated in obedience to the desire of the swindling capitalists, who are sucking from the veins of labor the life blood.

OUR St. Louis correspondent in referring to the political outlook in that city, says: We do not know what the result will be, but there is trouble ahead in this Congressional District. You can hear men on the streets, and every hour in the day, anathematizing the bummers, and swearing by all that is good and fair, that they will not support the man that now has the inside track in both parties, and should things go on as they now stand, St. Louis will undoubtedly send two, if not three, first class bummers to Washington for the next Congress. There are two men up for Congress with us, and they are almost certain to get the nomination, which is virtually an election, unless there is a split. These men could hardly get the nomination with you for dog catcher.

ON last Monday, A. B. Chittenden, the mail carrier from Walcott to Hamilton was in town, and while here called upon us to know why it is that the subscribers to the Recorder at Beaver get their papers on Thursday, while at Hamilton they do not arrive till Saturday, both packages going the same route as far as Beaver. There is but one way to account for the unnecessary delay, and that is the Hamilton mail is detained some where on the trip around; for we know it leaves Burlington every Thursday morning, and should reach Walton by the south bound train that morning, several hours previous to the departure of the Beaver and Hamilton mail. We can not think the detention intentional on the part of any of the Postmasters, but request them to give the matter some attention.

THE laborer who receives less money for a day's work than he did when bonds were issued or sold ought to remember that he can buy in full proportion more with his money. Prices have declined, on the whole, even a little below the specie standard. All know that the wages of labor, on the other hand, have not yet fallen to the level of 1860. A day's work, according to the average rate of wages, will buy more of food, shelter and clothing now than it would buy in times of the greatest inflation. The only respect in which the laborer has to pay any part of the cost of the war, and of the enormous loans made during the war at great risk, is that his taxes on whisky, tobacco, and some imported articles have been raised. If he sees fit he can reduce those taxes to a very small figure indeed. So says the New York Tribune.

We acknowledge the receipt of a ticket to the Sixth Louisville Industrial Exposition, which will open on the third day of September and continue till the nineteenth of October. The attractions and pleasures that will be offered promise to exceed in variety and excellence those of any former exhibitions held in Louisville. There all classes of inventions will be found, and every novel and late improvement of the age will be exhibited; the natural products of the earth, and especially the coals and minerals of the State will form an interesting feature of the Exposition. It is well known that the Art Department of the Louisville Exposition has always been made up of the best paintings the country can produce, and in this respect the coming Exposition will not be inferior to former ones. Many new attractions and novelties will be offered in the Natural History Department, which will be enriched by contributions from many of our most noted museums. As usual, the railroads and steamboat lines have offered to carry visitors at greatly reduced rates.

The following is a skeleton of one of the petitions filed in the suits on the supersedeas bonds. The petitions are all worded alike, except as to names and amounts:

The plaintiffs say that heretofore, to-wit: on the — day of — the several plaintiffs suing in person, the testators and intestates, whose personal representatives are herein and had become bound and have paid to the Northern Bank of Kentucky and the Farmers Bank of Kentucky, at Covington, a large sum of money; to-wit: the sum of $ — which was borrowed by them from said banks to be used and was used in the payment of bounties to soldiers, enlisted in the United States army, to supply the place of men drafted under call of the President of the United States to fill the quota of Boone County under said call of July, 1864, and which said sum of money it was provided by a certain act of the General Assembly, approved the — day of —, and an act amendatory thereof, approved the — day of — should be refunded to them by a tax levied on the citizens and property of Boone County.

They say that before any money was collected by such tax, Joseph C. Jenkins and others on behalf of themselves and a large number of others not named therein filed a petition in this Court against the Boone County Court, and said Joseph C. Hughes, Wilson Harper, J. J. Miller, Jno. C. Riley, J. D. Smith and Sanford G. Batts by name, and all those who had so become bound to pay said money to said banks, and who were entitled to have same refunded to them as aforesaid, but who were alleged to be too numerous to be named parties by name and brought before the Court in a reasonable time, and obtained an injunction against the said County Court and all others from proceeding under said act of the General Assembly to levy and collect said tax, and averring that they were not, and that none of the said citizens and taxpayers of Boone County were liable to said tax.

Such proceedings were had in said action as all persons who had in any way enjoyed the benefit of the expenditures of said money in paying bounties, or who had participated in any manner in the procurement of the passage of the acts of the General Assembly were liable to the payment of their pro rata portions of the money so raised by the plaintiffs, their testators and intestates, and paid out in bounties as aforesaid, and the cause was referred to a commission for the hearing of proof and the ascertainment thereof of all the persons who were so liable, and the said — was by the report of said commission found to be one of the persons amongst others liable to pay said tax, and the said County Court, by the judgment of this Court rendered in said action at its April Term, 1872, was directed to levy said tax on the property of said parties so found to be liable, according to the valuation and assessment thereof for State Revenue purposes for the year 1871, and in pursuance of said judgment the said Boone County Ct. did at its July Term, to-wit: on the 2nd day of July, 1872, levy up on the property of said defendant, — as valued and assessed by the Assessor of Boone County for the year 1871, for State Revenue purposes, his pro rata portion of said amount, to-wit: the sum of $ —.

And the plaintiffs say that on the — day of — after the said tax was so levied the said — prosecuted an appeal from said judgment of this Court rendered at its April Term as aforesaid to the Court of Appeals, and on the 11th of December, 1872, the said tax so levied against the said — not having been paid, he the said defendant, — caused to be executed before the Clerk of the Court of Appeals with the defendant — as surety, a bond commonly called a supersedeas bond with a covenant to the appellees, that they, the said — appellant, and the said — as surety, "would satisfy and pay the judgment and all cost and damages that might be adjudged against the appellant, in case the judgment should be affirmed." And thereupon the said Clerk of the Court of Appeals issued an order commonly called a supersedeas, commanding the Appellees therein, and all others, to stay proceedings on said judgment, which said order was, pending said appeal, served on said County Court, and on James F. Clutterbuck, the Collector appointed to collect said tax from said defendant, and the collection thereof was thereby stayed; and thereafter, by the consideration and judgment of said Court of Appeals the said judgment of this Court was affirmed, and yet the said defendants have not, nor has either of them paid or satisfied said judgment said sum of $ — by paying or satisfying said sum of $ — or any part thereof, and the same now remains wholly unpaid.

The said — executed said bond by his agent, A. G. Winston, to whom he executed a written power of attorney, authorizing him. Copies of said bond and power of attorney are filed herewith.

Wherefore plaintiffs say the covenant of said bond had been broken by the said defendants to the damage of the plaintiffs in the said sum of $ — with the interest thereon from the said 11th day of December, 1872, for which they pray judgment against the defendants, and for all proper relief.

One day last week, Mrs. Lucella Orsola found a shawl at the Fair, and which the owner can have by proving property.

Last Monday Harry Benson had his leg broken by a log rolling on it while at work about the saw mill at Florence & Roads.

The copious showers of the past few days have done much toward reviving the grass which has almost withered during the past month.

We hear that Benjamin N. Anderson, who lives near Union, accidentally shot and killed himself Tuesday, but we have not the particulars.

Two Boone County Grange meets in the First Pleasant Grange Hall at 10 a. m. next Friday. Our announcement last week was erroneous.

Buckeye timber is now in demand. Logs are wanted at 175 Pearl street in Cincinnati for the purpose of being worked into business cards.

Dr. T. B. Burton's Agricultural Liniment can not be excelled in the good it is doing in the way of straightening crooked limbs and curing diseases. Let everybody use it.

Those who attend Bethel Church are notified that the regular meeting in September will be held on the 26th Saturday and 30 Sunday, because the month came in on Sunday.

If you want a fine monument or slab to erect over the grave of a departed friend, there is no better place to buy one than at Hunsbarger & Co.'s marble yards in Lawrenceburg, Ind.

Last Friday, Eugene John A. Kendall returned from a trip to Northwestern Missouri. He reports the crops in that section and in Kansas as the very finest along the route he traveled in Illinois; they have been seriously injured by the dry weather.

In Indiana the crops presented about the same appearance they do here.

Two Galt House, corner Sixth and Main streets, Cincinnati, has reduced prices to $1.50 to $2 per day, with over $100,000 spent in refurnishing and modernizing the hotel. The table is excellent, bed rooms superlatively clean, and courteous attention to the wants of the guests in every department makes it altogether one of the most desirable hotels in the city to stop at. Try it.

The County Court made the following order last Saturday: H. J. Foster, a citizen of Boone County, with a view to obtain a license to practice law, came into Court and moved the Court for a certificate of his good moral character as in such cases required, and the Court being advised, ordered that it be certified that said H. J. Foster is a man of honesty, probity and good demeanor.

Two neighbors of Florence & Roads were shocked last Saturday by the suiciding of John White, the son of an eight year old boy who lived with them. A Change in the Appellate Court.

The proceedings of the Appellate Court show an important change in its organization. Chief Justice Lindsay, by reason of the expiration of his term, retires from the bench. Judge Thomas H. Hines, recently elected, being sworn, takes his seat, and Judge W. S. Pryor, by reason of having the shortest time to serve, becomes Chief Justice.

Judge Lindsay entered upon the duties of his position eight years ago, at the age of thirty-five, being at that time the youngest person who had ever been chosen to the Appellate Bench of Kentucky. His service has been marked with distinguished ability and fidelity. His opinions are clearly and tersely written, all his points being expressed with vigor, and they take rank in the reports as among the best pronounced by the court during its long and honorable existence. He has proven himself an able, industrious, upright and fearless jurist, to whose aid the State is now, and will be hereafter, proud to resort. Upon retiring, Judge Lindsay said:

"The act of administering the oath of office to Judge Hines vacates my position on this bench, and before I leave I desire to return my sincere thanks to the members of the bar throughout the State for the uniformly kind manner in which I have been treated during my eight years on this bench. I now vacate the seat."

Judge Pryor enters upon his second term as Chief Justice. Upon the resignation of Judge Robertson in 1871, he was appointed by Governor Leslie to the shortest term, and that term being the shortest, he became, under the law, Chief Justice—a rather remarkable event in the history of the court, but one to which the distinguished gentleman proved himself fully equal. At the close of this fractional term he was re-elected and assumed his place as the youngest Judge, and, having now the shortest term, is again Chief Justice.

We have already published biographical sketches of Judge Hines, and his character and abilities are freshly laid before the people. He is also a young as was Judge Lindsay upon his advent, and he comes to the bench under flattering auspices. As a lawyer, he is esteemed one of the ablest in Southern Kentucky.—Yocman.

Absent from School.

There are hundreds of well-meaning but thoughtless country people who require their children to work on the farm when they ought to be in school, thus robbing them of the inestimable benefit of a good education. Two boys of the same age and ability start for school in May. One attends every day, rain or shine, during the term of four or five months, and is supplied with books according to his capabilities; the other comes one day and stays away two or three, and then possibly comes three or four more, coming and going like an intermittent fever. His excuses are often amusing, when we take into consideration the age and size of the little man. He has "had to help plant," or "log off a piece for potatoes," or "help ma," or "pick berries." His schooling averages about two days of the week. At an examination of the term there is an examination. The first mentioned lad has made rapid progress in his studies. The foundation stone is laid for an intelligent, useful man. How is it with his companion? His advancement is scarcely perceptible. Who is to blame? Not the boy, and certainly not the teacher. Has the little farmer earned enough to pay for his lack of school culture? Emphatically, no! He has suffered an incalculable loss. Until a child has well entered his teens, he can be of little use on the farm. During childhood he should be allowed to attend school during ten months of the year. At fifteen the boy or girl is strong enough to be of use, while at the same time they will be capable of learning by practice and observation what they have before learned only in theory. And many a lad or lass would lay up a fund of useful knowledge during the evenings and odd days, when otherwise unemployed, that would be a perpetual fountain of wisdom during all their lives. What the child who has an occasional day, or week, or month at school, even from the time he is five years until he is twenty-one, will have a very limited amount of knowledge with which to begin a business life. And undoubtedly he will be obliged to knock about the world doing the drudgery of his former companions, looked upon as a sort of ignorant incapable of using his best energies.

Marrying an Editor.

Yes, I'm Mrs. Snow, an editor's wife. I well remember the day when Mr. Snow asked me to become his wife. I confess I liked Mr. Snow, and thinking it would be a fine thing to be the wife of an editor, I said "yes" as pretty as I knew how. And I became Mrs. Snow. I have seen ten years of married life, and find my husband a very amiable, good natured man. He always spends his evenings at home, and in that respect a model man; but he always brings a pile of exchanges, which is only limited by the length of his arms, and reads while I patch the knees and elbows of his pantaloons and coat. After we had a Quaker meeting of an hour's length, I broke the stillness by asking:

"Mr. Snow, did you order that coat I spoke to you about?"

"What did you say, my dear?" he asks, after a minute's silence.

"Did you order that coat I spoke to you about?"

"Indeed, my dear, I am sorry, but I forgot all about it. It shall come to-morrow."

Another hour's silence, which is relieved by the baby's crying, and rather liking a noise of that sort, I made no effort to quiet him.

"My dear," says Mr. Snow, after he has cried a minute or so, "you had better give the baby some catnip tea to quiet him; he troubles me."

The baby is still. Another hour passes without a breath of noise. Becoming tired, I take a lamp and retire for the night, leaving Mr. Snow as engaged with his papers that he does not see me leave the room. Toward midnight he comes to bed, and just as he has fallen asleep, the baby takes a notion to cry again. I rise as quietly as possible and try to quiet him. Then another baby begins to scream at the top of his lungs. There is no other course but to awake Mr. Snow, so I say:

"Mr. Snow! Mr. Snow!"

"The third time this night and cries, 'What, Tom, more copy?'"

Double Murder in Powell.

Our neighboring county, Powell, now wheels into line with a double murder which will make Montgomery and Menifee look well to their bloody laurels.

Tuesday morning last, at the residence of old man Billie Bowen, on the middle fork of Red River, John Adams, white, and Rube Gay, colored, were shot and instantly killed. The circumstances attending the bloody tragedy we gathered from a gentleman of that county, and are as follows: A number of persons were gathered at the place mentioned when a difficulty arose between Adams and Gay—about a woman it is said. Both parties were armed with shotguns. Gay fired at close range, killing Adams instantly. Green Adams, a brother of the deceased, grabbed the murdered man's gun and emptied its contents into the negro's body with a like result. The survivor then gave himself up to Esq. Ab. Hall, and has, perhaps, ere this, had his examining trial. The negro Gay was accounted a peaceable, hard-working, good citizen, and, as far as we know, the Adamses, who were from Virginia, had borne like good characters.

Will this wholesale killing never cease in blood-stained Kentucky? We can count on our fingers' ends, and without stopping to think, ten homicides that have been committed within a stone's throw, so to speak, of where we now write in the past few months, every one of which could have been avoided.

We have learned, since the above was written, that John Adams was assisting a son of Rube Gay at the time he was killed by the latter.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel.

What Judge Black Thinks.

[Omaha Herald, interview.]

Reporter—Could Grant be elected?

Judge Black—No, sir!

R.—Who would be the Republican party's strongest candidate?

Judge B.—If the Republican party is in good order and had Blaine for a candidate, it would give the Democracy a stiff fight. But the day of the Republican party is over. It has gone glimmering down the dream of things that were, and an ugly dream it was while it lasted.

Salt Necessary for Animals.

The true value of salt for feeding to animals is neither as well understood nor appreciated as it should be by a large class of farmers, and the best mode of feeding is too frequently ignored, even when its importance is fully admitted. That it is actually required by animals, is shown by the amount of salt contained in the blood of the human species, it being fully one-half of one per cent, and fifty-seven and one-half per cent of the ashes of blood. Investigation has proven that where salt is supplied with the food, this proportion is invariable, and where not supplied, other parts of the system must supply the deficiency, to their injury. What is true of the human species is equally true of our farm stock and animals, which suffer the same troubles when deprived of salt. When the equilibrium of any part is disturbed, the whole system is weakened, and the animal becomes liable to disease, and the system succumbs when attacked.

Salt is a great aid in digestion, and the natural instinct of animals prompts them to its use, as is evinced by their resorting to salt licks and other natural sources previous to and during the early settlement of our country, and by what may be still witnessed at the present day on the pampas of South America and other wilds, where herds of horses and other cattle travel miles to obtain from natural sources a much needed supply. It is an undoubted fact that where animals have unrestricted access to salt at all times, many of the diseases to which they are liable are ward off and prevented by keeping the system regular. We find that when salt is regularly given them only good results follow, as is evidenced in their exemption from disease. If free access is had to salt, stock will only take what is needful; but where the supply is inconstant, a surfeit is often taken, which frequently operates injuriously.

The invariable presence of salt in quantities in tissues of the body shows conclusively the important influence it exerts in the production of flesh and fat in animals. Salt assists digestion by increasing the flow of saliva, aiding also by promoting thirst, and a constant flow of fluids to assist in dissolving much of the food which otherwise might be only imperfectly digested. Actual experiments, carefully conducted, have demonstrated that where two hogs were fattened, one fed salt in its food and the other with salt excluded, the one fed salt food fattened very much faster, and in several weeks less time. It exceeded in weight by a considerable proportion the one fed without salt in its food. It is an unquestionable fact that all our food products contain a greater or less proportion of salt in their structure, but that the animal economy requires an additional quantity is equally true. Farm animals, when kept on grass, or green, succulent feed, naturally take more salt than when kept on dry fodder; at least such has been my observation.

Is Croquet a Good Moral Game.

One day this summer, says Burdette, we rode fifty miles in a railroad car, seated behind four men, who were playing with those awful playthings of the devil—cards. They played a little seven-up, pinochle, and occasionally a trifle of poker. We never heard a dispute. Their bursts of merriment occasionally at some unexpected play repeatedly drew our eyes from our book. They never quarreled and never called names once. When we got to our station we sat at our window and watched a party of young men and maidens playing croquet. In fifteen minutes we saw two persons cheat successfully. We heard the one player who did not cheat accused of cheating five times. We heard four distinct, bitter quarrels. We heard a beautiful girl tell two lies, and a meek looking young man three. Finally we saw the young girl throw her mallet against the fence so hard it frightened a horse, the other young girl pounded her mallet so hard on the ground that it knocked the buds off an apple tree, they both banged into the house at different doors, and the two young men looked sheepish and went off after a drink. Now, why is this? Isn't croquet a good, moral game?

Man and Woman.

Mrs. Roberts in the Washington Capital very truthfully remarks: "Marrying a man to reform him is like being measured for an umbrella. It may or may not be satisfactory, but you might as well try to make a politician honest as to talk to a woman who loves a man. No matter how worthless he may be, she will brave everything, risk everything, sacrifice everything, for him; and I would not give a snap for her if she didn't. Not long since on the avenue I saw a man, respectable looking, in a helpless state of intoxication, a policeman on each side of him taking him to the station-house; behind him was his wife, a young, nice-looking, well-dressed woman. She paid no attention to the rattle following or the wondering looks of the passers-by, but stuck by him, trying to pacify and quiet him. I could not help thinking how little a man would stand by a woman. Man is of the 'fickle' sex, and a superior being; but he will get a woman in a world, and then leave her to get out of it the best she can."

It is only unmarried women whose "no" means "yes."

The girl who angles for men never catches anything better than mullets.

Why is a lady's foot like a locomotive? Because it usually goes ahead of a train.

Ladies have been known to frizz and frizz their front hair until they frizzed it all off.

Of course you like the windy, blustering weather, girls; it brings you plenty of chaps.

Some women take such delight in scolding that it would be cruel not to give them occasion for it.

A Troy man lost a canal-boat, and a local paper suggested that some Syracuse girl took it for a slipper.

A fair Nebraska maiden spent two hours, circus day, trying to get a bushel of feet into a peck of shoes.

A Louisville young woman advertised in the papers for an escort to a concert, and forty young men replied.

The 1,600 young women of Cleveland who are pledged not to associate with young men of convivial habits are getting very lonesome.

We may set down as an axiom that most young ladies can not know everybody's name when it is impossible for them to know what their own name may be a twelvemonth hence.

A young lady walking with her lover was attacked by a dog, who seized her by the breast and tore it from her body. He faintly, but the lady went for the dog, saying: "That ere cost a dollar and warn't made for a dog to chew up!"

A couple of young men were out fishing the other day, and on returning were going past a farm house, and felt hungry. They yelled to the farmer's daughters: "Girls, have you any butter-milk?" The reply was gently wafted back to their ears: "Yes, but we keep it for our own calves." The boys calculated they had business away—and they went.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

A NUMBER of Texas papers are banging away on the question of a division of the State.

The Glasgow Times says: The best rough and tumble fighter in Cairo is named Hell. There are two other fellows there, however, who can fight like Hell.

The Troy Press recommends suicide to prevent asphyxiation from the heat. A good many people abstain from suicide and remain right here to prevent suffering from heat.

May say it over and over; The angry word that leaves its sting is doomed to sting no more. I'd rather be a wit, to grasp The world away from me, Than be like that ill-natured wasp. That stings but once and dies.—Yeoman.

A GENTLEMAN long resident in South America declares that the custom of shoeing horses is a senseless one. He says unshod horses travel under heavy loads on the roughest roads imaginable in Brazil, and that all the care required is to have the edges of the hoofs slightly rounded off with a rasp, to prevent them from traveling up.

At an evening party a lady was called upon for a song, and began: "I'll strike again my tangle lyre." Her husband was observed to dodge suddenly and start hurriedly from the room, remarking: "Not if I know it, she won't. She starts blue-blazes out of me at home, and I expect it like a man, but when she threatens to hit me in a strange house, and calls me a liar before a whole crowd, I'll run as long as I have a spark of manhood left."

County Grange; Oscar Gaines,

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL,
Editor and Proprietor.

BURLINGTON, KY., OCTOBER 10.

FAYETTE HEWITT,

of Hardin County, is a Candidate for

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

GOLD is worth 100¢.

The ex-President of the German Savings Bank in Chicago, has been arrested on the charge of embezzling $225,000.

LOUISVILLE is terribly out of humor with Cincinnati on account of her insisting that Louisville had the yellow fever among its inhabitants.

LAST Monday was a busy day with the Democracy in Boone, they had a considerable programme to dispose of to put them in shape for the conflict.

The business men in the cities think the repeal of the bankrupt law has in some measure restored business confidence which will be followed by a revival in trade.

Onto is having some experience with ku-klux. They got in some of their work over there the other day. A mob of thirty armed men hung a negro who was charged with rape.

The grain which has been sown during the dry weather is in a much safer condition than that sown previous to the last showers which were merely sufficient to swell the grain, leaving it in a condition to perish.

The Democracy of this County, Monday, recommended Dr. S. S. Scott as a suitable candidate for the office of Register of the Land Office. The Doctor is a simon pure Democrat, as his record at the polls will testify, and he goes before the people of the State as such.

HON JOHN G. CARLISLE was in town Monday, and immediately after noon delivered a speech in the Court-house. Owing to the want of time he did not discuss, at large, the numerous political issues of the day, but dwelt principally upon the national legislation against the tax paying class and in favor of the capitalists. Mr. Carlisle's career as a congressman has won him new laurels in the estimation of his constituency in this county, which is evidenced by their united desire to have him re-elected.

The reports from the South in regard to the yellow fever are yet of a gloomy tone. The scourge having devastated the cities in a manner, it is spreading in the surrounding country where it is attacking new subjects. The people down there have for some weeks been anxiously awaiting the appearance of a stinging frost, but when the mercury in this latitude stands at eighty degrees, as it has a day or two this week, the Southern people may not expect an early visit from the frost. A few more weeks struggle with the yellow fever will leave the infected districts in nearly as bad condition as they were at the close of the war.

At a mass meeting held in the Court house Monday, for the purpose of selecting delegates to cast the vote of Boone in the Convention which assembles in Williamstown, Grant County, on next Wednesday to nominate a Democratic candidate to represent this district in the next Congress, Dr. W. H. Terrill was chosen Chairman, and Joseph Wagstaff, Secretary. The convention then decided to select one delegate from each voting precinct in the county to cast the vote in the District Convention. Delegates were appointed as follows: Taylorport, Cornelius Quick; Florence, Judge Youell; Union, L. C. Norman; Petersburg, George W. Terrill; Walton, Reuben Conner; Hamilton, W. H. Baker; Bellevue, S. P. Brady; Burlington, W. L. Riddell; Verona, Thomas Hall; Carlton, Thomas Stephens.

Captain L. C. Norman presented the following preamble and resolution which were adopted:

Resolved, By the Democracy of Boone County, that recognizing in Dr. S. S. Scott, a tried and true Democrat of the Jeffersonian standard, and one well qualified and worthy to fill the office with a credit and honor to himself and his people, we recommend him to the Democracy of the State at large as a suitable candidate for Register of the Land Office, and now present him to the party as our choice for that honorable position.

The County Judge and his Cabinet held a very harmonious meeting last Monday. Out of the twenty members that usually compose the august body, nineteen put in an appearance at the proper hour. There was no considerable amount of business laid before the meeting. Claims of all sizes and descriptions were brought in against the county, and submitted to the court for approval or rejection.

Several physicians who are employed to attend the paupers till the first of January 1879, had their claims made out and ready for presentation, but were set down on by the Court ruling that such claims should not be allowed until the January term of the Court.

Whitlock, Undertaker in Rising Sun, Ind., came into court with a lengthy account, against the county and which showed conclusively that he had furnished quite a number of boxes for shipping Boone County people to that undiscovered country. His account dated back some five or six years, and amounted to about $180. After the Court heard Mr. Whitlock's statement, it decided not to go behind the returns, and rejected the claim, with exception of a single coffin which Require T. Akin had ordered. It may be well to state here, the coffin charged for in the account were furnished to parties not recognized as county paupers, and allowing the account and having it paid out of the county funds, the Court, doubtless, considered would be setting an unwarranted precedent; besides, it did not feel disposed to assume the debts of persons who are not willing to pay for what they buy.

The election of School Commissioner was one of the most important matters with which the Court had to do Monday. There were four candidates all about noon, when it was evident the contest had narrowed down to two, and H. J. Foster and A. P. Rose withdrew, leaving William Nelson and L. C. Yager to contend for the honors. The election was held directly afternoon and Mr. Yager was elected, the vote standing 12 to 8.

Hon. John S. Phelps, who some time last spring was appointed to investigate the Road Supervisors, rendered his report which was minute and elaborate; he was discharged and Judge Riddell, R. C. Green and H. J. Foster appointed a committee to take control of the matter, and give it such attention as it may require. The Court furthermore ordered the County Attorney to bring suit in every instance where the matter can't be adjusted without.

Dr. Urey and the "Big Bones" were also considered. The Doctor has been taking some of the bones out of the County's land at Big Bone, and the Court thought it was time to have a divide of the spoils, as it is written in the contract that the county shall have one-sixth of the bones taken out. To keep this matter in shape required another committee, which is composed of R. C. Green and Esquires Baker and Garnett. As in the matter of the Road Supervisors, the Attorney has special instructions to bring suit to enforce the contract under which the digging for bones was done.

It seems that many subscribers thought we were jesting, when, week before last we said there would be no paper issued from this office for last week. Many inquired at the postoffice and would scarcely be comforted because it was not there, while several came to headquarters on the search for it. We may as well say in this connection, to those who are somewhat afraid that we jump a cog, as it were, when we take a week's vacation that such is not the case; we always commence where we leave off, and the paper will now be on time for the next year, there being no providential interference.

The election of School Commissioner created more interest than common this fall. There were three candidates for the office, and when all the Justices are in commission there are twenty of them, so they probably, received as much electioneering as if there had been eighteen hundred or two thousand of them. By reference to our court report you will learn who the lucky man is.

MEMPHIS LETTER.

Memphis, September 29, 1878.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.

Having that a few lines from this "delectable" city at this time will neither have the effect on your nerves of making you tremble or your chief assistant anything else, I drop you a few notes taken at sight, not attempting to give a description of a condition of things which beggars description. I have been here five weeks, and since that time, the death rate inside the corporation has averaged about 90 a day out of a fluctuating population of 8,000 or 9,000, not mentioning those who have died in camps around the city. No description that I have yet seen has even done justice to the desolation and despair that exists here. People have become so accustomed to it that they receive news of the death of their dearest friends with a mere shrug of the shoulder, as if the only wonder was that they had not heard it before. This yellow scourge is a stern reality that no one can describe.

Yesterday, as I walked along the street I saw a well dressed man lying dead on the banquet, with a small basket of tomatoes scattered around him. He proved to be a convalescent yellow fever patient who thought he was strong enough to walk out, and thus met his death.

The number of noble, brave men and women who have met their death in their efforts to do good to those who are suffering are myriads, and among those who have suffered, the fever seems to have been particularly fatal among the Sisters of Charity, whose self-imposed duty it has been to smooth the pillow and wipe the death sweat from the forehead of so many dying sufferers.

But there are many instances of the most dastardly cowardice. One cowardly villain deserted the woman whom he had sworn before God to love and protect, on the first symptom of her having the disease, and left her and her two children to become the victims of this dire scourge. Another, when his wife was taken to the hospital, refused to go and nurse her, for fear he would take it and die, and there would be nobody left to take care of a favorite dog.

Some of the scenes have been almost heartrending. In many instances persons have died unattended, probably deserted by those who should have cared for them, and their bodies laid three and four days without interment; and in others, whole families have been taken down almost at once, one unable to help the other, and in some instances, dead, dying and sick have been discovered in the same room and in the same bed. One notable instance was in the suburbs, a poor woman—name unknown—was found lying on the floor, having been dead twelve or eighteen hours, her infant child, eight or nine months old, crying with hunger and trying to nurse itself, unconscious, poor, innocent thing, that its mother's spirit had winged away, and that it could never feel a mother's fond and loving caress again.

Many instances of similar character have occurred, but as they will serve in some degree to illustrate the condition here, I shall close, as I have already drawn this communication out longer than I originally intended.

Four lots lying in the town of Florence, Boone County, Ky., described thus: First Lot—Beginning on Shelby street, at the corner of lot No. 10, thence with the line of said lot 124 feet to an alley; thence with the alley 49 feet to lot No. 8; thence 130 feet to Shelby street; thence with Shelby street 49 feet to the beginning. Second Lot—Beginning at the corner of the above lot on Shelby street, then along it 50 feet to the center of Meigs street; thence back 124 feet to an alley; then with the alley 50 feet to the corner of said lot; then with a line of it to the beginning. Third Lot—Fronting on Shelby street, adjoining the first described lot, bounded by said road and north line of lot No. 8, beginning at a corner of a lot conveyed by John Stephens to Jackson W. Stephens and others, on the old Burlington road, 40 feet eastwardly with said road and boundary 50 feet more or less to an alley; thence with said alley south to another alley; thence with the last named alley west 50 feet more or less to the line of the lot conveyed by said John Stephens to Jackson W. Stephens and others; then with said line of said lot to the beginning.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made.

The purchaser will be required to give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale, $1,098 05.

Meister Riddle: Ven I see dem hambills vot you make vor Schneider und vor Schweitmann, Dot-Kash would buy goudscheep, by hake, I goud right dem and gets some, I schays right der street vom dore, by Pat Hampton and der drug store, Und ven I see der customers go Schweitmann's in and out so,

I yust got in agin next day to puy some dings for Katrine, Und der way dem poy is selling goods yust put my head to waitin.

Now Meister Riddle, ven you comes into dot place, I know you'll feel Dot in Schneider and Dom Schweitmann's store high prices is all aus g'apiel.

Dere's galices and muschins too, in piles, O man, don't tork, Und schaeper'n never I you did puy dem in New York.

Dere's handkerchiefs, plack and pown and kray, Und fannels, yams, and stuff for shirt, Und Dom and Shessy Korwin say, "See, Hans, dem dings is cheap as dirt."

Py sheeminy, I does, ven dem poy does dell der truth I does, by Ying, Vor dey nod make de gassy nod, byust sell dem goods like eberyding.

Dere's bods and shoes and hats and caps and clothing der, and eaten, Und bicture frames, lamps and hat racks, tea pots, tea trays and waiters.

Dere's kuzanzers vor bantaloons in der old groundy made Und den dere's knives and forks and spoons, und shovels, hoses and spade.

Dere's queensware, glass and dings like dot, vom rich to eat your dinner, Und if dey ain't schaeper, you can dake my hat, dan gouds in old Virginia.

Und den dere's hoshery and gluffs, und edgin', lace and ribbin', Und dey sell so low, py sheeminy, I don't see how dey makes libbin.

Dem korschets and dem ladies' scharfs, und dings like dot vor ladies wear—mosht a pusel vor two tollars— Und hins and needles, tread, and all der dings vot so cheap as neder vas, any dore below der bottom.

Und dei peobles all have heard der news ov Dem gouds to schaeper, Und dem gouds to schaeper, Und dey're rushing der and yelling, "Yust put me up a bolt ov dot, und of dis tork and tudder!"

Und ven dey der gouds dey vant, yust puy him like a brudder, I ask Dom how he sells so low. He say "Vell, Hans, I dell you, I puy vor cash, I dell you cash—'tis best vor every fellow."

Und den he say he know some dings vom twenty years of schoolin', Dore der man vor sells his goods on tick, always his month's follie!

Und ven he puy his goods vor cash, he always got um lower, Und ven he makes der brofft schmitt, dey sell without a 25 cents.

Und ven a man sells on long time, he's not der cash to puy mit, He puy um high and sells um higher—dot's vor der way der world goes.

Und efery year, mit long time goes, he lose five hundert dollar, By pad mans sich to pay dey fails, und lafts him vor his schult.

Der merchant loses not all dot; goud-py mans, hear me say it— Vor der brofft den vas pig and fat, und der man vor puy pay it!

Py sheeminy, I pleyves Schweitmann's right, about dem dings he's sayin', Und I'll puy my goods dere, he sells um right, und ven I puy, I bay him.

A Card.

To Patrons and Farmers of Boone: I take this method of informing you that I have made arrangements by which I am able to give $6 50 rates on all stock shipped from Greenwood Lake, and consigned to me, provided you will drive from the terminus of the road to the pens yourself. The shipper also gets a free pass to the city and back. I think this better for you, as the drivers generally abuse the stock very much. If you need more help, I will be glad to send you in getting a hand which will cost only 25 cents. The present rates are $7 75 so this gives you a saving of $1 25, and I think this better than driving through the city. I want to say to my river friends, if they ship any stock to me from this on, they had better notify me of the fact a few days previous, as the boats are unloaded about the time the train on the Southern Road arrives, and I can not attend both, but will have someone at the river to receive all stock, if desired, beforehand. I also want to say to the farmers, that I think I have had arrangements by which they will be enabled to realize more money for their next spring's lambs than ever before, by selling them to an eastern buyer, and to be weighed on scales or Caley's. Brother farmers, to effect this, all I think necessary is for you all to stand by me and not contract your lambs, unless you get self price. Would be glad to see you, and talk with you all about the matter, and I think you will agree with me. W. M. CONNER.

PUBLIC SALE.

FARM

In Boone County, Kentucky

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, as Assignee in Bankruptcy of Caleb Carpenter, will sell at public auction on the premises, in Boone County, Ky., on the road leading from Union to Burlington, about one mile west of William Tanner's blacksmith shop, and lately occupied by W. A. Carpenter, Jr., son of Caleb Carpenter, on Saturday, October 26th, 1878, at 11 o'clock A. M., a tract of land situated as above described, containing

SIXTY-FIVE ACRES,

on which there are comfortable improvements—nice, new Frame Cottage House, good Barn, Stables and Out-houses, fences all in good order, and land in high state of cultivation. One of the prettiest little farms in the county.

This tract will be sold pursuant to an order of the United States District Court in Bankruptcy, and on the following terms: Subject to a mortgage given by Caleb Carpenter and wife to John Scott and Joseph Lillard, for the sum of $2,500, dated August 14, 1877, payable in one year at 8 per cent. interest. One hundred dollars of the purchase money to be paid in cash, the balance in six and twelve months, with 6 per cent. interest from day of sale, the purchaser giving bond with approved security.

An opportunity is here offered for one of the best bargains upon the market.

Ben M. Platt, Assignee in Bankruptcy of Caleb Carpenter.

FARM FOR SALE.

About 255 acres on Gunpowder Creek, and being the same owned by Jonathan Cox at his death. This farm is about two miles south of Burlington, and will be sold upon reasonable terms as an entire lot or in lots to suit purchasers. The dwelling is of brick, and has seven good rooms. There are all other necessary outbuildings. 160 acres are under cultivation; the remainder is well timbered with Ash, Oak, Hickory, Walnut and Sugar tree. A portion of this land is rented this year for $650. There are also two good teams on the farm.

For further particulars, inquire of or address the undersigned at Burlington, Boone County, Ky.

BURLINGTON, KY., OCTOBER 10.

THE YELLOW DEATH.

BY ROSA VERNER JEFFREY.

From stagnant fen, from dismal swamp,
With pestilential breath,
With ghastly, steeple, hot and damp,
Strides forth the Yellow Death,
His venom leaves a poisoned bright
On summer's sunny ways.
A trail of black, land light,
A down her golden days.

With aching horror through the past,
His frightful orgies thrill;
And yet the carnival still last,
A flood—unsated still—
He revels on, while bells are tolled,
And while, with a loud breath,
A trembling nation cries, "He's dead!"
The feast of Yellow Death!

A plague spot dims the Southern sun—
The Southern summer tells How passing glories, one by one,
In dale of funeral knells,
A pall upon the waning bright hours,
A wail upon the air,
A tint upon the crystal showers,
The Yellow Death is there.

The roses bud and bloom and fall;
They are not woven now
In garlands for the banquet hall,
Or crowns for beauty's brow,
And where the pale purple lilies shine,
Where jasmine blossoms are sweet,
No living hands are left to twine
White garlands for the dead.

Oh, mourning land! With a word scarce dried Soures hidden in its death—
Too soon by flood and famine tried,
And now—the Yellow Death!
With whom we fought and bled—
E'en they in pity sicken our eyes,
And weep above our dead.

Oh, God of Love, in mercy stay,
The fell destroyer's sweep,
While there are living hearts to pray,
And living eyes to weep!
Lord, King, Creator, throne above!
Thy creatures fear beneath,
Cry, "For His sake, whose life is love,
Oh, stay the Yellow Death!"

Up to the bleak and frozen North,
This early autumn time,
Let thy blest messenger go forth,
And break the gates of doom,
To purify our festering air,
Send us the Ice-King's breath,
For Christ's dead sake, oh, hear our prayer,
And stay the Yellow Death!

Analyzing Our Prospects.
CINCINNATI, O., September 30, 1878.
To the Editor of the Recorder:

While prospecting around for news, I dropped on your prospectus. Seeing your kind, but rash, invitation to seal ourselves and drop you a few lines, we comply; for we are obedient, and, if requested, we will even assist at your funeral. We see that you are very anxious that we should "seal ourselves" before we drop those lines. Just as if we would stand up and write. You must think that you are speaking to someone in your office who is bothering around too much. When a prospective subscriber comes in and gives you that $1.50, suppose you not only give him a seat but a receipt, for fear he might accuse you of deceit. Don't you see? [Yah.—Ed.]

Now you may listen. I am going to let these lines drop. I suppose they will drop into the waste basket. As to those rules of life, I may say I have never been on trial, and consequently can not tell of my trials until, perhaps, I get married. [Haven't you made "trials" in that direction? Come, now, don't prevaricate.—Ed.]

My wife is tuor-age, though I am not of age. I fear it will soon be post-age (3 cents for this letter). [But you would much prefer marriage, wouldn't you?—Ed.]

My wife is not jealous, nor has she just cause—just cause I haven't such a piece of baggage around.

I have no lien on any religion in particular. If you make your hogs or dogs as lean as you are, you might lean upon them, though it would be a lean lean. I suppose you have a lien on some of your subscribers for $1.50.—[You lean toward the truth for once at least, in your life.—Ed.]

I don't think my sole is immortal; it needs a little more, very often. Though, I have not, like Dr. Fumister, sold the whole of my soul. I have had my sole half sold many times. I find so much use for my sole sometimes on my fellow—more on hogs, dogs, &c.—and as it is getting cold, I don't see how I am to do without it, though you think we may. I think you need something to console you, in fact, the old adage might be verified: "Two hearts that beat as one."

[We like you, have been seduced out, didn't make connection with anybody's half-sole though.—Ed.]

My politics are in the State of Ohio just at present. I think you are in a mixel state, (like your drinks). You excel the circus rider. You can ride several horses going different ways, one to hard money and resurption, and one towards soft money and inflation.

I will bet just 2 cents that non-paying subscribers will not want to meet you in heaven. They will be pretty safe, I think, from you there. Ed. can't get there often. If you do, you might increase their temperature some what, in fact, make a hell out of heaven.—[Our advice is, save your money, you've no more than you need.—Ed.]

Swapping horses and lying, we fear, like the Siamese twins, one can't be taking away without injuring the other.

We know it is trying, very trying, to mean good to women, children, editors and other domestic and harmless animals. We would advise you to give it up; besides, if they were kind,

the feeling wouldn't be reciprocated.

[What kind of animal would you like to reciprocate with?—Ed.]

We didn't think you would waste your time in whipping posts. You had better employ your time in whipping delinquent subscribers.—[We are going to post an Ohio man, and send him on the whipping expedition, so if he gets killed there will be nothing wasted.—Ed.]

Why don't you set the example if you are advocate of polygamy? I suppose you have had so many proposals for position No. 1, that you have decided on such a course. The shadier you keep the better. Your deeds are dark and can't bear the light.—[We can't bear with you in hell longer. You are in danger of getting your light put out.—Ed.]

We have noticed many curious features about you as well as about your paper. In fact, as many as two features. What immense features (features) are anyhow. Is that remark about the newspaper borrower official? I suppose you are one of the visiting statesmen—been there and sent back (for postage).—[We were not returned for a post stage nor a two-horse stage.—Ed.]

As we have subscribed for your valuable paper ($1.50 per year) I can only subscribe myself, your jokingly, FRED YOUNG.

[You man(s) may as well order coffee and pistols for two.—Ed.]

Local News.

To-day is B. N. Anderson's emc.

Taz leaves are leaving their places on the trees.

Fon fresh drugs and fine toilet articles, go to Rife, the druggist.

The corn crop in this vicinity is rather short, but it will take as long as ever to fatten a swine.

A REGULAR toe-biting, potato-spilling, rabbit-densifying frost put in an appearance last Friday night.

At No. 8 Pike street is the best place in Covington to buy razzy-maw because of large stock always on hand.

The last account of anyone committing matrimony, as appears of record, is Casper Ahook and Margaretta Rupert.

There will be no excuse for domestic broils this winter, for there are apples enough to give every jaw other employment.

SEVERAL of the boys had planned pleasure trips for last Sunday, but when the day came there was an ingredient lacking, viz: conveyances.

The past two weeks has been splendid weather for infatigable cock pile. There will be no national rumpus kicked up over that assertion.

BUCKEYE timber is now in demand. Logs are wanted at 175 Pearl street in Cincinnati for the purpose of being worked into business cards, &c.

Those wanting a nice little farm are referred to the advertisement "Public Sale Farm." If desirous of a larger place, read the adv. "Farm for sale."

THE stock traders who generally canvass this section of the county are not moving a very large amount of stock at present. They appear to be awaiting a better market.

Dr. T. B. SMITH'S Agricultural Liment can not be excelled in the good it is doing in the way of straightening crooked limbs and curing diseases. Let everybody use it.

If we can meet with a second, we will make a motion that some kind of a society be organized in this town this winter for the amusement and instruction of those who will take part.

WE can not get a report of the deliberations of the Congressional Convention at Williamstown in time for this issue, but our readers know the nomination of Mr. Carlisle was a foregone conclusion.

THE death of Capt. J. M. Stanfield, of Union, last week, was a great surprise to many of his friends in the county who were not aware of his illness. The fatal disease was congestion of the lungs.

TAKE your basket and direct your steps toward the woods, for it is said that hickory nuts are plentiful, and they are very nice to have about the house during the late evenings between this and spring time.

LOCAL option took possession of both hotels last week, and none of the exciting thing is now being dished out by the proprietors. The tips of some of the bibulous are as dry and parched as the deserts of Africa.

THE Sheriff often collects four or five thousand dollars taxes at the October term of the County Court, but this year his collection fell far short of one thousand. A strong proof that the circulating medium is scarce.

At the special term of County Court held October 9th, W. B. Underwood was released from the articles of apprenticeship binding to him Lewis S. Rouse. At the same time, Horace Graves chose J. A. Davis as her guardian.

A FINE monument or tombstone erected over the grave of the departed speaks silent volumes for the esteem in which they were held by the living. For elegant designs and low prices, Huchcraft & Co., Lawrenceburg, Ind., defy competition.

THE Joe Cowen who was indicted at the last term of the Criminal Court, for trespass, is not Joe Cowen of Burlington Town Marshal notoriety. We are glad to say that our Joe don't invade the melon patches of others as the indictment charges.

WE notice a poor, lonely-looking old mow occupying a conspicuous position on the street near the Court-house. The old, friendless machine was sold for $2.50 at public auction last Court day, but the purchaser seems to have forgotten his purchase.

LAST week the town expected to be submerged by a Murphy wave, but, owing to some unknown cause, the speaker who was expected failed to put in his appearance at the appointed time. Probably he heard of the "spontaneous uprising" of local opinion.

THE colored congregation does not seem to be exactly dwelling together in unity just at present. There appears to be some discord in regard to the new church which they have under way, and the misunderstanding is causing considerable loud wind to be let off.

LAST Sunday afternoon, Rev. Benjamin Lamson preached the funeral of Johnnie Harper who died on the 23d of last January. The services were held in the Lutheran church at Hove. The congregation was very large, filling the house to its utmost capacity.

FOR some time Chas. Westaby, Chastion Fowler and Logan Tanner have been trying to become Hoosierized, but the Ripley County chills attacked the boys about two months since, and has succeeded in shaking them out of the State. They have returned to Boone in search of health.

WE understand that the Petersburg and Woolper Turnpike Company has determined to span Woolper Creek with a substantial iron bridge. This is a very sensible determination on the part of the company, and, in the long run, it will find the iron bridge the most economical structure.

THE last move in the real estate business here, was the trade in which Dock and Ed Webb sold to John Glen the property for some years occupied by General Wallace as a residence. The premises occupied by Finch's grocery are also included in the sale. We understand the consideration is $1,500.

Burlington Bullied Bountifully.

Since the expiration of the national bankrupt act, confidence seems to have been restored in an amusing extent. All kinds of business is being resuscitated, and a renewed energy has found its way to most every department of society. Even in this old and long accounted dried-up town, the spirit of improvement has all at once manifested itself more than for the last quarter of a century. We have basted ourselves not a little to discuss the real cause of the present forward movement going on here in the way of improving the building, and have sought to solve the problem by referring it to a number of different sources, but in every instance we have found the supposed cause insufficient to produce such results as are being consummated all around us. Our research has been unsatisfactory. Some potent influence, hitherto cramped, confined and held captive by some great political power, must have found a sudden broken fetters and gone forth to arouse, wake up and bless mankind. The expiration of the national bankrupt act has done the job for us. It has ushered a livelier day into this community.

WE have now less than six new buildings going up or about being begun in our town, with several infatigable districts to hear of. First, our esteemed young friend, W. J. Rife, has just erected a fine two-story, two-story frame, situated near the intersection of Gallatin and Garrard streets, fronting on the former, which, when completed, will furnish as cozy a home as one could wish. Then we pass over to the lot formerly occupied by the old jail, and there we find our County Clerk, L. H. Dills, laying the ground-work for a fine two-story frame, to be so constructed as to front on Jefferson and Nicholas streets. Our keen-eyed and social clerk has certainly selected one of the most beautiful sites for his new building.

Next, let us cross the bridge on the new pike and ascend the hill, and just at its top we come upon the spot, to be the future home of our townsmen, J. H. Hoffman, for here he is erecting a beautiful frame cottage of five rooms. No prettier view of the town can be had than from the spot selected by Mr. Hoffman for his house.

Let us come across the bridge and across and go down Jefferson street to Temperance, and there, upon the corner lot hitherto vacant, we find Joseph Cowen hard at work preparing the grounds and arranging material for building a family residence. This, too, is a good location, except some persons might prefer a little less proximity to Bucktown. In a few years, however, Bucktown will be removed and strung out along Washington street, from the Court house east, if the citizens of the town will quietly permit it. No rumor says. But let us go back to our bridge.

The new colored Baptist church is next. This is located in Bucktown proper, fronting a closed alley leading from Jefferson to Nicholas street. Next comes the elegant mansion house, about completed, beautifully situated on Gallatin street, about a rod from the middle wall of navigation between Bucktown and our friend Boone Clerk, J. W. Duncan. Columbus Gaines, widower, a man of color, is the owner of this elegant mansion. No one is so good as not to admire the display of sound sense he has shown in selecting a site for his new home. His neighbors—oh, how clever! The Clerk will join hands with him and tear down that middle wall of partition, and have chickens in each yard, and the vote of Bucktown is sure next time. Aspirants for Circuit Clerk, look to your laurels! The lion and the lamb will lie down together, and the bloody cause be bridged.

Other improvements might be noticed, but want of space forbids.

Personal Mention.

MR. R. B. JOHNSON and wife, of Holden, Johnson County, Mo., are visiting Mr. John P. Scott and wife.

LAST Sunday, Buddie Smith was inhaling Burlington atmosphere. But does not learn to forget the scenes of his childhood and adolescence. Mrs. ELIZABETH CLOKE and Mrs. LUCRETIA Talbot, of Indiana, and Mr. and Mrs. Renaker, of Cincinnati, have been visiting Mr. Cave County and family.

THE Mount Pleasant neighborhood has been enjoying quite a religious feast for the last two weeks or more. Both the Old Baptist and the Christians have been holding meetings there, the former for the last two weeks previous to last Sunday. Sunday night Mr. Keene received three into his church.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER, a lively little paper published at Burlington, has just closed its third volume. It is one of the most interesting and best conducted local journals in the State, and has our best wishes for future success.—Robertson County Tribune.

Here's to you and the Tribune, Brother Zoller.

THE editor started his Paper Wednesday morning, and headed for Williamstown, Grant County, to take part in making a candidate for Congress. He will, however, return in season to resume his editorial duties for next week's issue, in which if our readers find any tritely inaccurate, they will kindly attribute them to the excitement of the occasion.

Is this issue will be found the advertisement of Mrs. S. Hardin and Wm. R. Dulaney, and who are engaged in the real estate business. They are young and energetic, representing some seven of the most reliable insurance companies, and we bespeak for them a patronage long and true.

THE bridge on the Petersburg and Burlington pike, and in the town limits, needs immediate attention. A plank gave away the other day as Gabriel T. Gaines was crossing it on horseback, and he narrowly escaped serious injury. The proper person will take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

A SWITZ property, Cy Crisler, escaped from Aylette Snyder's pasture, near Florence, a few days since. It was chased with tar on its shoulders. Of course Cy does not care so much about the sheep, but, like the boy that lost the copper cent, wants to know where the darned thing has gone to.

Our neighboring town, Florence X-Roads, now boasts of a wagon factory. This new enterprise is under the command of Colonel Abdoth with that community in the fact that the school-house there has received a good repairing.

On Wednesday, at 2 o'clock Mr. Malibus South and Miss Sallie Gordon, daughters of Frank Gordon, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock.

Try "Sly Fox" is the best cigar in the market, and is sold by Rife, the druggist.

LAST Thursday we simply hinted that rain was needed, and the next day a regular cloudbusting, gully-washing, soaking rain came. Who says the Records has no influence?

LAST Monday, Mrs. Michael Clore, of Bellevue, who, about two weeks since, was brought to her daughters, Mrs. James Conner, of this place, was taken home. While here she was quite low for several days, but was much improved at the time of being removed.

WE want Charley Thompson to find that shoe, and therefore publish certum of literum a notice plucked from a gate near Charley's neighborhood!

Charley Thompson lost one shoe which belonged to his foot and will reward the finder for it some where between bull's head and Lawrenceburg return the shoe to the graveness store.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Hamilton. Business is very dull.

Albert Alphin is building a very nice dwelling. The river is low and fishing good. Corn will make about two-thirds of a crop. It is now 40 cents in the field.

South Fork has just gone through a protracted meeting.

Union.

There have been questions asked with regard to the game law, and who are the men to enforce the laws in our Commonwealth. Is it the duty of every citizen in our county to see that the law is executed, and when violated, to bring the guilty parties to justice? What are our Magistrates for, and what station do they fill? Is it their duty to sit at home and hear guns shooting all around in their neighborhood, killing the women with their dogs hunting the lit (but white) coal that have not yet fastened out sufficiently to fly out of their way, or even to keep up with the old ones? If we have a game law, let us have it enforced. Please sell us through your paper when the time is out—Is not the 20th of October in each year, and that persons are allowed by law to kill them, and not until then? But there are persons in this vicinity that have been shooting birds for twenty days at least, and we hope that these things will not be passed over by our grand jury in the coming spring. Most of the farmers have their land posted, and they are not willing to let the birds be going to see, after the law allows the birds to be killed, who kills them. The violators know who they are, and they had better be very careful. [The third session opens on the 20th of October in each year, and closes on the 1st of February following.—Ed.]

The weather is very fine, and digging potatoes and feeding hogs is the order of the day.

Young Benton came to town Sunday, driving a young colt, and when in front of Boggs, the colt became frightened, upset the wagon and broke Tony's right arm above the elbow.

The members of the Florence Fishing Club went up to the General Stephens pond, last Thursday, on a fishing expedition, and took with them Dr. S. S. Scott, the next Register of the Land office. While the Doctor was engaged pulling out a shark, or a whale, or a minnow, he lost his footing and slipped into the pond, which is very deep, and the bottom being slippery, rendered his efforts to get out rather amusing to his comrades who commenced singing, "Pull for the shore, Doctor, pull for the shore; heed not the rolling waves, but bend to the oar." Doc did it directly, and after the boys had sung five verses and the chorus, he slipped back again, and some of the boys struck up, "Whos, Emma!" This was the Doctor's second stand, and he, however, swore by the whole that he would buy his fish hereafter.

Burney Bogen has just completed the boss ice-house of the section, it is 20x20 feet, and 13 feet deep. The outside walls are 2 feet thick and of solid masonry. The inner walls are of timber, 14 inches thick, and between the walls is a layer of 6 inches of ice, a charcoal. It will hold about 80 tons of ice, a quantity sufficient to supply this neighborhood for two years.

There is considerable sickness in this neighborhood. It is mostly chills and fever, and intermittent fever. The doctors look happy.

Born—To John Finch and wife, a daughter—101 pounds. He moved about here that Felix Mays is going up to High Bridge, to start a hotel, and that Hon. Milt. Hamilton is to be his successor in the huckster business, and is now negotiating for the famous horse Billy, wagon and huckster room.

John Carpenter walked home the other night and left the old room mare hitched to the next morning when he went to the stable and did not find her, but struck for town and interviewed Tommy, the hostler, who turned her up.

MY DARLING DOWN BY THE SEA.

BY GEORGE L. SOUTHWICK.

Happy breeze! Toying with the golden curls, Hear her a message from the Wisest man alive to the dearest of girls,
 My darling down there by the sea.
 Say that with blessings I send her this,
 Tranquil and bright may her life ever be;
 That nightly I see her sweet face in my dreams
 My darling down there by the sea.
 That I know her pure heart is all my own;
 Whatever the taste of exile may be,
 That my soul is singing a glorious psalm,
 For my darling down there by the sea.
 Oh, breeze! With her bonny brown curls
 -Toying, far more happy than me-
 That never a change shall my heart know
 For my darling down there by the sea.

Summer Pork Packing.

Cincinnati Price Current.)
 There has been some increase in packing operations at leading points in the West the past week, and in view of the probabilities of lower prices for hogs further on in the season it would seem reasonable to expect that feeders will now market with increasing freedom. If there continues to be the inclement offered by the present values, the grounds upon which a lower range in the price of hogs, which may safely be considered as greater than ever before, are general healthfulness of the swine; the abundance of corn and other coarse feed material, and the present and prospective low prices for the same; the unsatisfactory outcome in the last season's packing business, at the prices paid for hogs; the comparative absence of hogs in advance of product from abroad in advance of product from the West; and the prominent influences bearing upon the future of the market. And we feel like congratulating the foreign buyers on their wisdom thus far, manifested this season, in not pursuing the previous policy, by which the markets here were largely oversold in advance of production, thus operating adversely to the interest of the buyers of the product in the end, and damaging to the trade here, the hog grower reaping all the advantages.
 The returns of Assessors in the principal hog growing States uniformly show an increase in the number of hogs last spring compared with a year ago. The increase in Ohio was 200,000; in Indiana, 120,000; in Illinois, 375,000; in Iowa, 500,000; in Kansas 400,000; definite returns from other States not being at hand. Thus we are led to look for an increase of upward 2,000,000 head in the supply of hogs. The summer packing will show a gain of probably 700,000 head, and the seaboard receipts for the summer season an increase of 300,000, so that statistics would yet point to a net increase of 1,000,000 for the future marketing.
 The total packing of the past week is about 70,000 hogs, and since March 1 the aggregate is 2,680,000, or 670,000 more for same last year. The remaining portion of the season for marketing the old stock of meats is becoming so narrow that the buyers of the larger stocks, compared with a year ago, are becoming dissipated. Should the new season open with cool weather, the manufacture of meats would be active, and Southern markets would draw upon supplies of partly cured meats in place of last winter's cure.
 Special reports to the Cincinnati Price Current show the packing since March 1 to date and latest mail dates, at the undermentioned places, to be as follows:

	Sept. 24, Sept. 25, 1887.	Sept. 26, Sept. 27, 1887.

Effects of Labor-Saving Machinery on Wages.
 As to what the reaping machine has done, a contemporary refers to the following facts: "When the reaping machine—that late heir of the tramp who sits in the shade and listens to the man who tells him that he ought to ride in his carriage—was introduced to the country in 1850, the number of farmers and agricultural laborers in the twelve States in which it is now chiefly used was 1,301,863, and in 1870 2,641,830.
 The difference in the matter of wages still greater. In 1850 farm hands were paid $8 per month, and harvest hand $0 cents to $1.50 per day; while in 1870, the wages of the former were $30 per month, and of the latter from $2 to $3.50 per day. This year farmers willingly pay hands from a $1.50 to $2 per day, while the manufacture of reaping machines is giving employment to thousands of skilled workmen.
 The same remark is applicable to all kinds of machinery, the hands employed in the last twenty years having more than doubled, and the wages quadrupled, while the population increased only fifty-seven per cent. Commenced on such a change of things is superfluous.

A NEWSPAPER editor says: "We have received a notice of marriage for insertion, to which was appended the original announcement, 'Sweetheart, at a distance will please accept this intimation.'"
 So important to the food supply has become the proper cultivation of wheat that it is exciting much interest at this time. It has been the custom for some time, where winter wheat is grown to sow the wheat after such cultivation as can be given in the fall, and then trust to the circumstances of the season, etc., for the future. This mode undoubtedly leaves the crop much exposed to unfavorable circumstances. If very hard rains follow the coming up of the young plants, the soil is liable to become hard and crusted, and each beating it gets from the weather afterwards will add to the unfortunate condition. Often from this cause alone a crop may be cut short one-half.
 Of course, some soils are not liable to bake, but on such as do, there is no plan to break the crust that will prove so entirely satisfactory as that of plowing or hoeing. The results of the use of the smoothing-harrow are quite encouraging, but in this there must be some damage to the roots of the plants, and it is so far objectionable. Still, where the field has become hard on top, it is better to use the harrow than to do nothing.
 It will be admitted by all that spring cultivation of winter wheat will increase the yield. The only question is how much, and whether the increased yield will pay for the additional work. Every farmer should experiment in this respect, a portion of the field to sow for cultivation. This involves in sowing in drills ten or twelve inches apart a little more seed than passes through the drill hose now generally in use. A common drill can be fitted for this purpose by removing alternate spouts.
 As soon as the frost is out of the ground in the spring, and the soil is dry enough, the cultivation should begin. An implement on the order of the two-wheeled cultivator is made for the purpose. It has eight or more horse, arranged to fit the rows, fixed on an oscillating frame, and is easily guided by the plowman. One good plowing may be sufficient, and it will be found that the plants will soon spread over the wider space, and grow with more strength than if left alone.
 As before said, it will be merely a question of cost, as the fact of an increased yield is beyond dispute if the experiment is made on lands subject to baking.—Home Journal.

Golly, How Profound!
 Mr. Cassidy, an employee on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, living between the Highlands and the ancient city of Bladensburg, has just attained his immortality, and the newspapers throughout the country will speak of his virtues. All the people living in the houses of kings and many a man married for years, and still he is, will wonder what sort of a man Cassidy is, and "upon what meat doth this Caesar feed?" Mrs. Cassidy has just given birth to five children—three girls and two boys—and all of them remarkably well. They are very small but perfect in their organism, and may live. The mother is, happily, out of all danger, and able to receive the congratulations of friends. This is one of the most remarkable cases in modern times.

Southern Gratitude.
 There is no consideration in this connection more pleasant than the proofs daily offered by the munificent donations of Northern, Eastern and Western cities for the relief of the sick and destitute in the South, that the sense of humanity and brotherly love is warmer and deeper in the country than the mean animosities engendered by party rivalries and sensational prejudices. We begin to believe that this really is a nation, a people one at heart. We appreciate the generosity which comes to us from these quarters, even when it takes the shape of a prescription which the boldest will never have the temerity to try, and offers of personal services from those whose zeal is greater than their knowledge. They mean well and we accept with gratitude the will for the deed.—New Orleans Picayune.

A LITTLE daughter of a Connecticut clergyman, being left one day to "tend doo", and obeying a summons of the bell, she found a gentleman on the steps who wished see her father. "Pa! in 't", said she, "but if it is anything about your soul, I can attend to you. I know the whole plan of salvation."
 "What is the best remedy," asked a preacher of a shrewd observer, "for an innate native audacity?" "Give them something to attend to," was the significant reply. "Hungry sheep will look up to the rack if there is anything in it."
 As Iowa editor thus acknowledges a present of grapes: "We have received a basket of grapes from our friend W., for which he will accept our compliments, some of which are nearly two inches in diameter."

If a man want a hundred dollar diamond ring, he can purchase it no matter where he may be; but when he needs a postal card he may run his legs off in vain and not be able to find one.
 One of the most disgusting things known is to have a vest which hasn't sufficient longitude to enable it to connect with the trousers, especially when the shirt billoweth between the two.

NEVER HASTING, NEVER RESTING.

Never hasting, never resting.
With a firm and joyous heart,
Ever onward, ever onward,
Acting, yes, a brave man's part.

With a higher—
Doing all thou hast to do;
Seeking every man's uprising,
With the highest end in view.

Undressed by seeming failure;
Unrelaxed by success;
Height attained, revealing higher,
Onward, onward ever press.

Slowly moves the march of ages,
Slowly grows the forest king,
Slowly to perfection cometh
Every greater, glorious thing.

[Written for the Recorder.]
A HERO OF LAKE ERIE.

Reminiscences of Perry's Famous Victory, as Gathered from the Lips of an Eyewitness—Experiences Thereof of the Last Survivor—"I Came to Fight, Sir"—An Honorable Record.

Wishing to hear from the lips of the "last survivor" some particulars of the great victory, the writer recently visited him with this object in view. Mr. Norris now resides in a neat cottage on a quiet side of the town of Petersburg, adjoining the fine farm which he still owns, and on which he lived for nearly fifty years. In his youth, and until a few years ago, he was physically a fine specimen of Western manhood. Although now somewhat broken by age and enfeebled by disease, the quiet dignity of his commanding appearance could not fail to impress the most unobscuring. His height is six feet, and when he joined the army in 1813, he weighed about 170 pounds. His frame was wiry and muscular, and his nerves under excellent control. He was one of the best of the famous rifle shots of those early days; a skillful boxer, having taken lessons from an expert in that many art; and in all facts requiring strength, activity and address, he stood pre-eminent. Many interesting incidents are related of his daring and skill, one of which, although somewhat out of place, is worthy of relating here.

When the volunteers, on their arrival at the fleet, reached the deck of Caledonia, the sailors, being a rough lot, began boxing them around pretty roughly. Mr. Norris stood by looking on, for he was not molested; but, seeing that his comrades, unable to defend themselves, were being worse and worse imposed upon, he said to a burly Irishman, who, from his great size and strength, seemed to be the leader of the fray:

"It seems to me you are very fond of abusing small men; why don't you attack one nearer your own size, and better able to defend himself?"

"By G— and is it yourself you mean?" responded the quick-tempered Irishman.

"That's just what I mean," was the calm reply.

This rendered the aggressive sailor furious, and, rushing on in his blind rage, he attempted to plant his powerful blow on the body of the smaller, but more agile, antagonist. These Mr. Norris easily warded off or skillfully evaded, and, watching his opportunity, delivered such a well-directed blow, straight from the shoulder, that the son of Erin was sent sprawling on the deck, whence, like another famous hero on a similar occasion, "the subsequent proceedings interested him no more." This timely exhibition of skill and pluck had a soothing effect upon the boisterous sailors, and thenceforth the volunteers were no longer molested.

John Norris was born in Hartford County, Maryland, April 13, 1791. His father emigrated to Mason County, Kentucky, in 1795, where the subject of this sketch grew up to manhood. In 1813, after repeated disastrous conflicts with the British and Indians, our army seemed no longer able to hold the territory north of the Ohio. In this crisis, when it seemed as if all was lost, Governor Isaac Shelby issued a stirring call for volunteers to march against the foe. One of the first to respond to this patriotic summons was Mr. Norris, then twenty-two years of age, who offered his services and was enrolled a member of Capt. John Payne's company of cavalry from Mason County. Mr. Norris was at that time unmarried, but, to use his own expressive words, his future wife "was already courted," and he left her with the hope that a speedy victory would soon permit him to return and claim her for his own. And fortune favored him by permitting him to realize the fruition of both these dearest objects of his wishes.

During the stirring and decisive campaign, this company was a portion of the time, attached to Col. R. M. Johnson's brigade, and the rest of the time to Col. Bell's squadron of Virginia light dragoons. On the march of Gov. Shelby's command to the lakes, nothing of special interest occurred, and the whole army, under Harrison, rested for the labors of the long and toilsome march to the Camp Seneca, on the Sandusky River, near Lake Erie.

Pending this halt, an express arrived in camp from Commodore Perry, asking for a number of volunteers to assist in manning his fleet, several vessels of which were so short of men as to be almost unfit to go into action. The Commodore's request was for "fighting men, and none other but fighting men." Mr. Norris soon heard of this, and, said he:

"I thought this was a good chance. I had gone out to fight, and, though my time was nearly half out, I hadn't got what I went for."

When the matter of volunteering came up for discussion among the rank and file, one objection urged against going was that they would be commanded by officers of the fleet; but the main objection was that they had heard of the barbarous custom of flogging in the navy, and many could not endure the idea of placing themselves in a position where a possibility existed of having this indignity inflicted upon them.

"But," said Mr. Norris, "I didn't expect to get a flogging, for I didn't intend to do anything that would cause me to deserve it."

The result of the Commodore's request for volunteers was that Mr. Norris was the first to respond to the call, and his example was soon followed by nineteen of his comrades, all members of Capt. Payne's company. These were all the volunteers that Perry could obtain from the army; but, though few in number, their bravery contributed in no small degree to the triumph of the now famous 10th of September. Before embarking to join the fleet, these men insisted on being commanded on board by only their own officers, and so Lieut. James Colburn was sent in charge, but he soon returned and replaced by Lieut. Ellis, who failed, however, to arrive before the battle.

On reaching the fleet, which was riding at anchor in Inlet Harbor in what is now called Put-in-Bay Island, Mr. Norris, with the greater part of his comrades, was taken on board the Caledonia; the rest were distributed among the Somers and Tigress. The fleet occasionally made short cruises in search of the enemy, but a greater portion of the six weeks that elapsed between the arrival of our volunteers and the day of battle lay at anchor in the fine roadstead of Inlet Harbor. During these periods of inactivity, as rations on board, though abundant, comprised only hard tack and salt beef, the volunteers were allowed to make short hunting excursions on the island, which then, abounded in game. On these occasions Mr. Norris' rifle never failed to contribute a liberal supply of wild swine, venison and wild turkeys to the meager larder on shipboard. As officers from the fleet always accompanied these hunting parties, they witnessed with surprise the skill with which Mr. Norris handled his weapon, and from their frequent reports, his fame as a marksman spread throughout the fleet.

Meanwhile the British commander, Captain Barclay, was not idle. Realizing his inferiority to his antagonist in men, vessels and guns, he had been reluctantly forced to decline the game of battle so often tendered him by Commodore Perry, and on every such occasion hurried to the protection of his heavy land batteries at Malden. But now, having just completed and equipped the Detroit, of twenty guns, he felt himself a match for the American, and bravely set sail in search of him.

W. H. NELSON.

FROM LEXINGTON, VA.
Special Correspondence to the Recorder.

LEXINGTON, VA., Oct. 9, 1878.

Thinking that perhaps a few words from the Old Dominion would not be unacceptable to the readers of the RECORDER, we pen the following, in which we will endeavor to give a brief synopsis of what one sees in a journey to and through the mountains of Virginia.

To speak of the beauties of the Ohio from Cincinnati to Huntington, W. Va., would only be to repeat the scenes with which the readers of the RECORDER are perfectly familiar, since they correspond to the banks of the same river as it washes the shores of Boone; consequently we will omit further mention of this portion of our journey and suppose ourselves at Huntington.

From this place the traveler takes the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad to the East. The train, sweeping around the little city, travels many miles before reaching the mountains. At the first sight of the mountains, they are, of course, many miles away, and appear to the eye unused to mountains like distant rain clouds; but, as we approach sufficiently near to recognize the mountains, covered with snow, we have a view of the great, towering, harmoniously to the grandeur of rugged nature. As we pass up the New River, the scenery becomes doubly grand. The river is shallow, and in many places dotted with huge stones, so immense, indeed, that they seem like petrified islands. The shallowness of the river, and the frequent occurrence of these stones, give the water's surface a foam-like appearance. As we pass along one side of the river, we have a view of the Camp Seneca, the old banks of stone, and their great projection at the top, seem like so many old castles; and, indeed, we almost fancied that we were once more sailing up the Rhine and viewing those castles of antiquity for which that river is famous. The beauty of New River Falls, Hawks' Nest and White Sulphur Springs is proverbial, and each traveler, as he nears each, is on the "mi se" to get a sight.

Thus we journey on until we reach Goheen, at which place we take the stage for Lexington in a Virginia stage car not well be described; so impressive and at the same time so moving is it that it "makes breath poor and speech unable." Hence, we will not attempt a description, remarking only that the beautiful scenery along the way is so remarkable, and at the same time so constant, that beauty ceases to be an attraction long before we emerge from the mountains into the beautiful Valley of Virginia.

In the midst of this lovely valley, hemmed in on the east by the Blue Ridge and on the west by the Allegheny mountains, "far sunken from the healthy breath of morn, far from the fiery noon and eve's one star," lies the pretty little city of Lexington, the Mountain City of the Old Dominion.

Lexington is a small city, but one around which such memories cluster as to make it endeared to every American heart. Here is situated the Washington and Lee University, endowed by Washington and the soldiers of the Revolution, and presided over by Gen. R. E. Lee during the latter portion of his life, and now by his son, Gen. G. W. Custis Lee. Here is also situated the "Virginia Military Institute," in which Stonewall Jackson held a Professorship before the "late unpleasantness."

On the college campus stands the beautiful Lee Chapel, in the basement of which, fenced in by a becoming inclosure, lie the mortal remains of Gen. Lee. By his side lies his wife, and at the west end of the building sleeps his little daughter.

The stranger who is sight-seeing, after viewing the grave of the great Confederate chieftain, is ushered into an adjoining room, where he perceives books and papers lying irregularly on the mantel. His feelings of confusion are changed to those of awe when he is told that this is the office occupied by Gen. Lee at his death, and that everything in the room is just as the hero left it. To the east of the chapel and adjoining it, the mausoleum of Lee is now in construction.

Another place of interest is the cemetery lying to the south of the city. As the stranger walks through its avenues, he is at once attracted by the beauty and simplicity of the tombs and inscriptions. To the northeast a large number of plain gravestones attracts his eye, and as he approaches he surmises, and is right, that they mark the resting place of the Confederate fallen. He surveys the scene with solemn thought, stooping ever and anon to read the inscription on the worn tablets, and to breathe a prayer of peace to the ashes of the brave. One grave in particular arrests his attention. At one corner of the lot stands a rusty old sword, sticking down into the now sunken grave of the occupant. It is this that attracts his attention, and he hastens to see whose sword this guards the final resting-place of its owner, and turns and reads the name "Unknown."

Proceeding thence due south, the next thing of note his eye meets is a little iron paling, enclosing an area of about ten by twelve feet. He approaches, and, leaning over the paling, reads, written on a plain tombstone, the name of Gen. T. J. Jackson. No true American can look upon that plain tomb, unembellished except by flowers, without feeling so good and so great a man as Stonewall Jackson deserves a far more noble monument to his memory.

Four miles south of Lexington is situated the Natural Bridge, which is too well known to admit of description at my hands. Suffice it to say that a country road runs over it, and so firm and so gigantic is the bridge that one can travel over it and not know that he is on it. It is nearly a perfect arch, and is much higher than Niagara Falls. Nature has painted an eagle under the arch, thus representing in the Old Dominion, in its greatest natural curiosity, the emblematic bird of our nation.

This is indeed a grand sight. And allow me to say that he who can behold it unmoved—he who can stand upon that bridge, gazing at this mighty specimen of Nature's architecture, while the swallow flitting from its nest in the arch and the purring rill, far below give poetry to the scene; he who can stand upon it, and amid these mighty scenes, cast his eye over Nature's rougher work, the mighty mountains, rearing their lofty summits to the skies, kissed by the fleecy clouds as they pass by, "shepherded by the slow, unwilling wind"—he who can behold all this in a moment and not be moved is "fit for treason, stratagems and spoils."

Yours truly,
GAMALPIA.

BURLINGTON, KY., OCTOBER 24.

FAYETTE HEWITT.

of Harlan County, is a Candidate for

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

PROBABLY a short biography of the Democratic candidate for Congress in this District may be interesting to our readers. The best authority we have says John Griffin Carlisle was born in Campbell (now Kenton) County, this State, September, 5th, 1835; received a common school education; taught school in the county and afterwards in Covington; studied law with John W. Stephenson and W. B. Kinkead, and was admitted to the bar in March, 1858, and has practiced law since; was a member of the State House of Representatives in 1859-61; was nominated for Presidential Elector on the Democratic ticket in 1864, but declined to accept the position; in 1866 he was elected to the State Senate, and was re-elected to the same position in August, 1869; was a delegate at large from this State to the National Democratic Convention in New York in July, 1868; was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor in May, 1871, and resigned his seat in the State Senate in the month of June following his nomination, and was elected Lieutenant-Governor in August of the same year, which position he filled till September, 1875; in 1876 he was assistant Presidential Elector for the State at large; was elected to the Forty-fifth Congress as a Democrat, receiving 16,482 votes against 8,230 votes for Colonel J. J. Landrum, of Warsaw, the Republican candidate; October 10th, 1878, he was renominated for reelection, to Congress from this Congressional District. He was nominally acclaimed, there being no opposition, something that seldom occurs in these latter days when nearly every family in the land has its candidate for some of the various offices. Mr. Carlisle is comparatively a young man, now just in the prime of life, but looking back over his record of usefulness in public positions he has so ably filled, is seen a record of honorable bestowals on the part of his constituency that are seldom traceable in the public career of men of much riper years.

For some time past, Deputy United States Marshals have been on the track of a gang of counterfeiters that have been manufacturing and shoving the "quack" in Southern Kentucky and Tennessee, and last week they arrested several persons against whom they think they have sufficient evidence to establish the charge of counterfeiting. Some of the parties arrested have always been considered the most reliable and honest men in their communities, and the excitement that followed the arrests was not inconsiderable. Among the number arrested are two or three Postmasters who have been occupying that position for some time.

Four candidates for State Senator in the Thirtieth Senatorial District have signed and published a pledge that they will "not use any money or property of any kind or description, or loan or give their credit to any one directly or indirectly to influence votes, and they request all their relatives and friends to observe the same pledge. The secret of all this is, Morey, one of the candidates, is an editor, and like the rest of the editorial fraternity, has no money to give, and no credit to spare, but overcome these obstacles by inducing his competitors to enter into the above compact.

It is rather severe on a poor man to be fined one hundred and twenty dollars these stringent times, and then be cast in prison because he can not repay or pay the fine, but when a man attempts to prosecute an illegitimate business in defiance of the law of the land, such lessons are very necessary. If laws are to be disregarded with the impunity they often are, and there is no means for compelling their enforcement they should be wiped from the Statute books.

It is a fact that Owen County's record as a law-abiding district is much improved during the past few years, and at the late term of the Criminal Court the grand jury found only twenty-four indictments.

THERE seems to be considerable dissatisfaction in the National camp in Indiana, and they holding the balance of power in the State Legislature, renders their attitude in the Senatorial fight of great importance to both Democrats and Republicans.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

St. Louis, Mo., October 19, 1878.

To the Editor of the Recorder:
It is true, that this day, one week ago, we had a fair and bright day, but the present week has been anything but a dull and lifeless time with many of the boys, and the latter would say, it has been a mighty interesting season with the office seeker. The untried Democracy met in convention on Tuesday last, at the large hall of Mercantile Building, and nominated a full ticket for city officers, from Circuit Judge down to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney for Court of Criminal Correction. There being a multiplicity of positions to be supplied, we deem it wholly unnecessary to go into particulars, or even name the lucky aspirants for political honors, but will simply remark as is usually the case in making up a city ticket, by said party, "what a fine ticket!" was repeatedly the cry, and it was generally conceded to the tune of four out of five of most remunerative positions. In fact, I believe Young America was only favored with three minor positions out of about twenty; and some of the positions were from $5,000 to $10,000 per year. The Republican convention met on Thursday, at Turner Hall, for a like purpose, brought out a full ticket, and gave Germany four-fifths of the honors. So can safely say, as regards our city contest on the 6th of November next, it will be a fight against Ireland, and if you will pardon a singular, I will simply say I don't care much which wins. There is, as yet, but little interest manifested in the Congressional contest, though there are three tickets in the field, viz.: Democrat, Republican and Greenback, the latter having fused with the National, which, in all probability, will bring about the same results as in 1876—namely, give the city to the Republicans, and send back to Congress, one Cole, who, it is said, by a Chicago paper of the same political faith, is a new relation of old King Cole of olden times, and J. C. Metcalf, presently incumbent, whom the Globe Democrat, a paper of the same political faith, positively declines to support on account of incompetency and imbecility. The Globe Democrat, though the organ of the Republicans, yet the Mississippi River, also declines to support the Hon. Nathan Cole for re-election, and openly avows that it prefers Wells, the Democratic nominee to Cole. The Greenback party will draw enough votes from Wells to let Cole in. The contest for United States Senatorial office is down to Geo. W. Vest, of Seaford, and Samuel T. Groves, of the city, and they constitute an issue in many county Districts, and if your correspondent were permitted to give a guess at the successful man, he would name Vest as the man. However, as before intimated, they are both men of talent, and will compare favorably with like Representatives from other States in the election of either we have nothing to be ashamed of.

Your readers will remember that the steamer, J. M. Chambers, left this port on the 4th inst., loaded with supplies for the destitute at points along the lower Mississippi, the same being contributed by the various northern cities, through the influence of Governor Shepherd and others of Washington city. The vessel, yesterday evening, brought us the intelligence of the death of Lieutenant H. L. Benner, Captain of said relief boat, at Vicksburg, yesterday morning, who, while on duty on our river, was attacked by a fever, and died. A Vicksburg paper thus feelingly and touchingly alludes to the death of the young hero: "A soldier of the Stars and Stripes, he cast his life, his blood, and his name against the South and its rebellion; and he came to conquer in the glorious cause of suffering humanity. He laid his hearty hand upon the brow of a dying people, in the way of gentle kindness and love, and consolation. Then his mission was to rescue and save, and he died for those same people against whom he lifted a mighty hand, when they were strong, and against whom they were weak and lowly."

Down in the quiet village of Woodstock, Illinois, near the city of Chicago, thirty-eight years ago, he was born, and he was promptly reaptain of the soul stirring drum, and he came with the music of a private soldier to do what he thought right for his country. In the war between the states, the saber and the bullet of Captain were conferred upon him for bravery on the blazing field, and kindness in the quiet bivouac. Against the caution of friends, contrary to the prayers and protestations of wife and loved ones, he consented, while stationed at Atlanta, Ga., to take command of the relief boat, Chambers, sent to the aid of our afflicted people by the citizens of St. Louis, Chicago and other Northern cities. First Lieutenant in company C, United States Infantry, Colonel Roger commanding, he has outranked in heaven by his devotedness and love, and example worth the most intrepid and gallant knights that ever strode the rugged fields and velveted hills of earth. To his widow, who weeps and laments his loss, we think reached to several of the infected districts, so we may begin to count the days of the Yellow Demon as about numbered. We hope at least, that it is not too late to use that section of our common country has suffered beyond measure. I would not, for one moment, accuse your readers of a lack of intelligence, but many of them are not in the position to bear the piteous cries that come to us daily by wire and through the daily press. May the Good Being above, with whom are the issues of life and death, stretch forth His loving hand and give rest and quiet to that sick and sorrowful people of our country!

My letter is long enough. As ever, yours,
P. A. Telford.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Hamilton.

Nine persons, three males and six females, were baptized at the month of Big Bone on the 13th inst. The protracted meeting at South Fork was continued, with a fair prospect of several more additions.

We had a fine rain on the 11th. The wheat has come up, and looks very well, considering the dry weather. There has been a large acreage of it planted in this part of the county this fall.

Plattsburg.

The grading on the new pike is progressing rapidly, and will be completed by the 1st of November. The abutments for the Woolper bridge are now completed and ready for the bridge, which will be here by the 15th of this month.

The first accident of a serious nature that has occurred on the new pike happened last Friday. A team belonging to Mr. James Lott ran off and threw the driver out onto a pile of stone, bruising his head and breast considerably.

There is considerable improvement going on in town just at present. Mr. Frank Cassin is erecting a large store room on Pike street, near the blacksmith shop. You can now hear the buzz of the saw mill which is located just over the Rhine.

Mr. Thomas Barnett has bid farewell to dear friends in Boone and checked his baggage for Carroll County, Missouri, where he expects to make his future home.

Hebron.

Benjamin Stephens had a new suit of clothes, watch and chain and revolver stolen from him while at St. Louis. Through the aid of a detective the articles were recovered and the thief arrested.

Bud Bradford and Cleve Hankins were highly delighted with their trip to St. Louis. The Hebron hay haulers got into a difficulty in the city on Friday, but nothing serious happened, except one of the Ohio boys got a tramping put over his lip.

Several of the boys went out on hunting Sunday night, but caught a coon weighing 25 pounds and two other species. You can imagine your correspondent got his work in on the latter.

The reception at Wm. Souther's on the night of the 16th was a grand affair. The Hebron Brass Band furnished the music for the occasion.

Butler Carpenter and Buddie Conrad passed through the burg, Friday night, hunting for a stolen horse, taken from Mr. Carpenter.

The prospect for several weddings around Hebron bids "favorable" for this winter.

We understand that Jap Stotwell, who died the other day, left a will.

Health of the neighborhood good at the present writing.

Boone Center.

From actual calculation, it has been ascertained that the county of Boone has a center, and that it is not far from the point formerly called Edinburg, but of a more recent date Pleasant Hill. In the attempt to get down a few items from this place, it might be well in the first place, as custom requires, to give a brief description of the surrounding country, its much-scattered population (if viewed as a village), the unbounding hospitality of the people generally, as well as all other information that may come within the scope of a near-by neighbor. The order that he may not be accused of egotism, the writer will state that he is not a resident, and, so far, is unable to say that he ever will be. Take care, dear reader, that you are not beguiled into false conclusions by the foregoing statement. Remember that certain ancient philosophers spoke and wrote only by using "added to the person of a man." But to our task. "At and near this place are quarries, marble, millers, painters, grainers and grangers, the latter not so numerous as they were once, though still a strong body for the times."

Your readers will very probably remember the advertisement of a grand entertainment, to be given in the Grange Hall last spring. Well, there was such an entertainment, and a grand one it was; and with the Pleasant Hill writer as a witness, impressions were made that defy all time to erase. Let us have another such.

Not far from this point are very noted natural attractions, a description of which is reserved for a future article.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

BOONE CIRCUIT COURT, KENTUCKY.

C. Quirk, plff., vs. Notice of sale

Rich'd T. German, &c., defts. in equity.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the September Term, thereof, 1878, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on MONDAY, the 4th day of November, 1878, at 1 o'clock P. M., or thereabout (being County Court day), proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of twelve months, at the Court-house door in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to-wit:

Four lots lying in the town of Florence, Boone County, Ky., described thus: First Lot—Beginning on Shelby street, at the corner of lot No. 10, thence with a line of said lot 124 feet to an alley; thence with the alley 40 feet to lot No. 8; thence 120 feet to Shelby street; thence with Shelby street 40 feet to the beginning. Second Lot—Lot No. 8 in John Stephens addition to said town, beginning at the corner of the above lot on Shelby street, then along it 50 feet to the center of Meacham's lot; then back 124 feet to an alley; thence with the alley 50 feet to the corner of said lot; then with a line of it to the beginning. Third Lot—Fronting on Shelby street, adjoining the first described lot, bounded by alley east and north. Fourth Lot—Beginning at a corner of a lot conveyed by John Stephens to Jackson W. Stephens and others, on the old Burlington road, 40 feet easterly of said lot, owned by Joshua Seuther, thence easterly with said road and boundary 60 feet more or less to an alley; thence with said alley south to another alley; thence with the last named alley west 50 feet more or less to the line of the lot conveyed by said John Stephens to Jackson W. Stephens and others; then with said line of said lot to the beginning.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made.

The purchaser will be required to give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

We may as well state in this connection that Lalle attended four or five fairs this fall and took over six hundred dollars in premiums.

The Congressional Convention.

Quite a number of the Unaffiliated assembled in Williamstown, Grant County, on the 16th for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Congress. The wind blew a stiff breeze all day, sending great volumes of dust through the streets, into the eyes and down the throats of the politicians, necessitating the often indulgence in eye-openers and throat cleansers. But, fortunately, the drug stores of that city command the entire supply of eye-drops, and the "critters" were disinfected sufficiently to allow the boys to command a perpendicular throughout the day. There was a multitude of candidates for State officers there that day, whose hearts would have been exceeding glad had the convention seen proper to give them a boost in the way of a recommendation; but no endorsement was given any of them, it being apparent that such a move would create discord in the meeting.

The convention assembled in the Court-house about 11 a. m., and was called to order by A. G. DeJarnette, of Grant County, who was chosen temporary Chairman. Henry Hallam, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, was chosen temporary Secretary, and Geo. M. Ditto, of the Newport Local, H. DeGruyter, of the Cincinnati Volksfreund, C. B. Bradley, of the Grant County Herald, and W. L. Riddell, of the Boone County Recorder, Assistants.

The Secretary calling the counties, they all answered except Gallatin; Trimble and Carroll being represented by proxy.

Hon. M. Hamilton, of Keokuk, moved for a Committee on Permanent Organization.

Mr. J. T. Simon, of Pendleton, moved that each delegation select its own Chairman.

Colonel L. C. Norman, of Boone, moved the same order for each of the other necessary committees. Amendments both accepted and motion adopted. A roll was taken, and three committees appointed as follows:

On Credentials—Reuben Connor, of Boone; J. O. Schroll, of Campbell; W. H. Dougherty, of Grant; W. G. Van Dusen, of Harrison; J. C. Bryant, of Harrison; J. W. E. Arthur, of Benton; and J. W. Chowning, of Pendleton.

On Organization—L. C. Norman, of Boone; R. H. Morin, of Campbell; O. P. Hogan, of Grant; C. B. Burgess, of Harrison; R. S. Simmons, of Keokuk; and T. B. Hall, of Pendleton.

On Resolutions—L. C. Norman, of Boone; A. S. Berry, of Campbell; J. M. Collins, of Grant; Lucius Deane, Jr., of Harrison; W. E. Arthur, of Benton; and Charles Duncan, of Pendleton.

The convention then took a recess until 1 p. m.

Upon reassembling the committee reported, and their reports were adopted without a dissenting voice. The convention was permanently organized as follows:

Chairman, L. C. Norman; Secretary, H. C. Applegate, of Pendleton; Assistant Secretaries—H. C. Hallam, W. L. Riddell, C. B. Bradley, G. R. Pomeroy, George M. Ditto, L. Deane, Jr., and H. DeGruyter.

The Committee on Resolutions was directed to report, and did so through Judge W. E. Arthur. [The resolutions appear on our fourth page.]

The Chair announced that the next thing in order was nominations for Congressmen. Judge Hogan moved to proceed. Adopted.

Judge Foley said he was instructed by his delegation to present the name of Hon. John G. Carlisle. [Applause.]

John G. Carlisle, speaking for Grant County, seconded the nomination.

Council Dudley moved to make it unanimous.

Judge Makibben, for Campbell County, seconded the motion.

No other names being presented, the Chair put the motion, and it was unanimously adopted.

Mr. H. T. Wilson moved that a committee of three be appointed to notify Mr. Carlisle, Adopted, and Judge Arthur, Judge Hogan and Colonel Berry appointed. Those retired and returned with Mr. Carlisle, Judge Arthur presenting him to the Chair, who introduced him to the convention.

Mr. Carlisle was loudly applauded, and made a brief and pointed speech. He said that to be the unanimous choice of this convention was surely an honor, and that he deserved more than mere verbal thanks. The only adequate return would be a faithful, honest discharge of his duty as a Representative, and to the extent of his ability and opportunities, he would be one worthy of a Kentucky constituency. He heartily endorsed every word, line and sentiment of the resolutions just adopted. They met his conscience unreservedly and cordially. He then referred to excessive public expenditures and the financial question. The speech was well received and often cheered.

After Mr. Carlisle's speech, the convention adjourned, and Hon. Thos. L. James and Judge W. E. Arthur each made brief speeches.

County Court.

OCTOBER 17.—M. S. Rice, Lewis Connor and Joe Riddell appointed Commissioners to divide Sam'l Weldon's land.

W. M. Smith resigned as guardian of Elizabeth P. Tanner, and John L. Rouse accepted in his stead.

L. C. Yager qualified as School Commissioner, with H. T. Snyder on bond.

Mrs. Harriet Walton resigned as guardian of Susie M. and Fannie M. Walton. J. H. Walton accepted in her stead.

L. H. Dills, Commissioner to make deeds in the Geo. H. Walton land division, and also in the Sam'l Moore land division, filed and acknowledged deeds.

The Boone County Recorder, published at Burlington, this week begins its fourth volume, an excellent paper of values.

The industries editor thrice took up the news to his readers during the evening country. We wish him success and a long life for both his paper and himself.—Saturday Evening Press.

Kind words like the above are both cheering and encouraging. Thanks, Brother Pomeroy.

In another column will be seen the card of Miss Fannie Rice, who desires organizing a class in music. Miss Fannie has considerable reputation as both an organist and a pianist, and has ever cheerfully responded when called upon to perform on either of these instruments for the benefit of congregations or their assemblies, which should be a consideration to induce the public to be attracted by giving her a liberal patronage.

Pass It Around.

The Anderson News has had a treat.

A five-gallon keg of elder sweet.

The Woodford Sun, a few days later, Received a five-pound sweet potato.

The Lexington Transcript hastens to say It has just received a pretty bouquet.

The Paris Citizen, being out of means, Was kindly treated to a mess of beans.

The Shelby Sentinel is truly in luck; It received a present of a big woodchuck.

The Boone Recorder in poetry dapples, To say it's received a bushel of apples.

The Terrellsboro Dancing Club is making preparations to give a select party.

The eighth of November is the time, and the Morgan Academy Hall the place. A gay time is what the boys are determined to have if there is no providential interference.

We understand that arrangements have been made for Rev. W. H. Felix, of Covington, to conduct a protracted meeting at the Baptist church in this place, some time this fall and it now only remains for Mr. F. to appoint the time for commencing.

Married.

POWELL—RICH—At the residence of the bride's father in Keokuk County, at 2 p. m., on the 23d inst., Mr. E. Powell, of Thornton, Ind., and Miss Rosa Rich.

COLEMAN—MILLER—At the residence of Mrs. Eliza Miller, Clay Center, Kansas, by Rev. W. S. Davis, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Clay Center, Mr. C. C. Coleman, formerly of Burlington, Kentucky, and Miss Willie Miller, formerly of Gallatin, Illinois.

CLAUDE WALTON, son of Wm. Walton, is a "chip off the old block," and believes in making his fellow-man feel good as often as he can, and accordingly brought us, Tuesday, a large basket full of "slashing" apples as we call them. Claude, we mean to tell every single lady we meet in this brand, and that you are the boy to "set caps" for.

One James Bryson, who, at the last term of Criminal Court, was indicted several times for running a "vice" whisky establishment in the Plattsburgh neighborhood, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff E. E. Potter one day last week, and lodged in jail where he remained till Monday, when taken out, tried, fined $120, and recommended to jail in default of payment of the fine and costs.

The following conveyances have been recorded in the County Clerk's office since our last issue:

L. R. McKenzie to Chas. Utz (col'd), land in Harrison, 37½ acres, 6 acres 1 road and 24 poles near Builetsville, $800.

Jas. Loder to Ed. Rouse, two lots in Taylor, $100.

Elizabeth Rouse, &c., to J. H. Henderson, house and lot in Hebron, $500.

Joel Deer to his wife, J. here on Gunpowder, $1.

R. W. Kirtley to J. C. Terrill, house and lot in Hebron, $1,000.

Personal Mention.

Judge O. F. ROBERTS, of Aurora, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. F. THOMAS is attending the Grand Lodge of Masons in Louisville this week.

MISS NELLIE YAGER, one of Covington's fairest, is visiting Mr. John Tucker and lady, of Galineville.

The smiling countenance of Esquire A. B. Whitlock, of Constance, illuminated our street corners Tuesday.

Col. D. HOWARD SMITH, present Auditor of Public Accounts, and candidate for re-election, was in town Saturday.

JAMES COVEX and family, of Gallatin County, were here visiting his father, Mr. Samuel Cowen, for the past week.

Last Monday, Mr. John O. Campbell and family moved from Liberty station, Carroll County. They will make this their future home.

One evening last week, we met a gentleman from a rural district. He had them, and all the rest of his family had them. The whole force had been chilling seven days out of the week for the two months last past, and he was confident they had consumed a small measure of quinine in the mean time.

He said he had just purchased a gross of quinine pills to taper off on, and if they didn't effect a cure he should make an unconditional surrender. We suggested to him, that in the event the cargo of pills he had just laid in did not produce the desired result, he try having two chills a day, a system adopted by several who desire getting through with them by spring. A chilling smile crept over his countenance, and we left, but expect to hear of his doubting on them before the holidays.

Damaged China.

Charles Utz, a free American of semi-African descent, assembled his colored friends of Burlington and vicinity, at his house on last Saturday night, to engage, for a reasonable time, in the amusements of the dance.

At his bidding they came, and continued to come until Charles' hospitable mansion was full to overflowing. The dance progressed without a jar, as far as our informant knows, until 1 a. m., but with the adjournment of the dance came the time for casting up accounts, and settling old scores as is now the custom on such occasions. And Mary, the wife of Charles, an ebony colored man, felt aggrieved at her neighbor, Katie, called China, because Mary had heard that her lord and master, Charles, had looked at Katie, and felt inclined to see her home. Mary, having no ear for such foolishness on the part of Charles, thought it best to break business and scratch China, and thereby destroy her comeliness. So Mary, in her wrath, assailed China with more forcible than polite or grammatical, punctuating her remarks with heavy blows upon China's cranium. China's screams brought to her rescue Mr. London, a great gallant and a man of great sprightliness of mind, and with the assistance of his friends, by some supposed to be a dancing master, educated in the Old Dominion where all the Presidents, nearly, are produced, succeeded in calming the rage of the late Mary, and assuring the bruised and bleeding China that she was not to be justly there assigned. The last act of the drama was performed in the Court-house, Sunday afternoon. Esquire Kendall conveyed a special term of his court, for the satisfaction of the malest of the sex.—The Commonwealth appeared by attorney, and the parties defendant, in person. The parties all being ready, the testimony was heard, and the cause submitted to the Court who adjudged that the Commonwealth recover from the defendant, Mary, $2, and costs—and now Mary, go and sin no more—Charles, love Mary—Utz, observe the Sabbath day, and preserve order in your house, lest the Judges deal with you even more severe than with Mary.

A Card.

To Patrons and Farmers of Boone: I take this method of informing you that I have made arrangements by which I am able to give $500 rates on all stock shipped from Boone, wood east, to the city, and I think this gives you a saving of $1.25, and I think this better than driving through the city. I want to say to my river friends, if they ship any stock to me from this on, they had better notify me of the fact a few days previous, as the boats are unloaded about the time the train on the Southern Road arrives, and I can not attend both, but will have someone at the river to receive all stock, if desired, beforehand. I also want to say to the farmers, that I think I have made arrangements by which they will be enabled to realize more money for their next spring's lambs than ever before, by selling them to an eastern buyer, and to be weighed on my scales or Casey's. Brother farmers, to effect this, all I think necessary is for you all to stand by me and not contract your lambs unless you get a stiff price. I would be glad to see you, and talk with you all about the matter, and I think you will agree with me.

For some time one Van Houghton, who claims to be a citizen of Patriot, Ind., has been coasting the western border of this county with a "marine" bar room, in violation of the law regulating the sale of whiskey and other intoxicating liquors. The first appearance of his "marine" bar room was in the Ohio at Hamilton, where, during a portion of the career of local opinion, he quietly eluded the notice of the law, being molested only by an indictment that was found against him by the grand jury of the county. This he considered a small matter, and persisted in the whiskey traffic. When his trial came on, he was fined under the indictment and a capias issued. In the meantime, he had succeeded the rig with his craft as far as Laughter Island, where he again cast anchor and opened out the bar-room, and at which place Deputy Sheriff E. E. Foster found him last Thursday, arrested him and levied upon his boat, which was brought to Bellevue and tied up. At Bellevue, Van Houghton was that day tried before one of the Justices for selling whiskey without license, found guilty and fined. He could neither pay nor replevy the fine, and therefore was sent to jail, where he remained but a day or two, when he received money with which to pay the fine imposed by the Justice of the Peace at Bellevue. He was accordingly released from jail, but had not gotten beyond the town limits before the Deputy Sheriff "got wind" of his release and at once started in pursuit, overtook and rearrested him on the capias from the Criminal Court and put him in jail again. No doubt Van Houghton thinks this occasionally overtakes a fellow in Boone County.

Later—Since the above was put in type Van Houghton has paid fine No. 2, and is at large again. Before he paid it, he ascertained that there were no more against him. The first one he paid was $52.50, the second $75.00, making a total of $127.50. He is the kind of game the officers like to capture.

GOODY'S LADY'S BOOK for 1879 (its 49th year) will continue to maintain its high reputation for excellence, while the subscription price has been reduced from $3 to $2, with the following terms to clubs: One copy, one year, $2; two copies, one year, $3.80; three copies, one year, $5.40; four copies, one year, $6.80; five copies, one year, and an extra copy to the person getting up the club, making six copies, $9.60; eight copies, one year, and an extra copy to the person getting up the club, making nine copies, $14.25; ten copies, one year, and an extra copy to the person getting up the club, making eleven copies, $17.20; twenty copies, one year, and an extra copy to the person getting up the club, making twenty-one copies, $31.50. Specimen copies sent free to parties desiring to get up clubs, on application to Lady's Book Publishing Co. (Limited), 1008 Chestnut st., Philadelphia, Pa.

"It is not well that man be alone." So thought Mr. Younger Johnson, a gentleman who resides in the neighborhood of Plattburg and is considerably beyond the zenith of life, having never had a helpmeet in his earthly pilgrimage. It was down in Trimble County he became infatuated with a Miss Scruven, whom he married and brought to his Boone County home on the breezy heights of Woolper. The unexpected event aroused the youth of the surrounding country, and last Friday night they gave him a rousing chase, in token of their esteem and respect for him and his bride. Mr. J. descended the steep declivity of life to a tolerably low point before taking unto himself a better half to cheer his weary steps to the end of life's journey. With them all the happiness this life affords.

WM. STEWART, a German, came to grief last week in Walton, and was labeled and shipped to jail by one of the Justices of the Peace of that magisterial district. William is an unsophisticated lad, and was running the "crooked" whiskey ranch of the notorious Eliza Gorman, who for several years has semi-annually figured so extensively in the Criminal Court of this county, when arrested on the charge of keeping a tippling-house. The trial at Walton was but an examining trial, at which the Court held the defendant over and sent him to jail. The Quarterly Court will probably investigate the case, with a view to its final disposition. The Gorman, whiskey shop in Walton is a cancer in that community, and its continuation in a land of courts and officers is unaccountable.

He had been hard at work and sorely tried trying to adjust the perior stovepipe, when at last he could control his feelings no longer and gave utterance to some very emphatic technical phrases peculiar to some brittle tempered men, and at once declared the premises quarantined against the visits of any young man infected with matrimony. The stove was not rigged up, and the probabilities are the quarantined regulations will not be modified before the frogs tune their voices for the springtime anthems.

The Almost colt show at Petersburg, last Saturday afternoon, was witnessed by quite a number of the admirers of fine horses. Some nine or ten handsome Almost colts were exhibited, and premiums awarded as follows: J. D. Norris, first premium, $25; Jacob Klapp, second premium, $15; Mr. Terrell, whose given name our informant did not know, third premium, $10. J. A. Kendall, of Burlington, M. G. Giddens, of Aurora, and John Stephens, of Bellefonte, were the Judges.

NEXT Tuesday is the day for electing Congressmen in this State. There is, so far as we know, but one party candidate in this district, and we should be glad to see his vote largely increased over that cast for him two years since. Mr. Carlisle has made an efficient representative, and his constituents can show their appreciation of him in no better way than by giving him a rousing vote.

The old bachelors of this vicinity have appointed a committee to make necessary arrangements and procure the services of an orator for a jollification meeting they anticipate in the near future.

One day last week, Dr. Hanna, of Verona, was chopping a tree which in its fall caught and injured him so that he lived but a few days.

Last Saturday, Wm. Moody, of the Bellevue neighborhood, was arraigned in Squire T. J. Ash's court, in Bellevue, on the charge of taking a gate from across a public road, contrary to law. Mr. Moody was fined $5 and costs. R. C. Green for Commonwealth, and Geo. G. Hughes for defense.

The Powell-Rich Nuptials.

To the Editor of the Recorder:
On last Wednesday, October 23d, Miss Rosa Rich was married at the residence of her father, in Kenton County, to Dr. H. C. Powell, of Thornorton, Ind. The ceremony took place at 2 p. m., and was performed by the Rev. Dr. Varden, and in the presence of the immediate relatives and most intimate friends of the bride. The bride, in a dress of black silk and velvet, with ornaments of natural flowers, looked lovely, while the groom, in the conventional broadcloth, looked all that a groom should. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Scott, Mr. Geo. Kreylich and Miss Dora Rich. The bridal presents, which were numerous, amply testified to the regard in which the ceremony was held by the friends. After the ceremony, a discussion of the winds and an hour or two spent in social converse, the bride and groom, accompanied by the attendants and other friends as far as the depot, departed, amid a shower of good wishes and blessings for their home in Thornorton. No young lady in the community has more friends than Miss Rosa, and all of these heartily unite in most earnest hopes and wishes for her prosperity and happiness in her future home.

Udon.

This place at present is quite dull, and there is nothing much in the way of news calculated to interest the public; yet, as we have a few moments leisure, we may as well be a head from, and in the future, when times are better, we may hope to claim more prominent place as a "nervé center."

Gossip is plentiful, and abounds in rich, spicy "neighborhood news," such as approaching weddings, &c., but as the latter always prove so very unreliable, we will wait for the consummation of expected events before reporting.

On last Saturday night, while Mr. R. T. Clements, our popular groceryman, was reposing sweetly in the arms of Morpheus, some thoughtful and considerate customer, who disliked to break his rest, obtained entrance through a window to his grocery and took therefrom something near a hundred dollars' worth of groceries, as near as can be estimated, and forgot to leave his name. As such proceedings are very uncommon, the community in general, as well as Mr. Clements, is very indignant at the matter, and is prepared to supply uncomfortable quarters for the individual who may next try such an experiment.

The cellar and ice-house combined now being erected out of stone, and almost entirely on top of the ground, by the firm of Conner & Vix, is fast reaching completion. The enterprising firm proposes handling the ice in such a manner that a comparatively small space will be made to supply the whole community. At one of the sides, which is sometimes so difficult to obtain, it can always be had at reasonable terms.

Our town, in the last four years, has been improving very considerably, and quite recently a number of dwellings have been erected. So, if news continues scarce, we may follow your suggestion in an article published some four weeks since, and write up the town and its inhabitants when we would speak of some of the inhabitants, the rare specimens of human nature, some fine characters now remote would startle the public with their peculiar acquirements.

The recent frosts have very much improved the state of health. The Democrats are highly pleased with the platform adopted by the National Convention as well as with its selection of a candidate for Congress, and now we are expecting better times.

We are all for Hewitt for Auditor.

From Hon. H. A. M. Henderson, LL.D., State Sup't Public Instruction, Ky.
[Annual Report for 1878, page 25.]

WASHER'S DICTIONARY.—I desire to call the attention of School Teachers and teachers to the fact that the State Board of Education has adopted Webster's Unabridged Dictionary as the standard authority for the Public Schools of Kentucky. The new edition of this wonderful work is well-nigh perfect as a lexicon. It excels in defining scientific terms, its etymology is without a rival, and it is a grand compendium of knowledge. The Board regards that either the Unabridged or Academic Dictionary is an almost indispensable adjunct to every school room, and second only in importance to the blackboard. The Trustees of each district should try and secure one for the use of the Common School, as by its employment a great deal of useful instruction may be secured without the expenditure of an appeal in a lawsuit when a question in etymology, orthography or orthoepie is mooted. It may be furnished as a part of the necessary furniture of the school room, when a tax has been voted for furnishing purposes. The Board also introduced in the course of study Webster's Primary School Dictionary, and it is earnestly recommended that a copy be formed in the library of the State. The Unabridged Dictionary is published by G. & C. Merriam, Springfield, Mass., and the Primary and Academic editions by H. Appleton, New York, and G. & C. Merriam, Springfield, Mass.

A Card.
To Parents and Friends of Boons: I take this method of informing you that I have made arrangements by which I am able to get to the State Fair at Lexington, Ky., on Greenwood Lake, and consigned to me, provided you will drive from the terminus of the road to the pass yourself. The shipper also gets a free ride to the city and back. I think this better for you, as the drivers generally abuse the stock very much. If you need more help, I will be there to assist you in getting to the fair, which will cost only 25 cents. The present rates are $7.75, so this gives you a saving of $1.25, and I think this better than driving through the city. I want to say to my river friends, if they ship any stock to me from this on, they had better notify me of the fact a few days previous, as the boats are unloaded about the time the train on the Southern Road arrives, and I can not attend both, but will have someone at the river to receive all stock, if desired, beforehand. I want to say to the farmers, that I think I have made arrangements by which they will be enabled to realize more money for their next spring's lambs than ever before, by selling them to an eastern buyer, and to be weighed on my scales or Geary's. Brother farmers, to effect this, all I think necessary is for you all to send by me and not contract your lambs, unless you get a stiff price. Would be glad to see you, and talk with you all about the matter, and I think you will agree with me.

Officially Adopted by the State Board of Education of Kentucky.

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARIES have been officially adopted by the State Board of Education of Kentucky for use in

All the Public Schools of the State.

As will be seen by notices in another column. The publishers have agreed to supply the Schools of Kentucky with Dictionaries at the following prices:

Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, $3.00
"Academic" "1.00
"Collegiate" "1.00

These books can usually be obtained from the local booksellers, but if preferred, on receipt of price and certificate from the proper school officer that the books are for introduction, the Publishers will fill orders at the above prices, transportation charges prepaid.

For Webster's Unabridged, address G. & C. Merriam, Springfield, Mass., and for Webster's Academic and Collegiate, address HENRY B. MERRILL, NEW YORK.

GET THE BEST.

For Schools—recommended by State Sup't of $5 States, and by 50 College Prof's. About $5,000 have been placed in Public Schools by 10 or 15 school officers. Contains 3,000 illustrations, nearly three times as many as any other Dictionary. Three pictures of a ship, page 1751, illustrate the meaning of more than 100 words. Sale of Webster's is 20 times as great as that of any other series of Dictionaries.

current resolution giving a gold medal to each of the survivors, of whom only four were then living, namely: John Tucker, James Artis, William Thornton Toliver and JOHN NORRIS, of whom the latter has been for several years and so carefully guarded, was brought out by Mrs. Norris and shown to the writer. It is of pure gold, nearly two inches in diameter, and about one-eighth of an inch in thickness on the edges, which are smooth, and inclosed in a neat casket. On one side is the legend:

"WE HAVE MET THE ENEMY AND THEY ARE OURS!"
In the center two hostile ships in

In the center two hostile ships in action, and under these the words: "Lake Erie, Sept. 10th, 1813." On the obverse side are the words "To John Norris, by Resolution of the Ky. Legislature, Feb. 11th, 1860." Unfortunately, the letter of presentation accompanying the medal has been mislaid or lost. It depicted in such eloquent words the heroic part performed by Mr. Norris in the "great victory," and his high estimation in which he is held by his grateful fellow citizens, that he prided it above price. If it should yet be found, a copy shall be furnished the Recorder for publication.

Mrs. Norris also exhibited to the writer another relic of historic interest of which the old veteran seems very prod. It is a piece of wood much discolored by water, sawed from the stern of the Lawrence, and forwarded to Mr. Norris by the officers of the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia in 1876. It has the numerous letters and other documents from distinguished men and authors, artists, antiquarians, &c., all going to show the high estimation in which he is held personally and the great interest he felt in the important events in which he bore a honorable a part.

The foregoing narrative, although longer than may meet the approbation of the readers of the RECORDER, contains the substance of but a small portion of the interesting incidents narrated by Mr. Norris during the long interview. The kind hospitality of the aged couple was cheerfully extended to the writer, and he took his leave somewhat saddened by the reflection that in but a few years at most this heroic old veteran will have passed away to join his comrades on the "other shore," and with them will be able to say, in reference to the ills and hardships of life, "we have met the enemy and they are ours." W. H. NELSON.

SAM GAINES, of the Hopkinsville New Era, is untrue to himself in making incomplimentary allusions to Hon. T. L. Jones. Because Colonel Jones said he would not seek the office of Governor without a respectable number of the people of the State signified their willingness for him to become a candidate, the New Era continued to burlesque Col. Jones for seeking the office after there was a decided expression calling him out. Col. Jones is a South Carolina gentleman who has long lived in Kentucky, and his democracy, patriotism and personal honor are unquestioned. He would perform the duties of Governor as well as a man, and he and his interesting family would be unexcelled as entertainers. Paris True Kentuckian.

After using up every square pound of oak and cork, and completely wearing out blackboard or two, we have estimated that if all the breath expended during the last century in political discussions could be brought together, it would be sufficient to fill a vessel of this strength was in proportion to its volume, form a hurricane powerful enough to blow Buena Vista into oblivion; but if its strength was only commensurate to the benefits resulting from it when first expended, it would cause the slightest tremor in the structure of an old ship suspended on a cloth line in full range of the blast. —*Franklin (Ky.) were several who wanted the property, and who would bid liberal bidders. When the hour for the sale arrived, nearly everybody sale. The sale commenced and there were four bidders, J. F. Blythe, John O. Cam-

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.
BURLINGTON, KY., NOVEMBER 7.

THE GOOD OLD FARM.

"There's got to be a revival
Of good sense among men,
Before the days of prosperity
Will dawn upon this age again.
The boys must learn that learning
Means more than the essence of books,
An' the girls must learn that beauty Consists in more'n their looks."
"Before we can steer clear of failures
An' big financial disasters,
The boys have got to quit clerkin'
An' get back on the farms."
I know it's a
It ain't quite so easy, I know,
But just yer hair in the middle
An' settin' up for a show."
"But there's more land dollars in it,
An' more independence, too,
An' more real peace and contentment,
An' health that is ready to come,
I know it takes years or labor,
But you've got to hang on in a store
Before you can earn a good livin'
An' clothes, with but little more."
"An' you steer well clear of temptation
On the good old honest farm,
An' a thousand ways 'n' fashions
That only bring ye to harm.
There ain't but a few that can handle
With safety other men's purses,
An' the failure of many a young try Proves human nature is rash."
"So when the road to State Prison Lays by the good old farm,
An' the man sees a tolling brother
Well out of the way of harm,
He mourns 'till he can't stand there,
An' tells the soul in peace,
Where he'll yet creep back in dishonor
After a tardy release."
"What hosts of 'em go back, broken
In health, in mind an' purse,
To die in sight on the clover,
Or linger along, when it's worse!
An' how many mourn, when useless,
That they didn't see the charm,
The safety and independence
Of a life on the good old farm."
"So preach it up to 'em, parson,
Just lay it out plain and square,
That land flows with milk an' honey,
That health an' peace are there,
An' call back the clerks an' runners,
An' show 'em the powerful charm
That waits to cheer and bless them
On father's dear old farm."

Evenings at Home.

The long evenings which follow the short days are made, in some families, the happiest of all happy times. The cares of the day are ended; the mother's rest time has come; the father has dropped all sorts of business worries and perplexities; and the whole family throw themselves with zest into the innocent pleasure of the home circle.

Solomon tells us that there is a time for all things; a time to weep, a time to dance, and to play. Surely the time to laugh, play and dance comes most appropriately in the long, pleasant evening hours.

It is well for the woman of the house to remember that the pleasant evenings at home are strong antidotes to the practice of looking abroad, and seeking for pleasure and forbidden places; for relaxation and recreation will be indulged in homelike by most men, and happy are those who find in the home circle the diversions they need.

A lively game, an interesting book, a read-aloud, or in musical families, a new song to be practiced, will furnish pastime that will make an evening pass pleasantly. A little pulling of wires that need not appear will make the whole thing appear easy, and different ways and means may be provided for making the hours pass pleasantly, and a time to be looked forward to with pleasant anticipations.

We visited once in a large family where it was the duty of each sister in turn to provide the evening occupation; and there was a pleasant rivalry between them as to whose evening entertainment was the most enjoyable. The sisters entered freely the spirit of the home entertainments, and were as loath to spend an evening away from home as their sisters and parents were sorry to have them absent. Every one spoke of his family as an uncommonly united one, for every member showed such strong attachment for the home to which each contributed so much pleasure.

The Kn-Knit Case.

The case of Smith Reed against Milton Asher and others, of Henry County, for $10,000 damages, which was commenced in the United States Circuit Court last Friday, was concluded by the jury returning a verdict for the plaintiff for $3,125. It was shown that on the fourth day of August, 1877, the plaintiff, with members of his family, who had lived near Campbellburg, were taken to the depot at that place by armed men and compelled to leave the State. The defense was to the effect that the plaintiff had been guilty of such conduct that the defendants run him and his friends out of the State to save them from being mobbed.

The case after being fully argued on both sides was given to jury which returned a verdict for the amount above indicated, and was assessed against the defendants as follows: Milton Asher, John Beck and John Thompson, $500 each; John Stout, $200; Samuel Russell, James Jeffries, Louis Bryant, John Miles, J. Stanton, Wm. P. B. Coombe, $150 each; Chilton Thomas and Thomas Coombs, one cent each; James Sandiford was acquitted.

A verdict was given in order to the effect that two seats in the coach be set aside for the plaintiff and his family. The clerk engaged him two seats outside and one seat inside.

Anger grows and passions grow fiercer and fiercer.

Somewhat True.

Crime will increase in Kentucky while the higher court continues to set aside the verdicts of intelligent juries in several districts, and in several counties in this district. Men convicted of murder have had from two to four trials, and are not yet through. In Judge McManama's court, in same county, Terrell has been tried four times, and will still have another trial; in District Court, in Mercer, Megee is awaiting a second trial. All these prisoners were in danger of the mob so atrocious did their crimes appear when committed, and yet they are kept in the jails. The State is a disgrace, tried by jurors of their peers time after time, until public sentiment has changed by an apathy which delays, and sympathy for the guilty, and it is almost impossible to convict them. Witnesses die or are removed; records are lost and other impediments are thrown in the way of overtaxed attorneys for the Commonwealth, and they break down in the prosecution, and the judgment of the juries is of no avail.

The courts are giving license to crime. We do not pretend to strike a blow at the great high court, which all men should honor; but we will be permitted to say, with the common people generally, that there is something wrong in criminal prosecutions which demands attention. Whether juries bear the blame, or Judges, and lawyers of the lower courts, or Appellate Judges, the fact that criminals are not punished, stares the people of Kentucky in the face. The Penitentiary is full of criminals who have robbed or wounded their fellow men, but the blood stained hands of murderers have not been tried in death, nor put to toil in the State Prison.—Lexington Transcript.

Our Boys.

Did you ever notice how long it takes a boy's hair to get dry when he has run away and gone in swimming? It is painful to be a boy, with a mother constantly in fear that you will be brought home from the river on a board. The boy is commended not to go in swimming, and he swears he won't, but he lies like a little trooper. He thinks he will go in and not get his hair wet and no one will know it, but just as he gets ready to come out of the water a big boy ducks him, then he swears, and when he crawls in at the back window at ten o'clock at night, his mother, with a press-board hid in the folds of her dress, is the first obstacle he encounters. Does she believe him when he tells her he has been practicing with the "first nine" of a Sunday-school class? No. She feels of his hair, and it is wet. Smells of it, and finds it musty, and finds his shirt on wrong side out. Then she spits upon her hands, and with the press-board so works upon his tender sensibilities that he goes to bed with a head on his aching heart, wishing he was a half-orphan, and he dreams he is a stern-wheel boat running backward and has collided with a large load of benzine on fire. The way for a boy to get along is to have his hair shingled.—Troy Budget.

An Amusing and Useful Invention.

The French Exposition a curious and amusing invention in the form of a garden sprinkler. It stands on a tripod, and the discharge-pipe has several spiral twists. The water issues from it in a spray, and its force as projected through the crooked nozzle causes the entire apparatus to walk ahead on its three legs, dragging the hose after it. It resembles some strange deceptions, and the sum total of the amusement gained thereby is as much as would result from a "screaming farce." Indeed, its operation provokes smiles from the soberest faces, and in so much dumb distress that it can't get along faster.

Capillary.

A masked burglar entered a room where a man and his wife lay asleep. They both awoke, when he pointed a pistol at their heads and quietly backed out of the room, and got off with his plunder. The startled slumbers were terribly frightened, "the man's hair turning white before morning." The woman was as much scared as the husband, but upon examining her hair which hung over the back of the chair, it was found not to have changed a particle. Something strange about this.—Norristown Herald.

At a recent meeting of the French Association for the Advancement of Science, Prof. Haeckel declared that "if man does not descend from any of the anthropoids, he has none the less a common ancestor with them; he is only a little branch of the Catarrhian monkeys of the ancient world." He wished it to be understood that no serious naturalist believes in the direct descent of man from any of the anthropoids now in existence—a doctrine which, he said, "has no currency except among worldlings and lead theologians."

The Newspaper Law.
1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue the subscription.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have sent their express notice of discontinuance.
4. If subscribers neglect to place their papers with the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.
5. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.
6. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscribers will be responsible until express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

THE DOLLARS OF OUR DAD.
Ah! how we made them fly, Tom,
With every chance we had;
When you and I were jolly boys,
The dollars of our dad,
The dollars of our dad.
Good-Allah and full weight, Tom,
Not one of 'em was bad;
And oh! what bliss they used to bring,
The dollars of our dad.
And whether few or many, Tom,
They always made us glad;
But with those days are gone, Tom,
The dollars of our dad.
And now in needy garb, Tom,
Boys and girls we've had;
And wishing we could scrap again
The dollars of our dad.
But all in vain the wish, Tom,
Since we are old and sad,
With hungry mouths that clamor for
The dollars of our dad.
But we shall ne'er forget, Tom,
The jolly days we've had;
When you and I so gaily spent
The dollars of our dad.
S. S. SCOTT.

Biographical Sketch of Boone's First Candidate for a State Office.
At the instance of a kind friend in a neighboring county, we insert the following brief sketch of the life and character of S. S. Scott, candidate for Register of the Land Office:
Samuel S. Scott, M. D., physician, surgeon and politician, was born December 12, 1820, near the village of Poplar Grove, Owen County, Ky., and was taken by his parents to Gallatin (now Carroll) County, near Ghent. His father, Robert M. Scott, resided during much of his life in Carroll County, and followed the business of manufacturing flour and lumber, and was a man of fine natural ability and of wide influence. Carroll County continued to be his home, except for short intervals, until he was nearly twenty-five years of age. His grandfather Scott was a native of the north of Ireland, and emigrated from Belfast about 1790, settling at Lexington, where he taught school for some time. He served as a Lieutenant in Wayne's campaign against the Indians in the Northwest. His grandfather Garvey enlisted in the army and served through the Revolutionary war, being present at the surrender of Yorktown. Dr. Scott was kept in the best schools of the country until his sixteenth year, when, through the friendship of George N. Sanders, he secured a scholarship at West Point; but about that time met with an accident maiming one of his hands, rendering him ineligible.

At the age of seventeen he began to clerk in the store of his uncle, John C. Lindsay, at Ghent; and while engaged in that capacity, frequently met Lewis Sanders and his son, George N. Sanders, and heard them discuss politics with the Whig leaders, and there laid the foundation of his attachment to the famous dogma of State Sovereignty. In 1844, he was with George N. Sanders on the Committee of Correspondence on the subject of Texas annexation, appointed at a meeting held at Ghent. That affair, in which he was one of the actors, became the turning point in the lives of several distinguished politicians, and to some extent, gave a new aspect to the political organizations of the country.

In February, 1850, Col. Theodore O'Hara wrote him from Washington City to know how many men could be recruited in Carroll County to aid in the expedition to liberate Cuba, at the same time communicating to him the plans which had been arranged by Gen. Lopez, himself and others concerned in the scheme. He at once espoused the Cuban cause, and with the aid of Major William Hardy (afterward Dr. Hardy), he raised two hundred and twenty-five men, with whom they embarked for New Orleans on April 4 of that year. Those with twenty-five men, made the Kentucky regiment in the first Lopez expedition. Theodore O'Hara was its Colonel; John T. Pickott, its Lieutenant-Colonel; and T. T. Hawkins and William Hardy were its Majors. Dr. Scott was senior surgeon. The recruiting was conducted in great secrecy, none of the men knowing that they were not going to California. On the coast of Yucatan they were joined by Lopez, with the rest of the expedition. They shortly after landed the first force, in the night, at Cardenas. At the first fire of the sentinel, O'Hara was wounded and carried to the rear. But, after a short contest, the garrison and Governor were surrendered to Lopez. But being repulsed during several engagements of the day, they re-embarked on the following night on the Creole, and, in a deplorable condition, landed at Key West. The expedition, though one of the most daring and exciting in the annals of modern warfare, had for its result—total failure.

At the opening of the civil war, his principles led him to take the side of the South. In 1860, as the result of a correspondence with William L. Yancy, that noted Southern leader came to Kentucky and delivered a speech at Florence. He used every exertion to induce Kentucky to go with the South, and, failing in his purpose, went to recruiting for the Confederate army, raising the greater part of Capt. A. S. Medary's company of Col. Roger Hanson's regiment. He served as a private in that company for several months, but was engaged most of the time in recruiting up to the fall of 1861. He was reported to Dr. David Vandell, Medical Director at Bowling Green, and was appointed surgeon to one of the hospitals there, but was soon after made surgeon of Major Phifer's battalion of Arkansas cavalry.

While acting in that capacity, he was elected, without his knowledge, as member of the famous "Council of Ten," the legislative body of the "Provisional Government" of Kentucky, to fill the place of Gen. Geo. B. Hodge. He remained with the "Council" until after the battle of Shiloh, still holding his position in the medical service. He was subsequently ordered to Eastern Kentucky, and became surgeon of the Fourth Kentucky Cavalry, under Humphrey Marshall, with which he remained in the capacity of surgeon, brigade surgeon, surgeon of division, and, for a time, medical director of the Department of Southwest Virginia and East Tennessee, until Col. Giltner marched to Mt. Sterling to surrender, in 1865. He then, with a small party, joined Gen. Breckinridge in North Carolina, and was among the last to surrender.

He then returned to Kentucky and resumed the practice of his profession. He studied medicine and graduated in the medical department of Transylvania University in 1842, and began the practice of his profession in Ghent in the following year. In 1853, he also attended lectures at the Medical College of Ohio and graduated. He has mainly engaged in the active duties of his practice, his long army experience making him one of the best surgeons in his State, and his long general medical practice has placed him among its most reliable and thorough physicians. He has for many years resided in Boone County at Florence; and although still giving his attention to his medical duties, much of his time to the care of his farm, and has always been more or less interested in stock raising. In politics he is one of the straight-out, old school, Jeffersonian Democrats, and in 1877 was one of the Electors on the Tilden ticket, receiving nearly two hundred more votes than any district candidate for Elector in the State.

In 1877 he was a candidate for one branch of the Legislature, but gracefully retired from the field to make way for another.

He is a man of great strength of character; never abandons a cause he once espouses; is naturally a leader; and is one of those men who would always come to the surface in great public emergencies. In person he is over six feet in height, powerfully built, is scholarly in his habits, careless and off-hand in manners and dress, and is a fine specimen of his type of intelligent manhood. Dr. Scott was married in New Liberty, Kentucky, November 11, 1845, to Evelyn E. O'Hara, eldest daughter of John O'Hara, sr., and sister of Judge John O'Hara, of Covington, Kentucky. They have had three sons and one daughter. Their oldest son, Charles, served in the Confederate army, and died in 1872. Their other living son, Robert Scott, is a druggist at Williamstown, Ky.

The Law of Compensation.
We once knew a man who was always praising his wife. On the corner down the street, at the postoffice, at the race track, at the skating rink, in the theater, in the saloon, that is, at the hour meeting, he was always telling what a happy man he was just because he had such a splendid wife, and he talked every man into a frenzy about her. Well, one winter morning, when he was not yet too light to appear overtly ostentatious, he sneaked into that neighbor's yard to steal a fence board for kindling, and had to wait before we could safely obtain it, until that man's wife could saw a couple of armfuls of wood, shoveled out three snow-paths, fed and groomed the horses and cleaned out the cow shed, and then she went into the house and we heard her call to her husband that the sitting room was warm enough for him to be there, and he was waiting for, and went back and kindled a fire with a corn cob and a pint of kerosene.

Dorso's credit business is one of the relics of an old quack.

A Rich Man on Kieboes.
The following story is told of Jacob Ridgeway, a wealthy citizen of Philadelphia, who died many years ago, leaving a fortune of five or six million dollars.
"Mr. Ridgeway," said a young man with whom the millionaire was conversing, "you are to be envied more than I."

"Why so?" responded Mr. Ridgeway; "I am not aware of any cause for which I should be particularly envied."

"Why, sir?" exclaimed the young man in astonishment. "Just think of the thousands that your income brings you every month."

"Well, what of that?" replied Mr. R. "All I get out of it is my victuals and my clothes, and I can't eat more than one man's allowance or wear more than one suit of clothes at the same time. Pray, can't you do as much?"

"But," said the youth, "think of the hundreds of fine houses you own, and the rental they bring you."

"What better am I off for all that?" asked the rich man. "I can only live in one house at a time, and as for money I receive for rents, I can't eat or wear it; I can only use it to buy other houses for others to live in. They are the beneficiaries, not I."

"But you can buy costly furniture and pictures and carriages and horses; in fact, anything you may desire."

"And after I have bought them," replied Mr. Ridgeway, "what then? I can only look at the furniture and pictures. I can ride no easier in a fine carriage than you can in an omnibus for five cents, with the trouble of attending to drivers, footmen and hostlers; and as to anything I desire, I tell you, young man, the less we desire in this world, the better and happier we shall be. All my wealth can not purchase exemption from sickness and pain; can not procure the power to keep afar off the hand of death; and what will it avail when, in a few short years at most, I leave it all forever? Young man, you have no cause to envy me."

It is seldom that the annals of crime in this State, dark and blood-stained as they already be, are rendered tenfold darker by the commission of wife-murder. One of the most unprovoked and horrible deeds we have ever been called upon to chronicle was committed in Breathitt County on the 18th of last month. On that day, Jason Little, a young man not more than twenty-eight years old, went to his home, intoxicated, and upon being remonstrated with by his wife for riding his horse through the house, drew a pistol and deliberately shot and instantly killed the confiding partner of his bosom whom he had promised to love and cherish. In addition to his children there were one or two other persons in the house, upon whom he drew his pistol, threatening them with the same fate which had overtaken his wife, if they breathed what had transpired. He then dressed his wife with his own hands, and those who attended the funeral the next day little dreamed that the chief mourner in that cottage was a murderer, and that they were then following the remains of his victim to their last resting place. But the secret was too terribly oppressive and crushing for the witnesses to keep. A revelation followed. The coroner summoned a jury, distorted the remains, an examination of the body verified the story they had heard. Little was arrested, tried before an examining court and held over without bail. The indignation of the people of Breathitt was so great when all the facts were brought to light that for fear the prisoner would meet the fate that he so richly merited, the County Judge ordered him to be taken to the Lexington jail for safe keeping. Consequently, an examination of the body brought Little to this place on Tuesday night last, and took him to Lexington next morning. He is a cousin of the notorious desperado, Jerry Little, who is known throughout the mountains of Eastern Kentucky—Mount Sterling Sentinel.

For the Ladies.
Going the rounds of the press—The girl who waltzes.
"Ladies' hats will be felt this fall," says an exclamation. So will the bills. According to the Washington Capital, a firm's motto is "sofa and no father."

Light blue stockings are going to be the favorite color this fall, but a lady who doesn't intend to fall out of a cutter is not obliged to invest.

Any father who would go out and put tar on top the front gate post after dark, must be lost to all sense of humanity and ordinary respectability.

The first thing some women will do when they get to heaven will be to look and see if their wings are cut bias, while the wings of other angels are gored.

Those husbands who went to chop wood one evening, fourteen years ago, and mysteriously disappeared, will soon be heard from. They always return in just fourteen years, especially if their wives are able to support them.

THE DYING SUMMER.

Waydown Bebe, having seven or eight spare minutes the other day, dashed off a few lines of poetry on the dying summer, and framed and hung them on the wall. The poem reads as follows:

THE DYING SUMMER.
See de leaves a fallin' down;
Hear de breezes blowin'—
See de skies a lookin' like
De clouds wud soon be showin'—
CLOUDS—Wake up, cullud folks!
Hustle in dat wood;
Git in your meat an' taters,
For summer's gone for good.
See de frost on top of de grass;
An' 'lar de chillen cryin';
De ivy-green has got a chill,
An' 'bush-bud an' adylin'.
CLOUDS—Wake up in de mornin'—
Make dem black bees fly!
Summer's gone an' winter cold Won't pass de darkey by!
De 'possum wanders all alone,
De woodchuck culls culls;
De hickory-nut it can't hold on An' de groun' it falls.
CLOUDS—Lift up dem feet, brudder,
Make de cabin tight!
De winter will be here as cold,
Kase summer was so bright.

Are We to Have a Hard Winter?

Although the chucks, beavers, in rats and other animal authorities on meteorology have not yet made a formal report, the opinion very generally prevails that we are likely to have what is commonly called "a hard winter." That is, a winter when the mercury slides down to zero and beyond; when ice merchants have a larger crop than they want, and coal merchants more customers than they can attend to; when sleighing and skating are not uncommon amusements, and furs are useful as well as ornamental; and when keeping warm is one of the main objects of life, and the reign of cold is broken by nothing except a brief thaw in January; in short, an old-fashioned winter, such as we have not had for many years. There are one or two facts which seem to sustain this opinion. Captain Tyson just returned from a polar voyage, reports that he left behind him thicker ice and deeper snow than he had ever seen in those regions at so early a period in the season. The weather was as severe in August as it usually is in October or November. Heavy snows have fallen in Northern Illinois and along the line of the Union Pacific Railroad, and camping in the Indian country is about frozen out. Then, too, the theory of compensation is true, a hard winter is required to counterbalance the exceedingly soft winter of 1877-8, and the excessively hot summer just ended. Last winter, it will be remembered, was practically no winter at all; being one of the mildest ever known, with scarcely frost enough to give us a decent Christmas. Last summer was a half dozen ordinary summers melted into one, and those who got the full benefit of the fiery ordeal are in no danger of forgetting it. To keep the weather balanced somewhere near level, a long continued low temperature is required; and the chances are altogether in favor of our getting it.

A very cold winter has its disadvantages, especially to the poor; but in this instance all classes of the community will be benefited thereby in the important item of health, if no other. Physicians returning from the infected localities of the South say that nothing short of a protracted frost, and more than ordinarily severe, will effectually kill the seeds of yellow fever, and that another open winter, as it is termed, would be followed by a return of the epidemic early next summer. In the North, particularly the Middle and Western States, malarial fevers have been usually prevalent the past season; produced, so medical experts declare, by the combined influences of a very mild winter and a very hot summer. Nothing but a large and persistent dose of frost will destroy the germs of malaria in our midst, and insure us a small mortality list for 1879. So, instead of dreading, we ought really hope for one of the winters of our fathers; plenty of snow and ice, and an abundant supply of that "nipping and cager air," which saluted "Hamlet" on the battlements of Elsinore. We shall all be better off for it when the roses come again, and this fact should enable us to bear patiently the temporary inconvenience and suffering which such a winter brings.

Cowhide Horseshoes.

In England they are adopting a horseshoe made of cowhide, and known as the Yates shoe. It is composed of three thick pieces of cowhide compressed into a steel mold, and then subjected to a chemical preparation. It is claimed for it that it lasts longer and weighs only one fourth as much as the common iron shoe, that it will never cause the hoof to split, nor have the least injurious effect on the foot. It requires no calks; even on asphalt the horse never slips. The shoe is so elastic that the horse's step is lighter and surer. It adheres so closely to the foot that neither dust nor water can penetrate between the shoe and hoof. In Japan they formerly shod their horses with straw, and the European or Radical party is distinguished from the Conservatives by the iron shoes of their horses.

A famous Irishman thus wrote to a friend: "At this moment I am writing with a sword in one hand and a pistol in the other."

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

A MILLER has the divine right to bolt.
THERE are many truths concealed in a li-brary.
CAN a good natured human being be

RED tape permits the Indian to starve and then kills him, if he thrashes around about it.

A WESTERN editor thus kindly alludes to a contemporary: "He is young yet

WHILE life and strength remain, we have much to be thankful for, no matter what happens. The skies may be dark to night, but the sun will shine to-morrow.

"MAMMA, can I wear my silk dress in heaven?" "No, my child, dresses will not be worn there." "Well, may I have the Lord know I belonged to the best society?"

It is a fact, demonstrated beyond dispute, that the person who is entirely alone when slipping down on the sidewalk is more hurt than if he were surrounded by scores of unfeeling people.

"DEAREST," he murmured as he folded her in his arms for the first time, "let me sample the nectar of your lips." "Take a whole schooner of it," she faintly whispered, "it's all on tap."

And slept to his heart's desire,
Whate'er he may say of the editor's bed,
'Twas the lawyer himself was the liar.

It does not look much like the times as oppressive as complained of when a person is traveling through the country. There is not a neighborhood nor a town in the county in which some improvements are not un-

new barns and other out buildings, new fences, and many other conveniences their prosperity demands. A prosperous farmer can always be re-

the farmers of this county, we find they are in rather a prosperous condition

THE Woolper and Petersburg pike, will soon be a completed piece of work.

THE "Sly Fox" cigar is the finest on the market, and sold by Riffe, the druggist.

PROF. STEPHENS commenced school again last Monday, with an attendance of fifteen.

REV. J. W. HENLY will preach in the Mt. Vernon church, Sunday, next, at 10 o'clock, afternoon.

W. M. CONNER will sell a lot of stock cattle and stock ewes on the street next County Court day.

BOTS, get your outdoors ready, for the season for sleighing the girls will soon register in this climate.

THE little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Foster has been quite ill with scarlet fever for several days.

THE Sheriff reports tax collecting a slow piece of business, despite all his pleading with those in arrears.

THE tobacco raisers have had some very favorable weather for stripping and preparing their crop for market.

THE latter part of last week, Mr. Samuel Pope's entire family were victims of the scarlet fever of a mild type.

THE rain during the past week has done much toward improving the small grain, which was in need of moisture.

TODAY (Thursday) Mr. Thomas Rouso, son of T. B. Rouso, and Miss Laura Couso, are to be united by the holy bonds of matrimony at Mr. Scott Walton's.

AS next Thursday is Thanksgiving, it may be a saving to some of our friends to inform them that two nice fat turkeys are all that we can manage on that occasion.

THE most watchful assemblage of persons is a congregation in a church on Sunday. The instant the door-knob rattles, every eye in the house darts in that direction.

MANY of the farmers made use of the fine weather, the past month, and have well advanced their corn gathering. In fact, some have finished that labor for the fall.

THE little negro—was missing from Mr. J. J. Lillard's last week was found, after two or three days' absence, concealed in a pile of rails, being afraid to go home.

IN the summer, nine men out of ten will close the door when they leave your office, and in the winter, these same nine men will leave the door ajar when they depart.

GENERALLY about this season of the year, there is an occasional lot of hogs passing through town on the road to the city; but so far this fall such sights are not seen.

A YOUNG lady, being found alone smoking a cigar, was asked why she was smoking, when she answered: "It makes it smell like there is a man about." Edison is surprised.

LAST week, Miss Mollie Campbell went to Gallatin County to take part as an attendant in the nuptials of Mr. Frank Dorman and Miss Josie Roswell, which took place to-day.

WHEN you go to Covington with your hogs, don't forget to call on Max Herbst, the clothier. He holds forth at No. 8 Pike street, and sells cheaper than any house in the city.

WE owe Miss Carrie Smith an apology for not including her name in the list of those who attended the select party on the evening of the 8th. The omission was purely an oversight.

"WAITING for the wagon" under certain circumstances may be pleasant; but when you are anxiously awaiting for the friendly waggon of a ferocious dog's tail, pleasantly dwell on it with you.

THE Boone House presents quite an animated appearance now, and especially so at meal times. The proprietor can boast of a good array of boarders—one item that sometimes gets rather scarce in this town.

SOME men from the city were in town, Saturday, peddling diet in the shape of fish and cabbage. The chess players invested liberally in fish, while the luscious cabbage, for the want of buyers, was taken back to the city.

THE body of James Coleman, who was drowned just below Taylorport, several days since, has not been found. It is supposed that he jumped out of his skiff, as his hat was in the skiff when caught some distance down the river.

MR. T. P. CRISTEA found the horse which was taken from his stable last week. The thief started toward the city with the animal, which became so lame that he had to abandon it before he got beyond the limits of the county.

IT won't be long before the turnpike fever will commence raging in those localities, which are annually infected with it. It is to be hoped that some cases will become so malignant as to cause the building of some of the roads that are badly needed.

GRANT COUNTY can boast of a hungrier man, or one with a more perverted appetite, than can be found in Boone, as witness the following, from the Grant County Herald:

"There is a man living in this county who recently ate a snake for the consideration of two dollars and a half."

THIS week our esteemed friend, W. B. Underwood, will read the RECORDER in Belmont, Texas, whither he has gone to make his future home. This community disliked very much to give up a worthy gentleman as Mr. Underwood, but with him goes their best wishes.

IT seems to be generally accepted as a fact that even a nest stone to mark the resting-place of the loved and lost is beyond the means of families in moderate circumstances; but Husbart & Co., Lawrenceburg, Ind., are rapidly dispelling this idea with their low prices, elegant designs and fine workmanship.

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Boone County.

At a meeting held in the Court-house, last Saturday, for the purpose of organizing the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boone County, under the law providing for the creation of said company, the organization was perfected by selecting the following officers, who make a pretty strong team for the transaction of business:

President—Hon. Joseph A. Gaines.
Vice-President—Charles C. Conner.
Secretary—Jas. H. Walton.
Treasurer—Rowell Randall.
Surveyor—Oscar Gaines.
Directors—John Stephens, Jas. E. Duncan, William Watts, Dan'l Beldinger, Omar Kirtley, Sam Hind, R. H. Bots, Joe C. Jenkins, G. O. Graddy, Noah Craven, G. W. Craven and John O. Riley.
Executive Committee—G. W. Craven, Jno. Stephens and Jas. E. Duncan.

The company, regularly organized, will now commence business in earnest. We understand that it now has about $111,000 worth of property insured. This is surely flattering, when the short time the business has been before the public, and the limited territory to which it has been confined, is taken into consideration. The officers elected, and in whose hands the business is intrusted, are men calculated to carry the work of insurance through and make it a success, if there are any men in the county who can accomplish this end, and we see no reason why it can not be done.

ALL communities have their themes about which to gossip, and the one which commands the attention of this burg at present is the attitude which our County Clerk has reared his will-be handsome residence on Nicholas street, near Jefferson. All this speculation was brought about by some individuals (among whom are one or two who have traveled well up the steep of life in the path of single-blessedness) who think, at a future period, they may want to be the owners of those premises, and accordingly commenced looking into the title to the space occupied by the house, and the investigation has resulted in the verdict that the building far outreaches the title vested in the Clerk, and that he has no right in the direction he has gone to a distance exceeding one story.

Some think it is possible that there is a defect in his title granting a privilege to ascend to that height, inasmuch as there is a question in the former owner's having any claims in that direction higher than the top of his hat when on his head. Our friend has invested considerable money in his future palatial mansion, and we trust that, if he has gone above his jurisdiction, he will be allowed peaceable occupancy for a while, at least.

PERSONAL MENTION.

WE are pleased to state that Mrs. Platt, of whose illness we spoke last week, is better.

HON. GEO. H. PENDLETON, of Ohio, was the guest of G. C. Graddy one night last week.

MISS SALLIE HYATT, of Newport, Ky., and Miss Sule Arnold, of Bellevue, are the guests of Dr. J. M. Grant and lady.

LAST week, Miss Matson, sister of Mr. John Matson, tobaccoist, of Walton, died at her home in Union from the effects of an overdose of chloral which she took to alleviate excruciating pain from which she was suffering. Miss Matson was a very popular young lady, and leaves an extensive circle of friends, who mourn her sad and untimely death.

IF a man who never has subscribed for a paper takes the editor around the corner some dark, rainy night and informs him that "every week for a whole year" there has been a mistake in an appointment in the church directory, the editor kindly thanks him for the information, and does much wondering as to how he gaineth his knowledge of the fact.

A PACK of bloodthirsty and worthless canines made a raid upon Mr. A. Blythe's sheep, last Sunday night, killing one and wounding seven or eight more. The flock of seventy sheep was thoroughly panic-stricken and scattered in all directions, some of them having left the field in which the dogs made their attack. It will not be safe for a dog to be found on that farm again soon.

Since our last report, our mail-messenger has been changed. The United States Mail line company has appointed our late carrier er of the Rising Sun mail, Captain John Smith, to take the place of Lieutenant Lfnd-enhang in carrying the river mail. This is a merited compliment to the Captain, as he has proven himself a faithful carrier in the service for a long time.

Sir William had his forces out on the city levee last week, and succeeded in getting a second-class ticket to the river. We hope the proper authorities will see that the road made will be secured against high water, if the adjoining bank and property are not.

Fourth Street has been thrown open to the public, and adds very much to the looks of that part of town. Sidewalks and shade-trees would add still more to its appearance. Every street in the town can be beautified by this kind of improvement.

Quite a number of hogs have been shipped to the city from here. Since our last report, Messrs. Walton, Canon, Adams & Co., shipped 170 head. Uncle A. Burt Canon shipped the largest pig that has been seen here for some time. It weighed here 726 pounds. On Thursday night Captain Len Cline, E. Aylor, and Walter Rice shipped 65 hogs; last night the 17th, Rice and Aylor shipped 36 more, Mr. Tom Cline shipped 10 head of fine cattle, and Admiral Jno. Deck shipped 200 nests of baskets. The Housier Murphy shipped a host load of potatoes. Perkins (not Ell), but the pig driver, and Judge Tom Baker are kicking up old men down about Baker's Cave, and we hear that the city dials have sent down a batch of directors to watch their mysterious moves. Rumor points to a "gunboat" lying off the shore with its howitzer covering the city, as a cause of their strange maneuvering. We would not be surprised at any time to see said gunboat blown to atoms from the mouth of the above cave, or learn that it had been hustled into its fearful jaws.

Rumor says old Stuffy and the hands working on the new passenger bumped heads, and after exploding a few rounds of blank cartridges, old Stuffy fell back in demoralization, but not a Bull Run. All is quiet, day.

THERE are abundant signs of the Democratic disgust with the Greenbackers. There is Mr. Watterson, who worked his hardest to re-elect Voorhees, rising up with the remark that "the sooner we get rid of the Greenback idiots the better." Yet it was Watterson who declared with so much warmth, a short time ago, that unless the East compromised with the West and South on the money question, the devil would be loose.—N. Y. Tribune.

"Well, sur, and besides all that, I fear, sur, Patrick is not true to me."
 "Ah! now, madam, you begin to talk business. What reason have you for thinking Patrick is not faithful to you?"
 "Well, sur, I may say that it is myself that has a strong suspicion that Patrick is not the father of me last ebould."

We are under obligations to Mr. James L. Connelly for his Colorado papers.

It don't pay to waste corn by feeding it to hogs; better manufacture it into hominy.

A SURE cure for the ear-ache—Get a pretty girl to whisper in it night and morning.

SCARLET FEVER and diphtheria, says the Equivocal, are raging in Cincinnati as epidemics.

W. M. CONNER will sell a lot of stock cattle and stock ewes on the street next County Court day.

Two funeral sermons were preached by Rev. Jas. A. Kirtley in the Baptist Church at this place last week.

CHRISTMAS is the next arrival in this port, and it will cause a bigger hurrah than will the landing of U. S. G.

In this issue the time-table of the Southern railroad appears corrected to conform to the winter schedule now in use.

THERE are several young men in the community whom it is fair to presume are clearing the deck for an engagement.

We have been informed that Rev. Jas. A. Kirtley has calls to two ministerial fields—Louisville and Aurora, Indiana.

It is settled beyond controversy that strychnine is a sure cure for the child. It kills the disease and also the patient.

The public school was commenced again last Monday. The attendance is somewhat reduced on account of the scarlet fever.

The troop of worthless dogs have been visiting the sheep pastures of some of the farmers of this vicinity again this week.

THE chickens are preparing for Christmas. Those equipped with crowing apparatus now disturb the silence of night about 10 p. m.

Our shoemaker busied his tools, shook the dust of the town from off his feet, and left, one day last week, in search of work.

OUR ex-Town Marshal, Joseph Cowan, is now comfortably ensconced in his new building. No troubled waves now sweep across his peaceful breast.

THIS bridge about which we spoke last week remains in the same unsafe condition. It is to be feared that nothing will be done till it gets up a funeral.

THERE was but one marriage license issued by the Clerk last week: Thomas Rouse, aged 19, farmer, and Miss Laura Cole, aged 19, all of Boone County.

THIS season for tree agents and book agents is about exhausted, and, to the satisfaction of the public, they will, in many days, have to amble into winter quarters.

BURDETTE, editor of the Burlington Hawkeye, lectures in the new Opera-house in Aurora this (Thursday) evening. He is one of the best lecturers of the day.

Died.

FOSTER—At 8 p. m. Monday, the 25th, of scarlet fever, in the third year of her age, Marie, only daughter of Horton J. and Mary Foster.

The funeral was preached by Rev. Mr. Jefferson, of Covington, in the Methodist Church at this place Wednesday at 10 a. m., after which the remains were interred in the cemetery at this place. The parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

LAST Thursday, a little girl, aged 5 years, daughter of J. W. Gaines, died of scarlet fever at the residence of Mrs. Lucy Rogers. The child had been afflicted with the dread disease for several weeks. The funeral was preached by Rev. Jas. A. Kirtley in the Baptist Church at this place, after which the remains were deposited in the vault in the Bullittsburg Cemetery.

THE protracted meeting in the Baptist Church was concluded last Friday night. The number of sabbatear discharges of Rev. W. H. Ellis during the meeting were listened to with marked attention by all who attended, and many regretted that he could not remain and preach longer. The weather several evenings was not at all propitious, and, as a consequence, the congregations on these occasions were rather limited. Miss Lucy Rice, Miss Mary Beaman and Mrs. Thomas Goodridge united with the church, and will be baptized on the third Sunday in December.

LAST Friday night, some thief effected an entrance into the house of Mrs. Rose, a widow lady who resides near Bullittsburg. Suspicion pointed to a negro man in the neighborhood as being the guilty party, and on last Monday, Constable White, in response to a message sent him from that neighborhood, went out and arrested the negro, but on the examining trial he was discharged, the evidence not being sufficient to hold him over.

THE Atlanta Southern Planter claims to have answers from one hundred and fifty-five swine breeders to a question as to which breed will make highest average weight at given periods, and tabulates the answers as follows:

Samuel Pangburn to Chas. Schramm, lot in Petersburg, $300.
Elias Arnold to A. M. and W. R. Rouse, lot near Walton, $85.
John Arnold to Same, lot near Walton, $138.38.
John B. Cotton to Mary E. Clements, 54 acres near Walton, $2,400.

Our Sick.

Miss Sophronia Campbell is quite unwell... Eddie McKim is somewhat improved... Mrs. Platt is still improving... Samuel Pope's family has still recovered from the scarlet fever... Maudie Kirkpatrick is quite ill with a diphtheritic trouble which follows the scarlet fever... We hear that some of Mr. Henry Malory's family have scarlet fever.

THAT merit, however unostentatious, will be discovered and rewarded, is exemplified in the fact that Miss Fannie G. Rice, of this place, has received an urgent request to go to Carrollton, Ky., to take charge of and teach a large class in instrumental music. Miss Fannie, however, has not yet decided to accept the flattering offer.

THERE has been some very fine weather for the rural pork packing this month. The farmers generally are killing more hogs than common, because of the exceedingly low prices they demand in the market. They think the meat, when cured, will make a difference in price sufficient to recompense them for the trouble of curing it.

THERE seems to be a diphtheritic affection following the scarlet fever that is prevailing in this section, and parents whose children have the fever can not be too careful, no matter how mild a form the disease may be in. Slight exposure before the patient has thoroughly recovered is hazardous to the extreme.

It seems to be generally accepted as a fact that even a neat stone to mark the resting-place of the loved and lost is beyond the means of families in moderate circumstances; but Huestar & Co., Lawrenceburg, Ind., are rapidly dispelling this idea with their low prices, elegant designs and fine workmanship.

WE have been informed that, with the advent of December, A. Bradford, better known as Buddie, comes to Burlington to open up the saddle and harness business. He is a deserving young man, and we hope the citizens of the town and surrounding country will give him liberal patronage.

WE are glad to learn that Mr. Ed. Baker will lose but little by his misfortune with his boat of produce which was wrecked in attempting to go over the falls at Louisville, a few days since. The cargo was insured. This is the second boat wrecked for him at that point and on the same rock.

ABOUT forty couples attended the nuptials of Mr. Thos. Rouse and Miss Laura Cole, last Thursday afternoon. After the wedding the happy pair and attendants, Mr. Johnnie Beall and Miss Ollie Cole, repaired to Mr. T. B. Rouse's, the groom's father, where a splendid supper was enjoyed.

It is said, to prevent hydrophobia, "as soon as the dog has bitten you, suck the wound for 10 or 15 minutes, until the poison is all sucked out;" but the better way is to kill the dog before he has bitten you.

Our young friend James Hughes has provided himself with a handsome buggy, which, by the way, is a piece of furniture good for a long time. He is a young man who is self-sufficient.

"MAN wants but little here below." That is false. He wants it all, and were he to get possession of all, he would then raise Ned because there was not more for him.

THE Circuit Clerk, J. W. Duncan, is now engaged copying the record in the Garland case, and has had the plaintiff, who has declined to be the case of the Court of Appeals.

THE toll-booths on the Burlington and Bellevue turnpikes have donated their full toll of paint. Benjamin Corbin was the artist who presided over the execution of the work.

ANY of our readers having in his or her possession a copy of the RECORDERS, volume 4 number 4, bearing date October 31, 1878, will confer a favor by sending the same to this office.

"WHATever is right" is not so. It's not right for the paterfamilias to locate himself at the foot of the table, to-day, and gourmandize the entire anatomy of the turkey, and ask no one else to assist him.

THE iron bridge which is to span Woolper Creek at Plattsburg arrived last week, and probably is now erected and ready for use. The company will never regret having so durable a structure put up at that point.

THIS is rapidly becoming a fruit-growing country of no little extent. Nearly all the farmers have fine orchards, and they are yearly adding to their already long list of varieties of apples, plums and other fruits.

SOME of the farmers have about exhausted their supply of corn, and are compelled, therefore, to dispose of their hogs, when, were it otherwise, they would hold them longer, in anticipation of an advance in the price.

WE noticed one of our rural friends, Mr. O. P. Conner, at Davis' store, Monday, laying in a large stock of flour, which we construe as meaning that Owen anticipates an extensive siege of bad roads or a rise in the price of flour.

THE legal illuminaries are enjoying a protracted internecine. They are beginning to conclude that mankind is dwelling in harmony. All trades and professions have dull times, and the lawyers are having theirs at this time.

THE dogs made raid No. 2 on Mr. Blythe's sheep, Monday afternoon or Monday night. Strychnine is said to be a first-rate medicine for curing dogs of an appetite for mutton; and, no doubt, some of the medicine will be administered.

LAST Friday, Rev. Jas. A. Kirtley was called from the meeting in progress at this place to preach the funeral of Mr. Edward Rice, who resided near Union and died Thursday night. The services were conducted in the church in Union.

THE officers of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boone County held a meeting in the Court-house on Wednesday last week. The officers labored diligently all the day getting the business in shape and systematizing affairs generally.

AMONG the distinguished visitors whose effulgent countenances illuminated our office last week were James Gaines and Clint Smith. All the young ladies in the country know Jim and Clint, and we are glad to say they are as amiable as heretofore.

A prominent farmer in this county recently killed some hogs, and found in the abdomen of one an iron wedge one foot and a half long, and weighed several pounds. If you doubt this, I will furnish the name, with good eye-witness vouchers.—Correspondence Carle Mercury.

THAT hard to swallow.

PERSONAL MENTION.
W. R. DELANEY and Berry Hardin, of Covington, were in town Tuesday.

MR. J. O. HUEY returned Sunday from Southern Kentucky, where he and his family have been visiting relatives.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

PLATTSBURG. Nov. 25.—Gathering corn and stripping tobacco is now the order of the day. The corn crop is the lightest raised in the Woolper Valley for many years. Tobacco about half a crop.

PROF. O. STYDER is now engaged in teaching a three months term of public school at the Woolper School-house.

QUITE a serious accident happened to Mr. Hank Sage several days ago. In an attempt to cross the railroad bridge at Aurora, Ind., he missed his way and fell some sixty feet, receiving serious, if not fatal injuries.

MISS HATTIE FOSTER, of Carrollton, Ky., is visiting her aged grandmother at this place. Rev. Sayer preached to a large and attentive audience at the Ashby Fork School-house, last Saturday evening.

SEVEN tons of the bridge iron to be used in the construction of the Woolper bridge have arrived.

WORK on the new pike is progressing rapidly, and, when completed, it will be one of the best roads in the county. The grade on our road is far better than that on the Petersburg and Burlington pike, and, therefore, the travel between those two points will certainly come this way.

THE many friends of Dr. A. O. Foster in this county will be sorry to hear of his serious illness, of consumption, at his home in Denver City, Colorado.

MR. FAIRVIEW.
No doubt some of the readers of the RECORDERS will want to know where Mr. Fairview is. Well, I will tell them. It is situated on the Woolper turnpike, not far from Captain John Smith's (the great financier), who, it is said, can make more pounds of pork with his corn, than anybody. Standing on Mt. Fairview, one can see the beginning and the terminus of the Woolper turnpike. They would also have a fair view of Flickertown, a city which is being built very fast here of late. It has one grand hotel, one blacksmith shop, one large steam sawmill which it takes three hands to tend or work—Mr. Jackson, the owner and manager, by the way a very nice man and a close calculator; Charley, his son, who works the lever (his smiling countenance can be seen) and Mike, an all-purpose hand, who of himself could run the whole thing. There would have been one store, had it not flickered out from Fairview. You also have a fine view of the Woolper Bottoms, from the ancient dig of Plattsburg down to the willow gardens near its mouth.

THE work upon the turnpike progresses slowly but surely. Mr. Dressman, the contractor, has had his health for some time, and is hardly able to be out at present. I understand they struck gravel in Pea Ridge, on K. Gaines' farm. As to quantity, I have not learned.

NOT long since we had a freemason's grand lodge at Ashby Fork School-house, by one Dr. Purdy, from Wilmington, Ind. He proposed to expose humbuggery and lay bare the practice of extracting the life-blood and the "mystic" motto which has been pronounced on the noble animal, the horse.

WELL, as the lecture was free, we boys all went, just to see the pictures, for I tell you he had lots of them. The noble animal was represented in almost every shape and condition imaginable. One picture of the noble animal had an enlargement around his tail like unto a large ring. I asked an old friend sitting by what disease that represented. He said, "Hush! that is the mysterious joint."

WELL, the Doctor had books to sell, and the boys all bit, but not of the book. Whether the doctor succeeded in accomplishing what he proposed to, I will leave it to the boys to judge. I understand we are making up a class.

NOTICE.
The Boone County Pomona Grange will hold its next regular meeting at W. M. Conner's hall on the third Friday in January next at 10 o'clock a. m. in charge of the election of officers. We earnestly hope that every Grange in the county will be well represented, and desire that each member should feel himself personally interested. Let this be our motto: "Trust in God, Do the right."

"Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing—Learn to labor and to wait."

M. E. CHAVEN, Sec'y.

FROM Hon. H. A. M. Henderson, LL. D., State Sup't of Public Instruction, Ky.

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY.—I desire to call the attention of School Trustees and teachers to the fact that the State Board of Education has adopted Webster's Unabridged Dictionary as the standard authority for the Public Schools of Kentucky. The new edition of this wonderful work is well-nigh perfect as a text-book. It excels in defining scientific terms, its etymology is without a rival, and it is a grand compendium of knowledge. The Board regards that either the Unabridged or Academic Dictionary is an indispensable adjunct to every school room, and second only in importance to the blackboard. The Trustees of each district should try and secure one for the use of the Common School, as by its employment a great deal of useful instruction may be communicated, and a standard of appeal is always at hand when a question in etymology, orthography or orthography is mooted. It may be furnished a part of the necessary furniture of the school-room, when a tax has been voted for furnishing purposes.

"THE Board also introduced in the course of study Webster's Primary School Dictionary, and it is earnestly recommended that a class be formed in it in every school in the State. The Unabridged Dictionary is published by G. & C. Merriam, Springfield, Mass., and the Primary and Academic editions by Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., New York."

A PACKAGE OF OLD LETTERS.

BY ASHTON THORNE.

In an olden chest I found them,
Yellowed with the dust of years;
Tender memories hovering round them,
Gained my eyes to 80 with tears.

For they called back happy moments,
Friends I'd known in brighter hours,
When I read these old-time letters,
Culling memory's withered flowers.

Here a letter penned by fingers
Every heart beat more buoyant,
Round its words a glow of love,
A loving voice of long ago.

A gentle voice on breezes wafted
From some dim and farther shore,
Whisper that loved one has drifted,
Drifted to return no more.

Read these letters—olden letters—
Always bright and new to me!
I have tried in vain to read them,
But for tears I cannot see.

Sometimes dim, some worn and tear-stained,
Breathing sorrow's plaintive tone;
Still I cherish these old letters,
To tell of friends and times gone.

[Written for the Recorder.]
A CHAPTER OF THE WAR.

The Confederate March on Cincinnati

in 1862—Why Was Not that City Attacked and Captured?

Perhaps no unaccomplished achievement of the progress of our great civil strife gave so flattering a promise of successful issue, or promised so important results as did the march of General HENRY HETH with his gallant little army on Cincinnati in September, 1862. The Confederate cause, for several months preceding, had been sailing on an unexampled tide of prosperity; and, with every report of another great victory (and such news was quite common in those days), the hopes of the adherents of the now

"Lost Cause"—lost but still dear—soared higher and higher. The battle of Richmond, Ky., in August of this year, seemed to be bringing the din of conflict quite near to our doors. This annihilation of a Federal force of 11,000 strong by a brigade of only about 3,000

was a wonderful victory; and the average Kentuckian (in this region, at least) was wrought up to the highest pitch of enthusiasm thereby. At no period before or after this during the war did our hopes soar so high, and at no other time did our youthful warriors feel so greatly increased in stature. In those days we were all devoted of Anak—mighty men of valor—and as such it was our constant boast that one rebel could put six

Yankees to flight. During the brief full in events that succeeded the victory at Richmond, our expectations were enormous for coming victories.

And, as if still further to increase our extravagant exultations, our adversaries were as apparently as much depressed by the tide of events as we were elated by them. They seemed to be pressed to the earth, while we were soaring to the empyrean.

In the midst of this tumult of feeling and exaltation of hope came rumors of the approach of a rebel army. Every eye at once turned to Cincinnati, and expectations were prophetic of the speedy capture of the city. "The Advanced Forces of the Army of Kentucky," as

Gen. Heth's command was styled, moved slowly northward from Lexington; but correct information of his movements could not be obtained on account of the vigilance with which those farcical warriors, the Home

Guards, guarded the roads at a long and safe distance in his front. This fimsy display of force by the Federals possessed only sufficient potency to check any active intelligent enterprise

on the part of "belly sympathizers," and, as before stated, to prevent any correct information of the movements of the little army from reaching us.

Aside from this, the only warlike achievements enacted by these Home

Guards was the capture and incarceration

$1,282,074 50 less than the receipts of our Centennial.

THE crop of small grain in the country is apparently in good condition, and the winter proves favorable spring will find a pretty fair crop coming on.

WE have been reading, of late, considerable about hard money, but from experience we can say it has the proper name, because of it being so hard to get hold of.

THE Cynthia News charges the Commonwealth with not being in political harmony with the platform the Democracy adopted at Williamstown

on the 17th of October.

AN Illinois paper has learned that five million Republican voters have been disfranchised in the South, which is nearly a million more than the whole vote received by Hayes.

THE Cincinnati Commercial still refuses to acknowledge that Grant has any prospect whatever for receiving the nomination as the Republican candidate for the Presidency in 1880.

THE citizens of Memphis, in a mass meeting on Thanksgiving day, passed a resolution thanking all those who contributed toward their relief during the late reign of terror in the South.

FEEDING forty-cent corn to two and three-quarter cent hogs is just about giving away the hogs that you commonly feed, or at least this is the result figured by those who have been feeding hogs this season.

IT is said that the Bulgarians have a hankering after General Grant to become their ruler. They seem to fancy

the General on account of his executive ability and military accomplishments. He has no desire for the position.

THE South is willing that the West and North shall say who the candidates on the Presidential ticket are to be. That section realizes its inability to do more than support the candidates chosen by its brethren in the North. Of course it has some choice as among the men already mentioned in connection with the ticket for 1880.

IN Grant County another bloody murder was committed last week. One

Samuel Judd killed one Frank Turner

by nearly severing his head from the body, while he (Turner) was down on his knees making an apology in obedience to Judd's command. Judd was arrested and upon the examining trial was refused bail. It is said this is his third or fourth victim.

AND now it is said that Blue Joans,

Governor of Indiana, has been selling beef cattle to the Insane Asylum for six and one-half cents per pound when they were really worth but three and one-half and four cents. This demonstrates that he has an eye to his own financial welfare as well as to that of the State. But then he should not take the advantage of the insane.

LARK is the first county to proclaim for whom her vote is to cast for State officers in the May Convention.

She instructs as follows, except for Governor, for that office the delegates are uninstructed; for Lieutenant Governor, James A. Dawson, of Hart; for

Attorney-General, P. W. Hardin, of Morcor; for Auditor, Payette Hewitt, of Hardin; for Register of the Land

Office, Ralph Sheldon.

WE have often met men whom we considered friendly to our enterprise,

but last Monday we came across a gentleman who surpasses any yet met. He does not stop when he says everybody

in the county should patronize the local paper, but advances the idea that as commendable a thing as the County

Chief of Police at Kieff, who was murdered not long since, was killed by a very finely dressed lady, who, after talking with him a moment, stabbed him to the heart with a dagger. The report is believed to give much curious information respecting the intercommunication of the conspirators. The tools of the leaders it is said, when taken, are generally ready to tell all importance; but their minds had been worked upon by the agents of the leaders, and even these, perhaps, were ignorant of the personalities of their principals. It is said that ere long, in certain quarters of Italy, events will be made that are as startling as were those which followed the attempt upon the life of Louis Napoleon.

AN exchange says: "It is interesting to observe how the era of economy is reducing the State debts, and lengthening the list of States which bear no debt at all. Colorado, Delaware, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Wisconsin

do not appear as debtor States at all.

Then there are California, Illinois,

Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska,

Nevada, New Jersey, Oregon and Vermont whose debts are either very small and on the point of extinction by sinking funds, or are held in perpetual trust for school purposes or State institutions. This makes fifteen out of thirty-eight virtually out of debt. To this list may be added Minnesota and Mississippi, if both States had not repaid just obligations. Of the indebted States, Massachusetts heads the list with a debt at the beginning of this year of $33,200,000, and a sinking fund of about $11,000,000, making a net

debt of about $22,200,000. Pennsylvania has a total debt of about 23,000, which sinking funds reduce to $14,000,000. New York has paid off all but her canal debt of $9,000,000."

THE criminal record of Kentucky is of an exceedingly healthy growth, which it will continue to be so long as the administration of the law is as tardy as it has been for several years past.

There is quite a large number of men running at large in this State, who have escaped a merited execution on the gallows by the dilatory workings of courts of Justice, and the influence of money. The escape of these criminals licenses and encourages other men to forsake the path of moral rectitude

and become murderers and desperadoes. Judges may say that the juries do not convict as often as they should,

but how often are the findings of the juries set aside by those who are higher in authority? The verdicts of how many juries have been set aside by the Court of Appeals within the past few years? The juries have no assurance whatever that their verdicts will be sustained, and when they take their places in the jury-box they consider themselves taking part only in a farce

conducted at the expense of the State.

Juries sometimes fail to do their duty

in criminal prosecutions, but the large portion of the blame for the non punishment of crimes, and especially that of murder, in this Commonwealth, lies at the door of those who have the power to supervise the verdicts of the juries. Nearly every day brings evidences of the result of the lax condition of our criminal laws. Lynch law is becoming very common, and its victims become more numerous year

by year as the enforcement of the criminal law is obstructed. The time has come when people have, as regards the prosecution of criminals, lost all confidence in the courts, hence the frequent resorts to mob law.

As it seems the late amendment to the road law, and especially that section relative to the settlement of Supervisors, is not familiar to many of the present Supervisors, upon the suggestion of a friend we have concluded to put that particular section before our readers once again. It is so plain that it is easily understood. It reads as follows: "That section sixth be amended by striking out the first of July and inserting in lieu thereof the first of September, and shall be further amended by requiring each Road

Supervisor to present to the County

Court in January an itemized account of all moneys received by him, showing from whom received, and the amount expended and to whom paid, as well as the names of all persons working on their poll taxes, and the names of all persons liable to work on roads who have failed to work and are delinquent for said poll tax. The Court shall, when the delinquent list is thus returned, place the same in the hands of the Constable or Marshal in whose district said delinquents live,

and they shall collect the same as Sheriffs are now authorized to collect taxes, and shall pay over to Road Supervisors in whose districts such delinquents resided the amount so collected, and shall receive as compensation therefor

one-half of said tax. Said Constable and Marshal so collecting taxes is hereby required to make annual report to the Court of the taxes collected by him and to whom paid." The last section of the amendment provides that "if any Supervisor of roads shall, upon his removal from office or the expiration of his term of office, fail to pay over in thirty days thereafter, to his successor all the money in his hands belonging to the road fund, he shall be liable to a presentment to the grand jury, and a fine, on conviction, of not less than $200."

It is well enough for the Supervisors to keep thoroughly informed as to regards the law governing their official action. The amendment has a pretty severe penalty to be applied in case a Supervisor does not come to the scratch on time.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.

WASHINGTON, November 29, 1878.

The curious fact is stated in an official report of the agent sent to South America and Mexico by Postmaster

General Key, that American goods are imported by the people on the east coast of these countries from ports in Great Britain in British vessels. If our absurd navigation laws or other Government measures are responsible for this, the Government should, at the earliest moment possible, remedy

it. With the best facilities in the world for ship-building, and the ability to supply every manufactured article needed by the people in question, and a market at home for all these people can supply, and the most enterprising merchants in the world, it is simply disgraceful that other countries

It was a dismal day.

The river is afflicted with an extensive rain.

A fine tobacco season, but rather out of season.

Fresh Kentucky hop yeast at Dudley House's.

The Boone House is now in full blast in all its departments.

See change in Snyder & Swetnam's adv.

Also, B. Frank Buchanan's.

A good looking milch cow was sold on the streets, Monday, for $29.

BELLEVUE has more cozy little dwellings than any town in the county.

One dry goods merchant apparently did a driving business last Monday.

The hash produced by the national turkey-eating is probably exhausted.

The personality of Miss Eliza Scott will be sold at public sale on the 14th inst.

In this issue, the White Haven property, near Union, is advertised for sale on the 7th inst.

W. T. Winkler's flock of sheep was terribly mangled by dogs, Wednesday night of last week.

W. J. RICE now occupies his new residence. Will have become one of the essentials of the town.

Dogs invaded the sheep pasture of John A. Kendall, last Friday night, and wounded several of his sheep.

ONE prisoner, Steffen, was discharged from jail last Wednesday. This reduces Uncle Sam's boarders to two.

SEVERAL new subscribers added to our list, Monday, and several renewals for all of which we are thankful.

We are under many obligations to several friends who have furnished us with copies of the paper advertised for last week.

THE officers of the Farmers' Insurance Company were in session again Saturday, dispatching business pertaining to the institution.

The Sheriff says he can scarcely collect the tax fast enough to pay off the claims against the county as fast as they are demanded.

MR. J. H. WALTON has been chosen to represent the subordinate Grangers of this county in the State Grange, which meets in Louisville.

R. C. GREEK, Geo. G. Hughes and L. H. Hills went to Covington, Tuesday morning, to attend the present term of the United States Court.

THE indications that we are to have a severe winter are becoming overwhelmingly convincing. Too many weddings last week for a mild winter.

A. O. HALL requests to say he intends to have the statute forbidding the discharging of firearms within the corporate limits of the town enforced.

WE recommend the Riverside House, Rising Sun, Ind., to our Kentucky friends. Mine host, William Calvert, of the Saturday News, certainly has the best hotel in that city.

WE hear it intimated the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of this county intends having its charter so amended as to allow it to insure property in towns and villages.

SCOTT RIFE, the indefatigable dealer in drugs, medicines and toilet articles, has added to his stock a lot of nice jewelry, which he is selling cheap. Christmas toys he will make a specialty.

CURD makes no distinction of persons on account of age when he goes upon the war path, and is as liable to make a target of the aged as of the more youthful, as witness our report of marriages.

SINCE our last report, the following marriage licenses have been issued: R. L. Wilk, farmer, aged 37, and Miss Lou A. Garrison, aged 30. George W. Risco, farmer, aged 28, and Miss Mattie B. Mirick, aged 17. All the above parties are of Boone County.

RABBIT HARR has caught the building fever. Dr. L. C. Cowan is erecting a snug dwelling, which he intends occupying in a few months. Capt. Robt. Platt has nearly completed a building, but for want purpose no one has been able to learn. As it is centrally located, probably it is intended for a savings bank.

WE are in receipt of a very appropriate answer to the acrostich in last week's paper; but, owing to the fact that it is anonymous, we have to bustle it into the waste basket. We, however, take leave with the anonymous answer, and say, if there were but three women in the world, two of them would get together and talk about the other.

The Courts.

The crowd in town, Monday, was the largest that has attended County Court for several months, but the plucking temperature in the forenoon kept the people mostly indoors, and, till old fog made his appearance about noon and commenced elevating the temperature, not much of a throng was on the street. Notwithstanding Monday was the kind of a day men generally imagine they need considerable stimulating liquors and imbibed too freely, there were but few whose appetite for the "fritter" caused them to overload themselves sufficiently to create a case of staggers. Good order prevailed throughout the day, and not a harsh word was spoken that we have any knowledge of.

Both County and Quarterly courts were in session during the day, and the judges seemed rather busy till about 3:30 p. m. when court adjourned, having disposed of the following business:

T. W. Finch's claim against the Poor-house, amounting to $53.25, was allowed.

Claudius Williams, testifying the Court that he was under 21 years of age, was exonerated from paying the county levy assessed against him.

J. F. Blythe was granted a license to keep tavern in the Boone House.

The Commissioners in the Tanner land division filed their report, which was approved, and H. J. Foster appointed Special Commissioner to make deeds to the parties.

Henry Velsinger moved the County Court to grant him a license to keep hotel in Walton. Motion continued till the 14th inst.

The will of Edward Rice was probated, and C. T. Rice appointed executor.

On motion of M. B. Green, Owen Rogers was appointed to fill the vacancy in the office of Constable in the Bellevue Precinct.

In the matter of Mary Stansfield's land division, a rule was taken against the Sheriff of Kenton, requiring him to return the process therein, and the cause was continued till the 14th inst.

Will Southern released from paying tax on one dog erroneously assessed against him, and the Sheriff ordered to refund the tax paid thereon.

Benjamin Rice was appointed administrator of the estate of Miss Eliza B. Scott, Jno. P. Scott on bond. Ben Rouse, Arthur Blythe and J. A. Kendall appointed appraisers.

John W. Gaines, on application to discontinue public road. Commissioner's report confirmed and the motion granted.

In the matter of the division of the lands of James Acker, an alias summons was ordered and the cause continued.

On motion of Martha West, W. T. German was appointed guardian of her children.

In company with Deputy Sheriff E. E. Foster, we visited the town of Florence last Thursday. The place was almost as quiet as a graveyard, which is very uncommon for that town; but this unusual quiet we accounted for on the score that it was Thanksgiving day, and people were staying at home for the purpose of devouring Thanksgiving turkeys.

All the merchants were ready to transact business, but the customers were wanting, and did not come in with interesting rapidity.

The hands in the carriage factory of Wagstaff & Cantler were pursuing the even tenor of their way, but the individual named first in the style of the firm was absent, and, upon inquiry, we were informed that he was canvassing Grant County, and some even thought he had a desire of starting a branch house somewhere on the line of the Southern.

But this was, of course, mere conjecture.

At noon it was our good fortune to enjoy the hospitality of Mr. W. V. Crigler and his estimable lady, and we are sure no persons can entertain more royally than they. We are sorry they are thinking seriously of leaving the county, and are certain their neighbors will regret their departure.

It has been discovered that the grave of R. C. Sawdon, who was buried in the Mt. Tabor Churchyard five or six weeks ago, has been robbed. Mr. Sawdon was formerly editor of the Grangers' Journal in Cincinnati, and his grave was carefully guarded by members of the Grange for thirty consecutive nights. Still the thieves did their work, probably on the first night after burial, when the grave was not guarded.—Lawrenceburg Press.

Mr. Sawdon was generally known among the Grangers in this county, having often visited the different Granges. The Cincinnati Enquirer, of Sunday, in its Lawrenceburg news, says:

"The man who is believed to have been playing the part of a ghoul in this vicinity, and who, it is thought, carried off Mr. Sawdon's body, is accompanied by a woman. He drives a green box wagon, and it is always provided with a large Saratoga trunk. The wagon is said to be numbered 636. The driver claims to be a spice peddler. He was seen in the vicinity by Mr. Taber the day before Mr. Sawdon's body disappeared. He also crossed over on Captain Huff's ferry just the day before the body of a negro was spirited out of the Commonwealth." In Kentucky this wagon was seen with the wheels all muffled with straw. His movements, to say the least, are mysterious.

In conversation with Mr. W. M. Conner, last Saturday, we obtained the following information in regard to the hog market, which will be of interest to the farmers generally: He says that the hogs sent to market early in the season were poorly fattened, and many droves were composed of nearly every class of hogs, from the shoot to the fattest hog. This mixed lot of stuff was forced upon the market by the short corn crop. The hogs now coming in are of pretty good quality being owned by men who were able and willing to feed till they were fit for market. He thinks that Kentucky's crop is about all in. The Ohio and Indiana hogs are now rapidly arriving, and some days the pens are crowded.

We noticed one of our young friends, a citizen of Union, armed with volume 1 of Kent's Commentaries, last Monday. The presumption is he anticipates embarking in the legal profession. Success to him.

WE are sorry to learn that Richard Stephens, one of the venerable citizens of the East Bend neighborhood, is in very bad health. Miss Genie Rice, a sensible young lady of the same neighborhood, is in very delicate health.

THE first three days of December rule the winter, says Mr. Will Southern, our local weather prognosticator. So December will be a rainy month, while January and February will be nice weather, but cool enough to keep the mosquitoes from biting.

IT seems to be generally accepted as a fact that even a hog store to mark the resting-place of the loved and lost is beyond the means of families in moderate circumstances; but Wagstaff & Co., of Lawrenceburg, Ind., rapidly dispelling this idea with their low prices, elegant designs and fine workmanship.

UP to last Saturday, Mr. William Conner had sold 200 head of cattle and 1,400 head of swine at his residence near Florence X-Bend, and on the street in Burlington.

He anticipated a result six months since, one prophesied such a result six months since, he would have been met with a frown of contempt. Live men will make their mark in this world.

W. M. CONNER sold stock on the street, Monday, as follows: 8 head cattle, weighing 1,500 pounds, $27; 8 head cattle, weighing 1,400 pounds, $27; 2 head, 2,000 pounds, $37; 4 head, 1,600 pounds, $36; 3 head, 1,610 pounds, $34 75; 2 head, 1,480 pounds, $27 50; 20 head stock ewes at $3.05 per head; 20 head at $2.50; 20 head at $2.03. He offered 41 head more, but failed to make a sale.

ONE evening not long since, Uncle Bill Watts, in his peregrinations, proposed to take lodging for the night under the hospitable roof of C. L. Crisler. Mr. C., in his usual easy, entertained Uncle Bill most pleasantly, while Mr. Crisler prepared a supper which was well fitted for a President.

When the trial came off, Miss Wilson, the fair(?) plaintiff, said the reason she thought it was Harry was because the pig was hooked her wore a white hat, and, as it was dark, she couldn't "zactly tell who it was. Harry had no trouble to prove an alibi, and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The judge discharged Harry with the admonition to cease wearing hats that were out of season, and thus avoid trouble; and to go to Snyder & Swetnam where he would find a new stock of hats at low prices.

Last Sunday night, a one-eyed negro, known as Shiner, was walking down the street when some young white men rushed at him as though to seize him. He was very much alarmed, and he turned and fired at them. The fire was returned by some one generally.

Shiner, but not the public generally, was very reckless shooting was done. Four of Shiner's balls struck the Southern Hotel, one of them passing through a window shutter. After emptying his pistol, Shiner ran away and has not since been heard from.

Misses Laura and Kate Cason, of Sherman, are visiting friends here.

Rev. Keene preached his last sermon here for this year, but the impression is that he will be employed again for the coming year, as he is a very great favorite, not only with his own people, but the public generally.

Mr. Harrier Menchum, one of the old pioneers of this section, died last Sunday, at 5 o'clock p. m., in the 70th year of his age.

She was born in Rhode Island, and came to Kentucky when 12 years old. She has been nearly 40 years. She was a lady possessed of many fine qualities of head and heart, and endeavored herself to all that came in contact with her. At the sick bed she was noted as one of the most diligent and painstaking nurses, and of such a gentle, loving disposition that her friends were ever ready to wayward and bad but she found some extenuating circumstance for their misdeeds, or could point out some good traits of character in them.

Mr. Holmes has finished his new dwelling and has moved into it. Dr. Platt's house and the parsonage are receiving their finishing touches, and will be occupied about Christmas. Judge Gore's new and capacious warehouse is complete, and he is filling it with 80-cent corn. In doing so, the Judge is partially filling the place of a long-felt need by the farmers of this part of the county. We hope an undertaking will be sufficiently remunerative to induce him to go more extensively into the enterprise in the future. He has turned his plows loose in the large fields here in the bottom, breaking them for next season's crop. It is reported that he and "Old Sugar" are going to learn our sleepy Grangers how to farm, next year.

The Thanksgiving Day was appropriately observed here, and a fine dinner given in the church, which was enjoyed by a large number of persons. Bro. Vardiman preached a fine discourse.

We have just learned the details of another bloody affair in the Second Ward, in which our "medicine man" and one "iron better" on one side, and a large turkey-cock on the other, were engaged, and in which the first named displayed fine marksmanship. We learn that the cock was tied to a tree in the apple grove in the rear of the medicine man's present residence, and a fearful fire opened on him with "boss pistols" by both parties, about fifty rounds being fired. The ammunition exhausted, a grand chase was made on the gallant bird, the iron man seizing the bird by the gobbler-mout with his "boss twich," while the medicine man grabbed the boiler with his forceps; and then the battle was waged for some time, when the "pe-yawks" of the old gobbler indicated the closing of the bloody scene. At last accounts the noble bird was dying with a broken heart. We learn that there is not much talk of Thanksgiving at either of those family tables that day.

That busy old dame, Madam Rumor, has been flying around our streets for the past few weeks, and swinging her old cap over the heads of our good people, and whispering the news in their ears—that one Peter (not of old, but of basket-making fame) was going to do the handle before Christmas, and declares in proof of it that he has forfeited a hundred dollars of it. Happy be the one that gets St. Peter! The old dame is now of another "big" kind, that will be fitted out soon. Blast her old soul! she knows it all.

The great mystery of that move about Baker's Cave has been solved, and we have now to record the sinking of the great and noble gunboat "Red-eye."

We learn that Judge Baker is now engaged in preparing a lecture, in which he will do the devil against Bob Ingersoll. It is said he has prepared a pile of manuscript the size of a haystack.

About 500 head of hogs were shipped from here to Pompey last week. Among them, St. John E. Walton, and J. W. Gaines and others were the shippers. They were most of them fine hogs.

Last Thursday, the 28th, Mr. Geo. W. Rice and Miss Mattie Mirick were tied in the holy bonds of wedlock at the residence of Mr. J. H. Walton, by Rev. A. M. Vardiman.

The Ohio River is now on a boil. She is now (Monday) over some of the low bottoms, and from the amount of rain that has fallen the past twenty-four hours, she will likely go to the top of her banks.

Person—Mrs. Mirick is slowly recovering from her recent severe illness. We are sorry to say that Mr. Jas. P. Kelly is still confined to his bed, but hope for his speedy recovery.—Uncle Tommy Williams.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Hebron.

W. F. Lodge shipped, last week, to C. F. Irons of New Vienna, Ohio, a very fine pair of pigs.

We understand that W. F. Lodge is now the proprietor of Lady Leonard, the fast trotting mare.

We would suggest a meeting of the Democratic party on the first Monday in January, for the purpose of organizing and electing delegates to a meeting to be held in the future.

Florence.

It is generally supposed that the negroes' property are not very valuable; nevertheless, Harry Chambers was on trial, last Saturday, for trying to steal the ears of one of Cantler's articular appendages to make a saddle skirt. As might be expected, Cantler kicked about it, when Clay kindly offered to clip the other ear, saying that the ears were too long as yet, and it would be a decided improvement. To all of which Cantler demurred, and he now presents the appearance of a half-sprung spring.

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS.

SNYDER 'Tis true, 'tis pity; and pity 'tis, 'tis true,

SNYDER If the following facts are still unknown to you:

SNYDER That Snyder & Swetnam are selling goods so low

SNYDER While the cold system causes men to sleep.

SNYDER Their motto is that "Cash will buy goods cheap."

SNYDER Goods bought for cash and sold at profit's small.

SNYDER Please men and women, boys and girls and all.

SNYDER They have a full stock now from which to choose.

SNYDER Your Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots and Shoes,

SNYDER Hats, Caps, and Underwear for Men and Boys,

SNYDER And Ladies' Furnishing Goods and Children's Toys;

SNYDER Blankets, Overshoes and Gloves to keep you warm,

SNYDER And Overcoats, to shield you from the storm;

SNYDER Shawls, Nubias, Scarfs, and Fascinators too;

SNYDER Felt Skirts and Pannels, red, brown and navy blue;

SNYDER Handkerchiefs, Queensware, Cutlery and Lamps;

SNYDER All bought at Bottom Prices for the Stamp;

SNYDER And many other things not herein named,

SNYDER For the Low Price of which the firm is famed.

SNYDER They have no Bait nor Barney, Gas nor Blot,

SNYDER And all their prices are uniformly low.

SNYDER Now, if these things to you have not been told,

SNYDER Investigation will the facts unfold;

SNYDER And that investigation costs no fee,

SNYDER All they ask of you is, Come and see.

EXPECTATION.

BY ELIZABETH STUART PHILLIPS.

We rode into the wooded way;
Below us wide the shadows lay;
We rode and met the kneeling day;
We said, "It is too late."

The sun has dropped into the west;
The mountain holds him to her breast—
She holds and hushes him to rest.
For us it is too late.

To see the leaf take fire now,
To see, and then to wonder how
The glory passes on the bough
While pine-needles wait.

When all the miracle came on,
A road-side turn—a moment gone—
And far the sun lay lying alone;
The forest stood in state.

Transfigured spread the silent space;
The glamour leaped about the place
And touched us—saw us—told us face to face.
We cried, "Not yet too late!"

Not one who nearer drew than all,
Loomed low and whispered, "Spare me fall
Or flush; dear heart! I speak and call Your soul unto its fate."

Tread bravely down the evening slope;
Before the night comes do not grope
The shining shadows of sweet hope,
And bid it not too late.

CHUNKS OF WISDOM.

Fancy runs most furiously when a guilty conscience drives it.
Very few persons have sense enough to ascribe the praise of a fool.

There are many who mistake the love of life for the fear of death.
A royal soul may belong to a beggar,
and a beggarly one to a king.

A doctor may learn to cure by killing, but men never learn to tell the truth by lying.

No man is always wrong. A clock that does not go at all, is right twice in twenty-four hours.

Let not one failure discourage you.
He that has had a fall may stand as upright as he ever did.

There is no one else who has the power to be so much your friend or so much your enemy as yourself.

To all men the best friend is virtue;
the best companions are high endeavors and honorable sentiments.

Courage, the commonest of the virtues, obtains more applause than discretion, the rarest of them.

Love can excuse anything but meanness; but meanness kills love, and cripples even natural affection.

The majority of women are little touched by friendship, for it is insipid
when they have once tasted of love.

We are often more cruelly robbed by those who steal into our hearts than by those who break into our houses.

Many people's lives are not worth the market value of the iron in the blood, and the phosphorus in their bones.

That only with propriety can be styled refinement, which, by strengthening the intellect, purifies the manners.

In some tranquil and apparently amiable natures, there are often unsuspected and unfathomable depths of resentment.

Some of us fret inwardly, and some fret outwardly. The latter is the best plan for our friends, but the worse for ourselves.

The tear of a loving girl is like a dew drop on the rose; but that on the cheek of a wife a drop of poison to the husband.

Of all mortals, nature is the most just in the enactment of laws, and the most rigorous in punishing the violation of them.

Friends should be very delicate and careful in administering pity as a medicine, when enemies use the same article as poison.

He who thinks he can not do without others is mistaken; he who thinks others can not do without him is still more mistaken.

When a cunning man seems the most humble and submissive, he is often the most dangerous. Look out for the crouching tiger.

Never retire at night without being wiser than when you arose in the morning, by having learned something useful during the day.

Love's sweetest meanings are unspoken. The full heart knows no rhetoric of words; it resorts to the pan-tomes of sighs and glances.

THE LATEST MARKET REPORTS.

Honor—Scarce, old stock exhausted and the new will be a failure.

Virtue—Old growth nearly unconsumed, the young growth very unpromising.

Honesty—None in the market.

Prudence—All in the hands of old stockholders.

Modesty—Stock badly damaged, with none for sale to street speculators.

Vice—Market overstocked.

Politeness—Cheap; holders are unable to dispose of any at the present rates.

Scandal—Very little at wholesale;
but dealt in chiefly by peddlers at retail.

Religion—Very little of the genuine article on hand; stock generally adulterated.

Love—None offered except for green
backs.

Thanksgiving approaches, and the wise turkey will at once commence taking anti-fat.

The Texas fall wools, like the California, are coming in in an unusually burry condition.

A Georgia negro ate, at one sitting, fifteen pounds of oysters and crackers and wanted more.

The $60 a year tax levied on Chinese in British Columbia, has been declared unconstitutional.

Of cotton cloth the United States
exported last year 126,000,000 yards, while the amount in 1871 was but 18, 000,000.

The aggregate quantity of flour annually produced in the mills of the United States is estimated at 45,000, 000 barrels.

A country damsel describing her first kiss, told her female friend she never knew how it happened, but the last thing she remembered was a sensation of fighting for her breath in a hot-house full of violets, with a venification checked by blush-roses and tulips.

A new wheel tire has recently been invented. It consists in passing around the usual iron tire a rubber tire, and around this again an iron tire made in sections, so that each section may yield inward as the weight comes upon it.
It is said to lessen noise, jarring, and wear.

The Courier-Journal says, give a billy goat six feet of running room, and a solid place to plant his head when he hits a negro asleep on a pile of pig-iron on the levee, and two to one the negro will wake up, if he isn't killed instantly. The power of a billy goat is in his tail.

A gentleman in New Orleans was agreeably surprised to find a plump turkey served up for his dinner, and inquired of his servant how it was obtained. "Why, sir," replied Sambo,
"dat turkey has been roosting on our fence three nights. So dis morning I seize him for de rent ob de fence."

"George," she said to the perspiring young man, "I love you just the same, but as our city relatives are coming next week, mother thinks you had better stay away, because your long hair and freckled face might make them think that our acquaintances weren't very high toned." The young man is staying.

He got up feeling heavy at heart, without knowing the cause. He went to the back door, and there saw his garden, the pride of his waking hours, and the subject of his dreams, looking like an editor's office.

He sat down on the doorstep and said, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: I keep a hen."

The advice of the Courier-Journal is, if the lines get under the tail of the mule you are driving, and he begins to make kindlingwood and toothpicks of the dashboard with his heels, get down, go off, and let him use up the wagon to the hind axle.

If he wants to get behind that with his heels shoot him and go home alone. Concaving might soothe the angry passions of a mother-in-law, but it makes a mule fifty times worse.

Marriage in Nevada.
The young couple stood up before Judge Richardson, and he inquired in a cross-questioning tone of the groom:
"Are you a citizen of the United States?"

The groom took hold of the waistband of his trousers and tugged, saying,
"I voted for Tilden, Judge."

"Why, James," faintly exclaimed the blushing creature by his side.

"It's a fact, Emmer," protested
James, rather indignantly, and glaring at the Judge.

His Honor coughed and demanded severely:

"Do you, sir, as a citizen of Nevada,
and a lawful voter of Reno, solemnly declare that you will forsake all other evils and cleave to this one?"

"I've money to bet on it," responded the groom, growing pale, but placing his arm around the waist of the shrinking bride.

"Then," cried the Judge, bringing his fist down on the desk, "God has joined you together, and blast the man who puts you asunder. The fee is just what you like to give, young fellow."

This New Orleans Times says it is confidently believed that the result of the inquiry into the subject of the yellow fever now being made, will be the utter subversion of popular ideas regarding quarantine. Though travel will be interdicted in the future only by such towns as will go against all scientific opinions, and the mails will probably be uninterdicted.

"So," said a lady recently to a merchant, "your pretty daughter has married a rich husband?" "Well," slowly replied the father, "I believe she has married a rich man, but I understand that he is a very poor husband."

It is one of the most curious things that a man who would seem to have little household experience, can take the tightest cork out of a corkscrew without a corkscrew, while a woman would be thinking of it.

FAYETTE HEWITT,

of Hardin County, is a Candidate for

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

A Law That is Too Much in Force.

A very important question has recently been sprung among the legal fraternity, the effect of the late amendment to the dog law. The original dog law provided that the dog tax should go in aid of the county levy. The amendment allows each housekeeper one dog exempt from tax, and provides that the dog tax shall constitute a sheep fund to be used in paying the damages done to sheep by dogs. That is, the owner of the sheep killed by dogs, on proof of the killing and the value of the sheep killed, is to draw their full value from the Treasurer on the warrant of the County Judge. The legal question made is, What, under the law, becomes of the dog tax this year? Does it go in aid of the county levy as by the original law directed, or does it go into the sheep fund provided for in the amendment? The amendment was approved by the Governor, in February, 1878, and by one of its provisions it was made to go into effect from its passage; by another of its provisions it was not to be executed until approved by a majority vote of the county. The law was voted upon and approved at the last August election. The dogs of the county were listed for taxation this year under the old law. The tax imposed under that law, and some was collected under it before the vote approving the amendment was had. Now, we have the old law in force until the dogs are taxed and the tax partly collected for the year, then the vote is had; the new law which was already in force is ratified and put in execution. Now, where goes the tax? If to the sheep fund, then one dog is allowed to each housekeeper free of tax, and, therefore, an overhauling of the assessment must be had, as all the dogs were assessed, and under that assessment the Sheriff has received his tax book, and is collecting the taxes on the dogs and with which the county has him charged. Does the tax go in aid of the county levy? If so, how is the amendment in force from and after its approval February 6th, 1878, and how is it then to be executed from the date of its approval by the vote taken at the last August election? Those who have lost their sheep by the dogs are interested in this matter, and those who have dog tax to pay under the last assessment are somewhat concerned, and the county levy will be the chief sufferer if the tax should be diverted to the sheep fund. We do not profess to have sufficient legal lore to be able to cut the legal knots presented, but hope some one better versed in the matter will give us more light.

The farmers are now arranging their plans for the preparation and cultivation of crops for the next season, or, in other words, they are laying the foundation for that which they expect to fully develop by their industry and labor within the next twelve months, and in order that they may be informed as regards the most profitable crops to cultivate, they should carefully investigate the demands for, and the supplies of the various articles which they can produce. Such times as the present demand that the producers be posted as to the most remunerative crops, that no time and labor may be expended where they will bring least returns. The adaptability of the soil they expect to cultivate is another thing with which they should be thoroughly familiar that no mistakes may occur in that direction, for when farm produce is selling as low as it does now, the tiller of the soil has no time to lose experimenting and taking risks on any crop. Every stroke wants to be taken where it counts most in the way of dollars and cents.

It is said that the Secretary of the Treasury is preparing to have $5,000 and $10,000 greenback bills issued. A person provided with one of those will be pretty well protected against firemen and toll collectors in general. We enter our protest against the issue of bills of that denomination; because we don't want to be bothered changing them when taking subscriptions for the paper.

GOLD is worth 100¢.

CLAY MAGEE, the Cynthia murder-er has been admitted to bail in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars.

In Lexington two men were fined five hundred dollars and one year's imprisonment each for dealing faro.

The commencement of the next session of Congress will introduce several new faces into the Legislative Halls.

The Ballard County News is the only paper in the State that is edited by a lady. Miss Eugene Parham is the name of the editress.

"Let us investigate," is the first thing that enters the crusty cranium of the national law maker when he gets in sight of Washington City.

It takes only about twenty-five dollars of silver money in a person's pocket to produce amputation of the suspender buttons. This is only hearsay evidence.

A LARGE number of employes in Chicago pork houses has struck for an increase of twenty-five cents per day in their wages. They demand three dollars per day.

LOGG, the present Postmaster in Cincinnati did not lose his position as he feared he would. The troubles pertaining to that office have been settled pro tempore.

The Lexington Transcript heads an article, "Who shall be Governor?" We can't say who shall be Governor, but we can spot several men who are very solicitous about the matter.

THE condition of Governor Hampton, of South Carolina, has, for several days, been rather critical, caused by his broken leg, which the physicians think will have to be amputated in order to save his life.

SENATOR BECK wants the trade dollar made a legal tender and has introduced a bill in Congress to that effect. The bill proposes to have the trade dollar, as fast as received, coined into the standard silver dollar.

THE President is of the opinion that Butler will lead the Anti-Republican forces during this session of Congress. He thinks Butler will avail himself of the opportunity to make a stir. Ben made a stir in Massachusetts not long since and in which he got badly left.

THE Covington Commonwealth and the City Assessor are having a quarrel about that official's salary, which the Commonwealth swears should be reduced, while that official swears as loud that it is not too much for the amount of labor and time the office requires.

LAST week, Garrard County scored one more for the record of Kentucky. A father becoming enraged attempted to shoot his son, who narrowly escaped the contents of the pistol by striking his father's arm in time to change the range of the weapon. The son had a warrant issued and the old man arrested.

It is often asked if Road Supervisors are allowed, under the present law, to restrain for the poll tax assessed for road purposes. The law on that point is as plain as the noonday sun, and gives them no authority to perform any such duty. The Constables and Town Marshals are the only officers upon whom the law confers that authority.

LAST week, the officers in Cincinnati arrested two females who confessed that they were ghouls. One says that her husband gave his body to a medical college and that it is in the pickling vats awaiting the dissecting knife. They give a very minute description of the man whom they say robbed Scott Harrison's grave, and locate him at Delhi, Ohio.

It seems that Carroll County aspires to the leadership in the State in killing, cutting and other violations of the criminal laws. On Wednesday of last week, a young man named Elijah Stetham killed one Chance Neal at a country dance. The trouble originated from Stetham's refusing to pay an assessment of fifteen cents for paying the music. The killing was done with a knife which was plunged into the victim's neck, severing the artery, and producing death in a very few moments. The murderer was allowed to leave the scene without molestation.

The Democrat of last week pronounced the tragically cold blooded and unprovoked murder. Stetham is a poor young man, and if taken will probably receive some punishment for his offense.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS says, in speaking of the President's message: Upon the whole, I think very well of the message. Of course I differ with the President upon his financial policy. The message upon the subject of Southern outrages is not different from what I expected. If there have been any outrages or violation of law, they ought to be redressed. I am a law and order-abiding man. The maintaining of the majesty of the law is the only hope of the preservation of the rights of a free people. If any Federal law has been thus violated, the wrong should be righted through the Federal judiciary, and as it is the duty of Governors respectively to see that the State laws, as expounded by the State courts, are enforced, so it is the duty of the President to see that the Federal laws, as expounded by the Federal courts, are enforced; but most of these questions, it seems to me, properly belong to the House of Representatives, which is the sole judge of elections and qualification of its members.

THE Clark County Democrat, of last week, devotes nearly two columns to a resume of Dr. L. P. Blackburn's experience with the yellow fever. There are several papers in the State that are constantly parading before the public his professional career, and at the same time loud in denying that they purpose making political capital of it. If they are sincere in their denials why are they so industriously engaged in referring to his yellow fever record as though it is the only recommendation necessary. The Doctor has often risked his life in administering to the relief of his fellowman, but, at the same time, that gives him no greater claim to the office of Governor of Kentucky than his opponents have.

It is unfortunate for the good citizens of Breathitt County that their homes are located in such an isolated portion of the Commonwealth, that they can be exposed to the horrors of mob violence day after day without being able to inform the Governor in a lawful manner of the war in progress in their midst, and that too, while his Excellency was anxiously watching for a message calling on him for aid. The call came but not until the belligerents had withdrawn from the town, and peace was partially restored in the town of Jackson. The hostile parties are liable to have another collision at any time, and the better citizens live in dread of them.

SINCE the failure of the City of Glasgow Bank in Scotland, the financial atmosphere of that country has not been at all healthy, and there has been a general gloom pervading the banking fraternity, and which is rendered the more intense by the failure of another bank, the Caledonian Bank of Inverness. The failure of that establishment it is thought was largely owing to the misfortune of the first named and in which it held stock. Numerous failures are expected to follow in quick succession, and it is feared that many other banks are insolvent if the truth was but known.

SOME persons have been circulating the report that Dr. L. P. Blackburn is not eligible to the office of Governor, and it has been intimated that Hon. Thos. L. Jones was implicated in publishing the report, but he is out in a card emphatically denying having anything whatever to do with making the charge. Those who know Mr. Jones would not, for a moment, stop to deny his having anything to do with the authorship of the story, it so inconsistent with his idea of fairness.

It has recently been decided by Judge Jackson, of Louisville, that there is no law authorizing the Auditor of Public Accounts to draw his warrant on the Treasurer for the payment of witness fees in felony cases. The decision will go to the Court of Appeals for a final decision, until which time the Auditor will pay no more of that class of claims against the Commonwealth. There is a considerable amount of money paid out every year for that class of claims.

CINCINNATI is making a desperate effort to fasten on fifty thousand dollars more of Reuben Springer's money. He has agreed to give that amount toward assisting in getting up the Exposition in 1879. The city is given till the twenty-fifth of this month to raise the remainder of the money necessary, and many schemes have been resorted to, and with such success as to determine the result which is in favor of the Exposition.

A BILL has been presented in the lower House of Congress which proposes to reduce the salaries of our Ministers in Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia, from $17,500 to $15,000 per annum; those of our Ministers to Spain, Austria, Italy, Brazil, Mexico, Japan and China, from $12,000 to $10,000, and those of our Ministers to Chili and Peru, from $10,000 to $8,000 per annum.

AMONG the first things laid before Congress when it assembled was a proposition to inquire into the recent elections. The resolution was introduced by Blaine, who pretends he wants to investigate South Carolina elections, when, it is thought, he is really after Massachusetts on account of the treatment she gave him when he sought the nomination for the Presidency. Blaine neither forgets nor forgives.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.

WASHINGTON, December 6, 1878.

Yesterday, in the Senate, Mr. Edmunds gave notice that on next Monday he would ask the Senate to consider a bill in relation to the manner of counting for President, and matters connected therewith. The special Committee by which the report is there made which he asks to have discussed, is an exceptionally able one. It is doubtful if final action will be taken on the subject at this session.

Senator Stanley Matthews, on Friday, made an excellent speech in favor of the Texas & Pacific Railroad, and on yesterday, thinking no doubt, that the speech had settled the question, moved to take up the bill for final action. The Senate refused to do this, because many other Senators desired to be heard as to the merits of the bill. It seems certain that some bill recognizing this road will pass by a large majority.

Senator Blaine's resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee of the Senate to inquire whether the rights of voters in the South had been attacked does not, upon further reflection, give that statesman or other Republican gentlemen unalloyed satisfaction. It is partisan, and so palpably so that everybody knows it. Amendments will be offered by Democratic Senators, and Mr. Thurman will, if the Republicans invite discussion, speak at length.

On Tuesday, the House passed two of the Appropriation Bills—the Fortification Bill and the West Point Bill. These, the Senate referred on yesterday to the proper Committee, and they will, no doubt, be finally disposed of at an unprecedentedly early day. Other Appropriation Bills are ready for the House, and will receive attention at once. The consideration of these will make up the real business of the session, and all of them will be acted on early. With one House under the control of each party it does not seem to be good policy to waste time on purely political matters, and the disposition seems general for parties to do nothing of the kind. Many members, to be sure, have introduced bills on the finances, and a few political moves have been made, but they do not have the countenance of Senators or Representatives in large numbers.

The Army, through General Sherman and Meigs, has spoken in favor of the Indian Bureau's transfer to the War Department. Doubtless, General Sherman is considerably influenced in the matter by a fear that, unless some employment is found for a large and increasing number of superfluous Army Officers there will be danger of Congressional action reducing the force.

Speaker Randall, who is in the best of spirits since his arrival here, has no doubt of Democratic success in 1880. His opportunity for acquiring information in his present place is, exceptional, and his opinion is, therefore, worthy of attention. The fact that Mr. Randall is believed, by many, to be looking for a nomination for the Presidency, cannot be held to make his present faith in Democratic success less worthy of respect, for he is young and can wait till 1884.

It seems to be generally accepted as a fact that even a neat stone to mark the resting-place of the loved and lost is beyond the means of families in moderate circumstances; but Huchard & Co., Lawrenceburg, Ind., are rapidly dispelling this idea with their low prices, elegant designs and fine workmanship.

Last week, Mr. Arthur Blythe took a sample of his last year's crop of tobacco to the city, where he was offered $60 per hundred for the best and $25 per hundred for the lugs. This is the first offer, so far as we know, that has been made for any of the crop in this vicinity.

RIFLE, the druggist, has now in stock a lot of Christmas "tricks," such as skyrockets, roman candles, spit-devils, fancy candies, and many other holiday articles. Don't forget to go and see what he has, for it does him a good deal of good to show his good stock of good goods.

JUSTICE from the price being paid for land in this county, real estate has not depreciated in value in proportion with farm produce. Land is not as high as it was a few years since, it is true, but the decline has not been as rapid and perceptible as it has been in the price of other articles.

LAST Friday night, T. W. Finch had a "sausage bee." Two sausage mills and fifteen or twenty boys made up the attendance. One hundred and eighty-nine pounds of sausage were ground when the material was exhausted. This is the only entertainment in this burg for a long time.

The prognosticators seem agreed that this winter is to be one well calculated to take considerable of the novelty out of the farmer's life. The howling winds and deep snows looked for will be a great annoyance to the industrious farmer, as he has neither and provides comfortable quarters for his stock.

Lost.—Taken from the office of B. K. Sleet, one copy of Shakespeare's works. Also, a copy of Robert Collyer's discourses entitled "The Life that Now Is." The persons having these books will confer a favor by leaving them with either B. K. Sleet or W. L. Riddell.

Personal Mention.

E. W. SMITH, visited his old stamping grounds last Sunday.

Mrs. MATILDA HUEY, who has been visiting in Missouri for several weeks, returned last Saturday evening, having enjoyed a pleasant trip.

Last week we gave what purported to be circumstances leading persons to believe that the grave of R. C. SOME folks expect there will be a crop of ice this winter, and have commenced repairing their ice-houses that they may be ready to take advantage of the first heavy freeze. The ice-gatherers hereabouts have been caught once or twice procrastinating, which has learned them a lesson and urged to make ready to commence putting up a stock of ice upon the first opportunity of freeze.

LAST Wednesday, Deputy Sheriff E. E. Foster started to Petersburg on business pertaining to his office, and by the time he arrived there, he was suffering considerably, and at once took a bed at the residence of A. L. Loder, where a physician was called in, who thought Ev was suffering from a light attack of cerebral fever. At this writing he is still confined to his room in Petersburg. His mother has been with him since last Sunday.

Since the above was put in type Ev has been brought home.

Transfers of Real Estate.

The following conveyances have been recorded in the County Clerk's office since our last report:

Adam Dolewich to B. F. McGlasson et al., acre, $20.

Joel K. Corbin to Robt. McManama, lot of land on Ten-Mile Creek, $100.

W. I. Garratt to Same, an undivided interest in the lands owned by J. C. Graves at his death, $2,087.50.

HARL SUTTON has a very remarkable Indian relic, found on the farm of W. H. Buehler, in Boone County, Ky. It is an Indian skull, with an arrow point imbedded in the skull and under the right temporal bone. It is an arrow point, and the right temple at an angle such that it would have passed out through the upper part of the nose if it had had sufficient force to have been driven through it. However, only entered the socket of the eye so as to injure the eyeball, but had been cut or ground off so as to follow the curvature of the socket and present a perfectly smooth surface. Anyone who would like to see the relic at the residence of W. H. Buehler, on Third street—Aurora Independent.

The relic will be accepted as a fact, but will the Independent please tell us where W. H. Buehler's farm is located?

You have not been favored (I) with a communication from me for several months, because your correspondent, like Wilkins Midwinter, has been "waiting for something to turn up." The latest bit of news is the arrival and reception of Lord and Princess Louise, and his royal wife, Princess Louise, who left Liverpool, G. B., on the 14th ult.

As soon as it was known that the vice-regal pair would land in the capital of Nova Scotia, preparations were commenced for a grand reception, which would prove creditable to the citizens and worthy of royalty. The steam frigate, which was chartered by the British Government to bring His Excellency and Her Highness, and suite across the Atlantic, arrived at this port on the night of the 23d ult., and anchored off the city of Halifax till Monday morning, the time appointed for the landing and formal reception. The weather of the previous few days had been very rainy, and the prospect of the progress of decoration and creating unpleasant expectations of a disagreeable day for the reception. But all fears were dispelled when, on Monday, the sun shone as brightly as it ever did in Nova Scotia, and the city to put its best foot forward without putting it up to its ankle in mud.

At 10 a. m. was the time appointed for the landing of the vice-regal party. The ship, which was in port, was docked at the dockyard, but long before that hour every vantage-point on wharf, shore, house-top and hill was occupied by anxious sight-seers. A Fearless, Honest, Unbiased Man.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.) If the South had any more capable, available man than John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, it would be in the selection of a man of her own ideas, a modest, self-poised man, without prejudices or prejudices to embarrass him, she can find no better man than he. If the whole country can agree in wanting for its next President, it is only second in importance to the Presidency, it can find no better man on whom to bestow the honor than Carlisle.

Notice. The Boone County Pomona Grange will hold its next regular meeting on W. M. Carter's hall on the third Friday in January next at 10 o'clock a. m., to engage in the election of officers. We earnestly request every Grange in the county to be well represented, and desire that each member should feel himself personally interested. Let this be our motto: "Trust in God. Do the right." "Let all things be done with good will." With a heart for its cause: Still achieving, still pursuing—Learn to labor and to wait.

The Lexington Weekly Transcript came to hand last week, brim full of news, while in dimensions it was a unto a bachelorette. It is immense, and we wish it success.

The markets have been making no startling changes for some time. Prices went down as low as they could early in the season, and there they are determined to stay.

Blaine and Thurman collided in the Senate the other day. The collision was brought about by Thurman offering an amendment to Blaine's resolution which proposes to go into another election investigation.

One day last week, Wade Hampton was elected to the United States Senate, there being but two votes against him. About the time he was made a member of the Senate by the South Carolina Legislature, his physician amputated his leg which was broken several weeks since.

The canine's appetite for sheep meat must be assuaged or the sheep fund will fall far short of the amount necessary to meet the damages done sheep by the dogs. It takes the tax paid on two and one-half or three dogs for a sheep, which odds make a serious deficit in the funds when pay time comes.

By the dawn of the next century there will be no more honor attached to the position of a national lawmaker than now clusters around the office of Justice of the Peace in some remote and secluded mountainous locality, unless the present drifting of that office is taken from the course it has been following for some years past.

In Congress was purged of two classes of men the country would be greatly benefited. One of those classes is composed of a set of idiots who are always interfering with legitimate business with propositions to investigate some supposed election frauds, while the other is made up of the financial lunatics who do nothing but rave about what kind of money and how much of it the country needs. These two elements are responsible for the depressed condition of the times.

LAST Saturday, the Union Manufacturing Company filed, in the County Court, articles of incorporation, organizing a company composed of H. Banister, O. C. Linn, R. K. Cannon and L. C. Norman, for the purpose of manufacturing Stansifer's Patent Hog Ring and Hog Ringers. The patent on these articles was obtained by Capt. J. M. Stansifer some time previous to his death, but very few of the rings were ever made; enough, however, were put out on trial among the farmers around Union and at other points to give them a thorough test, and develop the fact that they excel any other rings ever used by those gentlemen in whose hands they were put for trial. The gentlemen composing the company just incorporated, seeing the great advantages these rings have over any now in use, have begun arrangements looking to the manufacture of these rings at Union. There are many rings about the Stansifer Hog Rings that commend them to the hog raisers, and about which we can not now speak.

The notorious desperado, Frank Rande, who made Illinois and some parts of Missouri and Indiana the scenes of fearful crimes is coming to the front again. The Joliet (Illinois) Signal says: "Henry Scott, brother of Frank Scott, alias Frank Rande, the murderous hero of St. Elmo, and the accredited slayer of seven men, in the city and proposes to have his brother liberated in a few months through gubernatorial clemency or otherwise. He asserts that his brother was insane at the time, and must be liberated. The powerful order to which Rande belongs, he declares saved him from the gallows, and will now save him from life imprisonment. Mr. Scott bears a striking resemblance to Rande, his alleged brother." The Glasgow Register, of the same State, responds to the above as follows: "But for the fact that as great scoundrels as Rande have been pardoned and turned loose upon the community, we would feel no uneasiness in consequence of the efforts of Scott to secure Rande's release under the insanity dodge, or the pardoning power of the Governor. Should the release be secured, and the time of the liberation generally known, Rande would have a happy time getting out of the State."

SOME of the Boone County tobacco that was put upon the market this week brought ten dollars per hundred, but prices are as low as two dollars and fifty cents for inferior qualities.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Special Correspondence to the Recorder.
WASHINGTON, December 13, 1878.

It is an interesting question whether or not Senator Conkling will attempt to prevent the confirmation of Mr. M. J. Hayes' New York Custom House appointments. The Senator's friends are not united in belief on the point. Mr. Conkling seems to think of late that reticence is one of the attributes of greatness. Mr. Hayes is Presidential magnet in his head. There is no proof of his having followers outside of New York, and it seems certain that his nomination would be the beginning of endless dissension in the Republican party.

Yesterday while Blaine was speaking to all the people the Senate Chamber would hold, Mr. Conkling was the one apparently uninterested person present. He was writing letters all the time. The enmity between these two very prominent Republicans may have no bad consequence for either of them, or to the Republican party now, but if either should be nominated for the Presidency, there would be trouble. Mr. Conkling has too many enemies to be a safe candidate.

Mr. Blaine's speech, by the way, was fully up to his usual standard. It was an ingenious arrangement and an eloquent reading of paragraphs from the Boston Traveler, Bangor Whig and New York Tribune. That part of it which relates to affairs in the South will be instantly known to be false by all Southern men, and the speaker was as unwise as any in attempting to connect his conclusions with the South. He has a mind which is not only logical nor fair, and his studied efforts in the Senate, even more than his harangues upon the stump, expose the fact. Mr. Thurman proposed an amendment to Mr. Blaine's resolution and spoke for twenty minutes. Mr. Lamar followed. The discussion will be renewed at an early day.

The House, however, shows no disposition to give up its time to debate. It means business. Four Appropriation bills have been already passed, and the remainder are well advanced in the House or in the Committee. The only extended debate anticipated is on the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Bill, in which are annually appropriated many thousands of dollars for purposes at least questionable.

No River-Harbor Improvement Bill will be passed. That of $8,000,000, has been rejected even the most reckless members.

Governor Wade Hampton has been elected to the Senate as was expected. Even the Republicans in the Legislature, except two, voted for him. South Carolina has done no more sensible thing in many years than this and has not in a generation had a man in the Senate with the influence Governor Hampton will have. From him and others in the Senate and House, the people of the country will gradually learn what the South really is, what it desires, and what it needs. When these things are generally known, there will be an end of sectional politics. Governor Hampton will receive a warm welcome to the Senate. AUSTIN.

That Dog Law.

To the Editor of the Recorder:
In an editorial of your last week's paper, you said that the law of Boone County is a dog law. I am sorry to hear that, because you inform us that that grand subject of dog taxation has worried the brains of our editors at the State Capital on various occasions, resulting in the enactment of two separate statutes on the subject, the last of which is supposed to wipe out the first and then swallow itself.

We are all wondering the fact that the magnificent fox hound and the early bull were successively brought in review before the sovereigns of Boone by her candidates for the office of Governor. The different species of the dog race discussed, and their adaptability to taxation demonstrated to the exactness of a mathematical proof. The Southern people, it is said, are a unit in their feeling of the value of their canine friends. For some purpose or other, but for just what purpose here they did not unify with. Some said the law of 1876 was all right, while others said down with the Gaines law and up with a dog tax to make a sheep fund; and let us graciously allow one dog from the tax list of the county to each household. And so the people they fit and they fought, and they fought and they fit till they left nothing but the tail of the Boone dog law.

From the foregoing discourse, Mr. Editor, and your intelligent readers will see that there was a dog law passed in 1876 for Boone County known as the Gaines law, for the reason that the author was a just man who bore the name of Addison Gaines. The law of 1876 was greatly favored by the people in its tax features, for the reason that it valued a mad dog at three times the worth of the master dog, and the one at $3, the other at $1, being a preference of three to one. Such gallantry can not be overlooked. And then, as if this preference were not enough, the might prove that the dog is not a mere animal, but a human being, and not fornicate her sacred life, as in the case of her less favored companion, who, if bankrupt, is condemned to suffer death at the hands of the high sheriff. For it is known, the law of 1876 declares, that the dog is a human being, and the Sheriff chief executioner on the government side, and compels him to raise native Boone, try them out of the delinquents, showing neither mercy nor quarter to any or previous condition of servitude; saving, nevertheless, those of the female persuasion, as only dogs are to be killed. Nothing is said as to bitches, unless it be by a needless kind of construction which would make the term dog include bitch; and this the law itself clearly denies, for it says in its favor and grace should the bitch, and by its distinguishing her especially as a not a dog.

but acreage of three times more value, and justly liable, not to the $1 tax on the dog, but to the $3 tax on her master.

Mr. Editor, the people adore the law of '76 in its tax, its gallantry and its cruelty to the sterner sex; for they demanded a diversion of the tax from the county levy to the sheep fund—a sheep fund and one dog exempt from tax for each family—and so they, in '78, bidden Representative locusts on their knees, and to these blithely, and to these blithely, and the people have by vote approved it.

This law next exempted one dog to each bona fide housekeeper from tax. Suppose, then, that a citizen has only a bitch; is she exempt? If so, away goes $3 from the sheep fund; if she only have a dog, then it would be $1 only less tax on her master. Suppose, then, that the citizen have a dog and a bitch, which is exempt? If the bitch, then the owner saves $2. Who is to decide which is exempt? The law says "one dog." Then "up springs the question, is a bitch a dog or is a bitch a bitch? or is a bitch both a dog and a bitch, just as may suit the convenience of the dog tax, the dog law and the sheep fund? Are we to consider the dog and bitch as the same in the case of exemption from tax, and as different for the higher purpose of taxation?

Let me digress and ask how many dogs have been killed by the Sheriff for non-payment of tax? If he wishes to execute that part of the law, let him be up and begin at once. The face of the matter is, to tax the pauper dogs, living on the best mutton of the county. Kill the dogs! That is the law we want. Taxing dogs is absurd. Death to the dog tax, the dog law and the sheep fund! Let us put out the job of dog killing to the lowest bidder by a law that regards neither age nor sex, and makes no exemptions.

This law of '78 is an effectual destruction of both itself, the dog tax and the law of '76 if it is ever enforced. It exempts one dog from tax to each housekeeper. There is thus a gap made through which all the dogs in the county will learn to jump, and the taxpayer's net will draw nothing but successive water-bulls. The Assessor's book shows only 225 dogs subject to taxation in Boone for 1878, in excess of one dog to each housekeeper. Under the law of '78, only the 225 dogs are subject to tax in the county. The same book shows 126 bitches subject to tax for same year. Now, take out the delinquent dogs from 225 and how many will be left? We had as well say none. Then, if a bitch be a dog and named to assess the delinquent bitches from the list of 122, we say but little will be left for tax—not enough to pay about—nothing, with a little experience, every dog and bitch in the county will slip through the exemption gap.

I am not Chief Justice of Kentucky, but presume that when an act of the Legislature declares itself to be in force, it is in force from that date. Then a provision suspending execution of the law until a certain event does it means itself to be in force from that date, but simply holds it on the spring till it comes in reach of its bound. And as this law of 1878 has made its bound and let dogs and bitches, the County Court can exempt dogs assessed and not subject to tax. The law of '78 is in force, tax, sheep fund and all; but the tax collected under it when the necessary exemptions are made and the delinquents allowed, will not pay for the sheep destroyed by dogs for one week in the county. The dog tax law has played out by the approval of the people at the election when they ratified the dog law of 1878.

NOTICE OF INCORPORATION

Henry Banister, Robert K. Conner, Owen C. Uz and L. C. Norman, and their associates and successors, under the name and title of the "Union Manufacturing Company," with their principal place of business at Union, Boone County, Kentucky, have this day filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Clerk of the County Court for Boone County. The business of said corporation will be the manufacture and sale of Stansifer's Patent Hog Ring and Ringers, and the amount of capital stock of said Company is limited to $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each, which shall be paid into said Company under such rules and regulations as the President and Board may direct.

This corporation shall begin from the 14th day of December, 1878, and continue twenty-five years, and its affairs shall be conducted by a President and Board of three Directors, who shall be elected annually on the second Saturday of December.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation may subject itself shall not exceed the amount of paid up capital, limited as aforesaid, and the private property of the stockholders shall not be held liable for any debt or liability of the corporation.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

BOONE CIRCUIT COURT, KENTUCKY.
Oscar Crisler's ex'r, pff., vs. 1. Notice of sale
Oscar Crisler's heirs, &c., dfts. In equity.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the September term, 1878, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on MONDAY, the 6th day of January, 1879, at 1 o'clock, P. M., or thereabouts, (that being County Court day), proceed to offer for sale to the highest bidder, under a credit of twelve months, at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to wit: A tract of land lying in Boone County, Ky., on the waters of Gunpowder Creek, bounded thus: Beginning at a stake on the west side of the Burlington and Big Bone Road in Lystra Aylor's line, a corner with Francis Crisler; thence with said Crisler's line s. 82 w. 102 1/2 poles to two black locust trees on a drain, another corner with Francis Crisler; thence s. 1 w. 8 1/4 poles to a stone, a corner with Fielding Crisler in James Crisler's line thence with said Crisler's line s. 82 w. 102 1/2 poles to a stone, a corner with James Crisler; thence with the north side of Lystra Aylor's passway n. 82 e. 17 1/2 poles to the center of the school-house lot, and thence with the line of said lot s. 85 w. 5 1/4-100 poles to a stone; thence n. 11 1/4-15 poles to a stone near a branch; thence s. 60 1/2-74-100 poles to a corner of the school-house lot, in the aforesaid road, thence s. 8 e. 28-29-100 poles to the beginning, containing 55 1/2 acres.

Excepting therefrom the homestead, allotted to the widow, Mrs. Crisler, bounded thus: Beginning at a stone in the old road 20 feet south of the southeast corner of the school-house lot; thence s. 80 w. 5 1/4-100 poles to a stone 20 feet south of the southwest corner of the school-house lot; thence s. 85 w. 3 1/2 poles to a stone; thence s. 7 w. 15 poles to a stone; thence s. 23 e. 19 1/2 poles to a stone; thence n. 84 e. 48 poles to a stone in the Burlington and Big Bone Road; thence with its center n. 16 w. 7 1/2 poles, n. 12 1/2 poles, n. 43 w. 7 1/2 poles to a stone in said road, the southeast corner of the school-house lot; thence s. 4 w. 20 feet to the beginning, containing 10 acres.

The sale will be made subject to a passway over said land for the benefit of Francis Crisler and Fielding Crisler. For a more full description of said land and passway, see M. S. Rice's survey, filed with the papers in this suit.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money to be used for the purpose intended.

The purchaser will be required to give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the same held in trust for the satisfaction of the interest from the day of sale according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amounts to be raised by sale, $1,206 01.

Shoals payable to the undersigned.

The Newspaper Law.
1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of periodicals, the charges are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office to which they are delivered, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered their papers discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.
5. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.
6. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscribers will be responsible until express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

THE CHRISTMAS CHIMES.
A Christmas peal, a joyous peal, a crashing
peal!
Open the window wide, that it may reel
Into the hall, amid the festive throng;
Laughing with the merry voices there,
Gladdening every sound of mirth and song;
Repeating to the echoes far and wide,
The message of Good-will for Christmas-tide!

A distant peal, a softened peal, a chastened
peal!
Open the window wide, that it may steal
To the sick chamber, with its hymn of Glory;
Breathing softly in a wordless prayer,
Whispering faithfully the old, old story;
Then floating out upon the frosty air,
Answering to the echoes far and wide,
The Saviour's message, Peace for Chris-mas-tide!

A merry peal, a dancing peal, a clashing
peal!
Open the window wide, and we may feel It fly from heaven to earth—from earth to heaven;
Strengthening every feeble word of prayer,
Or in the chamber dark with want of care;
Then, swelling out upon the frosty air,
Proclaim the glorious tidings far and wide,
Peace and Good-will thro' every Christmas-
tide!

A midnight peal, a hallowed peal, a dying
peal!
Close down the window now, that we may kneel,
Mid cheerful faces in the ruddy light,
Or in the chamber dark with want of care;
It leaves a blessing with us all to-night,
Then dies without, upon the frosty air,
The grand old message shedding far and wide,
A deathless glory on Christmas-tide!

Are Wages Too Low?
[Lexington Press.]
The wages of mechanics and laborers have fallen since 1864 to about two-thirds or one-half what they were from 1864 to 1866, and the salaries of clerks and persons filling similar positions have fallen very little—perhaps 25 per cent. will cover the reduction.
The rent value of many descriptions of property has fallen from 50 to 75 per cent. from war prices. These are facts which almost everyone recognizes and knows to be true, and there is a very general complaint of hard times as one of the results of this fall in prices.
The other side of the question is very rarely considered. The present value of money, as compared with that which circulated in 1864, is not thought of.
The purchasing power of ten dollars now is equal to that of fifty dollars in 1864. This assertion will, in all probability, be denied at once by those who have not examined into the facts, and these we propose to submit in the following table, showing the prices of 1864 and 1878. The list is varied, and includes a sufficient number of articles of general use to represent pretty accurately the average prices of the present time:

	1864.	1878.
Cushed sugar.....	$ 20	$ 10
Culver sugar.....	21	10
New Orleans molasses, gal.....	1-85	40
Coffee, pound.....	40	20
Cotton, pound.....	1 60	12
Pork, barrel.....	45 00	9 00
Flour.....	40	06
Dolines.....	40	10
Glenghams.....	40	06
Cheeks.....	55	08
Best chicken.....	75	25
Baltimore skirts.....	5 00	1 50
Brown drills.....	50	12
Canton flannels.....	65	08
Beached muslin.....	65	12
Brown muslin.....	65	08
Gold.....	250	1001

Taking this list as a basis, we find that $13 45 will purchase as much now as $60 27 did in 1864. Persons who are out of debt are better off to-day than they have been at any time within the last twenty years. While their incomes may be reduced, the purchasing power that income has increased about four hundred per cent. The same is true in regard to wages and salaries. The laborer who earns one dollar per day in 1878 is doing quite as well as the man who earned two dollars per day in 1864.

THE OTHER NIGHT we dropped in at the opera-house, and when, at the end of the act, the curtain dropped, and the boys dropped out to take a drop,
we knew why they called it a "drop curtain."

A FASHIONABLE item every lady arranges her hair to suit her face; but when it begins to come out on her upper lip, she gives up in despair.

times in the same pair of socks. He has had them forty-six years, and says they are as good as new.

ST. LOUIS LETTER.

Exceedingly Touching, and One of the Best Horse Jokes of the Season—
at Their Own Little Game.

St. Louis, Mo., December 14, 1878.
To the Editor of the Recorder:

It may not be known to most of your readers, but nevertheless it is a fact, that our city is infested with a gang of fellows known as horse sharks (cappers and meanest kind of thieves), and their tricks for the past few years have been such as to baffle the skill of the detectives and evade the laws of many a poor fellow from the rural districts has been made to pay well for their tricks that are vain and their ways that are dark.

Near the corner of Fifth and Carr streets is a stable kept by one Dan Honig, who, by the way, has made himself, for the past few years, almost as notorious throughout the West as ever Frank Randle did throughout Illinois.
Their usual way of trapping the unsuspecting is about in this way, viz.:
The old-fashioned country gentleman would come along viewing the horse trades made in that vicinity from day to day. One of Honig's cappers would approach him, tell him he looked like a decent man, ask him if he was from the country, and so on, the aforesaid gentleman answering in the affirmative, when capper would remark, "I thought so." Then capper would ask,
"Are you a judge of horses and mules?"
and of course farmer would say "Yes," for who ever heard of a farmer that is not a judge of stock? Capper would respond, "You are the man! I am looking for," &c., &c., and would say to the farmer, "Do you see that fellow standing there in that stable?"
(pointing to Honig), and of course Mr.
Farmer would say "Yes." Capper would say, "He is a Dutchman, and you know a Dutchman never likes for anybody to touch the money off of him;
as I, day before yesterday, bought a pair of mules from him, and in fifteen minutes thereafter sold them for $50 more than I gave for them. Of course, he has been mad at me ever since, and will have nothing to do with me. Now, he has a pair of mules in there that I want, and if you will buy them for $200
I will give you $10 for your bargain."

Of course Mr. Farmer wants to make a bargain, and who is it that does not like the filthy lucre, especially when it lays around the streets and $10 bills can be picked up as easily as that?
Farmer approaches Honig, asks him what he asks for said mules, and he responds: "My price is $200 for them, and I can get that for them, but I don't like the fellow that offered it, and I don't fike to have him about my stable; but if you want them for that you may have them." Farmer pays down the $200, gets his prize, and leads them off happy as a big snowflake in the thought that he has made $10; but when he comes to look for his man for whom he has bought, he is not there, and it is then for the first time that the gentleman from the rural districts discovers that he himself has been sold—the mules are worthless, and the best thing he can do is to get another capper, under the guise of a friend, to take them off his hands at about $50.

1864 and 1878. The list is varied, and

him and wouldn't sell to him at any price. Now, why couldn't Messrs.
Covgill and Withers go and buy for him? If they would do it, he would pay them for their trouble. They consented, and he took them away up to Brenton avenue, halting them at a little stable. There were a couple of Honig's cappers there, and the identical pair of mules which have figured so often in swindling the unwary ones.
The cappers pretended to have a great aversion for McGarry, and warned him to keep away from their place, but willingly negotiated with the gentleman from the country. A bargain was struck, and the mules were pretaxed for $200, which Mr. Covgill paid. They noticed that the animals were rather rickety, but as they were trick mules this might be one of their peculiarities; anyhow, it was none of their funeral. If Mr. McGarry wanted the mules, he had a right to have them, rickety or not. The two worthies were rejoined by McGarry, after they left the stable, and he told them to go on down to the stables on Fifth and Carr streets, and his friend Honig would give them their $200 and $10 commission. So they led the poor old brutes all that long tramp to Carr street. Arrived there, they started into the stable, but were halted by Honig, who asked them what they wanted. They told him they wanted $210 for those mules, as per agreement of McGarry. He laughed derisively, and told them he would not have such a pair of mules in his stable. Then the scales dropped from Mr. Covgill's eyes, and he saw the trick. He then saw McGarry drive past with a handsome horse and buggy. At the corner the fellow jumped out and ran around to the rear of the stable to avoid being seen, his object being to see how the game worked. Mr. Covgill determined his course in an instant. He told Withers to just lead those mules up to the police station, and he himself jumped into McGarry's buggy and drove to the same place.
They were engaged in telling their story to Captain Huebler when Honig and one of his cappers named Wentz arrived. Honig was very indignant at the impudence of the men in taking his buggy, and as soon as he came up he told Wentz to get in that buggy and drive it right back to the stable.
Captain Huebler, however, who had not yet heard all the story, told Wentz he'd better let that buggy alone; it had been brought there by Mr. Covgill, and there was nothing to show that it belonged to Honig. Without waiting for further talk, the two countrymen got into the buggy, and leading the mules behind, went north at a rapid rate. A few minutes later, they arrived at the Fourth District Station, and began to tell Captain Burgess about that little stable in the north part of his district and the two cappers
they wanted to have arrested there.
While they were talking in the wagon,
two cappers came along in a wagon, drawn by a pair of fine gray horses, enroute to Carr street to see how the job had ended. They suddenly discovered the victims at the police station, however, and, jumping from the wagon, they inconspicuously fled, leaving the rig in the street. The countrymen saw no occasion to worry the police any more, and, winding up their story, one of them ran and got into the wagon, and the other wheeled into line with the horse, buggy and mules, and away they went at a tremendous speed. They steered straight for the bridge, and when last heard from, the pair of grays,
the wagon, the buggy-horse, the buggy,
the two trick mules and the innocent
"grays" were going east through Belleville, Ill. A half hour after they left the Fourth District Station, Honig arrived there in a great state of perspiration, accompanied by a Constable who brought a writ of replevin in line with the wagon and a mob of his cappers to enforce the writ. He virtually acknowledged the whole game by saying that if Captain Burgess would just turn that property over, he would dismiss that replevin suit and give the "grays" back their $200. He incidentally remarked: "I told those d—n fools I didn't want any more capping done just now. I've got three cases in court already, and I don't want any more till those d—n cappers are out of the way. Burgess couldn't turn up the property, however, and it is not likely that the police will worry themselves to help the sharks out of their trouble."

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

W. L. RIDDELL,
Editor and Proprietor.

BURLINGTON, KY., DECEMBER 25.

FAYETTE HEWITT,

of Hardin County, is a Candidate for

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

CONGRESS is adjourned till the seventh of next month.

THAT Savings Bank that went for the purpose of many of the poor Germans in Cincinnati, last week, is not satisfied with having taken their money and now wants their sympathy. Is not that slightly cheeky?

THE Covington City Council has ordered a vote taken on the proposition to connect that city and Cincinnati by means of a free bridge. By the time the bridge, if built, is completed the taxpayer can not be convinced that there is much freedom about the concern.

A RECENT decision of the Supreme Court of the United States has settled the question as to the validity of the special improvements levied under the old District Government ring at Washington. This, it is said, calls for nearly three million dollars more of the taxpayers' money.

THE Commonwealth is stirring up some of the city officials in Covington, because of the city's printing being taken to a neighboring town for execution. It seems that out of the number of printing offices in Covington, some one of them could do the work as reasonably as any in the neighboring towns.

THE Cincinnati Commercial thinks Conkling's late proclamation that he does not intend to be a candidate before the National Republican Convention in 1890, is indicative of his preference for General Grant. The Commercial also thinks President Hayes is inclined toward Grant as his successor.

SHOULD this be one those unusually severe winters, there will be a hitherto unknown amount of suffering in this country. There are thousands of individuals in the United States today, who are out of employment, and now almost in destitute circumstances, which a protracted and severe winter would carry to no less a place than that undiscovered country from whose borne no traveler returns.

For a time immemorial it has been the custom of the foreign nations to celebrate Christmas with considerable eclat, but the present week will be an exception to the custom of long standing, on account of the stringency of the times with them. Germany, a country which always made a grand display, has made no preparations whatever, for the usual holiday celebrities, and Christmas will be allowed to pass in a very quiet manner.

LAST Saturday, Judge Jackson, sentenced George Washington Young, colored, to be hanged, February the 21st, 1879, for outraging the person of a little girl who was under the age of twelve years. The crime was committed October the nineteenth. This will give the Appellate Court, doubtless, another opportunity to meddle with the sentence of death conferred upon a man found guilty of the most heinous crime known to the law.

THE Washington Post jumps astride of President Hayes after this style: "John Sherman is said to be the choice of Hayes as his successor. The popularity of Mr. Sherman, as evinced in the boundless enthusiasm of the hard-handed, toiling masses, would be quite sufficient without the endorsement of Mr. Hayes. There can be but little doubt, however, that the grateful American people will rise up as one man and ask Mr. Hayes to name his successor. Mr. Hayes is almost as popular as Aaron Burr used to be.

THE Democracy of Union County, at a recent meeting appointed delegates to the State Convention in May, and instructed them as follows: for Governor, John G. Underwood; Lieutenant Governor, D. H. Hughes; Attorney-General, P. W. Hardin; Treasurer, James W. Tate; Auditor, D. Howard Smith; Superintendent of Public Instruction, H. A. M. Henderson, and for Register of the Land Office, T. D. Maroum. So Union goes for four of the present incumbents, and the promotion of the present Lieutenant Governor.

A MEASURE which the next Representative should be pledged to lay before the General Assembly is one looking to the relief of the county from the present costly and inefficient means of punishing misdemeanors when the convicted party is committed to prison in default of the payment of the fine imposed.

We now have a law providing for building a work-house, but under the law in question, a work-house would more expense to the county than the present practice of allowing the convicted party to discharge the fine by reducing it at the rate of two dollars per day in jail.

Suppose a person is fined for some misdemeanor, $30 and 30 days imprisonment, and lodged in the county jail to satisfy the judgment of the court, what does it cost the county? To have the $30 paid requires fifteen days' imprisonment, for each day of which the jailer receives sixty cents, making a total of nine dollars, to which must be added eighteen dollars more for the thirty days, and it gives twenty-seven dollars as the cost to the county for the punishment of a single offense.

Was there but a single case of the kind during a year, it would be too insignificant to mention, but, on the contrary, they are rather numerous, and the jail is seldom without an occupant who is serving out a fine imposed for some misdemeanor.

The same trouble exists in other counties, and it is presumable that it exists to an equal extent, and which it seems would render the defect in the law easier remedied by having four or five counties join in erecting the building necessary, and putting it and all the misdemeanor convicts from the several counties which unite in building the house under the control of some person who will make them pay their way and, relieve the respective counties of the cost of boarding them, which many of them consider a huge joke on the county, rather than a punishment to themselves.

THE failure of Adams & Co's Savings Bank, in Cincinnati, last Thursday, created quite a stir among the poorer classes they being the principal depositors. The firm had the confidence of the entire German population of that city, and many of them had all their money on deposit there, and the suspension left them penniless, and in some instances in destitute circumstances. This bank had, on two or three other occasions, been in embarrassed conditions, but succeeded in pulling through and avoiding the disaster which proved to be only a thing of time. The distress of the bank was kept such a profound secret that offers to deposit money there were made up to within a very few hours previous to the final closing of the doors of the bank. The failure was a serious disaster to the poor of Cincinnati, and is made particularly severe by the season in which it occurred, being a time when many of the poor who had their money in the ill-fated bank are out of employment and entirely dependent upon the money they had earned and deposited. These Savings Banks are the most unsafe institutions that handle money under the name of a bank, and failures are numerous and always fall heaviest on that class of persons who are least calculated to sustain the losses.

THE Pittsburgh Dispatch says: "Thurman is a corner. Democrats want him to run for Governor of Ohio. Democrats say he must save the State to the party. Thurman does not want to run for Governor. He knows that he can not be elected and fears that defeat would destroy all hopes for the Presidency. The whole thing seems to be a scheme of naughty Gentlemen George to kill his great rival." It does seem that Ohio thinks she is the only State that can furnish the next Democratic candidate for the Presidency. If Ohio has to furnish said candidate, Gentlemen George is about as good material as she has.

A DENVER folk, believing that the world will come to an end this week, has made all the necessary arrangements for starting on his journey to the unseen. He does not, however, expect to be accompanied by his wife, but calculates that she will be destroyed with the world. This lunatic says he will sit on top of his house all that day and be ready to be caught up into heaven.

CHRISTMAS, A. D., 1877.

We are having an old spell of weather.

It is no trouble to furnish feed tea now.

The supply of daylight is now on the increase.

CHRISTMAS comes but once a year.

And by golly it is here.

It was so cold Sunday night that the stars refused to show themselves.

It seems there will be a forest of Christmas trees in the county to-day, but not one in Burlington.

It is said there is not much in huge now. Buy them at 4c. per pound and see if there is not considerable loss in them.

DURIN last month William Conner handled ninety-five car loads of stock shipped to him over the Southern Railroad.

SINCE the burying ground was laid off at Bellevue, quite a number of those who were interred at Middle Creek have been disinterred moved to the Bellevue cemetery.

THE remains of the little child of J. W. Gaines, which were placed in the vault of the Bellevue Church, some weeks since, were buried in the cemetery at this place last Wednesday.

THE snow commenced falling last week as though it was very undetermined as to what quantity it would deposit in this section, but Friday night it decided to be rather liberal in its dealings and has been dishing itself out at a lively rate every since.

BEFORE going further, probably it may be well for us to inform our readers, especially the single ladies, that the photograph at the head of this column is not the photo of the editor. It is the portrait of a victim of a late savings bank disaster, who has been engaged to yell for us this week. If you meet him, you will recognize him at once.

THE "popular law enforcer," the Constable in the Bellevue district, had rather a rough experience, last Saturday night, with the first business that came to his hands under the charge of felony. "Squire Atkins issued the warrant for the arrest of Allen Brady, colored, charged with burglary, committed by breaking into the residence of H. C. Berkshire, and taking a pair of boots and other articles. The Constable made the arrest and brought the darky to jail without having a mittimus, and the result was the jailer would not receive Owen's package on the credentials offered. This maneuver, on the part of Uncle Sam nonplussed the Constable, who immediately repaired to the residence of the County Attorney where he returned in an alarm, to which the Attorney responded immediately, and lost no time in putting the officer on the proper track; for it was late at night and a cold north wind compelled the Attorney to take refuge behind a door while reciting the law of the case to the bewildered officer, whom he advised to lose no time in going after "Squire Kendall, about two miles out in the county. Owen gave his escort charge of the prisoner, and mounting his horse, he soon beyond the limits of town and hurrying on the "Squire's" where he arrived in good order, and turned in several alarms before he could induce the "Squire to take of being frozen in his night linen, trying to find out the cause his being aroused from slumber at that unseasonable hour. Owen obtained the services of the much needed guardian of the peace, and returned post haste. In town once more, a second alarm was turned in for the County Attorney who responded promptly, and in a few minutes after, Allen Brady was legally lodged in Castle Cowden to await his examining trial on Monday. Owen beamed with satisfaction, having been relieved of what had become, to him, a white elephant.

MORAL—Be sure you are right and then go ahead.

LATER—On the examining trial Monday, Brady was acquitted on the charge of burglary, but was returned to jail to await trial on the charge of carrying a pistol, which the Constable found in his possession when he arrested him. Allen belongs to a band of Rising Sun Jubilee Singers, and when taken was waiting to arrange the stage in Bellevue where club was billed for a performance Saturday night.

L. W. Whitson to John T. Whitson, an undivided interest in a lot and near Walton, $125.

Milly Beeson to Geo. E. Rouse, about half an acre on the Burlington and Florence pike, $200.

John M. Ryle to Asa L. Snyder, 4 a. 1 r. and 20 p. on the water of Gunpowder Creek, $1 a. and other considerations.

Marriage Licenses.

We consulted the County Clerk's marriage record last week to obtain information as to the severity of the winter, and learned that the following, since our last report, had been licensed to wed:

Granville V. Rouse, farmer, Boone County, aged 26 years, and Mollie E. Head, about 20 years of age.

Chas. C. Craig, farmer, Boone County, aged 21 years, and T. Elizabeth Ryle, aged 18.

Jas. K. Thompson, Kenton County, aged 25, clerk on steamboat, and Emma L. Henry, aged 22.

Chas. H. Rouse, farmer, Boone County, aged 22, and Jennie N. Rouse, aged 20.

Montgomery P. Williamson, farmer, Boone County, aged 32, and F. M. Ryle, aged 27.

Geo. W. Griffith, merchant, Boone County, aged 30, and Maggie G. Moore, aged 21.

B. W. Gibbs, farmer, Boone County, III., aged 29, and Lizzie Riddle, aged 27.

ON a night last week, quite a number of young folks assembled at the residence of Mr. Asa Conner, where they enjoyed themselves tripping the light fantastic till a late hour. Mrs. Conner had a nice supper prepared for the guests. Our informant, named Asa, who was the belle of the ball, named our sprightly Constable, Charlie White, as the person filling that position.

On the 27th inst., Burlington Lodge No. 264, F. & A. M., will meet at 2 o'clock P. M. sharp, for the election of officers for the next year. The brethren are urged to be present.

It is not safe for a dog to make a fool of the man found lying on the streets. It is almost sure death to him, because the man is loaded and never fails to save the dog that parades.

Sons of the young men of the town attended the Young Men's Tea Party, at the Highland house, Cincinnati, O., a 18th inst. They pronounced it the best affair they ever had the honor of attending.

We have printed invitations for a social hop, which will be given in the Morgan Academy Hall at this place on the evening of January 8d. Arrangements are made for the entertainment of all who desire to attend.

Next Saturday, at 1 o'clock P. M., the Point Pleasant Grange meets for the election of officers to serve the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as comes before the lodge. A full attendance is desired.

The approach of Christmas somewhat enlivened business in the printer's line, and by the way the boys ordered visiting cards and New Year's cards last week, we are inclined to the opinion they intend to do some calling during the week.

Last Monday was the regular quarterly session of Equire John A. Kendall's court.

An extensive docket protracted the session until late into the night, several of the cases being contested. The last thing heard, Monday night, was the "Squire" calling for the next case on the docket.

Last Sunday, John Tom Roberts, of Verona, brought Montgomery Jenkins to town and lodged him in jail to remain 30 days and $75 worth. Jenkins and his brother, some days since, assaulted and severely beat a man at Verona to compel him to treat them. The other Jenkins has skipped the county.

We understand that Julia Webb, a colored woman here in town has been without fuel since last Saturday, and cannot get any one to furnish it, although she is willing to pay for it. Julia is an industrious woman, has a large family of small children to provide for, and she should be looked after at once.

It was with great difficulty that pedestrians could avoid colliding with snow balls, last Saturday, they were flying through the air in such force. From morning till night the battle raged, and it is said that when some of the boys went home that night their parents didn't recognize them so much of the terra firma had disappeared from their faces.

A Trap Trapped.

SOME weeks since Mr. Reuben Jarrell, who resides on Woolper, about two miles from town, set a steel trap to catch an owl which had been making frequent visits to his hen-house. In a day or so after the trapping was out about it was unaccountably missing. The owl continued its visits, however, and one night when Mr. J. drove the land of his premises, he recognized the rattle of the trap which the owl had captured and was carrying with it. In a few days after this, Henry Jarrell, who lives in the same neighborhood, planted a trap of the same species to capture an owl which was preying upon his geese. In a few nights, by means of the last trap set, the owl and Reuben's trap were captured, Henry's trap having caught the trap in which the owl was fastened, and thus Reuben secured his property, the owl met his death, and the fowls are relieved of a disagreeable visitor.

Florence.

Another barber-owl affair happened here last week, which, happily, did not end fatally. Mel Swetnam went into George Aydelott's barber shop to get shaved. While undergoing the operation, George was so loquacious, as barbers usually are, and asked Mel if he had seen the account in the Recorder of the mutilation of Center's ear by Clay Springer, the rival barber. Mel, not being a subscriber to the Recorder, and consequently in a state of mental darkness, had to acknowledge that he had not seen the article in question, when George gave him a description of the occurrence, and said that there ought to be a law passed by the Legislature depriving persons who were not proficient in the art from practicing their barbership upon the people. George's thoughts being more on Springer's snub than on the job before him, and probably thinking that he was skinning a pig instead of shaving a man, set a piece out of Mel's cheek nearly an inch long, and made a ton-pound baby.

Who is rather cheeky anyhow, says he will try Springer next time, for it is better to lose an ear than a jaw, as it is impossible to get along these days without a good deal of cheek.

While I am on the subject of barbering, I might as well tell you one of our friends, Felix Moses. Felix does not consider himself a professional barber, but thinks that he is a first-class amateur. Not long ago Tom Watts and Keeler Stephens came to town, being bent on breaking the hearts of some of the fair sex in this neighborhood. They struck for the barber shop, but there was no barber in town. Wanting to look their prettiest, the boys were in a terrible fix, and friend Felix, seeing their downcast looks, inquired the cause thereof. On being informed that they were in want of a barber, he quickly volunteered to remove their surplus hair without money and without price (glad to get an opportunity to practice). Keeler got a tooth-chair, was quickly lathered, and Felix commenced. The razor, being a little dull, caused more pain to spring into the eyes of Keeler than had been there since the days when the school-master beat him over his knee; but what cared he? was he not going to see his sweetest? Felix scraped away until, in about five minutes, he made a thick ring that opened Keeler's cheek from his ear to his chin. Keeler was about to get out of his chair and go to the hospital, with one side of his face smooth and the other hairy, when Felix perceived him to keep still, so that was just a specimen of the style of Springer's work, and commenced on the other cheek, out of which he took a piece which, if it had not been so hard and tough, would have made mince meat for an ordinary family for a week. Moses assured him that this last cut was Aydelott's style of shaving, and said, "I will now give you a specimen of my style of shaving," and proceeded to scrape the chin in an artistic manner, saying, "There, that is the way I shave."

Keeler got out of the chair looking like he had just passed through a sausage machine, and told Moses that he hoped, the next time he shaved him, he would omit giving specimens of either Springer or Aydelott's style of shaving; but, anyhow, he was glad that he had saved his nose and chin entire. The practice that Moses got on Keeler, together with the fact that Tom's cheek was so hard the razor wouldn't cut it, saved his bacon, and he got out of the chair as happy as a clam in high water.

Our neighboring town of Greenwood and vicinity has recently been the unhappy recipient of the favors of a gang of burglars, very daring in their way. The first of their operations was at the Dry Creek school-house, from which they took about $10 worth of school books. A few nights after, they broke into the house at the second lot-gate, familiarly known among the boys as "Baxter's Saints' Rest," from the fact that when Brother Baxter goes to rest it is almost impossible to arouse him from it, as persons going through the gate at night, have to yell sometimes for an hour before they can get the Saint up. The burglars knowing this, considered him an easy prey; so they went through the mansion, and were rewarded for their labors with $55 in cash and about $15 worth of cigars and tobacco. Saint Baxter is going to get even, though, for he has raised the toll on one-horse spring wagons from Florence to the city, one cent, it having been from time immemorial fifteen cents. Last of the burglaries, occurred Thursday night, when the depot and express office at Greenwood Lake were broken open. The thieves first broke into Menner's wagon shop, and took from there the tools with which they operated. They broke into the desk in the office, but found nothing worth taking, except a package of Christmas gifts which belonged to the family of Rev. Buffington. The supposition is, these depredations are committed by some discharged railroad hands.

The ladies of the Christian Church have made arrangements for a celebration on Christmas eve, which will consist of singing and speeches from some of the brethren. There will also be a distribution of gifts from a large Christmas tree for the benefit of the children.

"They do say," that before the close of the year, our handsome bachelor friend, Butler Carpenter, will forewear all his bad habits and lead to the hymeneal altar one of the fairest of the fair sex of this vicinity.

We are sorry to lose Butler from our merry Bachelors' Society, of which he was a bright particular star, and are consoled only by the fact that he is falling into better hands than ours. Mr. Editor, this brings to our mind the Bible injunction: "Go thou and do likewise," which injunction we hope you will obey before the close of the year.—[First cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then thou shalt see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.—Eg.]

There was a meeting at the Presbyterian Church, last Friday week, to organize a singing school in which sacred music is to be taught. The attendance was very small, owing to the fact that they were generally known, and the night being very bad. There is to be another meeting some night next week, and it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

As in our churchyard, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buffington are taking a great deal of interest in the matter. Mr. Buffington being an accomplished organist will be a great assistance to the choir.

There are to be three masses at the Catholic church to-day, at 7, 8 and 10 o'clock. This is the only church in town in which services will be held.

Miss Allison Corey has returned from Emile, where she has been attending college, to the place with her parents. Alice is looking brighter than ever, and is predicted that when she returns to school she will carry with her the hearts of several young men.

Mr. Frank Smith has left this country for Illinois. Frank forgot to pay a little fine of $20 assessed against him last fall, and the four persons who went on his revelry bond are suing him.

Dearest Frankie, thou hast left us. And our loss we deeply feel. Of five dollars each thou hast bereft us. Which causes us to groan and squeal.

BURLINGTON, KY., DECEMBER 26.

A Reliable Man Wanted.

(New York Ledger.)

"A reliable man wanted to take charge of a farm."—"A reliable man wanted to superintend a mill."—"A reliable man wanted as teller in a bank."—so the advertisements read! What a demand there is for reliable men! Young women want them for husbands, fathers and mothers want them for sons-in-law, people want them for lawyers whom they can consult; the sick want a reliable physician; the churches want a reliable man for a minister, although they do not advertise their wants in a newspaper.

There seems to be no end to the demand for reliable men. Are reliable men so scarce that so much point is made of getting them?

Young men will be a reliable man or not, it depends upon yourself. Nothing is easier; only resolve that you will be a reliable man and stick to it through every temptation.

There has been some criticism on the word reliable as not being good English, but the word will answer very well if we only have the quality which it describes.

How Dean Cured Them.

Many a congregation made it a part of its religion to twist their necks out of joint to witness the entrance of every person who passes up the aisle of the church.

Being worried one afternoon by this turning practice in his congregation, Mr. Dean stopped in his sermon and said:

"Now, you listen to me, and I'll tell you who the people are as each one of them comes in."

He then went on with his discourse until a gentleman entered, when he bawled out like an usher:

"Deacon A—, who keeps a shop over the way."

He then went on with his sermon, when presently another man passed into the aisle, and he gave his name, residence and occupation; so he continued for some time.

At length some one entered the door who was unknown to Mr. Dean, when he cried out:

"A little, old man, with a drab coat, and old white hat; don't know him—look for yourselves."

The congregation was cured—Cleveland Leader.

The Telephone for Farmers.

The Indiana Farmer suggests that telephone communication may become very valuable to farmers. In bad weather, or in the evening, when it would be unpleasant to make a call, a neighborly call might be held without leaving one's own fireside. In case of fire or accident, also, it would be of great advantage. Why not all this, and much more? Neighbors could be warned against tramps, horse thieves and burglars, or called to assist in case of the presence of marauders is detected. It is not at all unlikely that the next decade will see telephone wires forming a network all over the country, rendering the great invention of incalculable value to the business men of the farms, as well as those of the towns and cities. The present cost of putting up posts and wires is about $45 per mile. Many farmers could put them up much cheaper than this, as they can furnish their own posts and do the construction work themselves. The apparatus can be rented for about $15 per year, and probably for much less a year or two hence.

Sixty cotton was dethroned, corn has become King, but the cow is after the corn and may yet have to be made queen, since the cow now furnishes in butter and cheese alone, products second only in value to the corn crop of the country. The International Dairy Fair, which opened in New York last week, has called attention to the statistics of the butter and cheese manufacture, from which it appears that there are 13,000,000 cows in the United States, or more than in a number of European nations having more than four times the population of the United States. The value of the butter and cheese products is $50,000,000 more than the value of the wheat crop, and is second only to that of corn. The importance of the industry is further shown by the fact that over $6,000,000 is paid annually for the transportation of butter and cheese to the consumers, $1,000,000 being paid as ocean freight. The exports have been steadily increasing, and this year will amount to 130,000,000 pounds of cheese and 25,000,000 pounds of butter.

The Wool Deficit.

It is estimated that the total wool clip of 1877 amounted to about 1,497,500,000 pounds. The wool product of 1878 falls considerably short of this. Australia, for instance comes in with a deficit of about 4,000,000 fleeces, which, at the low average of three pounds per fleece, is equivalent to 12,000,000 pounds. California in 1877 had something over 3,000,000 pounds less than in 1876. This year the Pacific States show a deficit of about 9 per cent. on the clip of 1877. The Texas clip shows an increase. In New England and the three north Middle States, there is a decrease of about 5 per cent., while there is a slight increase—say from 1 to 4 per cent.—in the remaining States. Notwithstanding the deficit, wool does not advance in price. Manufacturers claim that there is yet a surplus of production over the demands for consumption, and that any great advance can not yet be looked for.

WINTER or summer, nothing better can be worn next to the skin than a loose red woolen flannel shirt; "loose" for its room to move on the skin, thus causing a circulation which draws the blood to the surface and keeps it there; and when that is the case no one can take cold. This flannel fills up, matts up, and becomes tight, stiff, heavy and impervious; "woolen," the product of a sheep and not of a gentleman of color; not of cotton wool, because that merely absorbs the moisture from the surface, while woolen flannel conveys it from the skin and deposits it in drops on the outside of the shirt, from which the ordinary cotton shirt absorbs it, and by its near exposure to the interior air, it is soon dried without injury to the body. Having these properties, red woolen flannel is worn by the sailors even in the mid-summer of the hottest countries. Wear a thinner material in summer.

Curiosities of Grafting.

In 1866, M. Carillet, of Vincennes, France, took two young pear trees, each of which was worked on the quince stock, and one of these, the Beurre de Aremberg, was made to serve the stock, while the other, the Beurre de Charneau, was grafted upon it in an inverted position, having its roots fully exposed to the air. The operation was performed in April, and during the summer the stock grew vigorously and bore two fruits, while the scion tree threw out buds and shoots from the quince stock. To add to the complexity of the experiment, M. Carillet grafted four pear scions on the principal roots of the quince, and two of these succeeded. The sap thus passed from quince roots through Beurre de Aremberg, thirdly through the inverted Beurre de Charneau, then through the quince again, and finally into the two varieties of pears.
